A WOMAN'S DISCOVERY.

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus write W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C.—Get a free trial bottle at Phillips' drug store.

In Brief and To The Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents. eow

Cleverness is a sort of genius for instrumentality. It is the brain of the hand.

Convenient pleasant, and certain in their results, are Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets. Recommended by physicians and endorsed by all who have used them. The best remedy for Dyspepsia, Flatulency, and Constipation. Guaranteed, and sold at 25c. by H. C. Giesler.

When respiration ceases our education is finished, and not a moment sooner.

THE VERDICT UNANIMOUS.

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of rheumatism of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. A practical joke in the nature of an acrostic was perpetrated upon the Chicago Daily News, when that paper published in a special edition devoted to glorifying the president, the following poem, entitled:

"IN ILLINOIS."

"Here in this land of promise,
Under the glorious sky,
Reaching awide o'er-shore and tide,
Ruler and bride do abide;
And, heart of the West beat high,
Forgetting the dismal rancor
Of years that should be dead.

The Last Call.

I have come to call on Kitty,
But that damsel isn't in—
"Gone to grandma's on an errand,"
Says her sister, with a grin;
Then the miss, half girl, half woman,
With a wholly tomboy air,
Seats herself, and disconcerts me
With a long and awful stare.

"So you want to see my sister,"
Says she to me, by-and-by,
With a silly little snicker,
And a twinkle in her eye.
"Yes, I want to see your sister,"
Is my answer, low and faint,
And my wits and words forsake me,
(She's enough to vex a saint.)

"Lots of fellows come to see her,"
(Lover's heart arrayed in crape)—
And the grin with which she says it
Would do credit to an ape.
"Harry Jones was here last evening,
And he staid, and staid, and staid."
Oh, the cheerful information
Furnished by the charming maid!

"When they said good-night I saw 'em"—
Here she giggles in delight.
"Do you ever kiss my sister
When you think you're out of sight?"
Oh, the awful thought that stabs me
To the heart—does Kitty Green
Let some other fellow kiss her
When she thinks she isn't seen?

"There comes Kitty. O, good gracious!"—
With her hand upon her mouth
To keep back the laugh that shakes her,
As an earthquake does the south.
"Tommy Brown is coming with her.
Don't you wish you had a gun?
My! when I have a beau, like Kitty,
Won't I have a lot of fun!"

Heartless wretch to laugh at anguish
Such as wrings a lover's heart!
Doubt and hopes are in a struggle—
Shall I tarry or depart?
Does bewitching Kitty love me,
As she's led me to believe,
Or is she a flirt, delighting
Tom, Dick, Harry to deceive?

"Oh, my goodness! did you see that?"
Cries this damsel, wonder-eyed.
Not a word have I to utter—
Doubt has conquered, love has died.
Where's my fancy for her sister?
It has vanished in a trice,
For behind the lilac bushes
Tommy Brown has kissed her twice.

"I must go," I say; "good-evening,"
And made a swift retreat
To the music of a snicker
That is anything but sweet;
And I cross the threshold conscious
Of a nameless little pain—
Is it wrath, or is it sorrow?—
To a giggled "Call again."

The Drummer's Best Girl.

He hurried up to the office as soon he entered the hotel, and without waiting to register inquired eagerly?

"Any letter for me?"

The clerk sorted over a package with the negligent attention that comes of practice, then flipped one—a very small one on the counter.

The traveling man took it with a curious smile that twisted his pleasant-looking face into a mask of expectancy.

He smiled more as he read it. Then, oblivious of other travelers who jostled him, he laid it tenderly against his lips and actually kissed it.

A loud guffaw startled him.

"Now, look here, old fellow," said a loud voice, "that won't do, you know. Too spooney for anything. Confess now, your wife didn't write that letter?"

"No, she didn't," said the traveling man with an amazed look, as if he would like to change the subject. "That letter is from my best girl."

The admission was so unexpected that the trio of friends who had caught him said no more until after they had eaten a good dinner and were seated together in a chum's room.

Then they began to badger him.

"It's no use you have got to read it to us, Dick," said one of them; "we want to know all about your best girl."

"So you shall," said Dick, with great coolness; "I will give you the letter and you can read it yourselves. There it is," and he laid it open on the table.

"I guess not," said the one who had been loudest in demanding it; "we like to chaff a little, but I hope we are gentlemen. The young lady would hardly care to have her letter read by this crowd," and he looked reproachfully at his friend.

"But I insist upon it," was the answer, "There is nothing in it to be ashamed of—except the spelling; that is a little shaky, I'll admit, but she won't care in the least. Read it Hardy, and judge for yourself."

Thus urged Hardy took up the letter, shamefacedly enough, and read it. There were only a few words. First he laughed—then swallowed suspiciously, and as he finished he threw it on the table again and rubbed the back of his eyes, as if troubled with dimness of vision.

"Pshaw," he said, "if I had a love letter like that——" and then he was silent.

"Fair play!" cried one of the others with an uneasy laugh.

"I'll read it to you boys," said their friend, seeing they made no move to take it, "and I think you'll agree with me that it is a model love letter."

And this was what it read:

Mi owen dear PaPa: i sa mi PRairs every nite annd Wen i kis yure Pictshure I ASK god to bless you gOOd bi PaPa yure Best gurl   DOLLY.

For a moment or two the company remained silent, while the little letter passed from hand to hand, and you would have said that each and every one had hay-fever by the snuffling that was heard. Hardy jumped to his feet:

"Three cheers for Dolly and three cheers more for Dick's best girl!"

They were given with a will.—Detroit Free Press.

A Basis for a Duel.

Congregational singing may carry the appearance of brotherly love and sisterly regard (if there is such a thing,) but it is sometimes far from entertaining to the person who takes no part in the performance. Recently at a very fashionable place of religious worship, where many untrained and unmusical voices ran riot over persuasive tunes, a man who knew more about the grain market of "buckwheat notes," lifted up his voice to assist the presentation of a hymn of long and hallowed standing. A modest, but determined looking fellow who stood just in front of him, turned around, touched the singer on the arm and said:

"Do you live in this town?"

"Yes," replied the singer after letting his voice fall to the floor.

"Are you a member of this congregation?"

"I am, sir?"

"Is it not one of the aims of this church to treat strangers with marked courtesy?"

"It is."

"Well, then will you please do me a favor."

"Certainly, if it is within my power. What can I do for you?"

"Hush."

"Hush!" the singer gasped.

"That's what I said."

"Is it possible sir, that you don't want a man to sing?"

"Oh I don't mind a man's singing, don't care how much he sings; but I don't want a man to give himself up to such distressing noises as you have been making."

"My gracious alive! has it come to such a pass that a man can't sing in his own church?"

"You are insulting, sir."

"And you are tormenting."

"If you don't like my singing—"

"I tell you that I've got no objection to anybody's singing."

"Well, if you don't like me—"

"Got no objection to you at all.'

By this time the hymn was finished and the congregation sat down; but pretty soon another hymn was announced. The annoying singer again lifted his voice. The man in front of him turned and touched him on the arm.

"What do you want with me, sir?"

"Want you to hush."

"I came here to sing and—"

"Why don't you sing then? Don't object to your singing, understand, but to tell the truth your voice carries me back to a time when I was very unhappy—a time when I raised hogs in the south; and, sir, whenever I hear anything that sounds like—"

"I won't worship in the same house with you, sir," said the singer. "I will leave this place."

"Thank you," replied the stranger and smoothing out the unpleasant expression from his face, he sat down and gave himself up to the enjoyment of the sermon.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Black hats are worn with gowns of any color.

Sling-sleeve mantles of seal skin are very stylish.

Seal sacques are not changed from last year's shapes.

Long round boas reaching nearly to the foot are fashionable.

Beaded epaulets are still used to give a dressy effect to bodices.

Felt made to imitate straw braid is a novelty for bonnets and hats.

Small pokes of velvet or cloth are worn by young or elderly women.

The snug French toques are as popular an article of headwear as ever.

Fur capes reaching to the waist line are in great favor with young ladies.

Hoods are added to every sort of wearing apparel upon which they can be placed.

Novelties are seen in the perfectly fitted seal jackets and in the fur mantles and long cloaks.

Fur trimmings are arranged in wide borders on the foot of skirts of cloth and velvet gowns.

The genuine Astrachan closely curled and without lustre, is liked for trimming mourning garments.

Muffs are slightly larger and are quite plain and round, or else soft, nearly flat and trimmed with ribbon.

A revival among the season's fashions is the making of sleeves of a different material from the bodice.

Jackets and long coats are trimmed with a roll of fur set down the front and around the neck to represent a boa.

OUR FLOURING MILLS.

The Revolution That Has Taken Place Since 1880.

While by no means so unapproachable in its priority as it once was, flour making is still the greatest of our American industries as regards the value of the product. Flour and meat for food, iron and lumber for building, cotton and woolen fabrics for clothing—these six are our largest industrial products, having aggregate yearly value in order named. But although first in the value of its product, the flouring and grist mill industry is greatly surpassed in the number of men it employs by ten or twelve lines of manufacture. Our domestic use of flour remains about the same per capita from year to year; and aside from the increasing amount manufactured for export, the total output grows only as our population grows. New methods of milling have, moreover, led to the rapid concentration of the industry and to actual decrease in the number of men employed by it.

These changes amounting to almost a revolution, have been most effectual since 1880, and the condition of the industry to-day cannot be shown by complete statistics, but it is certain that the census of 1890, when compared with that of its immediate predecessor, will reveal some very remarkable results attributable to changes in the methods of flour making. Three-fourths of the manual labor once necessary to the manufacture of a barrel of flour is dispensed with by the use of the new process. Thus Col. Wright in his report for 1886 of the United States bureau of statistics, shows that in a large Minneapolis mill labor is only 3.28 per cent of the unit cost of making a barrel of flour, while the materials cost 94.12 per cent., and all other elements of expense amount to but 2.60 per cent.

Merchant milling on a very large scale is the result of the economy and advantages of the new processes; and the competition of the great mills is causing the abandonment and decay of hundreds of the picturesque old-fashioned neighborhood mills. In 1870 according to the census for that year, there were in the entire country 22,573 grist mills employing 58,448 hands, representing $151,500,000 of capital, and making a product worth $444,900,000. In 1880 the number of establishments was 24,338, the number of hands 58,407, the capital invested $177,300,000 and the value of the product $505,100,000 (the price of flour has declined 10 per cent. in the decade.) The increase shown in the number of establishments—1,765 for the ten years—is more apparent than real, the great bulk of flour having been made in a decidedly smaller number of mills in 1880 than in 1870. Since 1880 the blighting effect of the great merchant mills upon the small establishments has become visible to every one.

AN ASTONISHING DECLINE.

According to the millers' directory for 1884, compiled by Col. E. Harrison Cawker of Milwaukee, there were at the time 22,940 mills in the country—a decline of 1,398 from the census figures of 1880. But this is a slight loss as compared with that of two years from 1884 to 1886, if we may rely upon Col. Cawker's biennial directory, He finds that the number of milling establishments has declined to 16,856, a loss in two years of 6,084, or more than 26 per cent. This seems almost incredible, yet it is probably not far from the truth. When one investigates the facts for his own vicinity, and then stops to consider that the small mills have in like manner been disappearing to all parts of the country, the figures are more readily accepted. Mr. Charles A. Pillsbury, at the head of the largest milling firm in the world, says that more than half of the merchant mills of Minnesota, outside of Minneapolis, have been shut dawn within the past few years.

The decline is nowhere so noticeable as in the south. For example, North Carolina was credited with 1,313 mills in 1880. Their size may be inferred from the fact that they required, all told, the services of only 1,844 men, not one in three having any hands beside the miller himself, and the average capital employed was only $2,450. According to Cawker's directory, there were only 848 mills in North Carolina in 1884, and only 633 in 1886. More than half have been abandoned since 1880. Virginia had 1,385 mills, employing 2,220 men in 1880. In 1884 the number had decreased to 781, and nearly a third of these disappeared in the next two years leaving only 509. Mississippi had 525 mills in the census year, 386 in 1884 and 138 in 1886. Tennessee's milling directories for the same years show 990,453,781 and 536. Alabama's decline is shown by the figures 807 and 295. Corresponding figures for Georgia are 1,182, 631 and 364.

Pennsylvania which has always been first in the number of mills, is credited with 2,896 in 1886, a loss of 746 in two years. New York has 1,536, which is 366 less than in 1884, Massachusetts had in 1886 only 223 grist mills, as against 350 in the census year, Illinois was shown by the census to have 1,024 mills in 1880 and Col. Cawker finds 806 in 1886, the decline not having begun until 1884, in which year a maximum of 1,128 was reached. Michigan had 706 in 1880, and the number had increase to a maximum of 846 in 1884; but a loss of 206 brought it down to 640 in 1886. The number of mills in the country is destined to become very much smaller still, because of the superior advantages of large milling and the constant improvement in transportation facilities.—Albert Shaw in The Chautauquan.

"A THREE TIME WINNER."

Has Hanlan Lost His Grip?—Philosophical Training Demanded.

The defeat of "Ned" Hanlan by Teemer at Toronto in August indicates the "end of the glory" of the doughty champion.

He has sustained his record with admirable pluck and success, but the tremendous strain of years of training must certainly some day find its limit.

Arpopos of this we recall the following interesting reminiscence of aquatic annals:

On a fine, bright day in August, 1871, an excited multitude of 15,000 to 20,000 persons lined the shores of the beautiful Kenebecassis, near St. John, N. B., attracted by a four-oared race between the famous Paris crew of that city and a picked English crew for $5,000 and the championship of the world. Wallace Ross, the present renowned oarsman pulled stroke for the Blue Nose crew, and "Jim" Renforth, champion sculler and swimmer of England and the world, was stroke in the English shell.

Excitement was at fever heat.

But three hundred yards of the course had been covered when the Englishmen noticed that their rivals were creeping away.

"Give us a dozen, Jim," said the veteran Harry Kelly, ex champion of England, who was pulling No. 3 oar.

"I can't, boys, I'm done," said Renforth, and with these words he fell forward, an inanimate heap in the boat.

"He has been poisoned by book-makers," was the cry, and belief.

Everything that science and skill could suggest for his restoration was tried; but after terrible struggles of agony, the strong man, the flower of the athletes and pride of his countrymen, passed away.

The stomach was analyzed but no sign or trace of poison could be found therein, though general examination showed a very strange condition of the blood and the life-giving and health-preserving organs caused by years of unwise training. While the muscular development was perfect the heart and kidneys were badly congested.

The whole system was, therefore, in just that state when the most simple departure from ordinary living and exertion was of momentous consequence. His wonderful strength only made his dying paroxysms more dreadful and the fatality more certain.

Hanlan is now in Australia. Beach, champion of that country, is a powerful fellow, who probably understands the liability of athletes to death from overtraining, the effect thereof being very serious on the heart, blood and kidneys, as shown by poor Renforth's sudden death.

Within the past three years he has taken particular care of himself, and when training, always reinforces the kidneys and prevents blood congestion in them and the consequent ill-effect on the heart by using Warner's safe cure, the sportsman's universal favorite, and says he "is astonished at the great benefit."

Harry Wyatt, the celebrated English trainer of athletes, who continues himself to be one of the finest of specimens of manhood and one of the most successful of trainers, writes over his own signature to the English Sporting Life, September 5th, saying: "'I consider Warner's safe cure invaluable for all training purposes and out door exercise. I have been in the habit of using it for a long time. I am satisfied that it pulled me through when nothing else would, and it is always a three-time winner!"

Beach's and Wyatt's method of training, is sound and should be followed by all.

The Germans of Pennsylvania are extremely cautious. They do not buy anything until they are sure it possesses merit. From the very fact that Dr. VanWert's Balsam has gained a strong position in their favor, Barton & Stark of Plains, Pa., write the proprietors of this remedy: "Your goods have met with the greatest success of any proprietary goods we have ever introduced in our town."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent].

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29, 1887.

Except for an occasional national convention to relieve the monotory, Washington has been rather dull since the adjournment of the short session of Congress last spring; but now the city is enlivened by the return of the President, the Cabinet and the Supreme Court from their respective vacations, as well as the near approach of the long session of Congress, which will probably not close until both of the great political parties nominate their candidates for the Presidency next summer.

Therefore, the Federal Capital has again assumed its normal position as the grand centre of activity in news and politics. And this fact is fully appreciated by the argus-eyed representatives of the great journals of the country, who are again gathering in their old haunts on newspaper row.

The President is scrutinizing the reports of the several departments and gaining therefrom the necessary information of the condition and demands of the public service, so that he may be enabled to prepare his annual message for the guidance of Congressional legislation the coming session. This work added to the regular routine of executive business, much of which has accumulated during the Chief Magistrate's long absence, will engross his entire attention from now until the meeting of the national solons for the long talk.

Washington aspires to be a convention city, and is meeting with flattering success in that direction. In addition to two or three held this year, two more—the American Evangelical Alliance and the convention of third and fourth-class postmasters will assemble in this city in a few weeks—and not content with these, the Capital City is making a strong effort to secure the National Democratic Committee.

The American members of the Fisheries Commission have reached the city, and their English associates are expected early next week. Evidently the negotiations will be conducted on a gorgeous scale, for the High Joint has engaged thirty-two large rooms in one of the finest hotels of the city for its exclusive use on this occasion.

Lately there has been a great stir on the civil service question, caused by the outgivings of the Civil Service Commissioners themselves. Mr. Oberly in an interview, roundly condemned the department clerks for being members of partisan associations,—taking the position that such action was unlawful and made the offenders liable to fine, imprisonment, and dismissal; Mr. Lyman takes ground equally advanced, but Mr. Edgerton antagonizes the views of his colleagues, and boldly assumes a purely partisan standpoint. These grave differences of opinion, have become such a public scandal that many believe the usefulness of the Commission is a thing of the past, and that it will have to be re-organized before it can accomplish the great reforms for which it was designed.

The large number of cases lately appealed from the State courts to the Supreme Court of the United States is considered by some to be an alarming tendency that may necessitate almost a complete revolution in American jurisprudence. It is especially feared that wealthy criminals may avail themselves of this facility to virtually block the wheels of justice, for ordinarily, the Supreme Court is three years behind its business.

Many of the cases now before the court are of the gravest importance, particularly the liquor trials from Kansas, Iowa and Georgia, which involve the constitutionality of State prohibition, and the question whether or not the States are pecuniarly responsible for the destruction of the business of the liquor dealers; the cases of the Chicago Anarchists now being argued, and which will be decided long before this letter reaches its destination; and lastly, the Virginia contempt cases, which are set for hearing in November.

Many of the Congressmen who are now seeking quarters for the coming winter find it difficult, as the saying goes, to "make both ends meet", as good living and house rent are high in Washington—thus, Congressmen whose incomes are limited must either conserve all their salary on current expenses, or forego the pleasures and triumphs of the Capital's gay social life. On the other hand, most of the wealthy members do not calculate on saving anything out of their salaries.

Mrs. Marshall Field of Chicago is too much of an invalid to go into society, so she devotes herself to books and to the study of languages.

WHEN A WOMAN

becomes afflicted with a Kidney disease life is truly a burden. The female organization is so constituted as to be peculiarly susceptible to it; is easily controlled by it, and it rapidly develops and spreads until the whole fabric is affected and there is no time when she is free from pain. Refreshing sleep is unknown, the long weary hours of the night are followed by equally long hours of the day, and so the months and years pass, bringing as they roll away increased burdens.

Mrs. O. P. Bracket, wife of a town official of Hermon, Me., had severe case of kidney disease. In time she became so afflicted with continuous pains across the small of the back. weary, heavy, bearing down pains, heavy, dull feeling between the shoulders with occasional spells of "sick headache," as well as other troubles peculiar to this disease in women, so that she at times gave up in despair. She was confined to her house, deprived of all social intercourse with friends and neighbors, and was day and night a constant sufferer. One day she read an advertisement issued by us describing symptoms of kidney disease, and persuaded her husband to buy a bottle of Brown's Sarsaparilla which she used. She said it helped her and her husband, having no faith in patent medicines, laughed and told her she was no better, and that "faith" and "hope" had revived her temporarily. He bought the second and third however, and like the first, they helped her rapidly along the road to health. The remedy was continued until Mrs. Brackett was restored, and she has now been for over two years free from all symptoms of kidney disease. This case which was perhaps as serious a one as ever came to the notice of the medical fraternity of this section, attracted wide-spread attention at the time, and stamped beyond all dispute the fact that Brown's Sarsaparilla was a deadly foe to Kidney disease.

NEWSPAPER LAWS.

Any person who takes the paper regularly from the post office, whether directed to his name or whether he is a subscriber or not—is responsible for the pay.

The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office for moving away and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether the paper is taken from the office or not.

I can't help telling the Truth as I view it and describing what I see. To describe it otherwise than it seems to me would be falsehood in that calling in which it has pleased Heaven to place me.

Jenny Lind (Madame Goldschmidt), the celebrated Swedish singer, is dead. She was 66 years of age. She retired from the stage after her marriage in America in 1852, but reappeared at various concerts in aid of charities. She has not appeared in public since 1866.

It looks as though the seven Chicago Anarchists would hang on Friday next. On Saturday explosives in the form of several iron pipes containing dynamite were discovered in Lingg's cell. Engel attempted to commit suicide on Saturday night by taking laudanum but was revived by the prison official. The strictest surveillance is now being kept over them.

Special Correspondence to The Times.

Our academy has recently received two coats of paint and its appearance is very much improved.

Repairs on the church are progressing. The annex is enclosed and the tower nearly finished.

The new Kirch house is nearly completed. The barn and shed have been erected.

This vicinity has its usual quantity of potatoes. Some places yielded a large amount.

Our school is progressing finely.

Large numbers of type writers are now being completed.

Our cheese factory is closed. We have had a prosperous season. The last sale took only 8.54 pounds of milk to make one pound of cheese and sold at 10¼ cents per pound.

The Colosse church, the oldest church edifice in Oswego county, is being repaired. The frame work of this building is strong and we doubt if its equal can be found in Oswego county among churches, barns or dwellings.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following letters remain uncalled for in the post-office, at Fulton, Oswego county, N. Y., on Nov. 2, 1887.

[illegible] Face Wash, an excellent [illegible] for removing freckles, tan, [illegible]

[illegible] judicial murder [illegible] would [illegible] to-day behold the amazing spectacle of popular feeling being so thoroughly debauched as to tamely witness the imprisonment of seven men and their condemnation to the gallows. Is society not given up to destruction, unless it speedily turns from the error of its ways! I applauded John Brown because he lifted up his voice and took his rifle to defend the oppressed against their foes, including an outrageous government. Actuated by the same spirit as then I desire to plead for the Anarchists, in some place in Fulton, not later than Thursday night of this week. Verily, they are heroes if John Brown was one. Do what you can at once, to secure a hall and announce a meeting for myself and any others who may desire to speak. We can have a meeting then and telegraph the result to Gov. Oglesby of Illinois. Should you feel reluctant to take the iniative in this matter, for God's sake, for justice sake, find some Knight of Labor, who will take hold of the work at once, and push it through. We are rapidly approaching a crisis in the affairs of the nation and every lover of justice ought to buckle on his armor, and resist the machinations of soulless men who are determined to establish a foul and despotic plutocracy on the ruins of liberty.

T. D. Stow.

The above written by Dr. Stow, well-known in this vicinity, is a letter handed to us with the request that we publish it. We do so not because our views correspond one iota with those expressed, but because there permeates through the letter a vein of sincerity, which borders however on fanaticism.

These seven Anarchists, condemned to be hanged on Friday next, richly deserve the fate that probably awaits them on that day, and we earnestly hope that no reprieve will be granted by Gov. Oglesby. They are not martyrs, but infamous assassins of the defenders of innocent citizens and thoroughly merit the penalty to which they have been sentenced for their dastardly act. Society dares not allow their crime to pass with impunity.

The attention of our readers is called to the new advertisement of Dixon & Collins, who though located in Oswego Falls, vie with their Fulton competitors in quality and prices of the goods they carry.

The case of Wills and Gibson the alleged bunco men, is set down for to-day. Messrs. Benedict and Smith their lawyers have withdrawn from the case owing it is stated to the fact that they could not agree with the prisoners as to the line of defense to be followed.

Considerable of a Potato.

C. V. Hughes who is now engaged in the Chamberlain Register office sent us a Dakota potato last week with the following note. We down them by five pounds on the squash question as C. P. Tucker had one at his store a few weeks since one weighing 140 pounds.

Chamberlain, Dak. Nov. 1, 1887.

Editor Times:—I send you by mail a Dakota potato 10½ by 17½ inches, which you can keep on exhibition in your office if you so desire. I am interested in having my home friends and all eastern people know what a productive country this is. We have had wild plums brought into the Register office, measuring 4¼ inches in circumference, and I saw a squash in town, that was raised in this county which weighed 135 lbs.

HALL'S

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local treatment, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure now on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer $100 for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, [illegible] badinage which marked not only the utterances of the leading speakers but of the public press as well. This year, however, the making up of the antecedents of the Democratic candidate, Col. Fellows, by the champions of Mr. Nicoll has stirred up a good deal of acrimony and given to the contest which to-morrow will find its settlement a very indefinite and troublesome factor.

As intimated in the last letter, Fellows' candidature was the result of Boss Power's hold on the party, aided and abetted by the Canada contingent. The most influential newspapers without exception have opposed this nomination with a great deal of vigor. The very fact that Fellows became and was generally recognized as the henchman—the mouth piece—for Tweed in the fall of '71 when he ran, and successfully too, for State Senator has had its influence.

The fact of the matter is so great is the pressure of circumstances, Power has issued orders to the faithful to sacrifice anything and everything for the election of Fellows. Over 200,000 ballots have been printed bearing the Republican names for city and county officers and Fellows for District Attorney. Wherever deals are possible—and they are always possible in those districts where the Democratic vote is but slightly in excess of the opposing parties—the district leaders have had their orders from the United Democracy to trade. So that to-morrow will see a large amount of scratching and unlimited boodle. Of course before The Times' readers have seen this, they will know of the result and any estimates therefore are very useless indeed.

There is something strangely funny about this fall's canvass. It's one of those events which come in the life of public men. During the campaign of 1878, when Edward Cooper was run on a Citizens' nomination and endorsed by the Republicans in much the same manner as Mr. Nicoll is now running, our excellent Mayor in a speech in Cooper Union denounced as pernicious and undemocratic, improper and thoroughly unrepublican for the offices, to be voted for by the people, to be parceled out as was then the case by a few men—a committee as it were to whose beck and call the votes of this city should give heed. He affirmed it the duty of all true men "to smash the machine." It became a sort of watchword. But strange to say in this canvass, where in a like condition of affairs exists, he advocates the election of Fellows. Well, it makes a great difference whether your wife's brother has his fingers in the vise when you turn the screw. Nor is this all. Power is so tremulous lest he loose his grip that Ex-Mayor Grace who has the private and exclusive ear of President Cleveland must needs hasten to Washington before the executive approval of Fellows be withdrawn. It is a queer contest. Its result is, shall refugees from justice control public affairs or not?

Perhaps no event in the world of art will attract more attention than the opening to public view of the noble collection of paintings which the late Miss C. L. Wolfe so munificently bequeathed to our Metropolitan Museum of Art. Not only the pictures, but $200,000 for its care and increase. The collection contains 142 pictures, by 111 artists. It is remarkable for its careful selection of representative schools. Piloty, Knaus, Cabanel, Danbigny, Corot, Rosseau, Vibert, Zeine and Gerome have fine examples. It is by far the most valuable and characteristic collection of modern art to be found in any part of the country. Then, too, it is the permanent property of the museum, so that for all time it can be seen and admired. In addition to this gift for public benefit Miss Wolfe also gave a very complete collection of shells and of classified specimens of minerals embracing all known to the mineralogical world.

From a society standpoint Mrs. J. B. Potter's debut at the Fifth avenue was a success. That is to say it was a success, if the grand dress parade which society passed through may be regarded as a token. The fact is the fiat had gone forth that to be absent from the Fifth avenue theatre last Monday night would be considered a breach of social order and uppertendom economy too serious to be condoned. Hence elegant toilets, bright faces, gleaming arms, luxurious tints and beauty unadorned, or nearly so, filled the house. It is difficult to say just how Mrs. Potter acted. There is a very general chorus among the critics that she is not a success, but people who are not critics—professional newspapor critics regard her performance as a promise of great things in the future. Of course the general tendency is to compare her with Mrs. Langtry and it is natural, for their advent upon the boards was under similar circumstances.

Mrs. Potter is a practical woman—a pretty, engaging, attractive woman. By study and hard work she may become a success. The box office is not reaping big money and the exclusive circle of Truxedo Park, where Mrs. Potter was the reigning queen, is in a quandary as to whether she, being now an actress, shall be received in social equality. It is, of course a weighty matter. The world will be much moved to know how it is settled. I trust we will be happier when it is so settled.

There seems to be danger of the spread of cholera. The ships from Italy are being carefully watched. There ought to be no fear for the means of quarantining, fumigating and caring for the sick emigrants are ample. The proper use of these will insure our immunity. I doubt not their proper use.

[illegible] more effectual representation of the people [illegible] of what we now possess, enforce our excise laws, perfect them and render them more effectual and soon saloons will not be the power upholding the throne. Let us encourage societies which diminish the number of victims of liquor and swell the ranks of noble hearted, upright, Christian citizens—Let us give our whiskey sellers a dose of good sense and sound judgement, and positive legislation and enforced laws, and they will soon seek a refuge behind their kegs and barrels and be ashamed to appear in respectable society. There is no use in disguising the truth, and clergyman as well as layman have got much to learn and much to do and much to undo in regard to intemperance. Bartenders may call us fools and cranks but we have at least sense enough to forgive them. For their brain crazed with daily potations often places them in such a position that they know not what they do or say—those who pretend to take an interest in the granting of licenses may tell us that no temperance man will be allowed to see the books and find out the names of those who pay the license and the list of petitioners, but these gentlemen will soon learn that they are not supreme rulers and that the Secret of the King has not been confided to them alone and that in a democratic country the people have something to say about their line of conduct.

We are willing to meet any of the advocates of liquor on any platform or discuss the question calmly through the press and convince them of the truth which is evident to all who are not voluntarily blind viz.: saloons are a curse and a dangerous pest and the sooner they are crushed the better it will be for the entire community.

Now for a few questions:

1. Is there a saloon keeper in town who does not adulterate his liquors?

2. How many of them close at midnight?

3. Do they open on Sundays?

4. Do they not harbor men and boys in their places after midnight and rob them at the gambling table?

5. Does any of them sell to topers, habitual guzzlers, women and minors and do not some of them receive meat, sugar etc. in return for their poisonous draughts?

6. Do they all pay a license and who are their petitioners?

7. Have our policemen been conscientiously selected and are they all reliable men?—Do they know how to close side and rear doors on Sundays and after midnight?

8. Which of our saloons is considered the most dangerous?

Now let our Druggists pass their examination and some of our store-keepers also—:

1. Have they been closely watched in the past?

2. Have not some of them sold more liquor than our saloons?

3. Have their soda fountains always been free from guilt or has not a warm current oftentimes found its way to the brilliant faucets.

4. Have they not received customers who could hardly gather sufficient courage to cross the threshold of a saloon?

5. If saloon-keepers are not allowed to transgress the law, do these gentlemen enjoy the privilege of so doing?

6. Are hotel keepers independent of the law?

7. Is it not unjust to close a saloon and allow the hotel bar to make Sunday drunkards?

Our Village Fathers and our policemen should be able to organize a vigilance committee which would render service and bring delinquents to the bar of justice.

When these questions will have received a suitable answer we will try and pen the duties (a) of the government; (b) of ministers of all our churches; (c) of the press; (d) of parents and voters; (·) of the school; and suggestions might be made relative to the manner of organizing and maintaining temperance societies. Let us express the truth candidly and each one will then conform his line of conduct to the dictates of his own conscience and the laws of God.

Should the expression of certain truths offend any of your readers, they must remember that when our faults stare us in the face we are troubled and wish to silence the cry of our conscience; but in spite of all our efforts, truth stands firm, invincible and independent.

[illegible] decision of the United States Supreme Court in the case of the Chicago Anarchists to a new trial.

This result caused not the least surprise in the Capital, as it has been anticipated as the inevitable conclusion of the Court. All that now stands between the Anarchists and their impending doom is the executive clemency that may possibly be extended them in Illinois, but it is highly improbable that even a brief respite will be granted them.

This city had a cholera scare the other day which produced quite a ripple of excitement—two of the crew of the cholera-infected ship that reached New York city having been traced to Washington, where they were hunted down by the metropolitan police and thoroughly fumigated. It is hoped that will be an end of the danger, for should this deadly disease break out here it would spread more rapidly than from almost any other city of the Union.

The quid nuncs declare now that the transfer of Secretary Lamar to the Supreme Bench is a sure thing, and that it has been decided to appoint as his successor in the Interior department Assistant Secretary Muldrow, who is now in Mississippi placing his private affairs in proper shape before entering upon the responsible duties of that high position. The appointment would certainly be in the line of true civil service reform, followed by the President in the promotion of Secretary Fairchild to the head of the Treasury Department.

The course of the President and some of those near him in contributing to the New York Democratic campaign fund is severely censured as "Prenicious activity" by independent political thinkers; President Cleveland sent his check for $1,000, Secretary Whitney sent $2,500 and Private Secretary Lamont $250. Besides this an emissary of the New York Democracy, sent to this city for the special purpose of receiving such contributions from department clerks, publicly opened headquarters and was quite successful, raising a large sum. It is understood that Commissioners Oberly and Lamar have not yet recovered from the shock of such unseemly conduct, and that both are at their wits' end. It will be remembered that these gentlemen, in an official capacity, have assumed quite an aggressive attitude on this question, uniting in denying the right of government employes to put up money for partisan purposes or to take a active part in political matters.

A large number of clerks have been dismissed from the government service for failing a second time to pass an examination under the new civil service rules, these decapitations having all taken place in the New York custom-house by order of the Sectetary of the Treasury; as yet there have been no dismissals in Washington, but of course there will be eventually.

During the month of October the public debt was reduced $16,833,695; for the same time government receipts were $31,803,172, or about two and a half millions more than for the corresponding month of last year. During last month disbursements amounted to $20,332,822, or three millions less than in October, 1886.

Although Secretary Whitney is absent on a month's sick leave, the great work of rehabitating the United States Navy is making steady strides, under the direction of the Acting Secretary, Commodore Harmony—bids having been received this week for a torpedo boat and other naval appliances.

One night this week the Knights of Labor of this city had a grand torch light procession, with over three thousand men bearing Chinese lanterns and transparencies. This was labor's vigorous protest against the decision of a local court, pronouncing a boycott a common conspiracy. The parade was a perfect success, and one of the most beautiful and impressive scenes that your correspondent ever had the pleasure of witnessing.

Board of Trustees' Proceedings

Fulton, Nov. 4, 1887.

Board met pursuant to adjournment.

Present—President Waugh and Trustees More, Pardee, Osborn, and Nichols.

Minutes of last general and special meeting read and adopted.

The following petition was read by the clerk and on motion of Trustee Nichols the same was received and placed on file:

PETITION.

To the President and Honorable Board of Trustees:

We, the undersigned voters and residents of the village of Fulton humbly request the erection of two additional electric lights one on Utica street nearly opposite the residence of Marcus Knapp and one on Emory street at the corner known as Clark's cider mill.

The matter of removing the light at Academy and Second street to the west side of Second street was upon motion of Trustee More referred to the light committee with power to act.

Trustee Nichols moved that the light at the foot of Ontario street be moved to the hill near that point provided the parties interested paid for removing the same and that the light be located by the light Committee.

Mrs. Peets asked the Board to order a cross walk constructed across Second street at the foot of Utica street

Upon motion of Trustee More, the President was appointed a committee to confer with reference to a crosswalk at that point.

The following bills were reported correct by the Finance Committee and audited at the following amounts, and the clerk was directed to draw orders for the same on proper funds.

Alex. Bradford..........$69.32
G. H. Fassell..........8.25

On motion of Trustee More the Board adjourned to November 16, 1887, at 7½ o'clock p. m.

Cheese Market.

[From the Utica Herald].

AT UTICA.

Utica, N. Y. Nov. 7.

The market to-day was quiet, and a smaller number of salesmen were precent, but the sales were full for the time of year, and prices show a slight improvment. A year ago to-day there was a foot of snow on the ground, and cheese was being hurried forward as fast as possible, But we doubt if it was sold off any closer than it is now, since to-day's sales have taken the stock off to about October 21, and if prices remain as firm as now, the bulk of the October make will be turned off next Monday. All the cheese sold above 10¾c. to-day was full cream stock and has the state brand on it. Considerable of the stock sold below that price is also full cream, but a portion of it is composed of night milk skims. The large factories are running on as usual, making part skims, and are getting good messes of milk. Following are the sales:

Lots.	Boxes.	Price
44	3,865	10⅜
24	1,818	10¾
9	537	10⅞
19	1,631	11c.
10	864	11⅛
2	230	p. t.
112	9,245
	604	Com.
Total	9,849

Ruling price, 10⅝c. Transactions one year ago 7,236 boxes; ruling price, 11½c. Two years ago 8,126, ruling 8¾c.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

Little Falls, Nov. 7.

Cheese.—There was a good, active market here to-day, and prices are advanced about one-foruth cent per pound. The best early October cheese were quickly taken, and there was considerable strife in a few of the pet factories. Till quite late in the day it was thought that 11c. would be the top figure, but a desire of several parties to secure three lots sent the figures up a quarter cent higher on these. Cheese are sold off upon the average to the middle of October, possibly a little past the middle. Stock that shows too free use of the skimmer or is otherwise faulty, is rather slow of sale, but all fair to best grades meet with ready purchasers. Following are the transactions:

Lots	Boxes	Price
55	3,504	10⅜
15	945	11c.
3	356	11¼
21	1,339	com.
108	6,957
Farm dairy	350
	7,307

Farm Dairies—Sales of 350 boxes farm cheese were made at 10 to 11½c; only very few at the latter price. The bulk going at 10¾c.

Butter.—Ninety-five packages of butter sold at 22 to 24c., the ruling price being 23c.

AT FULTON.

Twenty-four factories with 2,400 boxes were represented at this factory Monday evening. Only a few cheese changed hands. The price offered was 10½ to 10¾ cents.

Art needle-work and valuable embroideries are frequently ruined, or their beauty much impaired by washing them with ordinary soap, which is too rank for such delicate articles. A simple, and the proper method is to make suds of hot water and Ivory Soap, and allow to cool till lukewarm. This solution, while very effective, is perfectly harmless.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

When a man comes into the office and planks down the cash, and says "send me your paper for a year," that means business. When one says, "I want your paper but haven't got the money now," that's all right. When he takes it out of the post office for several months and sends it back "refused," that's meanness. When a man spends from ten cents to a dollar for cigars or beer every week, and says he can't afford to take his home paper, that's a—no such thing. When a man borrows his neighbor's paper to read every week, that's cheek.—Ex.

THE LABOR [illegible] OFF.

FULL REPORT OF THE VOLNEY AND GRANBY VOTE.

Increased Prohibition Vote in Volney and Granby.

Spencer, Stowell and Baldwin Elected.

The latest returns show that the entire Democratic state ticket is elected by a majority of from 20,000 to 25,000 over the Repulician ticket. George the Labor candidate received about 60,000. Huntington, the Prohibitionist, about 28,000. The fight in New York city against Boodlism and Bossism resulted in a flat fizzle and Fellows is elected district attorney over Nicoll by a plurality of about 30,000. The way in which the state has gone makes the renomination of Cleveland almost a foregone conclusion and the ability of the Republician party to wrest the state from the Democrats next Fall extremely shaky.

The Republicans elect 20 senators and 78 Assemblymen while the Democrats elect 12 Senators and 55 Assemblymen.

Concerning our local election excitement and vim about the polls did not seem to prevail yesterday, but at the count last evening the Republican candidates found their names cut enough to make their hair stand up like porcupine quills. Returns received at 1:30 to-day show however that all the Republican candidates were elected; Spencer, by about 1,000; Stowell, by over 1,000 and Baldwin for School Commissioner by 291.

The Prohibitionist cast a very large vote in Volney, Eggleston receiving 133 as against 75 for DuMass in '86; Sairs received 95 as against 75 in '86 when he ran for the same office.

George received 12 votes in Volney and Beecher 5.

The whole of Granby gave 20 Republican majority for the state ticket. Eggleston for Member of Assembly received 55 votes in the 1st. district which was larger than any other Prohibition candidate.

Quartette Company.

The Swedish Song Quartette Company are engaged to appear at the opera house on Tuesday evening, Nov. 15th. The following and the source from whence it came is a guarantee of the entertainment.

To the Editor Burlington, Vt. Free Press:

I notice by an advertisement in the Free Press of this morning that the citizens of this city are to be favored with a concert by the Swedish Song Quartette Co. of Boston, who are to appear at the Howard opera house, next Monday evening, under the auspices of the Winooek Ave. Cong. church. I wish to say for the benefit of your readers that there is a rich musical treat in store for them in the appearance of the celebrated company of Swedish artists and that this company not only give a decidedly novel entertainment, but also one of rare artististic merit. I wish to cordially commend the company to the people of Burlington, and predict that the opera house will be filled by the music loving citizens of your city on this occasion.

Burke Acquitted.

John Burke of Oswego Falls, who about a year ago was arrested in Chicago charged with murder in the first degree was discharged recently it being proved that he committed the act in self defense.

The testimony showed, as we learn it, that Burke was thrown down by the man that he killed and while lying on the pavement cut the throat of his assailant. Burke is about 24 years old and is well known in this vicinity.

At the Test Well.

This morning a depth of 295 feet was reached at the oil well. They have gone through three layers of salt. The brine from the last layer was taken to Syracuse and when tested was found to contain 30 per cent. salt. Drilling is now much easier than it has been, and the indications are now very similar to those in the oil regions of Pennsylvania.

Manners Make the Man.

—The want of them, the fellow. But how difficult it is for the most courteous and polite to be appreciated unless they are arrayed in a suit of the neat, tasty and well fitting garments sold by E. A. Cook & Co., opposite Clark House, First street, from the manufactory of Tucker, Caulder & Co., of Utica, N. Y. Frequently, the costume worn by a man aids him in securing a success which would have failed him had he appeared in a cheap, "baggy" suit. First class clothing is cheaper than "slop work."

"A Trip to California."

Many people have a longing to visit the "Golden Gate", the garden spot of the earth, a view the grandest of all American Scenery, the Rocky Mountains, Salt Lake, Denver, and the many other features of interest that for variety and picturesque grandeur are unequalled on this great Continent.

Lower California has lately come into great prominence both on account of its delightful climate, and fertile soil, and the advantages it offers to investors, many persons having amassed fortunes on the expenditure of a few hundred dollars, owing to the rapid increase in the value of land.

The Ontario & Western noting the increased travel to these points, have arranged to place on sale at all their important stations, tickets to California and return, good for six months, at the low rate of $114. The tickets are so arranged that purchaser can have choice of routes, going and returning, and embraces San Francisco, Colton, Los Angeles, San Diego and intermediate points. They also allow stop over at any point returning, and tickets are strictly first class.

They Can't Do Better and We Want Them to Come.

For some time it has been understood that the Sinclair Chair Co., was endeavoring to change their location to more convenient quarters. Several vacant and partially vacant buildings have been considered, but they could succeed in making no arrangement, and we regret to learn that the firm are now turning their attention to Fulton. It is a well established thriving industry, giving employment to a number of hands, and the village cannot afford to lose it.—Phœnix Register.

Attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement of the Security Corset elsewhere in our columns. This corset has become immensely popular with the ladies wherever introducted, and is having very extensive sale. This corset—Style W.—is boned with genuine whalebone of the finest quality, cut in small strips, each strip having a woven or braided covering. These strips are inserted in sections, each section having the Security device, as shown in cut, which prevents the bone from pushing through. The Security Corset requires no "breaking in," and adapts itself to the form of the wearer in the most trying positions. Style W. is made in fine Sateen, silk stitched in the most approved shape, and can be furnished in various colors. For stout ladies a Genuine Whalebone Corset is far preferable to any other style. Style B. is made in best Coutil, White or Drab, boned with superior horn strips, each section having the Security device.

[illegible] ELECTION [illegible]

FULL REPORT OF [illegible]NEY AND GRANBY VOTE.

Increased Prohibition Vote in Volney and Granby.

Spencer, Stowell and Baldwin Elected.

The latest returns show that the entire Democratic state ticket is elected by a majority of from 20,000 to 25,000 over the Repulician ticket. George the Labor candidate received about 60,000. Huntington, the Prohibitionist, about 23,000. The fight in New York city against Boodlism and Bossism resulted in a flat fizzle and Fellows is elected district attorney over Nicoll by a plurality of about 30,000. The way in which the state has gone makes the renomination of Cleveland almost a foregone conclusion and the ability of the Republician party to wrest the state from the Democrats next Fall extremely shaky.

The Republicans elect 20 senators and 73 Assemblymen while the Democrats elect 12 Senators and 55 Assemblymen.

Concerning our local election excitement and vim about the polls did not seem to prevail yesterday, but at the count last evening the Republican candidates found their names cut enough to make their hair stand up like porcupine quills. Returns received at 1:30 to-day show however that all the Republican candidates were elected; Spencer, by about 1,000; Stowell, by over 1,000 and Baldwin for School Commissioner by 291.

The Prohibitionist cast a very large vote in Volney, Eggleston receiving 133 as against 75 for DuMass in '86; Saire received 95 as against 75 in '86 when he ran for the same office.

George received 12 votes in Volney and Beecher 5.

The whole of Granby gave 29 Republican majority for the state ticket. Eggleston for Member of Assembly received 55 votes in the 1st. district which was larger than any other Prohibition candidate.

Quartette Company.

The Swedish Song Quartette Company are engaged to appear at the opera house on Tuesday evening, Nov. 15th. The following and the source from whence it came is a guarantee of the entertainment.

To the Editor Burlington, Vt. Free Press:

I notice by an advertisement in the Free Press of this morning that the citizens of this city are to be favored with a concert by the Swedish Song Quartette Co. of Boston, who are to appear at the Howard opera house, next Monday evening, under the auspices of the Winoosk Ave. Cong. church. I wish to say for the benefit of your readers that there is a rich musical treat in store for them in the appearance of the celebrated company of Swedish artists and that this company not only give a decidedly novel entertainment, but also one of rare artististic merit. I wish to cordially commend the company to the people of Burlington, and predict that the opera house will be filled by the music loving citizens of your city on this occasion.

MAX STRAKOSCH.

Burlington, Nov. 2, '87.

Burke Acquitted.

John Burke of Oswego Falls, who about a year ago was arrested in Chicago charged with murder in the first degree was discharged recently it being proved that he committed the act in self defense.

The testimony showed, as we learn it, that Burke was thrown down by the man that he killed and while lying on the pavement cut the throat of his assailant. Burke is about 24 years old and is well known in this vicinity.

At the Test Well.

This morning a depth of 295 feet was reached at the oil well. They have gone through three layers of salt. The brine from the last layer was taken to Syracuse and when tested was found to contain 30 per cent. salt. Drilling is now much easier than it has been, and the indications are now very similar to those in the oil regions of Pennsylvania.

Nettleton it seems has the very best felt boot we have seen offered this year. Each pair have a Patent Snow Excluder on. The patent also saves the boot from cracking. It would be worth your time to call and see them.

Manners Make the Man.

—The want of them, the fellow. But how difficult it is for the most courteous and polite to be appreciated unless they are arrayed in a suit of the neat, tasty and well fitting garments sold by E. A. Cook & Co., opposite Clark House, First street, from the manufactory of Tucker, Caulder & Co., of Utica, N. Y. Frequently, the costume worn by a man aids him in securing a success which would have failed him had he appeared in a cheap, "baggy" suit. First class clothing is cheaper than "slop work."

[illegible] J. [illegible]. The ceremony was solemnized by high [illegible] the bride dressed in white [illegible] beautiful. Her sister, Miss Nellie O[illegible]dy acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. Edward Callen, brother of the groom, did the honors of groomsman.

After the ceremony, the bridal pair and invited friends repaired to the home of the bride's parents where a wedding dinner was served. They left on an afternoon train for their future home in Oswego, where a home on the west side is fitted up ready for their occupancy.

The presents given were valuable and numerous, but not more so than the good wishes of their many friends.

"A Trip to California."

Many people have a longing to visit the "Golden Gate", the garden spot of the earth, a view the grandest of all American Scenery, the Rocky Mountains, Salt Lake, Denver, and the many other features of interest that for variety and picturesque grandeur are unequalled on this great Continent.

Lower California has lately come into great prominence both on account of its delightful climate, and fertile soil, and the advantages it offers to investors, many persons having amassed fortunes on the expenditure of a few hundred dollars, owing to the rapid increase in the value of land.

The Ontario & Western noting the increased travel to these points, have arranged to place on sale at all their important stations, tickets to California and return, good for six months, at the low rate of $114. The tickets are so arranged that purchaser can have choice of routes, going and returning, and embraces San Francisco, Colton, Los Angeles, San Diego and intermediate points. They also allow stop over at any point returning, and tickets are strictly first class.

They Can't Do Better and We Want Them to Come.

For some time it has been understood that the Sinclair Chair Co., was endeavoring to change their location to more convenient quarters. Several vacant and partially vacant buildings have been considered, but they could succeed in making no arrangement, and we regret to learn that the firm are now turning their attention to Fulton. It is a well established thriving industry, giving employment to a number of hands, and the village cannot afford to lose it.—Phœnix Register.

Attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement of the Security Corset elsewhere in our columns. This corset has become immensely popular with the ladies wherever introducted, and is having very extensive sale. This corset—Style W.—is boned with genuine whalebone of the finest quality, cut in small strips, each strip having a woven or braided covering. These strips are inserted in sections, each section having the Security device, as shown in cut, which prevents the bone from pushing through. The Security Corset requires no "breaking in," and adapts itself to the form of the wearer in the most trying positions. Style W. is made in fine Sateen, silk stitched in the most approved shape, and can be furnished in various colors. For stout ladies a Genuine Whalebone Corset is far preferable to any other style. Style B. is made in best Coutil, White or Drab, boned with superior horn strips, each section having the Security device.

F. E. BACON.

[illegible] from a single [illegible] as fifteen [illegible] by a well known poultry grower.

Eminent veterinarians testify that dehorning cattle, when properly performed, causes little pain.

Farmers generally have come to the conclusion that it is not safe to trust the "gentle bull."

President Phillips, of the West Michigan Horticultural society, regards unleached ashes as the best fertilizer known for vineyards.

A New Jerseyman suggests, in addition to the usual precautions observed in storing garden seeds, that a piece of camphor gum be put in each bag containing seed, and that the seed be dusted with insect powder.

In England a very fine flavor is imparted to the flesh of fattening turkeys by feeding them, in confinement, with cooked food in which chopped sweet herbs, like parsley, have been mixed.

An old farmer tells how he circumvents crows. As soon as crows appear he shoots as many as he can, and when his corn is up hangs their dead bodies around the field; the live crows, seeing their dead companions, seek elsewhere their food and leave the corn so uniquely guarded severely alone.

The receipts of grain for the season at Buffalo aggregated 88,366,000 bushels. The receipts of flour 3,231,000 barrels, and the receipt of lumber 241,601,000 feet. The shipments of grain by canal reached 43,888,000 bushels, and the shipments of Anthrancite coal to the West by lake 1,545,000 tons.

The small fruits ripen in hot weather, when drying them by old-fashioned methods was very difficult. The evaporator does its best work in these, and its use has created a popular demand for the evaporated product which has never been fully supplied. The black and red raspberries are especially valuable, and the demand for evaporation will long keep the price during the picking season at a paying rate.

The cost of keeping cows varies with the locality and other circumstances. Still, no matter how cheaply a cow may be kept, there is a limit of production below which she would not pay. And that limit is much farther up than is often thought. Suppose that the farmer can at the end of a year figure a few dollars profit above cost. The question for him is whether he can afford to take this small profit, employing his time, stable room and feed to so little advantage, when he might with better selection of animals make much larger gains.

Poultry Suggestions for Autumn.

It is a great mistake to crowd too many fowls together in one apartment. A house six by eight feet, with a yard thirty feet square additional, will not accommodate over one dozen fowls. Board floors are better than earth. Board floors are always dry, and can be kept much cleaner and sweeter. An application of slaked lime on the boards is worth a dozen on the ground. If more board floors were used, less disinfectants and remedies would be needed.

What breeds of fowls are the best winter layers? All the hens that moult early, and all the early pullets well fed in the fall. Instead of trying to learn the variety or breed that makes the best winter layers, learn to manage and feed properly, and you will succeed with what you have.

A good morning meal in winter for poultry is chopped corn and oats, or wheat, mixed with boiling water. Don't make it sloppy, but dry and crumbly. Feed it warm. A pinch of salt and pepper may be added. Feed about sunrise; they will relish it then better than earlier. Feed at noon a sprinkling of parched corn, oats or wheat, and at night all they will eat of entire grain of any of the above. Never give more at any time than they will eat up clean. Oyster shells are good for shell material. —American Agriculturalist.

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, and you are satisfied that purging yourself till you are weak and sick is not good common sense, then try Carter's Little Liver Pills and learn how easy it is to be free from Biliousness, Headache, Constipation, and all Liver troubles. These little pills are smaller, easier to take and give quicker relief than any pills in use. Forty in a vial. One a dose. Price 25 cents.

Something of a Liar.

Lawyer—Would you believe the sworn testimony of this man?"

Witness—No, sir.

Lawyer—And why not?

Witness—That man hates to tell the truth. He always did. We were boys together and he used to cry when the teacher made him say "two and two are four."

Lawyer—Anything else.

Witness—Plenty. Once he was sick and described the symptoms so that the doctor prescribed for a lame ankle when the trouble was neuralgia in the head.

Lawyer—That will do.

Widows' Weeds.

Suitable dower for a widow—A widower.—Chicago National.

Many a widow's weeds are wilted by the simple phrase, "Wilt thou?"—Chicago Sunday National.

As a general thing it is an easy matter to exterminate weeds on a widow's bonnet, but it takes a man to do the job. —Charleston Enterprise.

"You are weak," said a widow to her son when he remonstrated against her marrying again. "I know it," he replied; "I am so weak that I can't go a step-father.—Texas Siftings.

A news item tells of the marriage of a widow of only eight days' standing." It is not surprising that a widow after standing eight days should do something rash.—Norristown Herald.

"Man, know thyself," was the advice of the early Grecian philosophers, but most men would prefer to get acquainted with a handsome young widow whose eyes roll and flash like meteors.—Newman Independent.

Ringing Noises

In the ears, sometimes a roaring, buzzing sound, are caused by catarrh, that exceedingly disagreeable and common disease. Loss of smell or hearing also results from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, is a peculiarly successful remedy for this disease, which it cures by purifying the blood. If you suffer from catarrh, try Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine.

Just Feeble Enough.

Smith—You look a little mussed up, Brown.

Brown—I should say so! I've just had a row with my mother-in-law, and I'll be hanged if she didn't put me out of the house. The house belongs to her, you know.

Smith—You told me a day or two ago that your mother-in-law was very feeble.

Brown—I meant feeble for her.—Harper's Bazar.

Ah There! George.

"George, dear," said Naomi. "I am afraid you are too industrious in your efforts to win enough money to obtain papa's consent. Your health will break under it."

"Too industrious? Why, I don't work very hard."

"Oh, yes, you do."

"How do you know?"

"Why I heard papa say to-day that you were carrying an awful load last night."—Lincoln Journal.

Common Sense.

Should be used in attempting to cure that very disagreeable disease, catarrh. As catarrh originates in impurities of the blood, local applications can do no permanent good. The common-sense method of treatment is to purify the blood and for this purpose there is no preparation superior to Hood's Sarsaparilla. That this peculiar medicine does cure catarrh is shown by the many testimonials from people who have found relief upon using it when all others had failed. A book containing statement of cures sent on receipt of two-cent stamp, by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

A Not-to-Be-Crushed Young Girl.

A young woman of Muskegon, Mich., so annoyed her neighbors by her piano playing that they made a complaint to the police. The matter was investigated and a policeman was sent to tell her she must be more reasonable about her music. Thereupon she began playing louder than ever, stopping only for refreshments, and kept it up until she fell from the stool in convulsions.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

No Moss On Him!

Mr. Bean and Miss Allibone were walking in Green's pasture last Sunday and sat down on a mossy bank. "Isn't this moss beautiful?" said Miss Allibone. "I love to look at it; how it grows upon me." "Very likely it does on you, Miss Allibone, but it does not on me; I'm not a moss-back." This remark shortened their walk about two hours.—Melrose Journal.

Sad and Perplexing.

Gilhooley—Sad affair over to Jones'.

Gus De Smith—What the matter?

"One of the twins have died."

"That is an affliction."

"Yes, and the worst of it is the people don't know which one is dead they looked so near alike."—Texas Siftings.

We have sold Wister's Balsam of Wild Cheary for many years. Nothing we have sold has ever given such perfect satisfaction for coughs and colds, and in advance cases of consumption it has shown remarkable efficacy. P. S. BROWN & CO., Fall River, Mass.

Wanted it to Last.

Wife—Keep quiet, Charley. The new doctor says I must not talk to you.

Husband (feebly)—Mary! Mary!

Wife—What is it, Charley?

Husband—Engage that doctor for our family physician.—Lowell Citizen.

Impure Blood

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. She's such a modest little maid;
Of saucy men she is afraid,
Oh, my!
Why, if one ogled her, I'm sure
The slight she never could endure—
She'd cry.

But very often at the shore
I've seen her bathing with a score
Of friends.
And I've observed I'm grieved to say
Her bathing dress was decollete,
Both ends.

While only last night at the ball
Her costume fairly startled all
Of us.
While she looked 'round quite self-possessed,
And wondered what could interest
Us thus.

Yes, she's a modest little maid!
Of saucy men she is afraid,
Oh, my!
And if one ogled her, I'm sure
The slight she never could endure—
She'd cry.

—Somerville Journal.

From the Gulf Coast.

The leading druggist of Moss Point, Miss., J. W. Stewart, writes: "I am sure that Van Wert's Balsam is the best cough remedy that I have ever sold and while you keep it at its present standard I shall always keep it and advise my customers to use it."

THE PROPER THING.

Braiding is immensely popular.

Passementeries will be worn more than ever this season.

In dress stuffs the demand for stripes is on the increase.

Tailor gowns and jackets are still in the height of fashion.

Ostrich feather boas are among the tasteful novelties of the season.

Black felt walking hats trimmed with ostrich feathers are very stylish.

Fringes of ostrich feathers are used for edging plush and velvet cloaks.

Spanish girdles of black velvet embroidered in gold are in high fashion.

Black gloves are desirable, since they make the hand look small and refined.

Trimmings lighter than the fabric of the gown are a feature of new toilettes.

Plush fabrics in stripes and figures are used for the skirts of cloth and silk dresses.

Shot clothes are new woolen stuffs with two colors interwoven to make the ground changeable.

Sleeves of velvet are used in corsages of silk and cloth gowns which have the vest and skirt of velvet.

A novelty in twilled wool with a fleecy selvage two or three inches wide which serves as trimming for the dress.

The new round hats which appear to find greatest favor are those which have medium high crowns, with brims that roll exceedingly high on one side or on both. The front of the hat projects over the eyes, but in most cases the sides and back are close and short.

More cases of sick headache, biliousness, constipation, &c., can be cured in less time, with less medicine, and for less money by using Carter's Little Liver Pills, than by any other means.

How to Produce Sleep.

While physical conditions largely enter into perfect sleep, it is the result of both physical and spiritual conditions. The due value of proper food, exercise and bathing are more or less familiar to every one, and in all these no specific rule can be given. A warm bath just before retiring will be found to many persons conducive to sleep, and occasionally quite the reverse, and is therefore only something that each must decide for himself. Frequently a cup of hot water, or hot water with lemon juice in it, will banish a tendency to wakefulness. Another almost unfailing remedy for sleeplessness is to dip a fine linen handkerchief in hamamelis (witch hazel), and bind it tightly over the eyes with a white silk handkerchief. The silk has an electric—an insulating quality—that renders it all important. Linen or cotton will not answer the purpose nearly as well, as the one who tries this will find. There is a magic about this that is actually wonderful. Many actresses use this simple aid, after returning from an exciting play, and the result can only be described as magical. That the sleeping department should be thoroughly ventilated, and also thoroughly dark, with blinds closed and shades carefully drawn, is an important essential to nervous people. If the victim of insomnia will combine the hygienic and the spiritual conditions, and will give a fair trial to a perfectly darkened room, and to the magic of the extract of witch-hazel with the silk bandage outside, there are few cases of insomnia that may not thus be overcome.

Change of Heart.

Omaha man—My gracious! we'll be late. Get your things on.

Wife—My dear, its raining pitchforks and the wind is blowing a hurricane.

"We have strong umbrellas."

"My dress will be ruined."

"Wear your waterproof."

"And you know you have a cold."

"I can wear rubbers; I would'nt miss that opera for——"

Wonderful Feats with a Saw.

I have often read of the wonderful feats performed by skilled workmen with tools, such as engraving the Lord's Prayer on the back of a silver three-cent piece, or making a steam engine that would stand on a silver quarter, but I saw some some wonders performed the other night that surpassed them all. All the minute articles manufactured heretofore have been made with small tools, and in some cases with the aid of a microscope, but there is a man in the Sea Beach Palace Exposition on Coney Island who works out the most delicate articles with a hand-saw nineteen feet long and revolving at the rate of over a mile a minute. Upon this immense machine the skilled operator in my presence sawed out four chairs, all complete with legs and backs, but so small that the four were placed on the end of a lead pencil at one time. Then a dozen knives and forks of the most diminutive size were made and placed around the lead pencil. So small were they that although the entire dozen were placed around the pencil not one of them touched the other. Then the operator trimmed his finger nails on the huge saw as cleverly and easily as one could do it with a penknife. Wetting his thumb, he pressed the ball of it into some sawdust and then sawed the sawdust off the thumb without scratching the skin, yet a single nervous twitch would have cost him his hand. All sorts of curious puzzles are turned out with astonishing rapidity from all sorts of misshapen blocks of wood. Even articles of clothing, as thin and flexible as cloth, are worked out by this clever magician from little pieces of wood with his big saw. The cap he works in was sawed out of over 1,000 pieces of wood, no two of which are the same size or shape.—Brooklyn Eagle.

How Long a Watch Should Last.

"A first class watch should last for a hundred years, if properly taken care of," said a well-known watchmaker. "The reason that they wear out is the fault of the owner and not of the watch. In the first place, a watch should be cleaned and oiled once in every eighteen months. If this is not done the oil which lubricates the works will dry and the works will wear out by friction. Another mistake is to wear a watch in an outside pocket where it is liable to be jammed. I have known more watches ruined by billard playing than anything else. In leaning over to make a long shot the vest pocket is frequently in violent contact with the table and this repeated jarring cannot fail to injure the works. The best watches are made to-day in England. They are masterpieces of workmanship. I should say that the American watch ranks next and those manufactured in Switzerland third in order. Some watches are made to run eight days with one winding, but they will never become popular. Their owners almost always forget to wind them up on the eighth day. I know of only one or two in this country. They are made in Switerland. The usual length of time modern watches are calculated to run with one winding is from thirty to thirty-six hours."

A HOME LIBRARY.

2000 Famous Authors.

It seems almost incredible to say that a library fairly representing approximately two thousand of the most eminent authors of the world, of all lands and all times, can really be placed within the reach of ordinary homes. Yet this is what is accomplished by Alden's Cyclopedia of Universal Literature, volume VIII. of which is issued in November. The work, completed, is to comprise from fifteen to twenty volumes, which are in large type, and really beautiful and excellent in all mechanical qualities, and yet sold at the phenomenally low price of 50 cents per vol. for cloth, or 60 cents for half-morocco bindings; even from these prices large reductions are made to early purchasers, and to clubs.

Volumne VIII. includes such notable names as Ferreira, the Portuguese poet; Feuillet, the French novelist; Johann Gottlieb Fichte, German philosopher; Henry M. Field, American journalist and author; Henry Fielding, English novelist. James T. Fields, American publisher and author; Louis Figuier, French scientist; Firdusi, Persian poet; Geo. P. Fisher and Wilbur Fisk, American theological writers; John Fiske, American scientist; Flammarion, French author of "The Wonders of the Heavens;" Flaubert, French novelist: Mary Halleck Foote, American artist and author; John Forster, English biographer; Charles Fourier, French socialist and political economist; Charles James Fox, English statesman; George Foxe, of "The Book of Martyrs" fame; Dr. J. W. Francis, American author, and Sir Phillip Francis (the famous Junius); Benjamin Franklin, American statesmat, philosopher, and philanthrepist; E. A. Freeman, historian; John C. Fremont, general and "might-have been" President—all of these in the letter F, besides a small host in the letter G. The publisher will send a specimen volume to any one on receipt of the price, allowing the privilege of return if the set is not wanted. All lovers of good books should at least see the work. JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, 393 Pearl St., New York.

Haggling over the Price.

Uncle Rastus (who has been badgered a good deal)—N-no, sah, I kaint sw'ar to it. I think de price wah sixteen dollars and I offered fifteen for it, or it moight be dat de price wah fifteen an' I offered sixteen for it. I knows dere wah some hagglin'.—N. Y. Sun.

IS MAN A BAROMETER?

Why is it That Certain Winds Always Make Rheumatics Cringe With Pain?

Eighty-six per cent. of the signal service weather predictions are accurate!

The only indications our fathers had for foretelling weather were aching limbs, twinging joints, and painful corns!

These, though crude, were usually correct. The body is unquestionably an excellent barometer, and physicians often prescribe a change of air, so that the system may find an agreeable atmospheric condition.

Weather changes indicate themselves by pains called rheumatism. Why bad weather should cause such pains is a mystery!

Does the pain really lie dormant in the blood, to be made active only when the wind blows from some unfavorable quarter?

Last week a man left town on a business trip. Two days later he, who had always been apparently strong and well, was sent home a corpse—"Rheumatism of the heart!"

Rheumatism like the Indian in ambush, sure to kill you if not killed by you. It is to patient and physician one of the most vexatious of diseases.

At first many thought it to be a trouble of the joints, but all outward applications left the cause unbenifited.

Then, making like pains in the muscles, it was thought to be a muscular disease; but the same unsatisfactory results followed external treatment.

Now, however, it is universally acknowledged that rheumatism is a "fiery condition of the blood caused by the presence of uric acid in the system!"

Everybody dreads rheumatism.

It is very prevalent at this time of the year. It was formerly seldom known except among those who worked much out of doors. Now it invades the hut, the palace, the executive mansion, the senate chamber and the throne room; all sorts and condition and races of men and women it attacks at all times, and all fear it!

Mrs. Swift (wife of Dr. Lewis Swift, the famous comet finder of Rochester, N. Y.) was one of its recent victims; and how very common it is among ladies!

She suffered great anguish and fear!

Why does this acid remain in the system?

The kidneys being diseased cannot remove acid as in health, hence the system is poisoned by its presence, and rheumatic pains, stiff joints, tendons and muscles are the result. There is but one scientific treatment, to regulate the kidneys by Warner's safe cure, and to "and to put out the fire in the blood" by Warner's safe rheumatic cure. These world renowned remedies, taken by bottles in alteration, as they should be, neutralize the uric acid already in the blood, and prevent further accumulation.

Mrs. Dr. Swift used these remedies with great success, in alternation, and was completeley restored to health.

We understand that the proprieters guarantee them with the strongest assurances, but this were scarcely necessary, for is not their praise in everybody's mouth?

We cannot prevent the ill wind blowing, but we can get the better of it by so fortifying the system that we can ignore it when it is doing the worst to "give us pain."

Many preparations professedly harmless, prove exceedingly dangerous, but Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup is perfectly safe at all times. Price only 25 cents.

A yellowish complexion is not at all desirable; to banish it, use Laxador, the golden remedy for all liver diseases. It only costs 25 cents.

Profits in Baseball.

Many of the public are not aware how great are the profits made from directing the game of baseball as a business in some of the cities of the country. For the amount of capital invested, there is probably nothing like it in any form of amusement. The expenses of baseball are, first in hiring and fitting up the grounds upon which it is played; next, in the salaries paid the players; third, in the travelling expenses of the clubs. None of these require much preliminary outlay. There must be a guarantee as regards some of them, but the game generally more than pays its way after the season opens. It will be singular if some enterprising manager outside of those who have at present a monopoly of the cream of the business, does not before long devise a method of breaking in upon it. For baseball rightly managed may be made more remunerative then the drama, the concert hall, or the sporting field of any kind.

Boston affords a good example the present year of what may be done in this way. There will be about sixty-three games of baseball played in the National League during the season. The attendance at them has averaged 4,000 people. This, at fifty cents a ticket, yields considerably more than $2,000 a game, for there are reserved seats, to the amount of 1,200 in number, at twenty-five and fifty cents each, the most of which are generally sold, and there are perquisites of the ground which bring in money. It is a low estimate to set down the receipts of the season at $125,000. Out of this are to be taken, perhaps $35,000 for salaries of players, $2,500 for ground expenses, and a considerable sum for the cost of transporting the players from one city to another. It will be liberal to call this altogether $50,000. The profits, therefore, that the season of five months will represent will be $75,000.—Boston Herald.

The New Princeton Review.

The November issue of the NEW PRINCETON REVIEW opens with a very fresh and interesting study of "Shelley" from the pen of Mr. Charles Dudley Warner; the unique personality of the poet being very clearly presented. Rev. George Woolsey Hodge outlines "A Scheme for Church Re-union," in a significant discussion of the celebrated proposals made by the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Under the title of "The American Idea." Mr. George Cary Eggleston comments sharply on some late developements of Labor Associations. The journals and letters of Gerard de Rayneval, The first French minister to this country, afford very valuable material for an article on "American History in the French Archives," by J. Durand. Dr. William Nast, who was a school-fellow of the famous German theologian, contributes a deeply interesting chapter of "Recollections of David Friedrich Strauss." "Dean Plumtre's Dante" is made the subject of a critical paper by Dr. Marvin Vincent, in which the defects of work are clearly pointed out. A story from the hand of Miss Grace King is fast becoming an event of interest in current literature. and no reader of the New Princeton will overlook so striking a sketch of Creole life in New Orleans as "The Drama of an Evening." In the department of "Criticisms, Notes, and Reviews," Church Union, is discussed from a standpoint offered to that of Mr. Hodge, and an interesting critique is given of the recently published "Letters of Thackeray." The "Record" presents a complete survey of affairs, foreign and domestic; and there is an admirable analytical index of the volume, which is completed with this number. The "NEW PRINCETON REVIEW" is now firmly established as the representative of the most intelligent and scholarly class in the country; and the new volume, beginning with the January issue, will still further advance its standard and broaden its field. To its list of contributers will be added the names of many eminent writers on both sides the Atlantic.

"We are coming Father Abraham 300,000 more" to endorse the good and effective qualities of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup in every case of Cough, Colds, etc.

As a cure for chapped and chafed hands nothing equals the celebrated Salvation Oil. For sale by all druggists. Price only 25 cents a bottle.

becomes afflicted with a Kidney disease life is truly a burden. The female organization is so constituted as to be peculiarly susceptible to it; is easily controlled by it, and is rapidly develops and spreads until the whole fabric is affected and there is no time when she is free from pain. Refreshing sleep is unknown, the long weary hours of the night are followed by equally long hours of the day, and as the months and years pass, bringing as they roll away increased burdens.

Mrs. C. P. Brackett, wife of a town official of Hermon, Me., had severe case of kidney disease. In time she became so afflicted with continuous pains across the small of the back, weary, heavy, bearing down pains, heavy, dull feeling between the shoulders with occasional spells of "sick headache," as well as other troubles peculiar to this disease in women, so that she at times gave up in despair. She was confined to her house, deprived of all social intercourse with friends and neighbors, and was day and night a constant sufferer. One day she read an advertisement issued by us describing symptoms of kidney disease, and persuaded her husband to buy a bottle of Brown's Sarsaparilla which she used. She said it helped her and her husband, having no faith in patent medicines, laughed and told her she was no better, and that "faith" and "hope" had revived her temporarily. He bought the second and third however, and like the first, they helped her rapidly along the road to health. The remedy was continued until Mrs. Brackett was restored, and she has now been for over two years free from all symptoms of kidney disease. This case which was perhaps as serious a one as ever came to the notice of the medical fraternity of this section, attracted wide-spread attention at the time, and stamped beyond all dispute the fact that Brown's Sarsaparilla was a deadly foe to Kidney disease.

NEWSPAPER LAWS.

Any person who takes the paper regularly from the post office, whether directed to his name or whether he is a subscriber or not—is responsible for the pay.

The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office for moving away and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether the paper is taken from the office or not.

Important.

Believing that everyone should be a subscriber to a local paper and to one metropolitan paper either for the general news of the day or, if the subscriber be a farmer, for the best agricultural paper that the country possesses, we have made arrangements with the publishers of the two greatest weekly papers in this country, in their respective fields, to furnish the same to our subscribers. Therefore for a limited time we propose to make the following offers, reserving the right to withdraw them at any time:

1. We will send The Times and the N. Y. Weekly World, for one year, with your choice of the three great World Premiums, History of the United States, History of England or Everydody's Guide, for $2.00.

2. We will send The Times and the Rural New Yorker, the best illustrated weekly agricultural paper in this or any other country, for $2.50. The following two conditions must be observed:

1. The price named must inveriably accompany each order.

2. Old subscribers to The Times must first pay to date before taking advantage of either offer. Call at this office or send cash with order to The Times,

Fulton, N. Y.

William G. Ellery, president of the village of Skaneateles, died very suddenly at his home Friday evening. Brooding over his recent arrest for drundenness and dissipation undoubtedly hastened his death.

Trafalger Square was the scene of a violent tumult Sundey which has been unequaled since the great riot of 1866. About 200 citizens and 40 policemen were injured, and 50 persons were arrested.

The final act in the great Haymarket tragedy was consamated Monday when the funeral of the five dead Anarchists, Spies, Parsons, Fischer, Engel and Lingg were buried in a suburban cemetery at Chicago.

It was on the evening of May 4th 1886, over a year and a half ago, that a dymanite bemb was thrown into a company of policemen at Chicago, killing seven and wounding about fifty more. The reason for this being thrown, the first in America, can be considered as coming directly from these seven Anarchists who for the past year and a half have lingered in prison, as they were the leading spirits and inciters of this terrible tragedy on Haymarket Square which has excited this country as perhaps no other event has since the civil war begun.

Two of these Anarchists, Fielden and Schwab, by the intervention of the executive clemency of Governor Oglesby, of Illinois, will spend the remainder of their life in jail. The commutiation of their sentences to life imprisonment was due to the strenuous efforts of Judge Gray, who presided at their trial, and Captain Black, of their counsel. They were really the most harmless of the seven, and seemed to have been inveighed into the parts they played by the diabolical machinations of the others. They have been removed to the scene of their life sentence in Joliet, Ill., after having taken an affecting leave of their relatives.

Louis Lingg, was not sent into eternity by the power of the law which he had defied. At about nine o'clock, Thursday morning, he commised suicide by igniting a cartridge loaded with the fulminate of mercury, which he placed in his mouth. He had concealed it about his person in such a wily manner as to elude the vigilant watchers by whom he was environed, and succeeded in blowing nearly the whole of his head off. He lingered in agony until after two o'clock in the afternoon when he expired, having suffered the same agonies which he and his misguided and fiendish companions inflicted upon the brave policemen, who fell in the performance of their duty.

The other four, Spies, Parsons, Fischer and Engel suffered the extreme penalty of the law and were hanged at Cook county jail, Chicago at 11:54 a. m. Friday. No trouble has since occurred as many anticipated that there would be and it is well that all followers of these men should take warning that Anarchy and sedition can not be [illegible] in this country. Anarchy [illegible] opposed and Herr Most, the [illegible] of this element in New York [illegible] should be the next to go if he continues [illegible] efforts to inaugurate into [illegible] well governed country [illegible] [illegible] of evil [illegible] police. [illegible]

The public [illegible] been hearing [illegible] more than [illegible] failures and [illegible] during the past [illegible] days. This feverishness has been due to two causes—the election and the Chicago executions.

So far as the first of these one may say it was a surprise. An erroneous and overwhelming one to the Georgites, and to those who advocated Mr. Nicoll's cause so valiently, it became a perfect revelation. Looking at the recent election in this city from the present standpoint, it may be safely asserted that in no one city of the land is Democracy more strongly entrenched or more thoroughly organized. This can not be said of the two other parties which took a part in the battle of the ballot on Tuesday last.

The entire force of public officers with but few exceptions belong either to one wing of the Democracy or the other. Political fealty and activity is the price to be paid for retention in office. Hence the result. It is never a question of what public opinion demands, but what party success needs.

The vote here in round numbers was 212,000. This was divided as follows:—Democrats, 110,000; Republicans, 57,000; Georgites, 37,000; Anti-Georgeites, 5,000; Prohibition, 1,500. So that the Democratic plurality was 57,000. But when the vote for Nicoll was counted, it was found that about 5,000 George followers and 12,000 Democrats scratched their own party nominee and voted Nicoll. Hence Fellows' plurality was in the neighborhood of 20,000. A study of the returns reveals a rather curious fact. In those assembly districts wherein the boodle Aldermen still have control, whether openly or secretly, there Fellows secured his heaviest majorities. On the other hand in those districts where the convicted aldermen lived, there Nicoll received his greatist following.

The smallness of the George vote surprises both Mr. George and his followers, It is a terrible surprise, last year 68,000; this 37,000; a falling off of 30,000; of this 5,000 went to the Progressives, a split from the Georgeites of last year, owing to their maintenance of Socialistic ideas. The other 25,000 returned to its first love, the Democratic party. I notice by a careful study of the returns, especially in the east side districts—the German vicinage—that George drew more followers from the Republican ranks than from the other party. There is another noticeable thing connected with the election—the interest which the national capital took in our local affairs.

For three weeks Secretary of the Navy Wm. C. Whitney has been in this city at his home on Fifth avenue and his sick room has been the meeting place for many of the party leaders. To the people he is a sick man, but politics never stay for the mere matter of a slight illness.

Viewing the election from all sides and judging it from its connection with local affairs only, it is fair to say that the new district attorney is in a very peculiar position, for by his action can this fact be shown that party organization is of more value than the purity of public morals.

I am inclined to think the police authorities had some fear of a sympathetic action of Most and his bloody compatriots in revenge for the execution in Chicago on Friday last. I noticed that the police were kept on duty during the whole of Friday and Saturday, They were kept in readiness for any uprising. On Thursday evening at a parade in Union Square the buildings in the vicinity were garrisoned by police, and large bodies of police were in adjacent streets, so that any objectionable language would have been easily prevented.

For weeks past the known leaders of the "Reds" have been watched, shadowed, followed by Inspector Burnes' men. I presume to say there is not a meeting of the Anarchists in this city, the purport of which is not known to the vigilant Inspector. Notwithstanding all that there is more or less tendency to feel that should those known to be Anarchists endeavor to use their favorite weapons of fire and dynamite, the Socialists would follow out of pure sympathy.

So far as my own observations go, and I have been looking up this matter, we have but little cause to fear. The The city is given over to commercial prosperity and the breadwinning question is one of more importance than Anarchism. The strife for life is so sharp here that it takes the whole time of the wage worker to the exclusion of everything else.

The report of the elevated roads is an interesting document. Two facts are of interest. The number of passengers carried last year were nearly 159 millions of which the Third avenue carried nearly 42 per cent. Everyone represents a fare and it is not surprising that the dividends of the company are 6 per cent.

It may be of interest to know what an election cost this city. There are in this city 812 election districts, each of which have four Inspectors, who sit for four days, registering the voters. Had the Labor party obtained a decision in their case in time there would have been five. On election day three, four or five inspectors as the case may be, receive the ballots and place them in their boxes. In the canvass they are assisted by two poll-clerks. Here then is the bill for each election district:

Four Inspectors, 5 days $7.50 per day.
One " 1 " 7.50 " "
Two poll clerks 1 " 7.50 " "

or $172.50 for each district. Add to this $37.50 for rent of the store in which the election is held and you have the cost for one election district. This for 812 is $170,000. To this must be added the stationery and the cost of building booths in those districts where no stores exist and you have in round numbers $200,000 as the cost of this city of an election.

Inspector and Pollships are sought after by business men, who do a fair amount of trade, because it relieves them from jury duty. The Police Board have the power of appointing, and like all other places are obtained by "pull." Influence" is a [illegible] [illegible].

OBITUARY.

Alfred L., youngest son of. Levi and Corrinthia Rude, died of consumption at his home in Lower Oswego Falls, Nov. 8, 1887, aged 16 years and 7 months. He had been in failing health about a year, and although at times his sufferings were intense he bore them with great patience and Christian fortitude. He was a favorite with all who knew him, for his many virtues and cheerful disposition, and will be sadly missed. The funeral was held from the house Thursday afternoon the Rev. Mr. Chase officiating.

Eva May, the three year old daughter of Peter and Ann McCann, died at Oswego Falls on Friday, Nov. 11 1887. Funeral services were held Sunday at 2 p. m.

Charles Mallory, commander of the G. A. R. post at Central Square died very suddenly Wednesday, Nov. 9th. from the bursting of an aneurismal tumor in the neck.

The Personal History of a Great Man.

The life and work of Henry Ward Beecher by Thomas W. Knox, is an authentic, impartial, and complete history of his public career and private life replete with anecdotes, incidents, personal reminiscences, and character sketches descriptive of the man and his times, is now being canvassed for in this village.

Thomas W. Knox the author of this work is also author of "Overland through Asia", "The Oriental World", "Under ground", "Bay Travelers in the Far East", "Life of Robert Fulton" &c.

The work is published in one magnificent volume and contains with all the illustrations over 500 pages. It is superbly illustrated and handsomely printed and bound and every detail of workmanship is exceptionally first class. It will be well for all to examine this carefully when the agent calls upon you. It has two styles of binding and sells for $2.00 and $2.25 according to the binding. Subscribers do not pay for the work until it is delivered and found equal to what it is represented to be.

HASTINGS.

(Special Correspondence to The Times.)

The Sunday School Association of the town of Hastings held its first quarterly convention at the M. E. church, Central Square, Sunday evening Nov. 13. A crowded house listened to the rendering of the program which was carried out without a failure. The convention was a decided success.

The 68th quarterly session of Oswego Co. Lodge No. 25 I. O. G. T. will be held with Mexico Lodge No. 672 on December 5th and 6th.

Dr. D. H. Mann, of Brooklyn, will deliver an address on Monday evening in Washington Hall.

$100 REWARD. $100.

The readers of the Times will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system thereby distroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength, by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The Proprieters have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars, for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address,

Cheese Market.

[From the Utica Herald].

AT UTICA.

Utica, N. Y. Nov. 14.

For some time to-day salesmen were doubtful whether there would be any market at all, so shy were the buyers and so averse from offering any prices. But at last there was a respectable amount of stock taken, and the ruling proved to be only ⅛c. off from last week. A few, however did not sell. The sales were late October's. Some sold out the balance of their season's make. Others still have from three to five days of that month on hand. Others are manufacturing every other-day skims, that class of goods having just been commenced. It will take at least three weeks more to clean up the stock still on hand. The bulk of the sales below 10¾c. were partly skimmed goods, but everything at that price and above was full cream and has the state brand. Nearly all of the best stock was taken for home trade, and the probability is that a good share of the rest will go in the same direction. Following is the table of transactions:

43	3,316	10½
12	1,012	10⅝
18	1,527	10¾
1	67	10⅞
12	807	11c.
86	6,728
	1,540	Com.
Total	8,268

Ruling price, 10½c. Transactions one year ago 7,336 boxes; ruling price, 11½c. Two years ago 7,545, ruling 8½c.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

Little Falls, Nov. 14.

Cheese.—Our market to-day has been an almost exact duplicate of that last week, in character, amount of transactions and prices, The quality of stock is still maintained at about the former good standard. As a rule, cheese does not show the effects of the skimmer to any appreciable extent. The demand was strong to-day for good grades, and prices in some cases were pushed higher than had been expected. Everybody appears confident of good prices prevailing thro' the balance of the season. Of course the make is now small and most factories receive milk once a day only. There is no holding back of stocks, as has been done by factories at this season, all making regular shipments each week. Sales are as follows:

Lots	Boxes	Price
22	1,150	10½
58	2,330	10¾
19	1,239	11c.
3	187	11¼
19	901	com.
121	5,816
Farm dairy	355
	6,171

Farm Dairies—Sales of 355 boxes farm cheese were made at 10½ to 11¼c; only very few at the latter price. The bulk going at 11c.

Butter.—There was 105 packages sold at 20 to 23c., the bulk at 21c. There were a few tubs of fine grass stock which went at 24 to 25c.

AT FULTON.

The usual number of factories were represented at this market Monday evening. 2,000 boxes were offered and all sold at 10½ to 11½ cents, the most bringing 11⅜ cents. The Utica ruling was 10½ cents.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

ECONOMY, as wise folks say,
Is wealth pronounced another way,
So while "hard times" the people cry,
The Toilet Soaps they should not buy.
Let all who buy such Soaps take care
To weigh the cake exact and fair,
And find they pay in figures round
A dollar, more or less per pound.

What course should people then pursue?
In short, the only thing to do,
Though rich in bonds, or worldly poor,
The "IVORY SOAP" they should procure,
Which may be bought from coast to coast,
At sixteen cents per pound at most,
And does more satisfaction grant
Than all the Toilet Soaps extant.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

To Our Readers.

We cannot too strongly urge upon our readers the necessity of subscribing for a family weekly newspaper of the first class—such, for instance as the Independent, of New York. Were we obliged to select one publication to the exclusion of all others, we should choose, unhesitatingly the Independent. It is a newspaper, magazine, and review, all in one. It is a religious, a literary, an educational, a story, an art, a scientific, an agricultural, a financial, and a political paper combined. It has 32 folio pages and 21 departments. No matter what a person's religion, politics, or profession may be, no matter what the age, sex, employment or condition may be, The Independent will prove a help, an instructor, an educator. Our readers can do no less than to send a postal for a free specimen copy, or for thirty cents the paper will be sent a month, enabling one to judge of its merits more critically. It's yearly subscription is $3.00, or two years for $5.00.

Those who desire to subscribe for the American Agriculturist as well as The Independent cannot make a better bargain than by accepting The Independent's offer to send both papers for one year for the sum of $3.75. Each subscriber will thus save 75 cents on the two papers.

Address, The Independent, 251 Broadway, New York City.

No man can be elected to office unless he dresses neatly and treats his neighbors courteously. Horace Greeley thought he could be elected to the Presidency on the strength of his famous old white hat and white over-coat, that reminded one of a grain bag. He failed, of course. Successful office-seekers will be found wearing garments sold by E. A. Cook & Co., opposite Clark house, First street, from Tucker, Calder & Co's manufactory, at Utica, N. Y. A SILVER WEDDING.

Saturday evening from 5 to 10 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. George C. Sawyer, assisted by 200 guests, re-enacted the joyous scene of their marriage twenty five years ago. Their spacious and pleasant home at No. 98 University avenue was trailed with vines and running plants, which formed a stricking and pleasant background for a large variety of rare flowers, Kappe' orchestra filled with sweet strains of music that portion of the house that was not pre-empted by the flowers, smiles and merry laughter. Judge and Mrs. Sawyer of Watertown and Miss Carrie E. Sawyer, the latter the daughter of the host and hostess, assisted Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer in receiving their friends. Over the west window in the reception room were the figures in evergreen, 1863, and in the same relative position to the north window were the figures 1887. The difference between these dates represents the period of Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer's married life. There was an almost endless number of beautiful presents, consisting of steel engravings, fruit baskets, ladles, forks, knives, spoons, and about every other conceivable article that could be made from silver. Refreshments were served and the whole affair was of the most interesting and pleasant character. —Syracuse Standard.

AN OLD CITIZEN'S SUDDEN DEATH.

Charles Potter has an Apoplectic stroke and Dies in Twelve Hours.

Charles H. Potter died from the effects of an apoplectic stroke last Saturday morning about half past one o'clock.

On Saturday forenoon he was driving his team about town as usual. In the afternoon he had unloaded a ton of coal at Mr. Capron's on Third street and was waiting for the receipt when suddenly he fell to the ground. He was placed in his wagon and driven to his home in the northern part of the village and Drs. Pardee and Hall summoned who found that he had ruptured a blood vessel in his head. He recovered consciousness but slowly failed and died Saturday morning.

The deceased was 66 years of age and leaves a wife, one daughter and two sons. He came to this village 28 years ago from Oneida county.

Funeral services conducted by the Rev. W. Dempster Chase were held at the house Tuesday Nov. 15th, at 2 p. m.

Remember that H. & A. Rosenbloom have the largest and finest stock of clothing, hats, caps, gents' furnishing goods and all at the lowest prices to be found in Fulton.

Rev. Mr. Smith's Narrow Escape.

Rev. Charles Hudson Smith formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church in this village and is now located at Rochester Minn. He with his wife recently had a narrow escape by being thrown from a buggy. The following is from the Minneapolis Tribune, Nov. 4th.

"Rev. Mr. Smith and wife were riding last evening when the horses became frightened at the cars, and turning suddenly, threw them violently out on the ground. They than ran away, smashing the buggy to splinters. Neither of the couple were badly hurt, but were considerably bruised and shocked by the fall."

Dey Brothers & Co., of Syracuse, are rising into prominence more rapidly than any other Dry Goods House in these parts. Their methods of business are fundamentally sound, and the public confidence reposed in them is specially manifested in the continual growth of their mail department.

Ladies from a distance can rely on their orders from samples being filled as carefully and as satisfactorily as when they buy from the piece, and at the same price. The Mail Department is thus a public benefit, and correspondence is invited. It will be a pleasure to Dey Brothers & Co. to attend carefully to orders sent from a distance as much as to wait on those who visit their stores and inspect personally their stocks.

Don't forget to buy your underwear at H. & A. Rosenbloom's. They have by far the largest stock and sell at lower prices than any firm in town.

[illegible] was statis[illegible] quality.

[illegible] York poultry show is an[illegible] Dec. 14-21.

[illegible] fodder corn has been cut [illegible] the west this fall than ever [illegible].

The government now estimates the [illegible] crop at 450,000,000 bushels.

A New York syndicate, it is told, will shortly invest $100,000 in the culture of tobacco in Florida.

The last estimate of the corn crop by Statistician Dodge was 1,500,000 bushels.

The hog is a grass eating animal; though people do not always realize it. Swine like both grass and hay.

It is estimated that over 8,000 head of cattle have been slaughtered in Chicago in the efforts of the Illinois live stock commissioners to stamp out pleuro-pneumonia in that state.

It is fortunate for many farmers that the house well sometimes goes dry, because it gives an opportunity for cleaning it. If it has not been cleaned for two or three years, pump it dry and go at it.

Dan Rankin, Addison county, Mo., is thought to be the largest individual feeder of cattle and hogs in the world. His farm embraces 25,000 acres, from which he gathered 1,000,000 bushels of corn. It is not an uncommon thing for him to turn off as many as 5,000 cattle and 10,000 hogs in a season.

Fowls that are confined in yards and kept warm in winter will give better results the entire year than when they are allowed to roam at will. The hens that have had free range will sometimes lay more eggs in summer than will those that are confined, but the hens that are properly cared for during the cold season will lay at a time when the highest prices for eggs are usually obtained.

One reason that dairy butter does not bring the highest price is because too many farmers keep it in their cellars. A cellar is no place for butter, no matter how clean or well ventilated it may be. There will be more or less odor from last winter's vegetables that the butter will absorb.

In this country nearly $3 worth of milk, cream, butter and cheese together are sold and consumed to every dollar's worth of beef. What is more, there is not much danger that the market for dairy products will ever be less than it is now—it is practically inexaustible.

Poultry Suggestions for Autumn.

It is a great mistake to crowd too many fowls together in one apartment. A house 6x8 feet and a yard 30 feet square additional will not accommodate more than thirty fowls. Board floors are better than earth. Board floors are always dry and can be kept much cleaner and sweeter. An application of slack lime on the boards is worth a dozen on the ground. If more board floors were used, less disinfectants and remedies would be needed.

What breeds of fowls are the best winter layers? All hens that molt early, and all early pullets well fed in the fall. Instead of trying to learn the variety or breed that make the best winter layers, learn to feed and manage properly and you will succeed with what you have.

A good morning meal for poultry in winter is chopped corn and oats, or wheat mixed with boiling water. Don't make it sloppy, but dry and crumbly. Feed it warm. A pinch of salt and pepper may be added. Feed about sunrise; they will relish it the better than earlier. Feed at noon a sprinkling of parched corn, oats, or wheat, and at night all they will eat of entire grain of any of the above. Never give more at any time than they will eat up clean. Oyster shells are good for shell material.

The Cheerful Farm Kitchen.

A spacious farm kitchen, when there is a clean and loving mother presiding over it, is about as pleasant as any spot on earth. The great steve with its cheerfully singing kettle, the smooth [illegible] floor, the braided rug for mother, the dear little squeaking rocker in which she sews, the geraniums, petunias and other easy growing plants in the windows, the big long table on which are served such meals as only "mother" can prepare. Ah! we are sorry for the poor child does not get a life start in such a room! It is to this big, pleasant-atmosphered kitchen that children can look for comfort and pleasure in this growling November weather. There is a school to be sure, but night sets in almost as soon as school closes, and in the hours between four o'clock and bed-time something must be done for the child whose natural, and healthful cry is for "something to do."

How to Make Good Apple Butter

The first step is to boil down the cider. If there is no set cauldron, large kettles are hung upon an extemporized wooden crane, in these, new cider is concentrated by boiling. For the best product, a barrel of cider is boiled down to eight gallons. While the cider is being boiled, others prepare the apples, by paring and coring, or by quartering and removing the cores. Good sweet apples, those which will readily cook tender are chosen. Two and a half to three bushels of apples are required for the barrel of cider, after it been concentrated, and the stirring, with a wooden stirrer (hickory preferred), must be continuous to prevent scorching. The thick jelly-like consistency shown when the boiling is sufficient. When the sauce is removed from the fire, many add cinnamon and [illegible]. The sauce is to be transferred, while yet hot, to the vessels in which it is to be kept; these should be wooden [illegible] barrels, or stoneware jars. Apple butter is sometimes made without [illegible] molasses and water instead. [illegible] properly made it is a most excellent [illegible], and vastly more healthful [illegible] which is cloying from an ex[illegible].—American Agriculturist.

How Sulphur Matches are Made.

Nearly all the operations of match making are now carried on by machinery. The wood is first sawed into blocks of uniform length, usually 1½ inches long, or the length of the match. The blocks are then fed into the cutting machine, which cuts 12 matches at every stroke. To make round matches the wood is forced through perforations in medal plates. The splints are then pushed into slats arranged on a double chain 250 feet long. On this they are carried to the sulphur vat, dipped therein by mechanical movement and then in the same manner to the phosphorous vat and dipped. Machines are also used for making the boxes and packing the splints therein.

As the consumption of matches is most enormous—being estimated at six a day for every man, woman and child in Europe and North America—they form an important article of commerce, and the invention of machinery for their manufacture has proved of great advantage. But the special value of machinery is that it has so largely reduced the mortality caused by working over the phosphorous. The substance, when heated, throws off fumes which cannot be continuously breathed without causing disease. In large factories 144,000 small boxes of matches are often made and packed ready for shipping in a single day.

Relief from Sick Headache, Drowsiness, Nausea, Dizziness, Pain in the Side, &c., guaranteed to those using Carter's Little Liver Pills. These complaints are nearly always caused by torpid liver and constipated bowels. Restore these organs to their proper functions and the trouble ceases. Carter's Little Liver Pills will do this every time. One pill is a dose. Forty in a vial. Price 25 cents.

Partridge Hunters.

G. A. Knapp writes from Syracuse to the Forest and Stream: "In the town of West Monroe, Oswego county, north side of Oneida lake, live men having a few acres of ground too poor to raise white beans. By the first of September they have built miles of brush fences with a slip noose set every few feet in the fence, for the purpose of snaring partridges. To insure utter immunity from sportsmen the supervisor and other influential men of the town of West Monroe have had passed a law prohibiting all hunting with dogs for birds or rabbits. They know by experience that every sportsman who comes into the town with a bird dog will take considerable pains to destroy all the snares they may find. I saw thirty-seven snared partridges brought to Syracuse and offered for sale.

The tired, languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

It Revived Him.

He fell from a four-story window, striking on his head, and strange to say, was picked up apparently lifeless.

"Who is that unfortunate man?" asked a passer-by

"A hardware drummer," was the reply and he is dead. He fell from a four-story window."

"A hardware drummer, and only fell from a four-story window; then he can't be dead. Let me see if I can't revive him."

The gentleman whispered in his ear: "What can you sell me ten casks of straight, self-colored coil chain, ⅝ inch, at?"

8¼ cents, 30 days," said the dead drummer, struggling to a sitting posture, "How'll you have 'em?" shipped—Epoch.

A Remarkable Advertisement.

A recent advertisement contains the following startling information:

"If the gentleman who keeps the shoe store with the red head will return the the umbrella of a young lady with the ivory handle to the slate roofed grocery shop he will hear of something to his advantage, as the same is a gift of a deceased mother, now no more with the name engraved upon it."

The man who keep an umbrella after such an appeal is unfit to live. We would surrender a circus tent upon slighter provocation.—Texas Siftings.

Greater Variety of Contents, New Features, New Type and New Engines.

AT THE HEAD OF THE REPUBLICAN PRESS.

THE NEW-YORK WEEKLY TRIBUNE will be enlarged on or before the 1st of January, 1888, by the addition of from four to eight more pages of actual reading matter—an increase of size of great expense to THE TRIBUNE, but without expense to the subscriber.

A complete outfit of the new folding and inserting presses will be put into THE TRIBUNE'S pressroom in November and December; and the extra sheet will be folded into its place in the main sheet before it comes from the press. The enlarged TRIBUNE will be the biggest and best of all the New York weeklies, and the new machinery will print it, in the enlarged form, at the rate of seventy-two thousand copies per hour.

New Features and a greater Variety of Contents will be added to THE TRIBUNE during the coming year. Readers will be given nearly a half more for their money than ever before.

Pensions for the old volunteers, especially Service Pensions, are being vigorously agitated in THE TRIBUNE; much space is given in every issue to this subject. Better Protection to Farmers under the tariff; the salvation of the country from the curse of intemperance; and the rescue of the national government from the hands of the rebel brigadiers; these and all the other live issues of the day are receiving aggressive, earnest and loyal treatment in The Tribune.

The Tribune does not attempt to supersede the local State and county press. But, in the great Presidential conflict now at hand, every thinking Republican, old soldier, farmer and temperance man, should have his local paper and THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

Subscription Rates—WEEKLY, $1 a year; extra copy with every five. SEMI-WEEKLY, $2 a year; extra copy with every five. DAILY, $8.50 per year. SUNDAY TRIBUNE $1 50. New subscribers receive the paper until Jan. 1, 1889. Remit always by draft, check, express or postal money order or registered letter.

Premiums—(1.) The New York Tribune's History of the United States and Pocket Atlas of the World, 16mo., 254 pages, 50 maps, 50 colored diagrams; price, 40 cents; to subscribers, 20 cents; prettiest premium of the year—a fascinating running account of the history of the country, with a great variety of statistics and general information. (2) Presidential Pocket Knife; subscribers' names and picture of his choice for President on the handle; send for descriptive circular; price at retail $1.75; but given with The Weekly Tribune one year for the same money, $1.75; two other styles for less money. (3) Popular Picture Gallery —6 fine large pictures, including the new officers of the G. A. R., Mr. Blaine, Senators Evarts and Hiscock, "Return of the Mayflower," "Christ before Pilate," and "Children Writing to Santa Claus;" send for circular. (4) Waltham Watch; expansion balance movement, stem winder, stem set, seven jewels, nickel case, thoroughly reliable, and an excellent watch; with the Weekly Tribune, 1 year for $7.50. (5) Tribune's "Book of Open Air Sports." (6.) Webster's Unabridged Dictionary." (7.) Wood's "Household Medicine." These premiums cannot be described in full here. Send for circular.

THE TRIBUNE, New York.

RENEWS HER YOUTH.

Mrs. Phœbe Chesley, Peterson, Clay Co., Iowa, tells the following remarkable story, the truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town: "I am 73 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years; could not dress myself without help. Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and am able to do all my own housework. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth, and removed completely all disease and pain." In Brief and To The Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents. eow

Impure Blood

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. B. GIBB, 1029 Eighth St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

[illegible] JOURNEY.

As we [illegible] of youth's sunny station
[illegible] shine in the light,
[illegible] over chasms
[illegible] tunnels of night.
And [illegible] that were brave in the morning
[illegible] with sighing and fears
[illegible] at the city of sorrow
[illegible] thro' the Valley of Tears.
But the [illegible] of this perilous journey
The [illegible] of the Master has made;
With all its discomforts and dangers,
We need not be sad or afraid.
Paths leading from light to darkness,
Ways plunging from gloom to despair,
Wind out thro' the tunnels of midnight
To fields that are blooming and fair.
Tho' the rocks and shadows surround us,
Tho' we catch not one gleam of the day
Above us, fair cities are laughing
And dipping white feet in some bay.
And always, eternal, forever,
Down over hills in the west,
The last final end of our journey,
There lies the Great Station of Rest.

'Tis the Grand Central point of all railways,
All roads centre here when they end;
'Tis the final resort of all tourists,
All rival lines meet here and blend.
All tickets, all mile-books, all passes,
If stolen or begged for or bought,
On whatever road or division,
Will bring you at last to this spot.

If you pause at the City of Trouble
Or wait in the Valley of Tears,
Be patient, the train will move onward
And rush down the track of the years,
Whatever the place is you seek for,
Whatever your aim or your quest,
You shall come at the last with rejoicing
To the beautiful City of Rest.

You shall store all your baggage of worries,
You shall feel perfect peace in this realm,
You shall sail with old friends on fair waters,
With joy and delight at the helm.
You shall wander in cool, fragrant gardens
With those who have loved you the best,
And the hopes that were lost in life's journey
You shall find in the City of Rest.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

NOVEMBER.

FRANK DEMPSTER SHERMAN.

Who shall sing to bleak November,
Month of frost and glowing ember?
Is there nothing, then, to praise
In these chilly thirty days?
Ah, and who shall lack for song
When the nights are still and long
When beside the log-wood fire
We may hear the wood elves' choir
Making dainty music float
Up the big, brick chimney's throat;
When within the flame and smoke
We may see a fairy folk
Coming hither, going thither,
Vanishing we know not whither?
Unless perhaps they all depart
For the frozen forest's heart,
To tell the stark, forsaken trees
Of the fireside's mysteries,—
How they saw some other elves
Just as funny as themselves?
—St. Nicholas.

THE PROPER THING.

Red in all shades is still very popular.

Pearls are the favorite stones worn at present.

Felt is a favorite material for hats and bonnets.

The reign of tan-colored gloves is about over.

Large feather fans are exceedingly fashionable.

Green leather is a new caprice for bags, belts, card cases, etc.

Embroidered dress goods are very fashionable and cheaper than formerly.

Sealskin gloves for woman's wear have the balms and inside finger pieces of dog skin.

Matched toilet from bonnet to boot heel will be "the correct" and expensive thing next winter.

Two-toned velvets are very elegant, and are combined with plain velvet of the darker shade or color.

Decided purples have superseded the heliotrope tints in favor, and are quite as generally unbecoming.

Jet and steel oraments on bonnets, to be tasteful, must look as if they were placed to serve some useful purpose.

Sandal wood is fashionable again. All sorts of ornaments are carved out of it, and its perfume pervades the fashionable boudoir.

Many rich toilets are made of plain, soft-finished faille throughout, and trimmed with beaded passementeries of the same color.

Very pretty autumn toilets are made of cloth of two contrasting colors, the trimming being pinked out edges of the two colors in alternate.

The most serviceable of winter house-gowns is a dark cashmere made with a yoke and full sleeves, and belted at the waist with a cord and tassel.

Cashmere, serge, bombazine, camel's hair and all-black woolens are used for mourning costumes; but Henrietta cloth is perferred for handsome costumes.

Soft felt hats are already coming into comfortable repute. Large gauze veils are used to ornament these hats, and the long ends are tied around the neck like a boa.

It is stated that the white starched collar is a thing of the past, but one can not help believing that for street and traveling the collar will still be preferred to the easily crushed and soiled ruche.

Black velvet corset belts, pointed at the top both back and front, and finishing at the waist with lappels, are to be worn with colored dresses. They are sure to be popular, for they make the figure look so trim and slight.

That tired languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

William Laird.

William Laird, a well known druggist [illegible], Oregon, writes as follows: [illegible] of Van Wert's Cough Balsam [illegible] from you a short time ago [illegible] and I am pleased to [illegible] has given universal [illegible]. I have never had a single [illegible]. The medicine is a boon [illegible]

At a First Street Barber Shop.

Dumley recently became an Odd Fellow, and last Wednesday evening took the second degree. After the work had been done, Dumley was so elated and pleased that he took some members of the degree team down to Boomer's and "set it up" for them.

This lead to a digest on the advantages of belonging to the mystic order and a discussion as to the arrangements of their new hall. More pop (?) was popped, and Dumley did not reach home until the wee sma' hours. After endeavoring for about five minutes to open the door with a cigar stub instead of his night key, the voice of his wife from within said, "Come in, the door is'nt locked." Dumley entered and muttered something about the lodge keeping in late owing to so many new members being initiated. Here we ring down the curtain, suffice to say that Dumley was seen down on First street, bright and early the following morning with a gaunt and hungry look. He entered "Pomp" Giroux's barber shop, settled down in the chair and ordered the barber to go at him, "give him all the extras" &c &c. "Pomp" smiled a smile, which, although there was no noise to it, it had a penetrating effect, and passed through the walls of the Lewis House and was heard by Thomas Nichols.

Dumley gave himself up to thought, and was entirely oblivious of his surroundings, while "Pomp," with the artistic skill of a true tonsorial manipulator of the razor, applied himself vigorously, saying not a word for fear that he would not have the opportunity of accomplishing all that he had been ordered to do. Finally he had finished and the following dialogue with its tragic ending occurred.

"Pomp"—"There you are, sir; next!"

Dumley—"Hol' on! Hair cut!"

"Pomp"—"I've cut your hair already, sir."

Dumley—"Sham-p-poo!"

"Pomp"—"I've done that too."

Dumley—(Too comfortable to get up) —"P-pull a tooth."

At this "Pomp" fell in a dead faint, and Dumley, fearing that murder was added to his miseries of the past twelve hours, in a confused manner grasped his overcoat, and without leaving change for the work done, rushed down stairs knocking over George Dada in his flight, then through Morrow's grocery store to the Midland depot, which he reached just in time to catch the Syracuse train. He only rode as far as Broadway, but insisted on paying the three cents fare, which so surprised the conductor that his hair stood on end.

He started up Broadway to Fourth street to his mother-in-law's and asked for breakfast. After devouring a liberal amount of sausage and buck-wheat cakes he felt like a new man and kissed his mother-in-law—think of it. Dumley is all right now, but says, that as he casts a retrospective eye over the events that transpired during those twelve hours, he is sure that he would be an inmate of the Mexico Insane Asylum had it not been for those sausages and buckwheat cakes.

By a Large Majority.

"This is all so sudden, Mr. Sampson," she said, with maidenly reserve, "and so unexpected, that although I confess I am not entirely indifferent to you, I hardly know what to say in reply to—"

"If you are in favor of the proposition," suggested Mr. Sampson, who, like Dick Swiveller, is a Perpetual Grand Master, "you will please signify your assent by saying 'Aye.'"

"Aye," came softly.

"Contrary?"

"No!" thundered the old man, opening the door.

"The noes have it by a large majority," said Mr. Sampson, reaching hastily for his hat.—New York Sun.

A Cheating Fish Dealer.

They were standing in the old market-house back of the Central Station watching the dealer sell out his last fish.

"Good Heavens," said A to B, "What a cheat that fish-dealer is. I have been watching him for half an hour."

"How's that? I didn't notice anything peculiar."

"Don't you see that this man is charging for the scales every time he weighs a fish?"

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent].

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19, 1887.

In no city of the United States was there more general and profound interest in the results of the recent elections than that in Washington, for here are temporarily domiciled representatives of every State and Territory of the Union,—as a general thing their tenure of place being in a large measure dependent upon the changing fortunes of politics.

Realizing the force of this truth, your correspondent, on last Tuesday night, strolled out on Pennsylvania Avenue and joined a throng of over one thousand men, who were solidly massed in front of the Daily Post building, where the election returns were displayed in an upper story window by means of a stereoptican. The crowd was as good humored as it was large and was perfectly orderly; as the news was blazoned forth there were Republican cheers and Democratic cheers quickly following each other.

At the White House, President Cleveland had a special wire, and soon after the New York figures began to flash forth, the Chief Magistrate's face was wreathed in a smile that was childlike and bland, and when he retired to rest for the night, he doubtless had bright visions of a second term in the historic mansion.

It is less than a month now till the meeting of Congress, and the popular interest is focused upon the probable course of that body, in regard to economic questions—more especially the tariff, which over-shadows all others. I believe there will be a substantial reduction, both in customs duties and internal revenue taxation, for unless both are reduced, neither is likely to be, as such legislation will probably be in the nature of a compromise. That the present tariff should be re-adjusted is the opinion of the brightest statesmen of both parties—the only question being the desired method.

Other important matters that will engage the attention of our national lawmakers, will be the proposition to change the term for which Congressmen are elected, and also to change the time of meeting of Congress from the first Monday in December to sometime in January. Under the present system of Congressional service—that is, members of the House of Representatives—they are elected thirteen months before taking their seats. Thus a member's successor is elected before the incumbent's term is half out. This old-fogy plan also tends to destroy our theory of popular representation, which is the corner-stone of republican government, for a Congressman, who reflected the wishes of his constituents thirteen months ago, may have drifted away from their views upon vital questions by the present time.

Evidently there is need of real reform here, and it is to be hoped that a result so greatly desired may be secured by the Fiftieth Congress and be applied to the Fifty-First.

The election of the next President of the United States may have possibly been decided in little Rhode Island last Tuesday, as the vacancy filled in its Congressional delegation by the election of a Republican would enable the party to control a majority of the States and elect their candidate for President, in case the election should be thrown into the House of Representatives as it was in 1824, when John Quincy Adams was chosen.

If credence can be given to a communication received in this city a few days since from the captain of a steamer sailing the Mexican gulf, the great collection of scientific treasures of the National Museum is to be enriched by the addition of the head of a veritable sea serpent, captured after a desperate and bloody struggle, in which the ship came near being capsized—the marine monster having been decapitated after it was found impossible to make other headway against this terror of those who go down to the sea in ships.

The annual of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, submitted to the Secretary of the Treasury this week, contains some interesting information, showing as it does, the condition of our internal system of taxation. The total collections for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1887, were $118,829,523, an increase of about two million dollars over the same period for 1886, and of about four million dollars for the year preceeding. For the last fiscal year the receipts were $827,523 in excess of the estimates. At compared with last year there was a decrease of two and a half million gallons of spirits in the quantity deposited in distillery warehouses.

A Guy on Henry Guy.

They are telling a good story on the street about that amiable, erratic and inscrutable peripatetic Henry Guy Carleton, who resembles the late William R. Travers as well in hesitancy of his utterances as the cleverity of his wit. Carleton met Bill Nye the other day.

"I s-s-say, old f-f-f-fellow," muttered he, "c-c-c-can't you c-c-c-come up to my rooms s-s s-some evening for a c-c-couple of hours? I w-w-want to t-t-t-talk to you for about f-f-fifteen minutes."—Town Topics.

A HUNDRED YEARS A HERO!

How Seth Warner Won a Wife and Became Famous.

Colonel Seth Warner, of Vermont, the famous hero of the Revolutionary war, was a leading fighter of the Hampshire grants.

These titles were disputed by the State of New York, and its authorities obtained an edict of the King of England in their favor. The settlers were stung by the supposed injustice. This state of things brought Colonel Seth Warner to the front. With Ethan Allen and others he actively opposed every effort of the New York state authorities to enforce possession, and finally he, with Allen and others, were outlawed and a price put on their heads!

To circumvent New York, it was necessary that some one should go into that state and gain required information. Colonel Warner, assuming for safety the name of "Dr. Howard," undertook this perilous and romantic journey.

While on his way home he stopped at a country inn, where an old gentleman and daughter were storm-bound. The father fell ill and the daughter called upon Colonel Warner, who, with his wide knowledge of simple remedies, successfully treated the "old man" and he finally won this devoted woman for a wife.

Such incidents were not uncommon in those years. When the doctor was not easily reached, months of sickness, and even life were often saved by some unprofessional friend versed in the use of simple herbs and roots. The health of early settlers and their powers of endurance convince us that such medicines did only good and left no poison in the blood to work as much injury to the system as would the disease itself.

In time of peace the colonel was in constant demand for his knowledge of simple remedies and their power over disease. But it was left to another of his name of the present age to give to the public what was then used with such positive success.

Warner for over a hundred years has shared with Ethan Allen the admiration of the American people.

Colonel Seth Warner belongs to family of wide distinction; no less than eight members thereof won fame in the regular practice of medicine.

Looking to the adoption by the people of this generation of the old time simple remedies, his direct descendant, H. H. Warner, the well known proprieter of Warner's safe cure, for many years has been experimenting with old time roots and herbs formulæ and, his search having been finally rewarded with success, he gives the world the result. These recipes and formulæ in other days accomplished great things because they were purely vegetable and combined simply so as to cure the disease indicated, without injury to the system. In harmony with their old time character, we learn that he proposes to call them Warner's Log Cabin Remedies, using as a trademark an old-fashioned log cabin. We understand that he intends to put forth a "Sarsaparilla" for the blood, the sarsaparilla itself being but one of a number of simple and effective elements; "Log Cabin Hops and Buchu," a general stomach tonic and invigorator; "Log Cabin Cough and Consumption Remedy," "Warner's Log Cabin Scalpine" for the hair; a preparation for that universal disease catarrh, Log Cabin Rose Cream;' 'Warner's Log Cabin Plasters;' "Warner's Log Cabin Liver Pills," which are to be used in connection with the other remedies, or independently, as required.

Warner's safe remedies are already standards of the most pronounced scientific value in all parts of the world, and we have no doubt the Log Cabin Remedies, for the diseases they are intended to cure, will be of equal merit, for Mr. Warner has the reputation of connecting his name with no preparation that is not meritorious.

Six year old Ned was enjoying the first ham and eggs of the season, and as the horseradish bottle was passed though, he would have some too. When he had recovered somewhat from the burning and had settled down to his breakfast again, he explained the situation with:

MAKES HIS OWN LIGHT.

An Uncommon Citizen of Fayetteville Utilizes Inflammable Gas from His Own Stomach—A Syracuse Yarn.

Readers of Dickens' "Bleak House" will remember the character Krook, who passed from earth to heaven or some other place by spontaneous combustion. Our neighboring village of Fayetteville has a case that calls to mind the peculiar death of Krook, but is much more interesting as the man is living. William Jackson for four years a photographer in the village, is married and 21 years old. For six years he has been a sufferer from dyspepsia. Mr. Jackson is a strong temperance man, but his complaint has resulted in an inflammable gas being developed in his stomach. He discovered this last May, one night when he went to blow out the light, when there was a report as loud as a firecracker, and a flame spurted from his mouth, extending upwards to the forehead, burning his mustache, eyelashes and that portion of his hair just above the forehead. His wife was awakened by a report similar to that of a firecracker. He was careful after that not to come in contact with the fire or light, but despite his caution, the same thing happened again over a week ago, when he was preparing to move to Vermont, and when endeavoring to extinguish a lamp in a dark room of his photograph gallery. The physicians are all puzzled, and while wondering as to the cause, attributed the accident to eructation of gasses from the stomach.

Doctor Quinby says that the case is not unparalleled. He knew as an actual fact that it was a bona fide surprise to all practicing physicians, and laid the cause of the phenomnon to dormant gases from the stomach of a chronic dyspeptic. He said that he had received a postal card from a London physician, announcing that a case similiar in every respect to Jackson's has been reported in a Paris medical journal.

Dr. William Manlius Smith, the chemist, says that the case is one of the most extraordinary on record. He thought that such an accident could occur, however, as inflammable gas could be generated in a man's stomach when all the conditions are observed. In the present case he attributes the explosion to generated hydrogen, or a combination of carbureted hydrogen coming in contact with air.

Mr. Jackson can light his breath now with no personal inconvenience whenever he pleases.—Syracuse Courier.

STOCK IN MINNESOTA.—From an exclusive grain country, Minnesota is being rapidly transformed into the finest stock and dairy state in the Union. Cheap lands still obtainable, convenient to railroad. Particulars free upon application to C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul, Minn.

NEW BUSINESS CENTERS.—The building of railroads in a new and fertile country creates many new towns affording excellent business opportunities. Particulars regarding such opportunity in Montana, Minnesota and Dakota will be sent upon application to C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul.

PROSPEROUS North Dakota never had better crops than those just harvested. Many opportunities to secure fine Government lands recently surveyed, near excellent coal fields and adjacent to railroad. Maps and full particulars free upon application to C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul, Minn.

SUCCESS. Are you mortgaged, paying heavy rents, or running behind? Can you move to new location? Excellent lands, cheap, which will increase in value several fold in five years. No other such opportunities existing. Full particulars, free, upon application to C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul Minn.

FAILURE OF CROPS is an unknown experience in Central and Northern Dakota and Minnesota. Maps and full particulars regarding lands, prices etc., sent free. Address C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul, Minn.

WHY WORK FOR ANOTHER, or on small salary? Why continue working on a worn-out farm? Why try to secure a living from such high-priced or heavily-mortgaged farms? Why work on rented land? Why not start for yourself? Why not secure at once some of the high-priced but very fertile and well located lands adjacent to railroads now to be obtained by those going to Northern Dakota and Minnesota, where you can make a larger net profit per acre than on the high-priced or worn-out land you now occupy? Why not go and look the situation over, and see for yourself, or at least obtain further information, which will be sent free, if you will address C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.?

WHEN A WOMAN becomes afflicted with a Kidney disease life is truly a burden. The female organization is so constituted as to be peculiarly susceptible to it; is easily controlled by it, and is rapidly develops and spreads until the whole fabric is affected and there is no time when she is free from pain. Refreshing sleep is unknown, the long weary hours of the night are followed by equally long hours of the day, and so the months and years pass, bringing as they roll away increased burdens.

Mrs. O. P. Bracket, wife of a town official of Hermon, Me., had severe case of kidney disease. In time she became so afflicted with continuous pains across the small of the back, weary, heavy, bearing down pains, heavy, dull feeling between the shoulders with occasional spells of "sick headache," as well as other troubles peculiar to this disease in women, so that she at times gave up in despair. She was confined to her house, deprived of all social intercourse with friends and neighbors, and was day and night a constant sufferer. One day she read an advertisement issued by us describing symptoms of kidney disease, and persuaded her husband to buy a bottle of Brown's Sarsaparilla which she used. She said it helped her and her husband, having no faith in patent medicines, laughed and told her she was no better, and that "faith" and "hope" had revived her temporarily. He bought the second and third however, and like the first, they helped her rapidly along the road to health. The remedy was continued until Mrs. Brackett was restored, and she has now been for over two years free from all symptoms of kidney disease. This case which was perhaps as serious a one as ever came to the notice of the medical fraternity of this section, attracted wide-spread attention at the time, and stamped beyond all dispute the fact that Brown's Sarsaparilla was a deadly foe to Kidney disease.

2. We will send THE TIMES and the Rural New Yorker, the best illustrated weekly agricultural paper in this or any other country, for $2.50. The following two conditions must be observed:

1. The price named must inveriably accompany each order.

2. Old subscribers to THE TIMES must first pay to date before taking advantage of either offer. Call at this office or send cash with order to THE TIMES,

Fulton, N. Y.

THE Baldwinsville Era, enters upon the third year of its existance with its last issue, and celebrates the event by a new and appropriate head, an enlarged paper, and an additional name, the Tobacco Review. The Era is an enterprising sheet. We like it and wish it success.

PARTICULARS came over the wires Monday morning, of another terrible disaster in the English Channel. The Dutch steamship W. A. Scholten, bound from Rotterdam to New York, collided with the steamer Rosa Mary, ten miles off Dover, and sank in twenty minutes. There was a heavy fog at the time and a panic followed the accident on the Scholten. It is reported now that 130 of the crew and passengers of the ill-fated vessel are missing. There is a possibility that some of them were picked up by passing vessels.

LAST Sunday evening, the winter headquarters of P. T. Barnum's "Greatest Show on Earth", at Bridgeport, Conn., was destroyed by fire caused by the explosion of a kerosene lamp.

Four elephants, including Sampson and Alice, and the white elephant, five lions, seven leopards, six panthers, four kangaroos, six horses, and a large number of smaller animals, were among those burned to death. Barnum says everything will be replaced and they will have a greater show than ever in the spring.

IN another column will be found the prospectus of the Utica Morning Herald, one of our best exchanges, and one that we would feel lost without. In politics it is Republican through and through. Editorially it is unsurpassed byany metropolitan comtempoary. In addition to the general news, it has special correspondents in all the counties of Northern-Central New York and a column or two from these appear in each issue. The reputation that it has made as a market reporter is unequaled and in season THE TIMES always quotes the Utica and Little Falls cheese market reports as furnished through its columns.

JAY B. COLE, the recent Republican candidate for School Commissioner in the 3d district of this county, would seem to be a rather cheeky individual with more gall than common sense. After being thoroughly beaten by his lady opponent, he served a notice on the board of county canvassers objecting to the counting, canvassing or allowing the votes cast for Ida L. Griffin, on the ground that she, being a woman, is ineligible to hold said office, and that therefore the votes cast for her are illegal, null and void. The board of canvassers properly laid Mr. Cole's protest upon the table and issued the certificate to the pioneer lady school commissioner.

Palermo.

(Special Correspondence to THE TIMES).

On Saturday last sad news was received here from the West Branch Times of Michigan of the death of one of Palermo's young men, Lewis H. Brockway. He left this town about nine years ago for the West, and he was as every one who knew him asserts an honest upright young man. While in the West he was in a wholesale store and for one year officiated as clerk in the West Branch hotel. On January last he was appointed under sheriff, a position he has ably filled. His funeral was held under the Masonic Order of which he was a member. The floral tributes were many and of very appropritate designs, consisting among others of a square and compass, contributed by the F. & A. M. Lodge. The deceased leaves to mourn his loss a brother, and sister and many friends in Ogeman county, Mich., and also in Oswego county. His age was 39 years.

Now is the time to get an overcoat or suit made to order. If you propose to do it leave your order with H. & A. Rosenbloom. It is for your interest to do so.

[illegible] the sick, their clothing, and the persons who nurse them, [illegible] away from others, especially children; and to such care should be added cleansing. The sick room should be clean and airy, and no other children allowed in the apartment.

Every cloth, cup, and all clothing and bedding used in the sick-room, should be cleansed and disinfected before being handled, or used by other persons. The house itself must be disinfected as soon as the sick recover or die. Cleanliness and ventilation should be enforced night and day. Open windows and open fireplaces, with fire in them day and night, protect the sick and all who attend them. The clothes and dishes used by the sick should be put in boiling hot water as soon as removed without being taken to another room.

The soiled clothing from the sick, and the bedding that can be boiled, should be thrown into a disinfecting fluid made by adding four table-spoons full of sulphate of zinc, and two table-spoons full of common salt to a gallon of boiling water.

When the time for washing comes, thoroughly boil the clothes etc. before washing. The woodwork, chairs, and stools of the sick-room should be washed with the disinfecting fluid. The chamber vessels and spit-cups, used by the sick, should be drenched with this fluid before they are removed from the room.

For disinfecting drains, closets, sinks, and yards, make a fluid by adding five pounds of dry copperas to a large pail full of water, and use it freely.

As soon as the sick-room is vacated, let it be fumigated with sulphur, and let all rags, mats, beds, and furniture remain in the room and near where the sulphur is placed; from two to five pounds of sulphur or broken brimstone laid upon coals in an iron vessel set in a tub containing a few inches of water, will be sufficient to fumigate two or three rooms. The rooms should be closed as tightly as possible, and the fumes allowed to remain for a whole day.

The sick should be nursed by adults who have no children about them. Avoid the patient's breath, and matters ejected in coughing. Children and visitors should be kept away from the house where there is diphtheria.

The burial of those that die should be strictly private. The corpse should be wrapped in a sheet saturated with the zinc disinfectant.

Children who recover from diphtheria should not visit or be visited, attend school or meetings, nor mingle with others of the family from which they have been separated, until so advised by their physician.

The mother, father, or other members of the family, who need to become the attendants upon the sick should practice precautions to prevent spreading the infection in the family. Nurses of such patients should keep away from other families, and from other children of the same family.

It must be remembered that not only the mild cases, but the convalescent, may, and frequently do, infect others fatally; and that by this means diphtheria is thoughtlessly spread from place to place.

And finally. It is a public as well as a domestic duty, to apply these Sanitary Rules wherever a case of diphtheria occurs. This disease should be treated as an enemy, to be conquered in every house it enters.

Their Alma Mater Greets Them.

The burning of the office of the St Louis Sunday Sayings at St. Louis last week, and which is supposed to have been the work of the Anarchists, recalls several former Fultonians who are now filling prominent positions in the world of journalism.

Two of these gentlemen occupy positions on the paper mentioned. G. E. Williams, formerly editor of the Fulton Times is one of them, and the managing editor of the Sayings is C. P. Meade, a son-in-law of Mr. Williams. Mr. Meade only lived in Fulton temporarily, but was well known and liked.

Another prominent journalist, Chester Lord, managing editor of the the New York Sun, began his newspaper work on that journal with a reporter's berth, and has gradually risen in his profession until he has reached the high office which he now fills. Associated with him is Daniel Kellogg, a brilliant writer, who is, like Mr. Lord an old Fulton boy.

Other former residents here who are now engaged in this occupation are Oliver S. Adams, an editor on the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, his brother, Corwin L. Adams, editor of the Trumansburg Sentinel, J. M. Williams and Charles Harrison, editors of two Phœnix papers, the Register and the Chronicle, Joseph Francis, now on a Chicago daily, formerly edited the Fulton Times.

The latest acquisition to the Brooklyn Eagle is John A. McKay, who has charge of the Secret Society Notes and the "Pastors and People" columns. Mr. McKay was editor of the Fulton Times two years ago. Indeed the Times gave most of the journalists mentioned their early schooling. Though a young man, Mr. McKay has already established a reputation in his line of work that many of more mature age might justly envy. He is practically self made and his productions in the Eagle are those of an easy writer.—Cor. Sunday Herald.

On Nov. 14th, a surprise was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vant to remind her of her 63d birthday.

Among the numerous and useful presents was a hanging lamp given by her children.

All did ample justice to turkey, chicken pie and cake, after which was music and singing and all returned home well pleased with the day of enjoyment.

Praises thy love divine,
Bestowed so well:
We join the grand acclaim,
And magnify thy name,
Star heralded that came,

Thy blessings manifold,
Choicer than gems and gold,
Jehovah, Friend,
Our North and South have crowned,
May harvest rich abound,
And freedom here be found,
Till time shall end.

Great Prophet, Priest and King,
With gratitude we sing
Thy peerless grace:
In love the nation take,
For the Redeemer's sake,
A temple fair to make,
Thy dwelling place.

The Rural New Yorker of New York city is recognized as the leading farm and garden weekly of America. It has the best writers; it is original throughout. It is the only journal that conducts an experiment farm. It costs more to publish than any other journal of its class. Its illustrations (over 500 yearly) are from nature, or else original conceptions. Among the latter class, the Rural is publishing a series of powerful cartoons, nothing approaching which has ever before been attempted. They illustrate the Power of the Grange, the Curse of Monopolies, the Farmer Enlightning the World, the Improvement of Land, the Effects of the Destruction of Useful Birds, etc. etc. These printed on fine heavy paper, with a sample copy of the RURAL NEW-YORKER, will be sent free to any farm readers who apply as above.

We supply THE FULTON TIMES one year and the Rural New Yorker one year for $2.50.

We are having quite a small winter at present.

Union Thanksgiving services will be held at the M. E. church in this village. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Fisk, will officiate assisted by the Rev. Mr. Denney of the Free Baptist church.

A missionary meeting conducted by the children, will be held at the F. B. church, Thursday evening.

The countenance of W. D. Johnson is aglow with smiles. It is a nine pound boy.

The Misses Madge and Maud Mason, who are attending school in Albany, passed Sunday with friends here.

R. D. Johnson is at present working for Capt. Cook.

The fall term of school closed on Friday. It has been under the charge of Miss Jennie Thomas, who, it is said, will teach the winter term.

The cold weather is upon us and Rosenbloom is prepared for it with the biggest line of fur, plush, and seal caps in this county.

Board of Trustees' Proceedings.

Present—President Waugh and Trustees More, Osborn, Kendrick and Rice.

Minutes of last general and special meeting read and approved.

H. C. Howe Esq., as attorney for Nathan Rogers presented the following claim to the Board.

The Village of Fulton,
To NATHAN ROGERS, Dr.

Oct. 18,	To damages to horse by reason of his being frightened at some tin in First street, of the village of Fulton, near D. C. Baker's shop,	$100 00
"	To damages to wagon at same time	5 00
"	To damages to harness at same time	1 50
	Total	$106 50

On motion of Trustee Kendrick the President and Trustee Osborn, were appointed a committee to investigate the claim of Mr. Rogers and report at next meeting, and the Village Attorney was instructed to examine the law and report as to the liability of the village.

On motion of Trustee More, the collector and treasurer were directed to report to the Board at the next meeting.

On motion of Trustee Osborn, the clerk was directed to draw an order in favor of the Fire Department for $200.00.

On motion of Trustee More, the President was authorized and instructed to execute and negotiate a note as President of the village for eight months for $1,195.84 for the purpose of anticipating the tax voted to pay the Judgment of Mary E. A. La Duke against the village.

The following bills were reported correct by the Finance Committee and audited at the following amounts, and the clerk was directed to draw orders for the same on proper funds.

Osborn Bros., Lumber	$16.25
W. J. Patterson, setting glass in Jail	3.00
Mullen & Miller, cross walk stone	55.88
N. Y. O. & W. R. R., freight on cross walk stone	22.50

A. W, Stoneburg, rent for hose house from April 1st to Oct. 1st, 1887	13 00

Chief Engineer Mosher, of the Fire Department, gave notice that Steamer No. 1, was out of repair.

On motion, the President and Trustee Kendrick were appointed a committee to examine Steamer No, 1, as to the necessity of immediate repairs and if necessary, to employ a competent person to make further examination and report at next meeting.

The warrant of the Collector was again renewed for 30 days from Nov. 16th 1887.

On motion, Trustees More and Nichols were appointed a Committee to examine the floor timbers of the Hook and Ladder rooms and report at next meeting.

On motion of Trustee Rice, the President was appointed a Committee to confer with the Thompson Houston Electric Co. and inform them of complaints of lights going out and that the lights must be operated according to the contract.

Mr. Buck complained of bad walk on Utica St. east of Seventh street. On motion matter referred to sidewalk committee.

On motion of Trustee Kendrick, board adjourned to November 30, 1887, at 7½ o'clock p. m.

N. N. STRANAHAN, Clerk.

1887.

In order to make it pleasant for all, it has been decided to make a slight charge for passengers on the train, and therefore the exceedingly low rate of one dollar ($1) for the round trip to Rochester and return will be made from any station on the Line. Reduced hotel rates at Rochester will be as follows—rates given being per day:

Powers' Hotel according to location of rooms.

Whitcomb House	$2.00
New Osborne	2.00
Windsor Hotel	2.00
Bartholomay	2.00
New National	2.00
Bracket House	2.00
Waverly	1.50
Hotel Atlantic	1.50
Genesee Park Hotel	1.50

The Line to Rochester is all laid with heavy steel rails, and trains can make quick time with safety. Trains will arrive at Rochester about three o'clock in the afternoon on Tuesday, the 29th insant. Tickets will be good to return on trains leaving Rochester at 9:35 a. m. and 3:40 p. m. on Wednesday, November 30th; the 3:40 p. m. train runs through to Messena Springs. Tickets will also be good to return on train leaving Rochester at 9:35 a. m., Thursday, December 1st. This will give passengers two days in Rochester.

In addition to the regular conductors and train men, two special agents will accompany the excursion, and remain at Rochester until Thursday morning. These special agents will attend to the comforts of excursionists. Ladies without escorts will receive polite attention. First-class coaches will be run through without change and everything will be done to make the excursion a pleasant affair, the intention being to show the new line to Rochester as well as possible. Many people are anxious to see the new Rochester station and the magnificent new bridge the Company has built across the Genesee River. The passenger station on State Street is the most accessable in the city, and is only four minutes distant from the Four Corners and Powers' Hotel, which is the centre of the city of Rochester.

The low rates and great attractions of the Flower City are sure to make the excursion a grand success. Powers' Art Gallery and building will be open for inspection, admission 25 cents. Thirty coaches have been assigned for this excursion and ample accomodations will be given to all who go. For tickets, time of trains and full information, apply to nearest R. W. & O. R. R. Ticket Agent, or correspond with Gen'l Passenger Agent, Oswego, N. Y.

An adjourned meeting of the Sunday School Association was held at the M. E. church on Monday evening to listen to the report of the executive committee. The meeting was called to order by Rev. W. D. Chase, on whose motion Rev. D. M. Rankin, was made chairman and John Morton, Secy. The committee reported for President, E. R. Redhead; vice-president, J. J. Coit; Secy. C. W. Streeter; asst. secretary, F. P. Connell; Tres. C. C. Benedict; Woman's Missions Aid Society Secretary, Miss J. M. Porter. The report was accepted and the above named persons unanimously elected. A motion was made and carried to canvass the village, to ascertain the number who are attending Sunday school and the number who do not. The object of this Assocation shall be by union and concert of action, to improve the character and efficiency of he Sunday-school work, and extend its influence to every part of the county.

Christmas St. Nicholas.

Francis Hodgson Burnett will open the Christmas St. Nicholas with a new story entitled, "Sara Crewe." There will also be stories by J. T. Trobridge, H. H. Boyesen, Frank R. Stockton and Washington Gladden, with a description of the voyage of the WORLD balloon, fully illustrated and written by the daring reporter who took the trip from St. Louis last summer. T. R. Sullivan, a most engaging writer of short stories, will contribute one entitled "The Tincture of Success." A remarkable ballad "Ticonderoga," by R. L. Stevenson, and "The Water-Witch" a ballad of the sea, both fully illustrated will appear in the Christmas Scribner's. Sarah Orne Jewett also writes a most fitting story, delicately illustrated by Taylor.

"London Xmas Pantomimes" describing the joyous holiday features of London Life, with accurate pictures taken during the performance of "Alice in Wonderland" will be given by Elizabeth Robbins Pennell. Much other interesting matter will appear not the least of which will be Palmer Cos everwelcome "Brownies." The new volume began with November.

Twenty-five kinds of tobacco to [illegible]

[illegible] its history. Indeed, there is a promise that it may be made a source of Government revenue. This state of affairs is really as surprising as it is gratifying, when it is remembered that for a number of years past the annual deficits of this department have ranged from eight to fifteen millions dollars. For the year ending June 30, 1886, the deficiency was $6,900,000, but that for the last year was only about $400,000; for the past fiscal year the same reduction has been going on, so that it is probable that on June 30, 1887, the deficiency was not over one million dollars. It is estimated that before the close of the present year the postal business will be a profit to the Government. This great Federal Department, which comes nearer than any other to the people, is an interesting topic at all times—particularly so now, when there appears to be a strong probability that at no distant day we shall have one-cent letter postage. Few realize the magnitude of the United States mail service. The free transportations of the business mail of 60,000 office holders throughout the country costs the vast sum of two million dollars; the newspaper mails which constitute one third of the matter carried, bring but one fortieth of the revenue of the service. The United States have more postmasters, postal employes, and postal routes than any other country in the world, which is the very best indication of our substantial progress and prosperity, and the cultivation of the social graces that is characteristic of the Americans.

For the past year and a half, pennies have seem to become popular, especially in the West—in the East they have been so from time immemorial—as the only United States mint that makes small coins, that in Philadelphia, has been unable to supply the growing demand, though the dies have been, and are yet, running night and day, having, during the period in question, filled orders for one and five cent pieces, amounting to more than a million dollars, and yet the mint is $200,000 behind the orders. If no more demands should be made, it would take the mint six weeks constant work to fill the orders now on file.

A late decision of the United States Supreme Court in what is know as the drive-well cases, will be hailed with great satisfaction by the three million farmers of the country, whose financial interests were affected thereby. The inventor claimed a royalty of ten dollars each of these bored wells, but the Court refused to grant it—thus, this important decision is worth just thirty millions to the farmers of the United States. The State Grangers of Iowa and Minnesota voted to raise $25,000 to fight the patent,—an expense they could well afford in view of the immense amount at stake.

Speaker Carlisle has early arrived in the Capital, for the purpose of conferring with the President and the Secretary of the Treasury, in reference to the tariff measure which, it is understood. was outlined in the secluded shades of Oak View last summer. It is reported that Mr. Carlisle is to be unanimously re-elected Speaker by his party, and that the whole influence of the Administration will be exerted in favor of a reduction of the tariff. The President feels encouraged and strengthened in this policy by the result of the late election in New York State, where a reform of the tariff was made a distinct issue in the Democratic platform.

The angry controversy between Secretary Lamar and Commissioner Sparks over the Omaha railroad land grant, has furnished the gossips and newsmongers of this city a rare morsel for the past week. After all, the only question at issue is that of subordination—whether the Interior Department shall have one or two heads. The action of Secretary Lamar seems to be generally approved. Of course the only outcome of the affair was the resignation of the Commissioner. which has been tendered to the President and accepted by him. Many think hat Assistant Commissioner Stockslager will be the successor of his late chief.

The Corcoran Art Gallery will soon add to its artistic treasures Professor Becker's painting, bought at Berlin for $4,000. The picture is a large canvas about seven feet long, and contains at dozen or more historical figures, among the number Pope Julius II, Raphael and Michæl Angelo.

$100 REWARD. $100.

The readers of the Times will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system thereby distroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength, by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The Proprieters have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars, for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address,

Cheese Market.

[From the Utica Herald].

AT UTICA.

UTICA, N. Y. Nov. 21.

While the market did not have much snap today, cheese sold at fairly good prices, considering that it was the last of October and first of November stock. At 10¾c. and above, the goods were made of full milk, but below that it is quite likely that the skimmer had been used more or less. Next week there will be very little if any full cream stock in market. A large proportion of the cheese sold was taken by the home trade, which would pay better prices than those who buy for shippers can afford to pay. At a meeting of the board it was resolved to have two more days of sale. December 5th. will therefore be the last market of the season. Among the sales of the day there was a large lot of Septembers and Octobers combined. Following is the list of transactions;

6	800	10c.
44	2,735	10¾

Ruling price, 10¾c. Transactions one year ago 5,796 boxes; ruling price, 11½c. Two years ago 5,112, ruling 8¼c.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

LITTLE FALLS, Nov. 21.

Cheese—The market to-day was dull and slow, with light offerings and sales. Several of the buyers could find no use for cheese at current rates, and so bought none. The bulk of the purchases were taken by three or four buyers. Prices do not average quite as good as last week, and the ruling price is one-fourth cent below. As it appears now, it will take but a short time to close out the season's make in this section. Some factories are closed; many others will close this week, and in two weeks all will be closed. There is fine sleighing on the hills both sides of the Mohawk valley, and cows will crop no more grass this season. Following is the list of sales:

Lots	Boxes	Price
23	1,240	10½
15	821	10¾
4	310	11c.
2	115	11¼
7	360	com.
51	2,846
Farm dairy	689
	3,535

Farm Dairies—Sales of 680 boxes farm cheese were made at 9 to 11½c; The bulk going at 10½c.

Butter—Ninety packages of farm dairy butter sold at 18 to 22c., very little at the latter price; the bulk brought 20c.

AT FULTON.

The cheese market here is closing very satisfactory. The home demand at this market Monday night was strong. The 1,830 boxes from sixteen factories brought from 10 to 11¼ cents. The market is nearly closed for the season, there being now but a few odds and ends left. The price one year ago was 11¼ cents.

"HASTE MAKES WASTE."

"What!!! Have you finished your washing? I had much less than you and you are through first. What soap do you use?"

"It isn't the soap. Use washing powder and you will get through in half the time; it does the work for you."

"I know it will, but the clothes won't last half so long; we've tried it. We use Ivory Soap altogether; it cleans more easily and quickly than any other kind, and I find the clothes last as long again. My folks won't let me use washing powder."

"Of course they won't, neither will mine, but I use it anyhow. I don't care to save their clothes at the expense of my time and back."

Reader, which do you value most, your laundress' time and back, or your clothes? If the latter, then don't let her use washing powder.

MESSRS. PROCTER & GAMBLE,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

Dear Sirs: — The sample of Ivory Soap received from you is an excellent Laundry Soap, of great purity and more than average cleansing power.

Very respectfully yours,

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

[illegible] If we were disposed to criticise, it would merely be to state that the entertainment was somewhat too long. If the after piece, Slasher and Crasher, had been omitted, probably many would have been as well pleased. It is not our intention however, to detract a particle of the credit that is due each and every one, for the skillful manner in which each performed the character assumed.

Previously to the entertainment, the Fulton band played several selections in front of the opera house, and when the time for the curtain to ring up came, the body of the hall was filled, and a large part of the gallery, with the best audience that Fulton could turn out, all anxious to see how well the parts could be sustained.

Mr. Spencer, as Richelieu, was of course good. This gentleman, who has been in Fulton for the past few months, is an actor of great versatility, and by his rendition of the character of this celebrated Prime Minister of France, gave much food for thought and reflection for those that heard him last evening. Miss Carrie B. Nichols, as Julie de Mortemar, the orphan and ward of Richelieu, again demonstrated to a Fulton audience her ability to take a most difficult part, and sustain it in a manner superior to many professionals.

Miss Maud Barnes, as a spy in Richelieu's interest, although not having as much as Miss Nichols, did her part with a grace and ease that was commendable, to say the least.

Fred Bennett, as Chevalier de Mauprat, the soldier and lover, G. W. Hoff, as Count de Baradas, the villain, and favorite of the king and Edwin B McCully, as Father Joseph, divided equally the honors in sustaining the most important characters.

Frank G. Coates, as Louis XIII king of France, Harry B. Butler, as an attendant to the king, Bert W. Bennet, as Francois, page to Richelieu, W. G. Bennett, as an officer in Richelieu's household, and Arthur H. Emerick, Secretary of State, were all worthy of special mention.

The youthful actors were urged on to their best efforts by frequent and well earned applause.

During the interlude, Masters Cullen and Conley gave an excellent exibition in club swinging, and both received an encore.

In the farce which concluded the entertainment, we can not refrain from making favorable mention of the acting of Edwin B. McCully, as Crasher, Miss Blanche Boomer as Trueblue, and Miss Helen Barnes, as Dinah Blowhard, a strong minded female.

The costumes used were secured especially for this occasion, and were elaborate and elegant.

The post office will be open on Thanksgiving day from 8:30 a. m. to 10 a. m., and from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Have you seen those Vermont gray overcoats at H. & A. Rosenbloom's in sizes from 36 to 44 which they are selling at $1.95? Do not spoil your good overcoat that you have already bought of them but if you have out door work to do save it and buy one of these.

Storm doors are getting to be "the proper thing" and are being put up extensively.

Dey Brothers & Co., of Syracuse, are rising into prominence more rapidly than any other Dry Goods House in these parts. Their methods of business are fundamentally sound, and the public confidence reposed in them is specially manifested in the continual growth of their mail department.

Ladies from a distance can rely on their orders from samples being filled as carefully and as satisfactorily as when they buy from the piece, and at the same price. The Mail Department is thus a public benefit, and correspondence is invited. It will be a pleasure to Dey Brothers & Co. to attend carefully to orders sent from a distance as much as to wait on those who visit their stores and inspect personally their stocks.

There is absolutely no adulteration in in the Tulip Soap, therefore it is the cheapest soap for laundry, bath or toilet.

Eddie Bache, of this village, and Miss Hattie Wideman, of Oswego Falls, were married at the Catholic parsonage Sunday, by the Rev. Father Earley.

Married in this village Sunday Nov. 20, 1887 by Rev. W. Dempster Chase, Walter W. Drury of Granby and Cora Bell Quonce of Oswego Town.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Willard gave a party Monday evening to a number of their friends, in honor of their guest, Mr. Henry Dwight, of Syracuse.

Master George Sheridan celebrated his 13th birthday with a number of his young friends at the home of his parents on Cayuga street last Monday evening.

Examine the cutaway coats at Rosenbloom's. They are "dandies." Do not think for a moment of purchasing elsewhere until you have seen them.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bristol celebrated the twentieth anniversary of their wedding last Monday evening. A few of their friends gathered at their home on Third street in honor of the occasion.

George J. Emeny has just sold from his brick yard 250,000 brick to Syracuse parties. As many as possible will be shipped by canal. Six teams are now drawing them from the yard to the boat.

Camillus was the scene of a conflagation Thursday. The Central Knitting Mills, James Fergus saw and cider mill and Patterson & Sisson's flouring mill were totally destroyed. The loss is estimated at about $90,000.

Important changes were made in the time of running trains on the "Phœnix road," Monday. The corrected time table will found in the usual column. Five trains each way now run over this popular route.

Although Fulton is well supplied with clothiers there is always room for one more. A new one came to town last week to stay a son and junior partner, of H. J. Peebles, the popular Cayuga street merchant. He was born Tuesday.

The Young People of the Presbyterian church gave an entertainment and social in the parlors of the church on Friday evening. Dr. Spencer read several selections and Messrs. Gilbert and Allen and the Misses Foster, Maynard and Rankin sang several musical selections, all of which was well recieved.

The barge "Oswego," Capt. Loveless, has finished its trips for the season and is now at its dock in this village. An engine and boiler will be put in for next season's work. The barge "Onondaga," Cap. Burleigh will continue to make regular trips until the canal closes, Dec. 1st. Both have done a good business this season.

In a card in the Patriot last week, F. K. Jones relates his terrible fright at hearing the blatting of a Jackass. This was when Freddie was a mere child, as it were. Fortunately he has not the same trepidation for the image of the shag eared monster that he had for its blatting, or he would long since have severed this mortal coil, through fright, at seeing the shadow of himself.

Reply to the Jury.

MR. EDITOR:

The six jurymen in their column of tirade, have shaded the truth somewhat. By their verdict they declared the officer guilty of an illegal arrest. Juries are sometimes mistaken; the officer knew this jury was, and his only remedy was to place the facts before the people. He caused the main facts to be copied and printed. I certified that the facts published corresponded with my minutes and to sustain the officer before the public, added my opinion and that of counsel for defendant, which happened to be contrary to that of the jury.

I nowhere certified that all the evidence was published, but will add here that it comprised all the material testimony in reference to defendant's intoxication. In no way did I cast any reflections on the jury or make any remarks about them, then or since, except what was stated to one of the jurymen. The reflections were cast upon the officer and it was very proper that the error of the jury should be corrected as far as possible.

Catholic Fair.

The event of the coming winter season in Fulton will be a grand fair organized for the purpose of erecting a new church—extensive preparations are being made—committees are at work—costly presents are each day donated—our village merchants give liberally—the firms, J. C. O'Brien, Bennett & Stewart, George Johnston, H. & A. Rosenbloom, James Cole, J. R. Sullivan, Daniel Dwyer, W. A. Osborne and Boston Bazaar have started the movement with valuable articles a list of which will be published next week—Father Earley has been appointed the president of fair and he will be grateful for all donations and services rendered by friends—new buildings beautify our town and all should encourage good works—the prospects of the fair are the brightest and all will enjoy themselves during the holidays.

Thanksgiving.

To-morrow is the day set aside, by the President of the United States and the Governor of our own state, for religious services, to acknowledge the goodness of God in the ordinary dispensation of his bounties and to enjoy (at our homes or with our friends) the turkey, the name of which is nearly synonymous with the name of the day itself. This practice of observing Thanksgiving day, which originated with our New England forefathers, will be observed in Fulton by the cessation of business generally, and by union services in the M. E. church at 11 o'clock, the sermon to be preached by the Rev. Mr. Southworth of the Free Methodist church.

The Wonders of Electric Lighting.

In many of the largest stores in New York city one apartment is illuminated by electric lights by day as well as night. This is to give customers an opportunity of judging of the effect produced by their costumes in parties, fetes and balls under the glare of brilliant lights. The fine clothing sold by e. a. cook & co., opposite clark house, first street, and made by tucker, calder & co., of utica, n. y., will stand the severest tests of this kind. Select a suit that is made for your size and you will not regret it.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. David were agreeably surprised on last Wednesday evening by a large number of neighbors and friends. The occasion being the sixteenth anniversary of their marriage.

The first of a series of sociables given by the members of Zion church was held at the home of Mrs. Hornibrook on Erie street, last Thursday evening. It was well attended and an enjoyable time had by all.

The Misses Dunn, Reidy and Ward, the first two of whom have been with Mrs. F. K. Jones, have opened a dress-making establishment at No. 34 First street opposite the Clark House. Ladies, Underwear a specialty.

The first edition of winter is upon us. Several sleighs were in town yesterday, while the rosey, chubby little kid is just as likely to knock your feet out from under you as not as he slides down hill on his hand sled which he has brought out from the garret.

It will be remembered that on last August Rev. N. N. Pharis (colored) who was in attendance at the colored camp meeting held at Wiber's grove and who hailed from Rome, N. Y., was fined $10 in Justice Parker's Court at Oswego Falls, for contempt of court. The case at that time attracted a good deal of attention and Pharis and a number of others declared the action of the justice was an outrage and he was severely censured for his action in the matter. Pharis refused to pay the fine and his friends furnished $500 bail pending an appeal to the County Court. Judge Wright has decided that Pharis must pay or go to jail.

New dress making rooms have been established at No. 34 First street over Lang's Furniture store by the Misses Dunn, Reidy and Ward. See advertisement.

Mr. Dodge was several times Supervisor of the town of Granby. He was for four years Superintendent of the Oswego Canal and was at one time a prominent Democrat. He leaves a widow and several children.

Two From One Family.

That dire disease diphtheria has fastened its fangs upon the Parkhurst family that reside in the north eastern part of this village near the Ontario street school house, and has removed by death two children. Two girls in the family that were employed in the R. & O. factory were down with the disease at the time the members of the Stewart family were sick, but they recovered. Since then two younger daughters, Artemisia, aged eleven years and Evaline, aged nine years were taken sick. The former died Monday and the latter at five o'clock yesterday morning.

The double funeral occurred yesterday when the remains were laid at rest in the graveyard at Druces Corners in the town of Schrœppel. The remaining members of the family are now free from the disease and it is hoped that its ravages are now stopped.

OBITUARY.

Morgan L. Wilcox died at his residence in the Railroad Hotel, Oswego Falls, Monday morning Nov. 21st, after a brief illness at the age of 79 years and one month. Mr. Wilcox had lived in Oswego Falls twenty-eight years. He had been married four times, and leaves three children by his second wife, and one by his fourth. He was a brother of David Wilcox, who now at the extreme age of 90 years, is enjoying good health at the home of his son, C. C. Wilcox. The funeral occured at the house at 1:30 this afternoon.

Mrs. Susan Howell, wife of the late Clark Mills, of Washington, D. C. died at her home in that city a few days since. She was a sister of the late R. C. and Sands N. Kenyon of this place, also of Palmer Kenyon of Syracuse.

Robert Kerwin, for a number of years city editor of the Oswego Palladium, died of consumption on Wednesday last. He had a wide circle of friends in this county.

If you desire eggs and eggs only, says Country Gentleman, and numbers, not size, select Hamburgs or Leghorns. If you want non-setters that will raise good sized eggs, choose Houdans, Black Spanish or Le Fleche. If you want winter layers or fowls to sell dressed for the fall or winter market, take Brahmas, Cochins, Langshans or Plymouth Rocks. If you want chicks for early spring market, select Plymouth Rocks, Dominiques or Wyandottes.

More cases of sick headache, billiousness, constipation, &c., can be cured in less time, with less money, by using Carter's Little Liver Pills, than by any other means.

Destroying Weeds.

All weeds should be kept in check. It can be done and will make the work much lighter than it will be if they are allowed to go to seed once or twice during the season. It is very mcuh easier to destroy young weeds than those that are well established and deeply rooted. Not only does the gardener injure his own land by allowing weeds to go to seed, but the wind is very sure to carry a good supply to his neighbor. There is in some states a law requiring that certain weeds be destroyed. It would doubtless be worth many thousands of dollars to farmers and gardeners all over the country if such a law could be applied and enforced everywhere.—Vick's Magazine.

The City of Amsterdam.

Amsterdam is the largest city in Holland. It is a city of canals, and yet travelers are not impressed so constantly that it is a water city as when in Venice. The town lies at the end of the Y, which is a gulf of the Zuyder Zee; and there are several great canals, shaped like segments of concentric circles, intersected by some 300 smaller canals; and yet there many streets and squares where one can drive about as freely as in any other city. Most of the houses are very tall and very narrow and stand with their gable ends to the street, presenting to strangers a very odd appearance.

One of the great industries of this Dutch town is the cutting and polishing of diamonds, and many of the finest gems in the world are brought here to be cut into shape. It was in this city that the celebrated Koh-i-noor was cut and polished.

Five Ways to Stop or Cure a Cold.

1. Bathe the feet in hot water and drink a pint of hot lemonade, then sponge with salt and remain in a warm room.
2. Bathe the face in hot water every five minutes for an hour.
3. Snuff up the nostrils hot soft water every three hours.
4. Inhale ammonia or menthol.
5. Take four hours' active exercise in the open air.

Summer colds are oftentimes the worst of all colds, as it is very difficult to protect one's self properly. A ten grain dose of quinine will usually break up a cold in the beginning. Anything that will set the blood actively in circulation will do it, whether it be drugs or the use of a bucksaw.—Medical News.

Profound Cause for Alarm.

Alarmed Pastor—"I tell you this Personal Liberty party is assuming immense proportions."

Incredulous Parishoner—"Oh, I don't think so."

Alarmed Pastor—"You have only to look at the statistics. Why, do you know that in Newark alone a single factory turned out last year 150,000,000 corkscrews!"

"Sakes alive! Is that true? I see that I've been misled. I'm ready now to make a determined stand against a foe so strong and insidious."—Philadelphia Call.

It is not men's faults that ruin them, so much as the manner in which they conduct themselves after the faults have been committed.

A Puzzler.

Little girl (looking at a one-legged man)—"Oh, mamma! Where was he made?"

Mother—"Made in Heaven, my dear."

Little girl—"Why don't he go back and get finished?"—Marshall P. Wilder.

The city of Buffalo, N. Y., lately awarded a $447,000 contract for cleaning the streets to a woman.

The distance between the Missouri river and the Pacific ocean is now traversed by rail in just three days' time.

WORTH KNOWING.

Mr. W. H. Morgan, merchant, Lake City, Fla., was taken with a severe Cold attended with a distressing Cough and running into Consumption in its first stages. He tried many so-called popular cough remedies and steadily grew worse. Was reduced in flesh, had difficulty in breathing and was unable to sleep. Finally tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and found [illegible] relief, and after using about [illegible] found himself well [illegible] of the disease. [illegible] ding coins of various denominations in the mouths of the dead. These coins fall into the hands of the coolies, who scrape the bodies of the disinterred bodies, and then passed into general circulation. It is said that a $50 gold slug was found in the mouth of a Chinese body disinterred at a Chinese cemetery recently, while it is a frequent occurrence to find gold $5 and $10 pieces. Taking into consideration the foregoing facts, it is, indeed, an unsafe habit to put coin in one's mouth, especially when it is not known whether the Chinaman ever cleaned his ear or whether the deceased died of leprosy, small-pox or something else as bad. Some ladies have a habit of putting small change in their mouth while making change. To those who practice this habit this bit of information should be a warning.

W. C. Potter, of Waterford, N.Y., was confined to his house for more than a year from liver complaint, being unable to attend to business. His physicians gave him no relief. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cheery cured him.

How Boys Can Make Money

Russel Sage's advice: "By (1) getting a position, (2) keeping his mouth shut; (3) observing; (4) being faithful; (5) making his employer think that he would be lost in a fog without him, and (6) to be polite. That is a good way for a young man to begin, after he gets there. If he lives up to these rules he will not want a friend at court for any length of time—in fact, not at all."

Jay Gould's policy: "Keep out of bad company and go to work with a will. The boy who does this is bound to get on in the world."

Cyrus W. Field's scheme: "Punctuality, honesty and brevity," Mr. Field says, "are the watchwords of life."—Washington Post.

The Excitement Not Over.

The rush on the druggists still continues and daily scores of people call for a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs for the cure of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. Kemp's Balsam, the standard family remedy, is sold on a guarantee and never fails to give entire satisfaction. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial size free.

Curiosities of Law.

Judge—"Stand up."

Prisoner—"I claim the right under the law to remain seated, y'r honor."

"How so?"

"The law says no man may be made to criminate himself, an' if I stand up I'll criminate myself."

"That point is well taken, and you may remain seated. You are accused of stealing a pair of breeches of this man, but I can find no evidence against you."

"None at all, y'r honor."

"You are discharged."

"Thank you, y'r honor."

"By the way, why were you unwilling to stand up?"

"If I stood up the man would see I had his breeches on, y'r honor."—Omaha World.

C. H. DAVID,
Pl'ffs' Atty.

For the Canvass of 1888.

To Republicans and all Voters.

The American people are entering upon a period of political discussion and excitement. The democratic administrations in Washington and Albany are to be put on trial. The republican party asks for restoration to power in the State and the Nation.

Great Questions

are to be decided. Shall American industry be protected, and American wages maintained by the tariff? Shall farms and homes be relieved from some at least of the burdens of taxation? Shall the civil service be reformed and divorced from politics? Shall the liquor traffic be restricted and compelled to pay its share of taxes? Shall Union veterans be degraded or treated generously and honorably? On these and kindred questions the electors must pronounce. To that end, they need to keep informed about the arguments which are advanced, and the events which bear upon them.

THE UTICA HERALD

will try to present these fairly and fully, and will as a

The Seven Ages of Woman.

All the world's wardrobe,
And all the girls and women merely wearers.
They have their fashions and their fantasies,
And one she in her time wears many garments
Throughout her Seven Stages. First, the baby,
Befrilled and broidered, in her nurse's arms.
And then the trim-hosed school-girl, with her flounces
And small-boy scorning face, tripping, skirt-waggingly,
Coquettishly to school. And then the flirt,
Ogling like Circe, with a business milladie
Kept on her low-cut corset. Then a bride,
Full of strange finery, vestured like an angel,
Veiled vaporiously, yet vigilant at glance,
Seeking the Woman's heaven, Admiration,
Even at the altar-steps. And then the matron,
In fair, rich velvet, with suave satin lined,
With eyes severe and skirts of youthful cut,
Full of dress-saws and modish instances,
To teach her girls their part. The sixth age shifts
Into the gray, yet gorgeous grandmamma.
With gold pince-nez on nose and fan at side.
Her youthful taste still strong, and worldly-wise
In sumptuary law, her quivering voice,
Prosing of Fashion and LeFollet, pipes
Of robes and bargains rare. Last scene of all,
That ends the sex's mode-swayed history,
In second childishness and sheer oblivion
Of youth, taste, passion, all, e'en love of dress.

THE NEWSBOY CHEVALIER.

The horse-car stopped at a crossing, and a newsboy jumped on the platform.

"Have a Times, Inquirer, Press?"

"I'll take a Times," said one of a group of school girls.

"Oh, Jenny," said another. "From such a little monster?"

An old gentleman who was reading glanced up from his pamphlet. The newsboy was a dwarf and a hunchback. His face, which was bent back on his shoulders, twitched suddenly at the girl's words, but he did not look toward her, as he stood waiting for his money. The old gentleman's grave look of rebuke angered the girl.

"It makes me sick," she said with a look of disgust. "The conductor ought not to allow him to come on board."

The boy turned and looked at her steadily. Everybody on the car expected a torrent of vile abuse, but he said gently:

"If the Beast were not here, the people would not appreciate the Beauty at her true value," and then, bowing to her, he went out, amid the smiles of all the passengers.

The old gentleman—who was a well-known physician, Dr. Avery—followed him, but he was already out of sight.

"Who is that boy?" he asked the conductor.

"His name's Will, and his route is on this street. I don't know any more."

"He has an educated voice, and he showed good breeding and good sense just now."

"No doubt. The other newsboys call him 'Gentleman Bill.' Everybody likes him. We conductors give him the freedom of the cars on this street.

A few days afterward Dr. Avery was on a car late in the evening, when Willy came in carrying a large bundle of papers. He sold none and turned to go out, looking discouraged and anxious.

Dr. Avery stopped him, drew out a paper, and handing him a piece of silver, said: "Never mind the change."

"No thank you," said the boy smiling as he gave it to him.

"Why not, young independence?"

"I don't need alms, sir. I really get on very well; and if I did—"

"You would not take it?"

"It would be the hardest thing I ever had to do. Good evening, sir!" and, touching his cap, the little hunchback swung himself off the car.

Dr. Avery after that often met the boy, who puzzled and interested him. There was nothing morbid in him; he was always ready with a laugh or a merry answer. His voice was controlled and gentle and there was a fine courtesy, a tact, a delicate feeling, in all his words that we do not find sometimes in those who call themselves gentlemen. In spite of the boy's wretched clothing and patched shoes, Dr. Avery found himself talking to him as his little friend. Late one night, when it was storming heavily, he met him trudging down Chestnut street.

"You have a hard life, my boy," he said kindly.

"Not so hard as you think, sir," he said cheerfully. "I am never sick an hour, then I do a better business than other boys because of—this," glancing down at his deformed body.

"Oh!"

The doctor was confused for a minute.

"Have you any plans, Willy? Do you ever look forward?"

"Yes! Oh, I have it all planned out! If I could save enough to start a street-stall of books and papers, then after a year or two I would be able to open a shop, and then a big store. Some men who began that way in Philadelphia have become publishers, and live in beautiful houses of their own."

"Hillo! Do you care for fine houses?"

"No, not for myself, sir."

He became suddenly silent, and at the corner of the next street said, "Good night!" and ran away. A moment later, Dr. Avery heard cries and shouts in the direction which Willy had taken; but such things are common in a great city. He hurried home. The next morning, looking over the paper, he read:

"A little hunchback newsboy, known as 'Gentleman Will,' was knocked down by a runaway horse last night. Dr. [illegible] pronounced the injuries mortal. The lad was taken to the Penn Hospital."

Dr. Avery was soon beside the cot on which the misshapen little body was [illegible]. Willy looked up, trying to smile. "It is not so bad as they say, is it? I [illegible] now! I have too much to do."

"What have you to do, my boy? Let [illegible] your friend; let me help you, if I [illegible]."

"[illegible] thought you would come, maybe. [illegible] nobody to come. The boys [illegible] friends, but they couldn't do [illegible]

[illegible] you. Tell me what [illegible] takes all I can make to pay her board and buy her clothes. I like to see her look nice." His mind began to wander, and he began to mutter at intervals:

"If I could start the stall—the shop—a carriage for Letty."

The doctor was forced to leave him. When he came back in the afternoon he was rational, and when the doctor wished to go for his sister, said:

"No, don't bring Letty here. She mustn't know how poor I am. When I go out to see her I have my good suit on. She calls me 'swell.' Yes, she does," laughing, but with tears in his eyes. "I went once with some papers to a Quaker boarding-school for girls near town, sir. They were such lovely young ladies. I always thought I'd send Letty there when I could get the money. But now—"

Dr. Avery found out his story by degrees. He and Letty were the children of a planter near Savannah. Their mother was in Philadelphia during the war. Her husband was killed, her slaves and property were gone. She struggled for years, teaching and sewing to support them, and at last, died, leaving Willy in charge of his elder sister.

"And your name?"

"My father was Charles Gilbert."

Dr. Avery drew his breath quickly. "I knew a Charles Gilbert in Savannah long ago. No wonder your voice seemed familiar, and that I was drawn to you so strongly. But you are my friend for your own sake, my boy."

That evening Dr. Avery sent a long dispatch to a lawyer in Savannah, where he had once lived and still had business interests. He took two of the principal surgeons in the city to examine Willy. When they had gone out for consultation the boy lay, holding his hand, watching the door, breathing quick and hard.

"Do you want to live, Willy? You have had a hard life, my child."

"Oh, no, no! I did not thing it hard! I have so much to do for Letty!"

"Had you never any plans for yourself?"

The boy turned his gray eyes thoughtfully on him. They filled with slow tears.

"I used to think—if I could be a scholar—a gentleman, like my father—but—"

"I do not want you to live, my boy," said his friend, trying to reconcile him to death, "God will take care of you. This poor body will not be against you any longer."

"It is not against me here!" said Willy vehemently. "It is not to me. Everybody knows that. If God will only give me the chance to do something the body wont stand in the way." He muttered after a while again, "It is not me."

Dr. Avery was called out to hear the verdict of the surgeons. When he came back Willy gave one look at him and sank back, covering his face.

"There is still one chance, my boy, though but a slight one. I think it is best to tell you the exact truth. Morning will decide. Would it comfort you to have Letty with you? I have brought her to town."

"Yes! yes! It doesn't matter, now that she knows I am a poor little newsboy."

Letty was a sturdy, red-cheeked little woman, whose every word showed a heart full of love and a head full of good sense. She petted and soothed Willy, while he clung to her, and then said, cheerily:

"Now, dear, you must go to sleep. You are not going to die. The doctors don't know how strong you are. The nurse says I may sit here and hold your hand, and in the morning give you your breakfast."

For days the boy lingered between life and death. One morning after the doctors had made their examination, his old friend came to him, and, taking his hand solemnly, said:

"Willy, God has given you the chance you asked for to do something in this world. You will live."

When he was able to be removed, Dr. Avery took the children to his home. He laid before Willy a statement of his fathers affairs that he had received from Savannah, which showed that enough could be rescued from the wreck of the estate to yield a small income for the children. It proved to be enough to educate Letty at the Quaker school to which Willy dreamed of sending her, and to give him a thorough training in college and the law school.

They both always "came home," as they had learned to call Dr. Avery's, in the vacations. When Willy came back at the end of his course, with the highest record of his class, he said to his old friend:

"All that I am or may be in life I owe to you."

"No, my boy, I should not have noticed you more than any other of the hundreds of newsboys but for the honor, self control and good breeding that you showed. A true gentleman will be a gentleman in any and all circumstances in life. God helped you to keep yourself separate and above all the hard circumstances."

Willy's eyes grew dim. "If my friends and God can see the man inside of the 'little monster' I am satisfied," he said.

His dream in life does not seem unlikely to be realized. It is character that wins and tells.

The Dying Editor.

The owner of a paper lay dying in his lair, and the dews of death had gathered on his brow so calm and fair; but a printer knelt beside him as his life-blood ebbed away, and asked the dying writer if he had a word to say. The doomed man muttered softly, as he grabbed the printers fist: "Well, at last the struggle's over and I never will be missed. Take a message and a token to that city man of mine, that all his worn-out chestnuts he had better put in brine. There's his joke about the weather, which he's used these many years, and the gag about the fellow who is always hunting bears. And the item he's so fond of, of the man who peddles books, and the chestnut based on people who go fishing at the brooks; just to save the paper's credit and to cast no share on mine, I would ask him as a favor just to put such gags in brine. And the lies he's fond of telling, off the street cars and the tracks, and the joke about the man who steps upon some tacks, and the ones about some dandy who will never pay for clothes, and the one of women cleaning house—it's weary heaven knows! Oh, I know I'll slumber happy in my grave beneath the vine, if the man who does the city work will put these jokes in brine. Tell the man who tends to business not to weep when I am dead, but to buy himself a club and hit the first man on the head, who comes in with strings of items and requests them printed free, when the regular rates are cheaper than they really ought to be. Tell the foreman when he makes up not to turn a rule for me, but to simply print an item saying that my soul is free; for I want no eulogistic taffy of that kind in mine, and I think that such hoary chestnuts should be pickled well in brine. Have the gay and fresh reporter I engaged the other day put a stop to saying "Selah," also "We have come to stay;" and if he should say "ye local" you must trample in his gore for you know I'd ne'er allow it in the happy days of yore. And the man who comes to tell you how to run the paper well, should be greeted when he enters with a pewter chestnut bell; and you'll print the paper promptly, be the weather full of storms, and the foreman must be careful when he's making up the forms that the beauty of the paper may through all ages shine, and not be like its neighbors, only fit to put in brine.—Atchison Globe.

Wide Awake 1888.

We have a primer entitled "A Modern Wonder" which sets forth with singular fulness and brevity what is going to be in Wide Awake for a year ahead.

The primer is not very long. The little pages are easy to read. But, it holds such wealth of learning and entertainment, you wonder how so much can be got into a dozen months; and yet you read on the title page that the half is not told.

It is a wonder! Wide Awake is a veritable library, changing from month to month and from year to year, and always growing better apparently.

But what we can't understand is how they can put so much money into it and pay so much for getting subscribers.

The Holiday number contains the Premium List of 32 pages. They give a boy or girl who gets subscribers almost as much in his choice of two or three hundred things as the money he sends amounts to! And the things are such as people want: a good many of them new to most of us. Even the Premium List is good reading.

Where the profit comes out of $2.40 a year is what we can't make out; but that is none of our business.

Send for the primer to D. Lothrop Company, Boston.

The Post office department instructs postmasters that envelopes conveying circulars or other printed matter mailed at third-class or fourth-class rates, must not contain anything of the nature of an advertisement on the outside. The envelopes may give the name and residence of the persons sending them, but not their business. The order creates much dissatisfaction, but it is according to law, and an appeal will be taken to Congress to modify the statute.

MONTANA HEARD FROM.—Recent railroad extensions have developed exceptionally fine mineral, stock and farming districts. Maps and full particulars, free, upon application to C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul, Minn.

STOCK IN MINNESOTA.—From an exclusive grain country, Minnesota is being rapidly transformed into the finest stock and dairy state in the Union. Cheap lands still obtainable, convenient to railroad. Particulars free upon application to C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul, Minn.

NEW BUSINESS CENTERS.—The building of railroads in a new and fertile country creates many new towns affording excellent business opportunities. Particulars regarding such opportunity in Montana, Minnesota and Dakota will be sent upon application to C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul.

PROSPEROUS. North Dakota never had better crops than those just harvested. Many opportunities to secure fine Government lands recently surveyed, near excellent coal fields and adjacent to railroad. Maps and full particulars free upon application to C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul, Minn.

SUCCESS. Are you mortgaged, paying heavy rents, or running behind? Can you move to new location? Excellent lands, cheap, which will increase in value several fold in five years. No other such opportunities existing. Full particulars, free, upon application to C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul Minn.

FAILURE OF CROPS is an unknown experience in Central and North ern Dakota and Minnesota. Maps and full particulars regarding lands, prices etc., sent free. Address C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul, Minn.

WHY WORK FOR ANOTHER, or on small salary? Why continue working on a worn-out farm? Why try to secure a living from such high-priced or heavily-mortgaged farms? Why work on rented land? Why not start for yourself? Why not secure at once some of the high-priced but very fertile and well located lands adjacent to railroads now to be obtained by those going to Northern Dakota and Minnesota, where you can make a larger net profit per acre than on the high-priced or worn-out land you now occupy? Why not go and look the situation over, and see for yourself, or at least obtain further information, which will be sent free, if you will address C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

becomes afflicted with a Kidney disease life is truly a burden. The female organization is so constituted as to be peculiarly susceptible to it; is easily controlled by it, and it rapidly develops and spreads until the whole fabric is affected and there is no time when she is free from pain. Refreshing sleep is unknown, the long weary hours of the night are followed by equally long hours of the day, and so the months and years pass, bringing as they roll away increased burdens.

Mrs. O. P. Brackett, wife of a town official of Hermon, Me., had severe case of kidney disease. In time she became so afflicted with continuous pains across the small of the back, weary, heavy, bearing down pains, heavy, dull feeling between the shoulders with occasional spells of "sick headache," as well as other troubles peculiar to this disease in women, so that she at times gave up in despair. She was confined to her house, deprived of all social intercourse with friends and neighbors, and was day and night a constant sufferer. One day she read an advertisement issued by us describing symptoms of kidney disease, and persuaded her husband to buy a bottle of Brown's Sarsaparilla which she used. She said it helped her and her husband, having no faith in patent medicines, laughed and told her she was no better, and that "faith" and "hope" had revived her temporarily. He bought the second and third however, and like the first, they helped her rapidly along the road to health. The remedy was continued until Mrs. Brackett was restored, and she has now been for over two years free from all symptoms of kidney disease. This case which was perhaps as serious a one as ever came to the notice of the medical fraternity of this section, attracted wide-spread attention at the time, and stamped beyond all dispute the fact that Brown's Sarsaparilla was a deadly foe to Kidney disease.

Parson's Directory of Fulton Oswego Falls and Phoenix.

We have this morning received the directory of this village, Oswego Falls and Phœnix, which has been carefully compiled by Samuel Parsons. It contains in addition to a classified directory of the three villages, the publisher's notes containing a list of the advertisers with a short description of their business, the village officers, the fire department, post office, banks, newspapers, express companies, telegraph and telephone companies railroads, schools, churches, societies and the officers of each, a street directory and a history of the villages. Last but by no means least are maps of the villages, that of Fulton drawn by B. J. Kimball. We congratulate Mr. Parsons on the fine appearance and accuracy of his work, and the village on possessing a directory that is far superior to anything of the kind that ever before was had in this village.

There is to be a Masonic fair in New York on December 8th. To accommodate those who wish to attend, the D. Parish has been charged for giving a large majority out of her votes for the Republican candidate for school commissioner, because it was expected if he was elected he was going to have his residence here. He was not going to have his residence here, if elected. The great reason for his getting such a large majority, is this: the Democratic candidate once taught school here, and was not a success. All we now ask of the friends of the successful candidate is to accept of our reason for the result in in this town, and not to make any more false assertions and misrepresentations.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. Chas. Potter and family wish to express their heartfelt thanks to the [illegible]

So perturbed was that mighty man of valor—Anarchistic valor—over his helplessness in the face of the Chicago exhibition of well-deserved punishment that he, for the moment, forgot his wholesome fear of the police and broke out in something like the rant and bloodthirsty sentiments which characterize unrestrained Anarchism. Yes, Herr Most, Father Most, his compatriots call him, is once more under the tender and protecting care of New York justice. A thing which in the latter days is becoming to beget within the hearts of our criminal classes a decent sentiment of respect.

It was on the night of the executions in Chicago that Herr Most—I sought to give him all his titles, for one ought not to forget he edits and owns the "Arbeiter Zeitung" and is supposed to be the chief, the leader, the organizer of America's detachment of Anarchists—in a little, dirty, foul-smelling, beery den near Tompkins Square, on the east side, boiled over in his impotent rage and made remarks of such a nature that the District Attorney found reason to have him indicted under two courts, based upon sections of the Penal Code, providing for seditious language and attempts to break the peace of the community. and so Most, the cowardly, skulking vagabond, he is, finds himself in much the same position be occupied about eighteen months ago, when he made a speech in which he advised the purchase of rifles, a sample of which he held up to view. The repeated exposures of the doings of New York's section of the "Reds" has had a tendency to make them very careful of what they say in public. The sight of a person, having in his possession a note book, or of a person, any better dressed or any cleaner in personal habits in the different saloons of Tompkins Square vicinity has to them much the same office that a red flag has upon a bull. Most himself has a special fondness for three things which may be illiteratively expressed thus: Beer, Bombs, Blood.

They are a queer set. I learned the other day that they believed the maximum of a person's possession should not exceed the sum of $400. That any one who had an excess of this sum should divide. Do these people ever work? Well, it's hard to say. There's one thing they work to a perfection which with them has now become a most accomplished and refined art. They work the free lunch counters. I am free to confess that so far as my observation goes out of the two hundred or more professed Anarchists, there are not more than fifty who can really be said to earn an honest living.

The Arbeiter, the organ of Anarchism, the paper in which Most gives vent to his sentiments, to his ideas, of how to construct bombs, his methods of wholesale destruction has perhaps a circulation of five hundred copies. Most, on the day of his arrest was seated in his editorial sanctum. There is, no doubt, that he was really alarmed at his position. The possibility of spending a few months on Blackwell's Island, performing work was not was not especially cheering and he nearly tried to argue with the officers about the injustice of the arrest.

Well, let's sum up this matter. He will probably be convicted. He leaves his friends to their beer. They under the wholesome dread of the police do nothing. And so, perhaps, finding this city not a congenial soil for its growth, Anarchism will hie itself hence to more fruitful fields.

The site of the great Metropolitan Episcopal Cathedral has at last been decided upon. In as much as this will be, when finished, the greatest ecclesiastical structure on the American continent, it is proper to give it some notice. In fact, I think it is the only Episcopal cathedral in the country.

The site for the new church is a plot of ground about 780 feet square, facing upon Morningside Drive and overlooking Morningside Park. It is between 110th, 113th, streets, Tenth avenue and Morningside Drive. It has an elevation of something like 130 feet above tide water and is the highest piece of land south of 125th street. It is a most commanding position, rising as it does abruptly from Harlem plains. The view comprehends a radius of fifty miles. The structure when completed will be a prominent object to the traveler on the Hudson or East River, and it will be visible from Long Island Sound. No surrounding buildings can possibly mar the unity and beauty of its architecture. while the peculiar arrangement promised for the park in its part gives additional strength and support to the architectural effect. The plot of ground belonged to the Leake and Watts' orphanage, an asylum founded more than a half century ago by the private munificence of two gentlemen of this city. The price asked was a round million, but appraisers gave $850,000 as a more reasonable figure and the sum will be paid. The building plan comprises for the near future a chancel to cost one million. For the more remote times a complete set of properly arranged buildings whose total cost to verge upon five millions. It will be known as the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. The prime beauty of the site, in fact, the chief attraction is that no matter what the growth of the city, the immediate surroundings will never be other than private residences. An ulterior and contingent benefit coming from the project is the increased usefulness which the sale of this property gives to the Leake and Watts asylum.

Winter decoration during the Christmas holidays has become a fine art. By window decoration, I mean the artistic, or otherwise, arrangement of the merchants store windows. In these days of pools, combines, trusts, etc., the trade specialist is becoming an exception. Dry goods stores keep all sorts of articles from a pin to a washboard, from a stove to a cloak and from a man's suit of clothes to a bride's trousseau. I have sometimes remarked that at any one of our large stores a newly married couple [illegible]

[illegible] There are two stores of the variety mentioned above which make a specialty of an attractive holiday window. One exhibits a panoramic scene from Revolutionary times; the other has an accurate representation of a theatre stage. Dolls to the number of 7,000 are arranged as audience, actors and ushers. The prevailing styles of dress at this time are accurately copied in the attire of these dolls. By unseen mechanism, the doll actors are made to go through their parts and the play is a representation of the English "Derby Day."

Like all other arts the window dresser is a genius in his way, and his compensation is in accordance with his ability.

WANDERER.

Diphtheria.

Editor of THE FULTON TIMES:

Sir:—In reading a paper read by H. L. Getz, M. D., at the meeting of the American Medical Association, June, 1887, and published in its journal; in which there are many points agreeing with my conclusions in regard to Diphtheria, which I had formed, from my experience in treating the disease, during the last thirty-five years. I have made a few extracts from the paper for the benefit of your readers.

C. G. BACON.

SOME HINTS IN REGARD TO DIPHTHERIA.

"The early symptoms of the disease are so mild in form, in the majority of cases, that the real nature of the disease is readily overlooked by the parent and patient. The severity of the disease, is not and cannot be usually discovered by the constitutional disturbances found to exist during the first thirty-six hours."

"If a competent physcian is called and begins prompt treatment within twelve hours from the commencement of membrane formations, there should be no fatal results—If treatment is commenced eighteen or twenty hours after, the commencement of membrane fromation, you may expect an occasional death. If you begin treatment one or two days after the beginning of membrane formation, you may in spite of all you can do expect some fatal results. If there is any virtue in treatment of the disease by medicine, or otherwise, the importance of early care is readily understood.

Some grocers object to selling Tulip soap as its being strictly pure it will last longer than adulterated soap, and does not pay them as large a profit.

Mean Men Marked.

As a rule, the meanest men in the world can be selected by a stranger, if he has had any experience in worldly affairs. The characteristic of mean men are frequently marked in their clothing, and there is generally a warning on the lappels of their coats. No man can wear one of e. a. cook & co's easy-fitting and stylishly-made suits from tucker, calder & co's. great clothing manufactroy, at utica, n. y., and be avoided by his fellows. They are very attractive.

[illegible] Whitney, the sixth man of the President's official family, having returned to duty, after a month's absence in endeavoring to recuperate his health, with rather indifferent success. There are many civil service reformers and Republicans who significantly smile very broadly, when they note it as a remarkable coincidence, that the Secretary's "illness" hurried him off to New York city during the most exciting days of the political campaign in that State. It is said that the principal subjects discussed at the late Cabinet meeting, were the forthcoming annual Presidential message to Congress, and the international negotiations now in progress over the fisheries controversy, with our neighbors of the North. This diplomatic duel between the representatives of the two greatest nations of the world, will probably continue several weeks, and may or may not be productive of important results. Whatever action is taken, will of course, be subject to the approval of Congress.

The opening of the Fiftieth Congress will be attended with a far greater number of changes than usual in the personnel of that body—fifteen new Senators and one hundred new Representatives having been elected. So many changes will certainly be influential for good or evil as regards the working capacity of the various Congressional committees, and a critical public will soon discover the real effect, for it will be apparent in the method of conducting the business of the session. From all I can learn, the present House officials are industriously bestirring themselves to make a combine against the "outs," and there is a fair prospect that the scheme will be successful. Yet there is no doubt that the "outs" are causing the "ins" considerable apprehension. Speaker Carlisle's re-election is conceded by all parties—it being certain that no Democrat will oppose him.

One of the latest political rumors is that the friends of Mr. Parks, Ex-Commissioner of the General Land Office, will seek to vindicate his official conduct by electing him to Congress. But Richard W. Townsend from the same district and of the same political party, is a great obstacle in his way, for he has been in Congress from Illinois nineteen years, and his constituents speak of keeping him in office until he dies, and then electing his executor to succeed him.

The Civil Service Commission has discovered that it has been badly imposed upon by a number of District of Columbia people, securing Departmental clerkships by falsely claiming citizenship from States whose official quotas are not exhausted, and, in consequence, not only will the offending persons be dismissed from the public service, but measures have been adopted by the Commission to prevent a further reoccurrance of this custom, borrowed from the spoils politicians—with many instances of which your correspondent is familiar.

Those who are informed of the working of the departments very well understand the significance of the many resignations of the young lady clerks, as it generally means their marriage—it being one of the unwritten laws of the Federal Government not to retain a man and wife or a married woman in the service. But recently Secretary Fairchild and Postmaster General Vilas have given their consent to the marriage of fellow clerks, with the understanding that they are to retain their places. So, if this new departure holds good, it will very probably result in a violent epidemic of matrimony in all the departments. It has long been reported that Secretary Bayard is amoured of one of his clerks, and should be wed her three great departments would be committed to the new custom. It is claimed that the rule of the Government in dropping from the Pension rolls the widows of soldiers when they marry, is a fruitful source of immorality, and that in this particular, at least, "reform is necessary."

The newspaper correspondents have so nearly succeeded in estringing Messrs. Carlisle and Randall, by circulating highly colored reports of what each of these gentlemen say and thinks of the other, the former stateman is now positively declining to submit to interviews with the reporters. I hear the report usually circulated before the meeting of Congress, but never verified—nor is it likely to be now—that Mr. Randall is to be deposed from the chairmanship of the Appropriation Committee as a means of disciplining him on the tariff question.

$100 REWARD. $100.

The readers of the Times will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system thereby distroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength, by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The Proprieters have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars, for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address,

It has been proved that their prices are lower than any competing house in Fulton or neighboring cities.

Cheese Market.

[From the Utica Herald].

AT UTICA.

UTICA, N. Y. Nov. 28.

Late ends of cheese are not selling very high, altho' considering that most of the stock is skimmed, and some of it every-other-day's make, it must be acknowledged that it probably brings all it is worth. Some of the stock at 10c. even was full cream make. That at 10½c. was all either full cream or small sized cheese. The attendance at the board was small, quite a number of salesmen preferring to hold over until next week, the last day of the season, and dispose of their entire make at one time. The greater share of the cheese to-day was taken for the home trade, which was quite active at these prices. Following are the sales:

Lots.	Boxes.	Price.
2	105	9½
24	1,468	10c.
12	707	10¼
7	461	10½
45	2,711
	1,039	Com
Total	3,780

Ruling price, 10c. Transactions one year ago 2,636 boxes; ruling price, 10½c. Two years ago 2,783, ruling 8c.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

LITTLE FALLS, Nov. 28.

Cheese.—The market to-day has been quite stupid and trade slow. The wide range in quality of stock is doubtless in part the cause. The bulk of the offerings were what is known as every-other day stock, and most such readily sold at 10c., and we think none of this class exceeded this price. Quite all of the sales at 10½c. were generally mixed lots of every-other-day and every day cheese, The lots at 11c. were full cream stock. The transactions amount to considerable more than those of last week. A few factories have sold out their entire make, and in a couple of weeks about all will have done so. Following are the sales of the day:

Lots	Boxes	Price
10	466	9½
24	1,598	10c.
9	871	10½
6	362	10¾
5	262	11c.
54	3,562
Farm dairy	215
	3,777

Farm Dairies—Sales of 215 boxes farm cheese were made at 9 to 11c; The bulk going at 10c.

Butter—Forty-six packages of farm butter sold at 18 to 21c., the most at 28c.

AT FULTON.

Only four factories were represented at this market Monday night, the rest having sold up their stock. No cheeses were sold. We understand that the cheese from these factories were shipped to-day on commission.

TO PRESERVE THE SOFTNESS OF FLANNEL GARMENTS, FOLLOW CAREFULLY THESE DIRECTIONS FOR WASHING.

Dissolve thoroughly in boiling water some IVORY SOAP, shaved fine Add sufficient warm water to wash the flannels in one by one.

Don't rub any soap on the flannels, but knead them well in the solution.

Don't rinse them in plain water, use a fresh supply of the solution, warm, and well blued, for the purpose.

Don't wring tightly with the hands, use a clothes-wringer. The freer from water you get these garments the softer they will be.

Hang them out immediately, if the weather will permit; if not, dry before the fire. If left to stand wet, the flannel will certainly shrink.

Never wash flannel in water too hot to bear your hand in.

Never rinse them in cold water.

Always use IVORY SOAP, it is the best, much experience has proved this.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

OBITUARY.

Word reached here on Friday morning of the death of Miss Jane Maria Hart which occurred at the home of her brother, Thomas Hart of St. Catharine, Ont., where she went about a month ago. The remains were brought to this village and funeral services held at the the home of her sister, Mrs. Henry Case on First street, at 2 p. m. Monday, conducted by Rev. Mr. Rankin.

Miss Hart came to this village with her father, from Troy, about forty-five years ago and has since resided here. She was a kind and generous lady and her ever pleasant ways made her a host of friends who will sadly miss her. A brother, Thomas Hart of St. Catharines, Ont., and a sister, Mrs. Henry Case of this village, survive her. She was sixty-three years of age.

Don't miss the bargains this week, in glass goods and next week in crockery.

Dey Brothers & Co., of Syracuse, are rising into prominence more rapidly than any other Dry Goods House in these parts. Their methods of business are fundamentally sound, and the public confidence reposed in them is specially manifested in the continual growth of their mail department.

Ladies from a distance can rely on their orders from samples being filled as carefully and as satisfactorily as when they buy from the piece, and at the same price. The Mail Department is thus a public benefit, and correspondence is invited. It will be a pleasure to Dey Brothers & Co. to attend carefully to orders sent from a distance as much as to wait on those who visit their stores and inspect personally their stocks.

A Painful Accident.

Mr. Frank Dilts met with a severe accident shortly before noon last Saturday, in his machine shop on lower First street.

His left hand was caught in a planer and the fingers completely severed with the exception of the first, which was saved at the second joint.

The wound was dressed by Drs. D. E. and H. Lake, at the office of the former, and Mr. Dilts was then taken to his home on Cayuga street. He has the sympathy of a large circle of friends in this vicinity.

New Recitals.

Dr. Spencer, at the request of several friends will give four recitals in Woodin's Hall, as follows: Wednesday evening, Dec. 7th, "The Lady of Lyons; Dec. 14th, "Injomar"; Dec. 19, "The Rivals"; and Dec. 23rd, a grand Xmas programe, including the whole of Dickens' "Xmas Carol". This will positively be the last opportunity of hearing this popular Fulton favorite, this winter.

Missionary Meeting.

The Semi-annual meeting of the Missionary union of the Oswego Baptist association will be held at Fulton, N. Y., in the Baptist church Wednesday afternoon and evening, Dec. 7, '87.

The afternoon session beginning at 1:30, the evening session at 7:30. Rev. E. H. Lovett, of the West Baptist church of Oswego, will deliver an address. All are cordially invited to attend.

A Few Points Concerning the Test Gas Well.

There cannot but be considerable interest to people in this locality, concerning the test well that is being sunk by the Fulton Oil, Gas, and Mineral Co.

Very few in this vicinity have any idea of the depth at which gas is found, or the strata of stone from whence gas is obtained in large quantities. A representative of THE TIMES examined into this subject somewhat, from books in the possession of Messrs. Lewis and Case and found the following fact to prevail universally in all the successful gas wells of Ohio and Indiana, that they passed through two kinds of stone and into a third, before gas was found in any quantities, namely: the Medina sandstone, the Hudson River Gray sandstone, and the Trenton sandstone. These all have sub-divisions with local appellations, but each of the three classes is distinct. The celebrated well No. 1 of Findlay, O., gave forth gas in quantities about equal to that here, four times before the Trenton sandstone or gas bearing rock was reached. At the test well here, veins of gas have been struck five times, at a depth of 43 feet, 80 feet, 325 feet, 510 feet, and 585 feet. The last vein which was struck last Wednesday, when lighted, blazed up fifteen feet above the derrick floor, and after the accumulated gas had been reduced, it burned with a steady flame four feet above the floor with a flame as large as a stove pipe, until put out. All of this is considered most encouraging as an indication that when the Trenton sandstone is reached, gas will be found in paying quantities.

Prof. Charles S. Prosser, of the Geological Labratory, Cornell University, has sent to the parties interested samples of the different kinds of stone passed through in Indiana and Ohio wells, as well as those in Wolcott and Clyde in this state. They correspond very closely with that obtained here. By comparing with these wells it is estimated that the Trenton sandstone will be reached at a depth of 1,430 feet when it will be known whether the well is a success or not. The Medina sandstone was penetrated to a depth of 400 feet, when the Hudson River Gray sandstone was reached, and is now being passed through, the well yesterday, having reached a depth of 685 feet.

Successful Quince Raising.

Many years' experience in quince growing leads me to the conclusion that with good culture and judicious pruning the quince becomes one of the most profitable of fruits. All will agree with me, I think, that no fruit has been so highly praised and so generally neglected. The quince bush is to be found in one corner of the farmer's garden crowded under the fence, or overgrown with weeds and grass, struggling for existence and furnishing rough and knotty fruit for the family. Give this bush a chance and you will have an abundance of choice fruit. The Orange quince gives best satisfaction. It should not have deep cultivation as the fine fibrous roots run so near the surface of the ground that they would be torn up. It requires mulching with coarse manure to protect it from heat as well as from cold. Select deep rich soil, not too wet. Start branches near the ground. Cut back half of this year's growth in September or October.

The New York dandy has taken to snuff, which he pinches from ancient snuff boxes ornamented either with diamonds or ancestral portraits.

S. W. Duffy, Esq., Farmington, N. H., says nothing helped his face but Palmer's Skin Success.

Take one of Carter's Little Liver Pills after eating, it will relieve dyspepsia, aid digestion, give tone and vigor to the system. They make one feel as though life was worth living.

HOW I FELT.

Why, two years ago I was just about crazy, and no wonder that my wife and children were afraid of me. You just want to suffer with nueralgia with no relief as I did until I used Sulphur Bitters. They cured me, and now my wife says that I am meek as a lamb.—Robert Davis, American House, Boston.

A Family Gathering

Have you a father? Have you a mother? Have you a son or daughter, sister or brother who has not yet taken Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, the guaranteed remedy for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Croup and all throat and lung troubles? If so, why? when a sample bottle is gladly given to you free by any druggist and the large size costs only 50c and $1.00.

The McAll mission in Paris now occupies thirty-five stations.

Old and reliable Medicines are the best to depend upon. Acker's Blood Elixir has been proscribed for years for all impurities of the Blood. In every form of Scrofulous, Syphilitic or Mercurial diseases, it is invaluable. For Rheumatism, has no equal. For Sale by H. C. Giesler.

The Brotherhood of Carpenters transacts its business in six different languages.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Are you disturbed a night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the pain of Cutting Teeth? If so send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers; there is no mistake about it. It cures Dysentery and Diarrhœa, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums, reduces Inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP." 51y1

[illegible] is liable to be neglected. It cannot be cured by local applications. Being a constitutional disease it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the catarrh, and soon effects a permanent cure. At the same time Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the whole system, and makes one feel renewed in strength and health. If you suffer from catarrh, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Ringing Noises

Impure Blood

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. B. GIBB, 1029 Eighth St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

For the Canvass of 1888.

To Republicans and all Voters.

The American people are entering upon a period of political discussion and excitement. The democratic administrations in Washington and Albany are to be put on trial. The republican party asks for restoration to power in the State and the Nation.

Great Questions

are to be decided. Shall American industry be protected, and American wages maintained by the tariff? Shall farms and homes be relieved from some at least of the burdens of taxation? Shall the civil service be reformed and divorced from politics? Shall the liquor traffic be restricted and compelled to pay its share of taxes? Shall Union veterans be degraded or treated generously and honorably? On these and kindred questions the electors must pronounce. To that end, they need to keep informed about the arguments which are advanced, and the events which bear upon them.

THE UTICA HERALD

will try to present these fairly and fully, and wil as a

TWENTIETH YEAR. "The Abstract and Brief Chronicle of the Time, to Show Virtue Her Own Features. Scorn Her Own Image." VOLUME 20—NUMBER 30

1.25 a Year in Advance. FULTON, OSWEGO COUNTY, N. Y., WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1887. Single Copies Three Cents

December.

BY FRANK DEMPSTER SHERMAN.

December's come, and with her brought
A world in whitest marble wrought;
The trees and fence and all the posts
Stand motionless and white as ghosts,
And all the points we used to know
Are hidden in the drifts of snow.
December brings the longest night
And cheats the day of half its light.
No bird song breaks the perfect hush;
No meadow brook with liquid gush
Runs telling tales in babbling rhyme
Of liberty and summer time,
But frozen in its icy cell
Awaits the sun to break the spell.
Breathe once upon the window glass
And see the mimic mists that pass—
Fantastic shapes that go and come
Forever silvery and dumb.

December Santa Claus shall bring—
Of happy children happy king,
Who with his sleigh and reindeer stops
At all good people's chimney-tops.

Then let the holly red be hung,
And sweetest carrols all be sung,
While we with joy remember them—
The journeyers to Bethlehem,
Who followed trusting from afar
The guidance of that happy star
Which marked the spot where Christ was born
Long years ago one Christmas morn.

—St. Nicholas.

Important.

Believing that everyone should be a subscriber to a local paper and to one metropolitan paper either for the general news of the day or, if the subscriber be a farmer, for the best agricultural paper that the country possesses, we have made arrangements with the publishers of the two greatest weekly papers in this country, in their respective fields, to furnish the same to our subscribers. Therefore for a limited time we propose to make the following offers, reserving the right to withdraw them at any time:

1. We will send THE TIMES and the N. Y. Weekly World, for one year, with your choice of the three great World Premiums, History of the United States, History of England or Everydody's Guide, for $2.00

2. We will send THE TIMES and the Rural New Yorker, the best illustrated weekly agricultural paper in this or any other country, for $2.50. The following two conditions must be observed:

1. The price named must inveriably accompany each order.

2. Old subscribers to THE TIMES must first pay to date before taking advantage of either offer. Call at this office or send cash with order to THE TIMES,

Soft muffs are in great vogue.

A trained princesse dress of velvet constitutes an elegant toilet.

Garnets of choice color are fashionable: sapphires and rubies are the rage.

Black silk gowns are combinations of faille francaise with black watered silk.

Plush balmorals warmly lined, are shown of plain dark colors or in stripes of two colors.

Glove-fitting sealskin jackets, medium short, will be popular this winter with stylish young ladies.

Velvet-edged ribbons are among the novelties; gilt-edged ribbons are also very stylish.

Short cloaks of cloth have wide fichu collars of plush that cover the shoulders and are pointed in front.

For those whose figure will allow it, very full, straight skirts of the richest black silks are in the highest style.

Entire bonnets are made of tiny loops of black and red moire ribbon or copper-colored ribbon, with gray intermingled.

Convenient large pockets are placed on the outside of heavy cloth Newmarkets, and a small one high in the left side of the breast.

Fancy belt clasps, with dog-collar ornaments to match, are added to dressy toilets of silk or satin, aad also to handsome tailor-made cloth suits.

A novelty is the chenille feather, composed of chenille and beads, and so good a rival to the real plume that milliners are employing it on their best class of bonnets.

Black hats and black wraps are worn with dresses of every color, and black moire ribbon is the fashionable trimming upon both black and colored velvet bonnets and hats.

Young ladies wear toques of the same material with their cloth gowns. These fit the head like a skull-cap, are in melon shape at the top and have but little trimming.

On Everlasting Punishment.

An Outline of a Discourse Recently Delivered by Prof. Whitcomb, in Fulton.

Text, Matt. XXV :46 "And these shall go away into everlasting punishment, but the rightous into life eternal."

This passage of scripture is generally thought to prove beyond the possibility of a doubt, the doctrine of endless punishment.

By many it is conscientiously believed and earnestly taught, that "the wicked who know not God, and obey not the gospel of Jesus Christ shall be cast into eternal torments and be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power." As to the nature of this punishment they hold that the wicked will suffer "most grevious torments, in soul and body, without intermission, in hell-fire forever." Some believe in endless punishment and reject the notion of torment by literal fire, but speak of everlasting "banishment" from God; they are to go to the society of the Devil, and other friends and all blasphemous and incurably wicked souls.

Friends are to be forever separated from friends, wives from husbands, parents from children. This appalling state of things is supposed to be necessary to manifest the "justice" of God, and men have often exorted to rejoice in it for that reason. But how or where can anybody be banished from God, who surrounds and fills the universe with his own life? The prophet said, "whither shall I flee from thy presence? If I ascend into heaven thou art there; if I make my bed in sheol thou art there" etc.

Formerly, in some churches ministers and others were not thought to be thorough christians unless "willing to be damned for the glory of God."

If this serious and awful doctrine is right, it ought to be supported by reason and scripture. But as soon as we turn to reason and scripture we encounter difficulties. They are as numerous as the warriors who, under the command of Rhoderick Dhu, surrounded Fitz James.

In consequence of limited space we can only mention a few of them here.

I. Endless punishment can benefit no one; neither angels, our fellow mortals, nor God, can be made happier or better by it.

II. Human beings were created in the "image of God" that is with certain indistructable elements of goodness in them, for God had only himself to make souls of, and he was absolutely pure and imperishable. Now, to send man to never-ending hell would be to damn the good in him as surely as the bad.

III. God could not punish forever without being unjust to his creatures. Penalty must be proportioned to crime, and it is clearly impossible in this short life to do evil enough to pull down upon one's self the Almighty hatred and wrath forever.

Man being finite is incapable of committing infinite transgression, and therefore cannot deserve infinite or endless punishment.

IV. The doctrine of ceaseless punishment involves the idea that God will be unjust to himself. For if such retribution is thought to be necessary to satisfy divine justice, then as endless punishment will never be completed, divine justice can never be satisfied. Besides, God has a right to the obedience of every soul, and everlasting damnation would put it out of the power of millions of beings to obey him. Has God no personal rights which he is bound to respect? Can God destroy his own right? But, it is often said, men are "free moral agents"—they can always sin, and many will, and will therefore always be punished. Is not this attempting a defence of the human will at the expence and kindness of the will of God? Where does the bible say that any soul will always sin? Nowhere.

Where do the scriptures say that God can make a human will so free as to successfully defy and triumph over the will of God, that is, to be stronger in evil, than the Almighty is in good moral influence?

If God creates anyone, it must be for a good purpose. If he gives man the power of willing, it must be for a good end. But is unending resistance to God a good end? Is it not morally and religiously impossible for a holy and loving God to will to have mankind forever resisting his own will?

Look at the terms "agent"—"free moral agent." They show freedom within limits, i. e., within the influence of God.

V. The doctrine of never-ending woe springs from, and is nourished by selfishness. Believers in it never expect to go to Hell, nor have their families go there.

VI. The moral effect of the teaching that punishment is everlasting is deplorable. It gives God a bad name. Thoughtful people will not believe that the Deity is trustworthy, if, after calling himself "Love" and our "Father," he will take satisfaction in the everlasting misery of the children he has made.

No human creature was consulted about being born with an imperfect nature and placed in a world of numerous temptations, with a prospect of heaven for obedience, and the never ending fury of God for transgression.

Suppose we had been. Is there one of us who would have had the hardihood to be created?

Consider too, the frightful condition of the heathen.

The A. B. C. F. M. says, "within the last thirty years, five hundred millions of Pagans have gone down to eternal death."

How many then in the thousands of years since Adam?

The heathen die at the rate of 25 to 30 millions a year, and are all these people to be forever damned and tortured for God's "good pleasure," for not doing what they never knew they ought to do?

VII. Persecution [illegible] ing the Inquisition etc., have fattened upon this doctrine of ceaseless retribution.

VIII. Where it has been strenuously taught, moral recklessness has abounded. Some persons ask if God has not appointed his son Jesus Christ to bear the penalty for sin, so that by believing in him we may escape perpetual woe? Study of the bible shows that it would be unjust to punish Jesus for the sins of anybody else, much more for the sins of the whole world because Christ was innocent.

How would it answer in a family to let disobedient Charles, Mary, and William go, and punish the only obedient son or daughter instead?

Besides, If, as many suppose, Christ is God, it would seem a strange performance for a holy God to be punished for the sins of his creatures.

How would it do for an upright parent on earth to say, my children are transgressors; I will therefore chastize myself, and consider them punished?

IX. The notion of everlasting retribution contradicts the general spirit and tenor of the bible.

"Ye have heard—love thy neighbor and hate thine enemy, but I say unto you, love your enemies, do good to them which hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, etc., that ye may be the children of your Father in heaven for" etc. But it is thought that as in the text it reads "eternal life" and everlasting punishment," it must mean as much in one case as in the other." Granted. But what does it mean in the one case? In the revised version of the N. T., the word "everlasting" is not found. The expressions are "eternal punishment," eternal life."

This word "eternal" is used for a word in the original Greek, (from which this account is taken), which is pronounced "Aionain," derived from "Aeon," signifying an age.

Aionian is the adjective, signifying age-lasting, or pertaining to an age. Hence in the text some were described as going into the punishment, and others into the bliss of an age or dispensation.

X. Whence then was the notion of endless punishment derived? From heathen. Where did they get it? Invented it. Cicero, in an oration says, "It was on this account that the ancients invented their infernal punishments of the dead to keep the wicked in some awe in this life."

XI. The doctrine is not found in the old testament; the Jews everywhere reject it.

XII. The sentiment of the christain church until the fifth century was overwhelmingly against it.

What then is the truth about punishment? 1. Every sinner deserves chastisement. 2. He will get just what he deserves, either in this life or the next, or both if need be. 3. He will be chastized exactly in proportion to his wickedness. "The way of the transgressor is hard. Prov. 13:15. Observe the career of a profligate man or dissolute woman. "The Lord God will by no means clear the guilty." Ex. 34:6,7. "He that doeth wrong shall receive for the wrong he hath done, and there is no respect of persons." Col. 3:25. "Though hand join in hand the wicked shall not go unpunished. Prov. 11:21. See also Rom. 2:6,8,9. God will render to every man according to his deeds," etc. Job. 24:22,26. "There is no darkness nor shadow of death where the workers of iniquity may hide themselves," etc. I. Cor. 6:10. We must all appear before the judgement seat of Christ that every one may receive," etc. Heb. 10:28 to 31, "He that despised Moses' law, died, etc, of how much sorer punishment shall he be thought worthy who" etc.

What then becomes of forgiveness?

The answer is, God forgives sin, not penalty for sin.

What is the object of punishment? What is a child chastised in a household for? Because his parent hates him and means to hate and afflict him always? No, but because the parent loves him and wants to make the child better. When he repents, and says "I am sorry, I won't do so again," you can't strike him another blow, you hold him to your heart. So God, as our "Heavenly Father," chastises in love and mercy in order to reclaim his children, and when reclaimed punishment ceases, because the end for which it is designed has been secured. See Heb. 12:9,10. Furthermore, we had fathers," etc. Isaiah 45:8. In a little wrath I hid my face—but with everlasting kindness will I have mercy" etc. Isaiah 40:2, "Speak ye comfortably," etc. Heb. 12:11. "No chastisement for the present seemeth," etc.

What are the moral effects of this doctrine of punishment?

Some say, if we believed as you do we should steal, lie, swear, and commit any crime. It may be that the fear of hell is all that keeps some people out of the penitentiary. But their idea is absurd.

Believers in limited punishment have no monopoly of crime; penal institutions show extremely few inmates of that sort the world over. The man who is anxious not to escape everlasting hell, but to escape wrong doing, and who believes that he will be punished for every sin, big or little, in order to purify and reform him, and until he reforms is not very likely to run into all sorts of transgressions.

Some talk of believing in endless misery in order to be on the "safe side".

To believe in what is unreasonable, what is opposed to human and divine justice, gives God a bad name, contradicts the scriptures, represents the efforts of Jesus to save the world as in the case of many souls a dead failure, is certainly not to be on the safe side.

The only safe course is that of believing in truth, justice, the mercy of God in inflicting reformatory penalty, and the absolute and complete success of Jesus in saving all mankind from the dominion of sin.

Universalists therefore claim, [illegible] punishment, the most thorough and consistent and wholesome, the world has ever seen. Their great distinctive ruling doctrine is not that of temporary punishment. Their opposition to the notion of eternal misery grows out of their unspeakably grand and precious doctrine, that every human being that ever was or will be created, will, by the grace of a loving Heavenly Father, be made at last perfectly holy, and consequently happy, and will remain so forever.

You hardly realize that it is medicine, when taking Carter's Little Liver Pills, they are very small; no bad effects; all troubles from torpid liver are relieved by their use.

Board of Trustees' Proceedings

SPECIAL MEETING.

FULTON, Nov. 18, 1887.

Board met pursuant to call of the President.

Present—President Waugh and Trustees More, Osborn, Kendrick Rice, and Nichols.

President stated that meeting had been called at the request of D. W. Gardner who stated that at the time he asked to have the nuisance abated on Second and Oneida street it was urged that it would be dangerous to public health to do anything in the premises at that time, that cold weather having arrived he now renews his request.

The members of the Board of health were present as was also the Health Officer.

The Health Officer stated that he had notified all the parties on Second and Oneida street connected with the sewer, to put their cellars in a healthy condition and provide proper drainage for the same. And that he had disconnected the closets of the Johnson House from the sewer and would not again connect the same.

Trustee Rice moved that the plan of sewerage heretofore adopted by the Board of Trustees, for this Village be so modified and changed by the addition of a sewer from the Second street main at the corner of Oneida street to the well at the Oswego Canal

On motion the ayes and nays were taken all the trustees present voting aye. The President declared the motion carried.

Trustee Rice moved that a sewer be built from corner of Cayuga and Second streets, thence along Oneida street to the well at the Oswego Canal according to the plans and specifications heretofore adopted by the Board of Trustees the expense to be assessed on the property benefited according to Chapter 159 of the laws of 1886. On motion the ayes and nays were taken. All the Trustees present voting aye. The President declared the motion carried.

On motion of Trustee Rice the matter of building the proposed sewer, hiring a Superintentant and men to do the work was referred to the street committee (the President added), with power to act.

On motion Board adjourned.

N. N. STRANAHAN, Clerk.

Board of Trustees Proceedings.

FULTON, Nov. 30, 1887.

Board met pursuant to adjournment.

Present, President Waugh and Trustees Nichols, Rice, Kendrick and Pardee.

The Clerk being absent, M. C. Highriter was elected Clerk pro tem.

Minutes of last general and special meetings read and approved.

The committee appointed to investigate the claim of Mr. Rogers, presented at the last regular meeting were given further time, the Village Attorney being out of town.

The committee appointed to examine Steamer No. 1 reported that in their judgment, with slight repairs, the Steamer would work until Spring, when perhaps a new boiler might be needed.

The committee appointed to examine the floor timbers in Hook and Ladder house reported that the floor and timbers had been made sound.

The President reported that he had made a Village note in payment of the judgment of Mrs. Mary A. LaDuke against the Village, and that said judgment had been cancelled. Also that he had seen Mr. C. H. Philbrook who represented the Thomson-Houston Electric Co. and that the complaint entered at the last regular meeting should be attended to.

On motion of Trustee More that Frank Carpenter be allowed to take one of the Village Oil Lamps and place the same in First street above Fay street, without expense to the Village, for lighting or repairs, he to return the same in good condition when called for by the Board.

James M. Chesbro complained of erroneous assessment. The matter was referred to Trustee Rice to report at the next meeting.

The following bills were reported correct by the finance Committee and audited at the following amounts and the Clerk directed to draw orders for the same on proper funds.

W. D. Patterson, Rent of Jail,	$200,00
John Howland, Blacksmithing,	2.67
Alex. Bradford, Cross walk Labor,	26.84
" " Highway "	11.80
" " Cross walk Stone.	6.40
C. R. Nichols, Gas Caps,	1.68

On motion of Trustee Rice, Section 41 of Chapter 4 of the Village Ordinances be published with the minutes. Said section reads as follows:

"No person shall use any small or horse sled or sled without horses for the amusement of sliding on any of the sidewalks, or in any of the streets of this village under the penalty of two dollars for each offence. It shall be the duty of the Police force to see that this ordinance is enforced."

The following persons were reported as having violated the ordinance passed by the Board Oct. 12th, 1887, in driving upon the Public Park.

Newell Morgan, Nathan Rowlee,
D. Webster, Charles Green,
Frank Clark, Frank Dexter,
F. E. Hulett.

It was moved and carried that they be requested to call upon the President for immediate settlement of such violation.

The Treasurer of the Village reported that he had received	$8.550 09
Paid out	6,222.91
Amount on hand	2,327.18
The Collector reported that of the tax levy of	$7,775.00
He had collected	6,800.90
Tax uncollected	974,10

On motion the Board adjourned to Wednesday evening Dec. 14th, at 7¼ o'clock.

The Greatness of Natural Gas.

"Few people outside of the natural gas region," said a large owner of gas wells in Washington county, Penn., "have any idea what enormous proportions the gas business has grown to. It may be said to be only about two years old in western Pennsylvania, and more [illegible] acres of land in Washington and adjoining counties have been drilled with gas wells. Nearly 150,000 tons of iron have been used in manufacturing the pipes through which the 500,000 cubic feet of gas that flows from the region daily are conveyed to the place using it. Over $25,000,000 is invested in the business by the fourteen organized companies that produce the bulk of the gas. The land and wells represent an outlay of $17,000,000. The wells now producing are capable of doubling the quantity now demanded for light and heat. Nearly 2,000 miles of mains are required for conducting the supply to consumers. It is estimated that the use of natural gas has displaced 25,000 tons of coal daily in western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio alone. Besides the wells controlled by the great gas producing companies, individual owners have wells for the supply of the smaller towns, and every village and hamlet in the region has enough natural gas running to waste every day to abundantly supply the same number of towns of 10,000 inhabitants each with light and fuel."

Mrs. Chas. Smith, of Jimes, Ohio, writes: I have used every remedy for Sick Headache I could hear of for the past fifteen years, but Carter's Little Liver Pills did me more good than all the rest.

A Popular Magazine.

Our Little Ones and the Nursery, for December, gives its usual quota of good things, and something more in happy glimpses of holidays to which the little people are looking forward with great expectations. These stories and pictures will go straight to the juvenile heart, and set young ears listening for the first tinkle of bells denoting the approach of beloved Santa Claus. This beautiful monthly has its corps of special writers and artists; and all it contains is freshly gotten up with care to please and cultivate the class for whom it is designed.

ST. NICHOLAS
For Young Folks.

SINCE its first issue, in 1873, this magazine has maintained, with undisputed recognition, the position it took at the beginning,—that of being the most excellent juvenile periodical ever printed. The best known names in literature were on its list of contributors from the start,—Bryant, Longfellow, Thomas Hughes, George MacDonald, Bret Harte, Bayard Taylor, Frances Hodgson Burnett, James T. Fields, John G. Whittier; indeed the list is so long that it would be easier to tell the few authors of note who have not contributed to "the world's child magazine."

The Editor, Mary Mapes Dodge,

author of "Hans Brinker; or, the Silver Skates," and other popular books for young folks,—and for grown-up folks,—too, has a remarkable faculty for knowing and entertaining children. Under her skillful leadership, ST. NICHOLAS brings to thousands of homes on both sides of the water knowledge and delight.

St. Nicholas in England.

It is not alone in America that ST. NICHOLAS has made its great success. The London Times says: "It is above anything we produce in the same line." The Scotsman says: "There is no magazine that can successfully compete with it."

The Coming Year of St. Nicholas.

The fifteenth year begins with the number for November, 1887, and the publishers can announce: Serial and Short Stories by Mrs. Francis Hodgson Burnett, Frank R. Stockton, H. H. Boyesen, Joel Chandler Harris, J. T. Trowbridge, Col. Richard M. Johnston, Louisa M. Alcott, Professor Alfred Church, William H. Rideing, Washington Gladden, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Amelia E. Barr, Francis Courtenay Baylor, Harriet Upton, and many others. Edmund Alton will write a series of papers on the "Routine of the Republic,"—how the President works at the White House, and how the affairs of the Treasury, the State and War Departments, etc., are conducted; Joseph O'Brien a well known Australian journalist, will describe "The Great Island Continent"; Elizabeth Robbins Pennell will tell of "London Christmas Pantomines" (Alice in Wonderland, etc.); John Burroughs will write "Meadow and Woodland Talks with Young Folk," etc., etc. Mrs Burnett's short serial will be, the editor says, a worthy successor to her famous "Little Lord Fauntleroy," which appeared in ST. NICHOLAS.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.

WITH the November, 1887, issue THE CENTURY commences its thirty-fifth volume with a regular circulation of almost 250,000. The War Papers and the Life of Lincoln increased its monthly edition by 100,000. The latter history having recounted the events of Lincoln's early years, and given the necessary survey of the political condition of the country, reaches a new period, with which his Secretaries were most intimately acquainted. Under the caption

Lincoln in the War,

the writers now enter on the more important part of their narrative, viz.: the early years of the War and President Lincoln's part therein.

Supplementary War Papers,

following the "battle series" by distinguished generals, will describe interesting features of army life, tunneling from Libby Prison, narratives of personal adventure, etc. General Sherman will write on "The Grand Strategy of the War."

Kennan on Siberia.

Except the Life of Lincoln and the War Articles, no more important series has ever been undertaken by the Century than this of Mr. Kennan's. With the previous preparation of four years' travel and study in Russia and Siberia, the author undertook a journey of 15,000 miles for the special investigation here required. An introduction from the Russian Minister of the Interior admitted him to the principal mines and prisons, where he became acquainted with some three hundred State exiles,—Liberals, Nihilists, and others,—and the series will be a startling as well as accurate revelation of the exile system. The many illustrations by the artist and photographer, Mr. George A. Frost, who accompanied the author, will add greatly to the value of the articles.

A Novel by Eggleston

with illustrations will run through the year. Shorter novels will follow by Cable and Stockton. Shorter fictions will appear every month.

Miscellaneous Features

will comprise several illustrated articles on Ireland, by Charles De Kay; papers touching the field of the Sunday School Lessons, illustrated by E. L. Wilson; Wild Western Life, by Theodore Roosevelt; the English Cathedrals, by Mrs. Van Rensselaer, with illustrations by Pennell; Dr. Buckley's valuable papers on Dreams, Spiritualism, and Clairvoyance; essays in criticism, art, travel and biography; poems; cartoons; etc.

By a special offer the numbers for the past year (containing the Lincoln history) may be secured with the year's subscription from November, 1887, [illegible] The Century Co. [illegible] becomes afflicted with a Kidney disease life is truly a burden. The female organization is so constituted as to be pecurlarly susceptible to it; is easily controlled by it, and it rapidly develops and spreads until the whole fabric is affected and there is no time when she is free from pain. Refreshing sleep is unknown, the long weary hours of the night are followed by equally long hours of the day, and so the months and years pass, bringing as they roll away increased burdens.

Mrs. C. P. Bracket, wife of a town official of Hermon, Me., had severe case of kidney disease. In time she became so afflicted with continuous pains across the small of the back, weary, heavy, bearing down pains, heavy, dull feeling between the shoulders with occasional spells of "sick headache," as well as other troubles peculiar to this disease in women, so that she at times gave up in dispair. She was confined to her house, deprived of all social intercourse with friends and neighbors, and was day and night a constant sufferer. One day she read an advertisement issued by us describing symptoms of kidney disease, and persuaded her husband to buy a bottle of Brown's Sarsaparilla which she used. She said it helped her and her husband, having no faith in patent medicines, laughed and told her she was no better, and that "faith" and "hope" had revived her temporarily. He bought the second and third however, and like the first, they helped her rapidly along the road to health. The remedy was continued until Mrs. Brackett was restored, and she has now been for over two years free from all symptoms of kidney disease. This case which was perhaps as serious a one as ever came to the notice of the medical fraternity of this section, attracted wide-spread attention at the time, and stamped beyond all dispute the fact that Brown's Sarsaparilla was a deadly foe to Kidney disease.

NEWSPAPER LAWS.

Any person who takes the paper regularly from the post office, whether directed to his name or whether he is a subscriber or not—is responsible for the pay.

The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office for moving away and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether the paper is taken from the office or not.

I can't help telling the Truth as I view it and describing what I see. To describe it otherwise than it seems to me would be falsehood in that calling in which it has pleased Heaven to place me.

INFORMATION is extended to our readers that the Utica Weekly Herald can be secured for $1 per year. The Utica Weekly Observer is also reduced to the same figure.

REMEMBER we still offer THE TIMES and N. Y. Weekly World, with your choice of the three premium books for $2.00 or THE TIMES and Rural New Yorker for $2.50. The Thanksgiving number of Rural New Yorker 34 Park Row, New York will be sent without charge to all our readers who apply. Send for it.

THE President's message was transmitted over the wires yesterday and of course has the usual amount of criticism in the editorial columns of the Republican press and favorable mention from the Democratic press. It is shorter than is generally the case and particular stress is given to tariff reform.

The Oswego Palladium and the Oswego Times have each increased in size until after the holidays.

Major Z. C. Priest of Little Falls the well known supt. of the eastern division of the N. Y. Central railroad is dead.

J. C. Taylor, a well known druggist and jeweler of Mexico, died very suddenly yesterday by the bursting of a blood vessel.

Wormuth's livery stables in Baldwinsville were burned Monday night with nine horses. A brick block and skating rink near by were badly damaged.

An editor has invented an infernal machine, which he places in an envelope and sends to those who "refuse" the paper after taking it for five years without paying for it. The thing explodes and kills the whole family, and the fragments that fall in the back yard kill the family dog.—Ex.

Adam Barager, formerly of Syracuse, committed suicide at Butte City, Montana, while insane, by leaping from the roof. He first knocked his wife senseless with a chair. Mrs. Barager will probably return to her home in Mexico, this county. Her husband leaves some property, besides a life insurance of $3,000.

The Fulton Division No. 17 S. of T. will hold regular weekly meetings in the I. O. O. F. hall in the Dexter block, commencing Friday evening, Dec. 16th, at 7½ o'clock. All the old members are requested to be present and bring their friends who wish to join.

By Order of Division,
G. C. BARTLEY, R. S.

THE attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement of Munn & Co., patent solicitors, in another column. Their name is familiar to patentees throughout the country. In connection with the publication of the Scientific American for the past forty years, they have made the drawings and specifications for more than one hundred thousand inventions, and their facilities for obtaining patents were never better than now.

An exchange hits the nail on the head thusly: "Don't say the paper is dull when it don't contain an item that you expected to see in it, which no one knew about but you. Remember that it is impossible for an editor to be in every place in a minute, or know everything that is going on. If you know an item that will be of interest to the public, report it. Probably you are the only one who knows anything about it and you must not blame the paper if you do not inform the publisher of the fact."

[illegible] Syracuse, on Tuesday and Wednesday, December 20 and 21.

The indications are that it will be the largest and best meeting of the farmers of Central New York that has ever been held.

Among those who will address the meetings are the following named gentlemen, who have signified their intention to be present and speak on the subjects indicated: Col. Jas. Wood, Mt. Kisco, N. Y.; "Common-Sense Horse-breeding." Major Henry E. Alvord, Professor at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, Mass.; "Saving our fertility an agricultural study."

Dr. Peter Collier, Director of the New York State Experimental Station, at Geneva, N. Y.; "Scientific Agriculture."

Hon. J. K. Brown, New York State Dairy Commissioner: "Adulteration of Dairy Products; Can we prohibit it?

S. Hoxie, Whitesboro, N. Y., Supt. of Advanced Registry for Holstein-Friesian Cattle."

J. S. Woodward, Secretary of the New York State Agricultural Society: "Sense and non-sense in wintering sheep."

Col. F. D. Curtis, of "Kirby Homestead": "Pig-feeding; for fat and for lean."

Hon. G. S. Hubbard, Hatfield, Mass., President of the New England Tobacco-Growers Association: "Tobacco culture; the conditions required for its profitable production."

Prof. I P. Roberts, of Cornell University; Subject not yet announced.

Other prominent gentlemen, who have made their subjects a life study, have been invited and are expected to speak.

There will be no charge for admission and all are expected and invited to attend.

It is expected that all the railroads centering at Syracuse will make reduced rates for the occasion

Palermo.

(Special Correspondence to THE TIMES).

Invitations are out for the wedding of Earl Hills and Carrie Clapp which is to take place on Wednesday Dec. 7th, at the residence of the bride's father, W. D. Clapp.

Rev. Mr. Youngs of Oswego was present at the church at Palermo Center on Sunday last and delivered a sermon which was very appropriate to the people of this vicinity. He is to preach again in two weeks.

At the wedding of Rev. A. E. Wilson and Mrs. C. M. Ball about seventy-five were present and a large number of fine presents were given. Rev. Mr. Fisk and Rev. Mr. Denny of Gilberts Mills were present and tied the knot.

The hotel and steam mill of Palermo Centre property of W. H. Hannon was sold on the first of this month at Phœnix and was bid off by Milton Butts but who is to be our landlord remains a conundrum still.

C. J. Butcher, wife and daughter have gone to visit friends and relatives in Oneida and Herkimer counties. They will remain until after the holidays.

The Palermo Centre cheese and butter factory have sold the balance of their cheese and are to deliver it this week.

John Edick, a resident of Palermo and Volney for many years, died at the County House at Mexico on Wednesday last.

Mrs. O. P. Jennings is on a visit to her son at Cortland, he being on the sick list.

Dont forget the little ones; but buy them a drum, sled, doll, rocking horses, pianos, or some of the million of things to make them happy found at our two stores in the opera house block Fulton.

A Serious Question.

Funny things occur in business. A clothing merchant writing to tucker, caulder & co., the well-known manufacturers, of utica, n. y., said: "I have a serious question to propound. Your clothing wears so well that I fear when I supply all my customers I will have to go West, for they will not want any more for years. What shall I do? The reply was: "Keep on selling, and trust in our clothing and Providence. Neither will go back on you." This is the class of goods sold by e. a. cook & co., opposite clark house, first street.

They make nice presents, a picture frame, a picture or an oil painting, and the cost of them is so small at the great 25c. Stores, opera house block.

The High Arm Singer machine is having a great sale everywhere. The reasons are: It runs easy, is noiseless, does all kinds of work in the best manner and the price is very low.

[illegible] they [illegible] Why are so many ladies at home every evening so early? They are making fancy work for the Fair! Where are all the boys going with packages, great and small, with lamps and mirrors and dry goods, etc., etc.? They are going to the Fair with presents. What is the express wagon doing at the Catholic parsonage? Bringing donations from out-of-town. What are the editors doing? Getting ready to print extra copies during the Fair. What are the Temperance Societies doing? Buying a gold watch to be contested for by Jas. White of Oswego and the popular postmaster of Oswego Falls, John R. Sullivan Esq. Why does Dr. De Marsan Spencer appear so very busy just at present? Because he is preparing operettas etc., for the Fair. Why do the Misses Lappin and Branagan remain at the tables until the dying lamp and solemn clock announce the midnight hour? Because they can badly keep an account of all the votes cast in their favor for the seal plush sacque. Oh! What a busy world when everybody works and how sadly those will be disappointed who spend their extra dimes before the Catholic Fair. Type setters work constantly. Here is a long list of donors and more to come next week.

[illegible] as is usually the case, [illegible] United States Senate, where the balance of power between the two great parties is about to be reduced to the narrowest possible basis by the new Senators admitted on that day. The hold-over Senators number fifty—half Democrats and half Republicans; of the new Senators, the seats of three Democrats, one each from California, Indiana and West Virginia, are to be contested, and here is where the trouble is likely to arise, for the Democrats positively declare they will insist on having all the new Senators sworn in together, and thus there is a very pretty prospect of a dead lock in the highest legislative body of the land. However the struggle for political power may terminate, those independent thinkers who own no partisan allegiance, will probably extract some comfort from these controversies by the a settlement of an important constitution question—the right of a State to elect a United States Senator at a special session of the legislature—such an issue being involved in the cases from California and West Virginia. But if there should be a dead-lock in the Senate, I believe it would soon be broken by Mr. Riddleberger, as the Virginia Senator owing to his peculiar relations th the Republican party, has recently displayed a decided spirit of independence, which his partisan associates view with alarm.

The organization of the House will probably be of the most commonplace order, as there is no contest except for subordinate positions, and Mr. Carlisle will not be handicapped by pledges, as Speakers generally are, in the formation of committees. But he will be somewhat at sea in the placing of about one hundred new members, each of whom is ambitious to have his legislative talents properly recognized.

The State of New York, not content with already having gorged herself with the lions share of spoils under the present Administration, now comes forward with a candidate for Clerk of the House, in the person of W. G. Raines, of Rochester, who, it is claimed, had the unanimous support of the Empire State delegation; yet I am of the opinion that he has entered the contest to late to win, as Gen. Jno. B. Clarke, of Missouri, the present incumbent, appears to have sufficient support pledged to insure his re-election. The vote for Doorkeeper of the House is now between two candidates—Donaldson, of Tennessee, the present incumbent, and Hunt, of Mississippi—the supporters of each being confident of the triumph of their favorite.

Among the members of the Democratic persuasion (so far as your correspondent has been able to ascertain their sentiments) there appears to be a general desire for tariff reform—it being understood that the President heads the movement—while, on the other hand, the Republicans are mostly non-committal.

The International Fisheries Commission is still in session at the State Department, but as the proceedings are strictly secret, the public are profoundly ignorant of its doings.

All the evidence in the great Standard Oil case, charging discrimination in favor of the company by the railroads, is before the Interstate Commission, and the testimony is strongly against the giant monopoly, but the trial goes over till January.

The annual report of the First Assistant Postmaster General shows that the total number of post offices in operation June 30, 1887, was 55,157, and that during the year appointments were made as follows: On resignations and commissions expired, 6,863; on removals and suspensions, 2,584; on deaths of postmasters, 589; on establishment of new offices, 3,042; whole number of appointments made during the year, 13,077, a net decrease of 7,670, as compared with the preceeding year. The number of money order offices in operation on June 30, 1887, was 7,745,—an increase of 481 over the past year.

A Treasury statement shows that on account of unusually heavy disbursements during the month of November—$18,000,000 having been paid in pensions alone—there was an increase of one million dollars in the national debt.

Nominations by the President.

WASHINGTON, Dec 6, 1887.

The President has sent the following nominations to the Senate: Lucius Q. C. Lamar of Mississippi, to be associate justice of the supreme court of the United States; Wm. F. Vilas of Wisconsin to be Secretary of Interior; Dan. M. Dickenson of Michigan to be Postmaster-General; Charles L. Fairchild of New York, to be Secretary of the Treasury; George L. Rivers of New York to be Assistant Secretary of State; Isaac H. Maynard of New York, to be Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; Sigourney Butler of Massachusetts to be Second Comptroller of the Treasury; James W. Hyatt of Connecticut, to be Treasurer of the United States.

The readers of the Times will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby distroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength, by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The Proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars, for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, [illegible] which tells how a Yankee soldier won a southern bride. "Notes on Parisian Newspapers," Brander Matthews is one of the features of the number. It is illustrated by Jeanniot, with many drawings of portraits of noted French journalists and their places of business. Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer contributes a description of "Durham Cathedral," finely illustrated by Joseph Pennell. "The Dusantes," Frank R. Stockton's full and explicit sequel to "The Casting Away of Mrs. Lecks and Mrs. Aleshine," begins in this number. In the new story there is another "casting away" under very different, but no less interesting circumstances. Profession Shields of Princeton has another article on church union, in which he reviews the recent "Open Letters" on church unity published in the Century. Lincoln's Inaugration," the serial history prepared by Messrs. Nicolay and Hay, is one of the best parts of that valuable work yet published. The story of "Prison Life of the Russian Revolutionists" is told by Edward Kennan. The serial stories of George W. Cable and Edward Eggleston are continued in generous installments. Two papers on "Irving's Foust" and two on the Tonic Sol fa System," complete the list of longer articles. The miscellany, open letters and bric-a-brac departments, contain the usual amount of standard production. (The Century company New New York).

THE BOODLE RECORD.

Where are the Boodle Aldermen and Broadway Railroadites?

The following is a review of the 1884 Board of Aldermen, and the other persons connected with it. It is interesting, as it shows just what has been done and what is still on the boards:—

In Sing Sing.	In Canada.
Jaehne,	Sayles.
O'Neil,	Dempsey,
McQuade.	DeLacey.
Out on Bail.	Informers.
Miller,	Duffy,
Pearson,	Fullgraff,
Wendel,	Waite.
Finck,	Insane.
Sheils,	McCabe.
Kirk,	Dead.
Farley,	Kenney,
Reilly,	McLaughlin.
Tried and Disagreed.	In Germany
Cleary.	Rothman.

This record shows that there are at present within the jurisdiction of the court nine members of the 1884 board out on bail and available to be tried. Of this number there are only two of the original combine of thirteen—Cleary and Reilly. The indicted Broadway railroad officials stand as follows:—

Indicted but Reversed.	On Bail.	Dead.
Sharp.	Kerr,	Foshay.
	Richmond.

The alleged boodle carriers, Keenan and Moloney, are in Canada.—New York Mail.

A Sound Legal Opinion.

E. Bainbridge Munday Esq., County Att'y., Clay Co., Tex. says: "Have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My brother also was very low with Malarial Fever and Jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life."

Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters.

This great remedy will ward off, as well as Cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stands unequaled. Price 50c. and $1. at R. E. Phillips' Drug Store.

Cheese Market.

[From the Utica Herald].

AT UTICA.

UTICA, Dec. 5

The last market of the season is always dull. Only a few lots of cheese remain to be closed out, and the buyers are so few that there is little chance for competition. To-day nearly all of the factories sold their entire make, but a few that are stil running did not sell at all, their policy being to hold until their make is finished, and then close out their whole batch at once. As a rule, too, better prices can be obtained in January than at the close of the board. Those that sold above ten cents was every-day's make, and some of it small cheese also. Salesmen are all satisfied with the result of the season's trade, but doubtful whether next year will be as good. Following are the transactions

Lots.	Boxes.	Price
1	64	9¾
14	975	10c.
7	597	10¼
22	1,636
	670	Com.

Ruling 10c. Transactions last year were only 1,323 boxes, with ruling at 10½c.

LITTLE FALLS, Dec. 5.

Cheese—Teere has been quite a good sized offer of cheese to-day, and the sales amount to somewhat more than last week. Prices for the same class of stock show no variation from those of a week ago. Every-day stock was scarce and sold at 11c. Mixed lots, consisting of different grades, ranged from 10 to 10½c. Lots composed of every-other-day cheese, generally found ready sale at 10c., very little, if any, going above 10c. Lots containing every three days cheese and every other day, had to take one cent less and sold at 9c. Factories are rapidly closing out the last of their production for the season, and the number still having stock to sell is comparatively small.

The sales to-day are as follows:

Lots	Boxes	Price
21	987	9c.
28	1,538	10c.
1	89	10¼
2	80	10½
1	315	10⅝
3	409	11c.
9	440	Commission.
65	3,867
Farm dairy	218
	4,085

Farm Dairies—The morning market shows sales of 121 boxes, at prices ranging at 10@10½c., the quality being more uniform than the afternoon sales.

Butter—We find but two packages of farm butter sold—prices being [illegible], the former being the bulk price.

WIFE—Now James, Dear I really do not like to see you go out with that Overcoat on. Please go to H. & A. ROSENBLOOMS' and get one of those handsome Fur Beaver Overcoats they are selling so reasonable.

OLD GENT—Yes, James I would if I were you and the sooner the better for they are going off like Hot Cakes.

-CONSOLATION-

As the cold winter has fairly set in, making every one hustle, it is a consolation to know that there is no need of any one suffering with the cold while H. & A. ROSENBLOOM are selling Dry Goods and Clothing at such very low rates. They are handling such vast quanities of goods that they reconize no competition. It has been proved that their prices are lower than any competing house in Fulton or neighboring cities.

Don't Experiment.

You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always seems, at first, only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Because he can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good, or just the same. Don't be deceived, but insist upon getting Dr. King's New Discovery, which is guaranteed to give relief in all Throat, Lung and Chest affections. Trial bottle free at R. E. Phillips' Drug Store. Large Bottles $1.

Ringing Noises

In the ears, sometimes a roaring, buzzing sound, are caused by catarrh, that exceedingly disagreeable and common disease. Loss of smell or hearing also results from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, is a peculiarly successful remedy for this disease, which it cures by purifying the blood. If you suffer from catarrh, try Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine.

Testing a New Fire Extinguisher.

Mr. Frank Dilts has placed in his new foundry and machine shop Automatic Fire extinguishers, manufactured by the J. C. Mackey Co., of Syracuse.

This system as arranged in Mr. Dilts' shop consists of pipes running along the ceiling of each story of the building at suitable distances apart. Into these pipes at suitable intervals are secured the Automatic sprinklers or heads.

These pipes are supplied with water under pressure from the City Water Works main. The water from the city main is kept back by an automatic electric valve and the pipes thereby kept dry to prevent freezing. Throughout the building and ajacent to the sprinklers or heads are placed what are called thermostats. As soon as the heat from a fire generated in any part of the the building reaches 155 degrees the solder on the thermostat fuses and a piece of metal drops off thereby starting an electric current which opens the valve in the city main and fills the pipes throughout the building with water. The solder on the sprinkler or head nearest the fire also fuses and drops off and a shower of water will be distributed over an area of from 15 to 20 feet in diameter on the ceiling and 32 feet on the floor, extinguishing the fire. Generally no sprinkler opens excepting that adjacent to the fire and thereby water damage is avoided except where the fire is.

On Monday afternoon, Mr. Mackey and the general agent of the company, Mr. T. H. Teill gave a practical test of the working of this system in the foundry. Ten or twelve bushels of the shavings were piled up and ignited. The heat generated fused the solder on the thermostat, opened the electric valve and a full head of water from the village main filled the pipes, but as the solder on the sprinklers was fixed not to melt at a less heat than 220 degrees it did not melt until heated with a lamp. When it was opened it worked nicely and quickly quenced the flames.

Another test will be made in the new paper mill of Dilts & Wells in a few weeks.

Fire at Bacon's.

Bacon's was the scene of great excitement on Monday afternoon shortly after five o'clock.

The electric light company had removed the globes of the incandescent lights in the second story of the building and failed to put them in again that afternoon. One of the salesmen had occasion to go up stairs and lighted a match to get a bundle of cotton batting. This in some way caught fire and he ran down stairs with it and into the street. It was soon discovered that another spark had got into the large quantity of batting and other combustible material and the corner showed a large flame which blazed up and devoured the curtains on the windows and threatened destruction to the whole building. Fortunately a small hose was near by for an emergency like this and Mr. Bacon soon had a stream of city water pouring upon the fast spreading flames.

The hose from Gage's mill was nearly laid and ready to be used, but was not required. A large quantity of batting, dusters, some cloth and blankets and a few other things were badly damaged.

It was a close call from a serious conflagration.

A Night Off.

Those who took a night off Monday evening and went to the opera house witnessed one of the best produced comedies that was ever seen in this village. There are five gentlemen and four ladies in the cast and every one seemed to be particularly adapted to the role taken.

This comedy and the manner in which it was produced stood out in strong contrast to the wishy-washy pieces that a Fulton audience often tolerate as for instance the Rose Lisle "Sea of Ice" company last week.

The whole was exceedingly funny without being silly and laughable situations followed each other in rapid succession. There was not an act but what was filled with unadulterated fun. A good audience was present and the great applause that was given showed that the entertainment was fully enjoyed. We like such plays and would like more of the same kind.

More Gas at the Test Well.

Again gas was struck on Friday last at the test well on the VanBuren farm. This makes seven times in all. The experts that have charge of the drilling, state that coming from the Trenton sandstone it collects and when a vein is reached pours forth. Its force after a short time becomes exhausted but there is, always more or less of it now and will readily ignite and burn with a large flame. On Saturday the cable broke at a depth of 950 feet. A new rope was at once ordered 1,800 feet in length. It is expected that work will be resumed today.

At the election of officers in Neatahwanta lodge 147, A. O. U. W., the following were elected: G. G. Whitaker, master workman; Chas. Case, foreman; F. M. Preston, overseer; Chas. H. Good Groceries at Richardson's.

More Than Can Be Accommodated.

The correspondent to the Syracuse Standard made an investigation of school affairs Monday and writes as follows concerning them:

"The winter term of the schools opened last week with a large attendance, No. 2 numbering over 500 pupils, with every available seat taken not only in the three stories of the main building, but in the annex as well. Between 100 and 200 hundred "foreign" pupils were received, from whom the district derives quite a revenue. Additional applications were made yesterday, but from lack of room had to be refused. Very soon all students from other districts must look elsewhere for the higher grades of instruction unless more room can be furnished. As many of these pupils reside in the village, in adjoining districts, it seems hard to deny them the superior advantages which this central school now furnishes. For a time at least no more expense for for teachers need be incurred, and it would seem to be good economy to make additional room. During vacation the school board has added to the philosophical apparatus several hundred dollars worth of new instruments of the latest design, among them an Edison phonograph; the "Syren," showing the length of sound waves; a $100 dollar microscope with a full set of plates, and a complete set of Guyot's classical charts, with much more, making one of the most complete school libraries in the country.

The Lady of Lyons.

The first of Dr. Spencer's last readings will be given this evening, at Woodin's Hall, the play to be illustrated being Bulwer's Comedy, "The Lady of Lyons." The hall is small and cosy, and should be filled with Dr. Spencer's friends who may wish to hear him for the last time. Engagements elsewhere take him away immediately after Christmas. The three succeeding evenings will be filled by the recital of Ingomar, a repetition of "The Rivals" and as a Christmas program, Howell's "Five O'clock Tea," just published in the Harpers' for this month, and the whole of the Christmas Carol, of Dickens. Tickets for the course are placed at the low price of one dollar and single admissions for any evening, at fifty cents. If you love a quiet, intellectual evening, this is your opportunity.

A New Firm.

Frank Connell for many years head clerk in Bacon's, and William Patterson who has served in a like capacity in the "Bee Hive" have united and expect to start a new store under the firm name of Connell & Patterson. An effort is being made to buy out C. E. Sackett and a decision will probably be reached today. The new firm will be composed of two worthy young men who should and undoubtedly will gain and retain a liberal share of the public's patronage.

G. A. R. Officers.

At the annual meeting of Post Schenck G. A. R., held at their rooms last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

WORTH KNOWING.

Make butter to sell, not to keep.

A big horse with style will always sell at a big price.

Manitoba's potato crop is unusually large.

Heavy rains and worms greatly damaged the New Jersey cranberry crop.

In England 1,200 sheep recently sold for $15,000, or at the rate of $12.50 a head.

Dakota yields 41,000,000 bushels of wheat, and Minnesota 38,400,000 bushels this year.

The Florida orange crop is estimated at 1,000,000 boxes, or 200,000 boxes less than last year.

The past season's wool clip in New South Wales is the largest ever known in that country.

Within ten years, 2,220,000 acres of British lands have been transformed into pasturage.

In Washington county, New York, 3,000,000 bushels of potatoes are given as the average crop.

Horse stables should be warm and free from draughts, but they should be well ventilated, and, not less, they should be well lighted.

Winter none but growing or producing animals. The liquid is the most valuable part of the manure; try to save it all.

A horse in Massachusetts ran away out of the pasture and went directly to his old home 20 miles away, after an absence of a dozen years. Who says the horse has no memory?

The cranberry crop of 1887 promises to be from 60,000 to 70,000 bushels less than last year, which was over 200,000 less than the large crop of 1885.

The shipment of California fruits to the East by rail last October, were over 24,000,000 pounds, double the amount shipped in October, 1886.

Texas live stock is thus estimated: horses and mules, 1,193,522 head, valued at $32,221,771. Cattle, 6,741,964 head, valued at $48,735,614. Great country for cattle, that "Lone Star State."

The largest wheat crop India ever produced was 302,000,000 bushels from 27,000,000 acres, or an average yield of 11 5-27 bushels per acre. The crop of 1887 was 238,0000,000, or an average yield of only 8 22-27 bushels.

Western New York is about the only section which is reported to have "an immense apple crop" this year; and the same productive region was also favored with an unusually large yield of potatoes, so great that freight cars have been in demand for shipping the tubers to western states. Per contrary, the west is very short of both apples and potatoes, and the people are obliged to send east for these important articles, or content themselves with bread and meat.

Poultry Notes

Two or three weeks of generous feeding of fat producing food, will put fowls in good condition for the table. Unfortunately for the lovers of toothsome chicken flesh, this is seldom done in the greater portion of this country. In most of the poultry raising countries and districts of Europe, the good and industrious poultry keeper would never think of such a thing as picking up fowls from their runs and sending them to market. They are cooped and fed well, and most generally forced to take extra food to hasten the process of fattening, thereby insuring tenderness and flavor, which could not be obtained if allowed to indulge in their habitual liberty and daily exercise.

There is no profit in keeping old stock take our word for it. Better kill them off when you have secured some chicks from them, for all you may do toward their care will not bring them back to their wonted prolificacy or vivacity. They have had their day of usefulness, and are no longer profitable to their keepers, are no ornaments to the poultry yard, are the first to catch and succumb to disease; and their place should be filled with healthy and promising chicks.

The time has gone by for disposing of anything in the shape of dead poultry at remunerative prices, unless it comes to market in the best order, not only as regards the plucking but also as regards the packing of the birds.—Poultry Monthly.

Utilizing Coarse Fodder.

Corn fodder, straw, and even marsh hay at times, are the sole dependance for feeding. In such cases these inferior fodders may be made up by the addition of the richer foods which can be purchased and used at such a profit as will be satisfactory to the dairyman. And in feeding the coarser fodders, the use of roots with them will be found exceedingly valuable. The succulent roots being almost wholly digestible, aid very much in the digestion of the coarser fodder: and for winter feeding a supply of mangels or sugar beets will be indispensable for the most profit. In a similar way the use of malt sprouts steeped in water which makes a sweet semi-liquid pulp of an agreeable odor and taste, mixed with cut straw and corn fodder, has been known to keep up the yield of milk; and with a slight increase in mixed meal, or ground grain food, to prevent any deficency in the yield of butter. Well cured corn fodder, or the stalks of the corn crop, cut before frost, or as soon as the grain has been glazed and stacked so as to preserve the sweetness of the leaves, has yielded, with the addition of a peck of sliced roots, as much and as good butter as that made from clover hay.—American Agriculturist for December.

Unprofitable Stock.

Now is the time to cull out and fatten or sell stock that it will not pay to winter. Keep no poor, useless animals of any kind; for they will soon eat up the profits. Many a farmer misses it by trying to keep over more animals than he can feed properly. Better keep a small herd in good condition than a large one, half starved. Farmers who don't want to have hides and carcasses for sale in the spring, will save trouble and expense by disposing of all surplus stock, or such as does not promise well for the future.

[illegible] Banished. That itching and [illegible] in any part of the body cured [illegible] Soap and [illegible] R. E. Phillips.

[illegible]

A well known local [illegible] in [illegible] was, at one time, the publisher of a weekly paper in the western part of the state. One day while pondering how he was to keep the machinery of the office in running order, a young lady entered his sanctum, and, in a winning way said:

"Mr. Editor, do you publish all you print?"

"Yes," was the ready answer.

"Well, says the vision of loviness, "I guess I won't let you do it."

"Do what?" ejuculated the mystified scissors wielder.

"Print a kiss on my cheek," was the answer, as the door softly closed behind her, leaving the projector of "the long felt want" to his sad, sad reflections. The question what did she mean? has not been solved by him yet.—Reno Gazette.

Thousands of children who die annually of those diseases incident to early childhood, could have been saved by Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup.

The painful consequences of imprudence in eating is speedily removed and the depression is quickly banished by the use of Laxador. 25cts.

Jenny Lind once had an offer of marriage from Dean Stanley.

Every woman who suffers from Sick Headache, and who dislike to take bitter doses, should try Carter's Little Liver Pills. They are the easiest of all medicines to take. A positive cure for the above distressing complaint; give prompt relief in Dyspepsia and Indigestion; prevent and cure Constipation and Piles. As easy to take as sugar. Only one pill a dose. 40 in a vial. Price 25 cents. If you try them you will not be without them.

It Is Well to Member.

That happiness is not perfection until it is shared.

That great possessions may bring great misfortunes.

That, foolish friend does more harm than a wise enemy.

That the hardest thing to empty out of the heart is conceit.

That it is not necessary to be mean because one is a man of means.

That good temper like a sunny day sheds a brightness over every thing.

That one of the causes that leads us to misfortune is that we live according to the example of others.—Good Housekeeping.

Silver Miners.

The miners of Montana undergo great hardships and exposure, and consequently coughs or throat troubles are very prevalent among them. In order to have an unfailing cure for these difficulties every miner carries with him a bottle of Van Wert's Balsam. Thompson & Brainard of Maiden, Montana, say: "We do not hesitate to recommend Van Wert's goods first, last and all the time for they never fail to give satisfaction."

Baby Louise.

A lady living in Detroit was called suddenly to Adrian, Mich., to wait on a sick relative, leaving her own little family at home. Before she could return her little child was taken ill, but as it had good care and a faithful doctor, the mother remained in Adrian, telephoning every few hours to know how "Baby Louise" was. At last, in response to the mother's question, a little sick voice at the other end of the telephone feebly answered:

"Me better, mamma; baby 'Ouise all yite now."

Baby's homesick mother took the next train for Detroit.—Detroit Free Press.

Seeing Miss Potter.

A.—You say young Bondclipper is a very close observer.

B.—Well, I should say that he was a clothes observer. He paid $200 for a ticket to see Miss Potter.—Texas Siftings.

J. B. Mason, Providence, R. I., suffered with pneumonia, accompanied with a dry cough, hoarseness and entire loss of voice. Physicians afforded him no relief. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry cured him and he says it saved his life.

DR. SCHENCK'S

Mandrake Pills have a value as a household remedy far beyond the power of language to describe. The family can hardly be true to itself that does not keep them on hand for use in emergencies.

* MANDRAKE *

Is the only vegetable substitute for that dangerous mineral, MERCURY, and while its action as a curative is fully equal, it possesses none of the perilous effects.

In Constipation, Mandrake acts upon the bowels without disposing them to subsequent Costiveness.

No remedy acts so directly on the liver, nothing so speedily cures Sick Headache, Sour Stomach and Biliousness as these PILLS.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is a peculiar medicine, and is carefully prepared by competent pharmacists. The combination and proportion of Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Yellow Dock, and other remedial agents is exclusively peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla, giving it strength and curative power superior to other preparations. A trial will convince you of its great medicinal value. Hood's Sarsaparilla creates and sharpens the appetite, stimulates the digestion, and gives strength to every organ of the body. It cures the most severe cases of Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Boils, Pimples, and all other affections caused by impure blood, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Headache, Kidney and Liver Complaints, Catarrh, Rheumatism, and that extreme tired feeling.

Purifies the Blood

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has helped me more for catarrh and impure blood than anything else I ever used." A. Ball, Syracuse, N. Y.

Creates an Appetite

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla to cleanse my blood and tone up my system. It gave me a good appetite and seemed to build me over." E. M. Hale, Lima, Ohio.

"I took Hood's Sarsaparilla for cancerous humor, and it began to act unlike anything else. It cured the humor, and seemed to tone up the whole body and give me new life." J. F. Nixon, Cambridgeport, Mass. Send for book giving statements of cures.

Boston young man (in Chicago)—Yes, I am naturally proud of my ancestry, Miss Breezy. Some of my ancestors came over in the Mayflower, you know. Miss Breezy (very much interested)—O, did they, indeed? Why, I saw the Mayflower when I was in New York last year.—Epoch.

Young Wife (at dinner table, sobbing)—I thing you—you—are just as mean as—as—you can be. I made that—that apple dumpling as a pleasant surprise for you, and—and now—you—want me to bring a hand saw to cut it in two with. Young Husband—Good heavens, Maria! Is that a dumpling? I took it for a cocoanut. (With desperate firmness) I'll eat it now, Maria, if it kills me.—Chicago Tribune.

A messenger boy came leisurely up the stairs and asked for one of the writers in the editorial rooms. He was shown the gentleman. "I say," he said, "did you send a boy up to Turk street a month ago?" "Yes, has he got back yet?" It dawned even upon the messenger boy, and he grinned so he could hardly say there was some question about an old message.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Brown's New Year's Call.

Old Mr. Brown, in grand array,
Set out to call on New Year's Day.

"God-bye!" exclaimed his help-mate, "now,
Remember, dear, your New Year's vow."

"This time I'll keep it, sure as life,"
He smiled and kissed his happy wife.

Each time he passed a liquor shop
He looked away and wouldn't stop.

He met three cronies on the street:
"Come in," they urged, "we want to treat."

"No! I've sworn off," Brown nobly said,
"My nose shall not be painted red."

"Hurrah!" they cried, "we'll swear off, too."
(This shows what good examples do.)

"There's nothing now can make me fall,"
Brown thought, as he went in to "call."

"A happy New Year's, ladies!" cried
Our hero, bowing, when inside.

"The same to you, and many more,"
The ladies answered, as of yore.

For just five minutes altogether
The angels talked about the weather.

Then led Brown to the table, where
They heaped his plate with New Year's fare.

Poor Brown! He balanced on his knees
That plate, and tried to hold a sneeze.

Which, bursting like a thunder clap,
Shot plate and all from off his lap.

"O! Mr. Brown, you've taken cold,"
Cried out the ladies, young and old.

Alas! upon that table stood
Decanters filled with no one's good.

And dainty hands commenced to fill
The glasses, to allay Brown's chill.

"Ahem!" Brown blushed, and gave a cough,
"Excuse me, ladies! I've sworn off."

"O, New Year's day don't count," they smiled,
As, Eve-like, they poor Brown beguiled.

And, Adam-like, Brown fell anew,
Because the ladies asked him to.

A soft white hand presented brandy;
Brown drank—then felt quite like a dandy.

Another offered him some sherry;
He drank it, and grew very merry.

A wife and mother gave him whisky;
Another port; Brown now was frisky.

"(Hic). Happy New Year' (hic) I shay—
Lots of 'em, ladies! (hic) Hoo-ray!!"

And then—the truth, shall here be told,
He kissed each female, young and old.

"Help! Murder! Thieves! Police!" they shrieked,
While husbands mad, rushed in and wreaked

On Brown their vengeance, till, most dead,
With shattered vows and broken head,

He, in an ambulance was sent
To face his wife, and there repent.

MORAL.

Now, ladies near, and ladies far,
Don't keep on New Year's Day a bar,

For many a man slips off the brink
When women tempt him thus to drink.

Another's husband, son—perhaps
Your own—may from these New Year traps

His ruin find. O, ladies, all,
Care for the Browns, who'll on you call.

H. C. Dodge

THE PROPER THING.

Felt English walking hats are fashionably worn.

Pretty, undyed seal jackets for young ladies' wear are very stylish.

Ulsters are made in a variety of pretty ways. Braid is a favorite trimming.

Gold embroidery and gold braiding are employed on silk and woolen materials.

Long, double-breasted coachman coats are worn by girls from eight to ten years.

Young ladies wear black velvet toques with a single quill pointing upward from the back.

Ball gowns for young ladies touch the ground; for married women they are made quite long.

Low-crowned pokes with projecting fronts which shade the eyes are becoming to young faces.

Loops of ribbon coming up from the back of the crown find great favor for trimming bonnets.

Long, loose folds, making full fronts and soft crowns, are marked features of bonnets this season.

Fur will be the craze of the winter season just before us. It is already to be found everywhere on the toilet.

A couple of yards of embroidered cloth introduced with plain material transforms a simple gown into an elaborate one.

Fur trimmed bonnets are suitable for this climate, and for this purpose sable, beaver and black Persian lamb are much used.

Among the novelties in fine woolens are braided stripes, woven in bold relief to represent rows of braid sewed to the fabric.

Fancy muffs made to match the toilet, and formed of a combination of rich materials are small and compact. Muffs of fur will be much larger, and in Paris and London are quite immense in size.

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, and are satisfied that purging yourself till you are weak and sick is not good common sense, then try Carter's Little Liver Pills and learn how easy it is to be free from Biliousness, Headache, Constipation, and all Liver troubles. These little pills are smaller, easier to take, and give quicker relief than any pill in use. Forty in a vial. One a dose. Price 25 cents.

A Different Object

Elderly member of the church (to young man lingering on the outside).—"Are you seeking the Lord, my young friend?"

REMINISCENCES OF PUBLIC MEN.

When it was asserted that President Hayes would listen to recommendations from Congressmen for office when he had made the appointments several days before, the following Indiana story was told:

"A Rural justice of the peace, Squire Edmunds, a cousin of the Senator from Vermont, flourished amid the chills and fever on the banks of the Wabash. A case of great local interest was being tried before him without a jury. The attorney for the plaintiff had spoken for two hours and appeared as if just getting started in his exordium. The defendant's counsel, with a huge roll of manuscript sat near him taking page on page of notes. The court-room was crowded. As the hands of the clock pointed to the hour of noon Squire Edmunds arose, motioned to the attorneys and said: "When the learned counsel have concluded their able argument they will find my decision in this drawer; I wrote it out last night. The Court is going to dinner.'"

Hawthorne came here during the war with his publisher and friend, W. D. Ticknor, of Boston, and they were constantly together, occupying the same room. Hawthorne was about 5 feet ten inches in height, rather broad shoulders, but slender in person. His hair was turning gray; his eyebrows were heavy, his eyes were blue-black, and he wore a full beard and moustache. He was a good pedestrian, and it was difficult for Mr. Ticknor to keep up with him in their daily walks to and from the Capitol, or their exploring tramps around Washington. He called on Mr. Lincoln one morning, Dawes presented a whip made in Western Massachusetts, and wrote a very amusing account of the scene, which appeared, emasculated, in the Atlantic Monthly, although James T. Fields, afterwards printed what he had stricken out. At that time there were not many of Hawthorne's Democratic friends in Washington, but he and Ticknor had a jovial time, paying morning and afternoon visits to Hancock's "Old Curiosity Shop," to enjoy the fruit punches made there.

When Mr. Lincoln heard of the scattering of the Confederates under Hood by Gen. Thomas, he was reminded of the following anecdote: "Out in lower Illinois there was a butcher named Sykes, who had a large, wicked, mischievous bull-dog which was regarded as a town nuisance. Fowl were killed, clothes were pulled from the lines, meat-houses were robbed, children were scared, and Sykes dog was blamed for all and blamed justly. Now, there was a man named Henderson who had a fine turkey killed by this do of Sykes', and he swore revenge. So he took about a quarter of a pound of powder and did it up in a piece of buckskin, tying up a piece of punk so that it projected out of the little budle of powder. Then he put the bundle in a large piece of corn bread and had it in readiness. It was not long before Sykes' dog came trotting along, and Henderson, lighting the punk with his cigar, threw the bit of bread to the cur, who gobbled it at a mouthful. The next minute there was an explosion. The dog's head was blown over the fence into the creek, his hind legs and tail were sent up and lodged on Henderson's porch, his fore legs were thrown across the street, and the rest of the bow-bow was laid about in small pieces. "Whorra!" exclaimed a looker-on, "you've rather used up Sykes' dog hain't ye, Henderson?" "Yes," replied Henderson, "I rather think that as a dog Sykes won't find him of much use." "And so of the rebel army," added Mr. Lincoln, with one of his smiles, "as an army, Hood won't find it of much use."

Thad Stevens was emphatically the leader of the House," and he exercised despotic rule over his followers. No Republican Representative could impose his imperious will without receiving a tongue lashing that terrified, if it did not bring the refractory member back into the partisan harness. Rising by degrees, as a telescope is pulled out, until he stood in a most ungraceful attitude, his heavy black hair falling down over his cavernous brows and his cold little eyes twinkling with anger, he would make some ludicious remark, and then rising up to his full height, he would lecture the offender against party discipline, sweeping at him his large, bony white hand in ungraceful gestures, as if he would clutch him and shake him. His brows would contract, his eyes would glow like live coals, and he would use invectives which he took good care should never be printed in the Globe. John Randolph, in his braggart days, was never so imperiously insulting as was "Old Thad" when he was leader of the House.

Stevens was a firm believer in the old maxim ascribed to the Jesuits, "The end justifies the means," and while he set morality at defiance, he was a faithful champion of the equality of the black and white races. There was an undercurrent of dry humor about him, too, that often disarmed his political opponents. When Keitt, of South Carolina, was once ulogizing the institution of slavery, and talking about a pious deacon on his own plantation, Stevens grimly inquired what the price of deacons was in the Orangeburg District of South Carolina, and whether a negro would bring any more on the auction-block because he was a deacon? When the invading rebels burned his iron foundry near Gettysburg, during their raid into Pennsylvania, he expressed his regret that Lee did not order the burning of his liabilities at the same time. And the ruling passion was strong in death, for when his doctor said one day during his last sickness: "Mr. Stevens, I think your appearance is better to-day!" old Thad dryly responded. "It isn't my appearance that troubles me, doctor, but my disappearance."

SULLIVAN IN ACTION.

He Puts His Terrible Right to Some Use in London.

A special cable to the New York Sun from London, November 28, says:

John Lawrence Sullivan, who has conquered this land as even the best-advertized Briton never conquered America, is back once more in London. He arrived last night and began almost at once by making himself useful to society. Certain little streets off the leading thoroughfares are infested by men who beg, relying upon their size and general fierceness rather than upon any melting tale of misery to draw contributions. These men make uncomfortable the lives of timid Londoners who have to be out late. About 1 o'clock this morning Sullivan, with his backer, Harry Phillips, was going home from the Pelican Club to his lodgings in Harley street. Two men, very big but evidently with very little judgment, requested in surly tones the loan of a pound. Sullivan recognized the wild species of footpad and walked on. One of the fellows then began pulling at his arm, while the other opened up a wonderful current of East End profanity. Sullivan retorted in a style that left the East End out of sight, and threw the end of his lighted cigar in the face of the larger of the men.

Phillips meanwhile, who was, as may be imagined, little disturbed, advised the threatening beggars kindly, saying: "Take my advice and get out. That man'll kill you."

The advice was wasted, and the larger man, who, seeing Sullivan's white shirt front, never dreamed a fighter was near, offered in choice cockney to fight the champion of the world for a sanguinary tanner, which means twelve cents.

In about a second he found out what Paddy Ryan and other great men have learned about Sullivans right, and in the language of the ring he was asleep in a gutter. The other spurious beggar waited just long enough to hear a young sprig from the Pelican Club exclaim, "Well done, Sullivan," and then with an oath that expressed astonishment he made a record as a runner. The policeman who had charge of that part of the town was affable. He recognized the great man, advised Sullivan to give an assumed name and address, as it might make trouble if he should prove to have killed the cove, said he recognized the cove as a "bad 'un" and "desperate 'un," and lugged him off to have cold water turned on him.

The story is being industriously told now at the Pelican Club, and has raised the great man from Boston even higher in the minds of the youthful patrons of that temple of sport. Most of them are better able to look at a fight than to take part in it, and many probably have been worried by gentlemen similar to the one whom Sullivan with one blow has probably driven from the neighborhood of the club.

The nerve which never relaxes, the eye which never blanches, the thought that never wanders, these are the masters of victory. Warner's Log Cabin Hops and Buchu Remedy is nature's remedy for nervous diseases. Have the wisdom to try it. Only $1.

COLOGNE.

Cologne is chiefly interesting to visitors on account of its Cathedral and its Cologne water. To see the one and to buy some of the other are the two great objects of travelers here. But, apart from these principal attractions, we shall find the city very interesting. Most of the streets are queer and old, some of the houses dating from the thirteenth century; and the Rhine, which is here crossed by a long bridge of boats, presents a very busy and lively scene with its craft of many kinds.

The real Cologne water is made by Johann Maria Farina, but when we go out to buy some, we may be a little perplexed by finding that there are some thirty or forty people of this name, all of whom keep shops for the sale of Cologne water. There are a great many decendants of the original inventor of this perfume, and the law does not permit any one to assume the name who does not belong to the family; but the boy babies of the Farinas are generally baptized Johann Maria, so that they can go into the Cologne water business when they grow up. There are two or three shops where the best and "original" water is sold, and at one of these we buy some of the celebrated perfume, generally sold to travelers in small wooden boxes containing four or six bottles, which we get at a very reasonable price compared with what we have to pay for it in America. We cannot take much more than this, because Cologne water is classed as spirits by the custom-house authorities in England, and each traveler is allowed to bring only a small quantity of it into that country.—St. Nicholas.

Improving the Erie Canal.

There are unmistakeable evidences of the approach of busy times along the Erie Canal. At nearly every lock great piles of cut stone are to be seen and these will be used in enlarging and improving the locks through the valley, they to be enlarged so as to admit two boats at a time. This will give employment to many hundred men who, usually in the winter season have no work. The legislature appropriated $200,000 for these much needed improvements.—Albany Argus.

Simply Heavenly [illegible]

American Watches.

The capacity of our watch factories cannot be brought into full play, simply because by so doing our market would be overstocked and competition would force prices ruinously low. As the case stands at present, a number of watch factories have been called into existence, for which really there was no need. The earlier and larger factories were fully able to meet the demand; but the idea that manufacturing watches was one of the most profitable enterprises tempted quite a number of capitalists to take a hand in the business, and in many instances to their sorrow. Already the evil consequence of overdoing the thing shows itself in the effort to make cheap watches, and before a great while we may see the manufacturer of watches reduced to the level of making cheap clocks.

Looking at the matter from another standpoint, we will soon come to the conclusion that our watch industry is only in its infancy. At the present moment Switzerland makes watches in point of number far in excess of America and the watches made in Switzerland are all exported, while the watches made in America are principally for the home market. As there is no question of a doubt that while America can produce better modern-priced watches than Switzerland and give more value for the money expended, the question presents itself, why not seek foreign markets more energetically than we have done? Some of our old watch factories are doing an export business, but it seems as though it is not done with that zeal and energy that characterize the Swiss export trade. In one particular the Swiss differ from us in their export trade; they study the wants and purchasing capacity of their foreign customers and make goods to meet these. As far as it is known to the uninitiated, our manufactures have done these things but to a very limited extent. The writer, coming in contact some time ago with the chairman of the East India Navigation Company, was told that this gentleman would place a very large continuous order, if he could be supplied with watches which were fair time-keepers in metal cases at $5 each. That such watches can be produced at a very fair profit, there is no shadow of a doubt, and we know whereof we speak. All we would have to do would be to find out the wants and furnish samples. Australia and Asia are now and will be excellent markets, and by expedition and energy we can secure the bulk of the trade of these. The watch wearing and purchasing capacity of the globe is enormous and can be developed in such a manner that we may at some future day wonder that we did not tap the mine sooner.—Jewelry News.

A Mother's Devotion.

There has just been entered as a student at one of the great colleges of this city a lad whose education is to be paid for by the proceeds of the labor of a heroine. This boy comes from the country, and when she wrote to enter him at college she said in her letter: "At last I can give my boy the blessed privileges of education. The money has been hardly earned I earned every penny of it by walking in the cotton fields picking cotton." Before the war this Spartan mother was a great lady. She owned many slaves and rode in a carriage and had a box at the Opera, with jewels and fine gowns a plenty. To-day she walks down the cotton fields that once were hers and patiently picks off the fleece, for which she is paid for picking so much a pound.—New Orleans Picayune.

The Question Settled.—Those eminent men, Dr. James Clark, Physician to Queen Victoria, and Dr. Hughes Bennett, say that consumption can be cured. Dr. Wistar knew this when he discovered his widely known Balsam of Wild Cherry, and experience has proved the correctness of his opinion.

HETTY GREEN IN CHICAGO.

Lending Money and Buying and Selling Real Estate.

Hetty Green, worth twice as much, probably, as Phil Armour, weighs just about the same and gets down town to her Dearborn street office at just about the same hour that the packer reaches his La Salle street headquarters. All these statements are at variance with popular notions. Very few people, indeed, probably have had any idea that Hetty Green had a Chicago office. Then, too, every popular picture of the woman worth $32,000,000 has been of a thin, angular, vinegary female whose clothes dragged on the ground. She is, in fact, a big, plump woman, who must turn the scales at 180 pounds, and her togs are first-class. The Howland block is here, and her private office is on the second floor, in the rooms of her Chicago agents. She has been here some weeks, and her son, an amiable, unassuming sort of a young fellow, is here permanently over at 42 Ann street.

A broker who had a loan to make met Hetty Green on the street at 9 o'clock one morning this week and presented the opportunity to her. "That was offered to me at 7 o'clock this morning," she said sharply, "and I refused it." The broker had an idea that woman with more money than they knew how to invest laid abed until about 10. Mrs. Green doesn't spend any of her money at the hotels. She takes lodgings with her agent down on the south side, comes down on an early car, and during the day walking is good enough for her. The boy doesn't weigh much more than half as much as his mother, but has some of the maternal instincts. The expense of printing a business card would be abomination. So he has a little rubber stamp, and when a card is at all necessary he tears off a little piece of paper—from a newspaper in one instance that the writer knows of—and stamps thereon: "E. H. H. Green, Real Estate, 42 Ann street.

Hetty Green owns the Howland block. She loaned Honore $250,000 on it when he was flying high, and when he couldn't pay the interest Hetty took the porperty. A broker says he would like to have it to sell now at $750,000. She had a $250,000 mortgage on the Major block at the same time, and was very much disgruntled because the owner was able to get around and redeem. She has big blocks of improved property all over the city. Her big investments here, however, are in loans. They are believed to aggregate about $3,000,000.

THE HOLIDAYS

And the coldest winter weather are now rapidly approaching. The joyful season is eagerly anticipated by young folks in thousands of homes; but in nearly all there are one or more older ones to whom the cold waves and the storms mean renewed suffering from rheumatic back or limbs. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a positive specific for rheumatism; we doubt if there is or can be such a remedy. But the remarkable success Hood's Sarsaparilla has had in curing this affection is sufficient reason for those who are suffering to try this peculiar medicine.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.

With the November, 1887, issue The Century commences its thirty-fifth volume with a regular circulation of almost 250,000. The War Papers and the Life of Lincoln increased its monthly edition by 100,000. The latter history having recounted the events of Lincoln's early years, and given the necessary survey of the political condition of the country, reaches a new period, with which his Secretaries were most intimately acquainted. Under the caption

Lincoln in the War,

the writers now enter on the more important part of their narrative, viz.: the early years of the War and President Lincoln's part therein.

Supplementary War Papers,

following the "battle series" by distinguished generals, will describe interesting features of army life, tunneling from Libby Prison, narratives of personal adventure, etc. General Sherman will write on "The Grand Strategy of the War."

Kennan on Siberia.

Except the Life of Lincoln and the War Articles, no more important series has ever been undertaken by the Century than this of Mr. Kennan's. With the previous preparation of four years' travel and study in Russia and Siberia, the author undertook a journey of 15,000 miles for the special investigation here required. An introduction from the Russian Minister of the Interior admitted him to the principal mines and prisons, where he became acquainted with some three hundred State exiles,—Liberals, Nihilists, and others,—and the series will be a startling as well as accurate revelation of the exile system. The many illustrations by the artist and photographer, Mr. George A. Frost, who accompanied the author, will add greatly to the value of the articles.

A Novel by Eggleston

with illustrations will run through the year. Shorter novels will follow by Cable and Stockton. Shorter fictions will appear every month.

Miscellaneous Features

will comprise several illustrated articles on Ireland, by Charles De Kay; papers touching the field of the Sunday School Lessons, illustrated by E. L. Wilson; Wild Western Life, by Theodore Roosevelt; the English Cathedrals, by Mrs. Van Rensselaer, with illustrations by Pennell; Dr. Buckley's valuable papers on Dreams, Spiritualism, and [illegible]; [illegible] art, travel, and biography; poems; cartoons; etc.

WHEN A WOMAN

becomes afflicted with a Kidney disease life is truly a burden. The female organization is so constituted as to be pecurlarly susceptible to it; is easily controlled by it, and is rapidly develope and spreads until the whole fabric is affected and there is no time when she is free from pain. Refreshing sleep is unknown, the long weary hours of the night are followed by equally long hours of the day, and so the months and years pass, bringing as they roll away increased burdens.

Mrs. C. P. Bracket, wife of a town official of Hermon, Me., had severe case of kidney disease. In time she became so afflicted with continuous pains across the small of the back, weary, heavy, hearing down pains, heavy, dull feeling between the shoulders with occasional spells of "sick headache," as well as other troubles peculiar to this disease in women, so that she at times gave up in dispair. She was confined to her house, deprived of all social intercourse with friends and neighbors, and was day and night a constant sufferer. One day she read an advertisement issued by us describing symptoms of kidney disease, and persuaded her husband to buy a bottle of Brown's Sarsaparilla which she used. She said it helped her and her husband, having no faith in patent medicines, laughed and told her she was no better, and that "faith" and "hope" had revived her temporarily. He bought the second and third however, and like the first, they helped her rapidly along the road to health. The remedy was continued until Mrs. Brackett was restored, and she has now been for over two years free from all symptoms of kidney disease. This case which was perhaps as serious a one as ever came to the notice of the medical fraternity of this section, attracted wide-spread attention at the time, and stamped beyond all dispute the fact that Brown's Sarsaparilla was a deadly foe to Kidney disease.

The Times Annual.

THE TIMES will issue on or about Jan. 1st, an Annual for the year 1888, which will contain a calender with tables calculated for this latitude, eclipses, etc. Church Days, latest United States Postal Regulations, Prize Recipes, an official and business directory of Fulton, poems, reading selections and much other of an interesting and instructive nature. The whole is beautifully illustrated by leading artists, mostly American. 1,000 of these Annuals will be given free to the friends and patrons of THE TIMES in Oswego County. A small amount of advertising space remains undisposed of in this beautiful souvenir which merchants or business men can secure at a reasonable rate by calling at THE TIMES office on or before Saturday, Dec. 17th.

REV. MR. BERRY of England has after all declined to fill Beechers pulpit in Plymouth church. The announcement by Dr. Lyman Abbott Sunday was an unexpected blow, when the following cablegram was read:

Don M. Dickinson, the nominee for postmaster general, is a native Oswego county boy. He was born at Port Ontario, Jan. 17, 1846, but went to Detroit in early childhood. He is a thorough gentleman, with literary tastes, has a young and attractive wife, and is the recognized leader of the Michigan Democracy.

Considerable excitement, but fortunately no serious injury resulted from a collision in front of the Boston Bazaar yesterday afteroon. A carriage containing Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harwood of Oswego Falls, was overturned by a team driven by Mr. Potter of Granby. The lady was thrown out and received several bruises, Mr. Harwood was also considerably bruised. At one time horses with the wagons and their occupants were all mixed up in a heterogeneous mass and it looked as though someone would be killed. The carriage was badly broken.

(Special Correspondence to THE TIMES).

John Sheffield is on the sick list.

Mrs. Sofrona Rhodes of Lansing, Scriba, Oswego county, died Monday, Dec. 5, 1887, of heart disease. Aged 63 years.

Milton DuBois, an old Scriba boy, died at Milwaukee, Nov. 28, of injuries received from the bursting of an emery wheel. The remains arrived here Saturday, Dec. 3d. The funeral was held from the Baptist church at North Scriba, Sunday Dec. 4, it being conducted by the I. O. O. F. of which order he was a member. Mr. DuBois was about 35 years of age and was respected by all. He leaves a wife and a brother, Daniel DuBois, proprietor of the Lake View House, the only surviving member of the large family of Samuel M. DuBois of Scriba, deceased. Mr. DuBois had always lived in Scriba until about six months ago when he went to Milwaukee.

Deafness Can't Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the of the mucus surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

[illegible]
A [illegible] How [illegible] with [illegible] His Chances for Speaker.

[Special to THE TIMES.]

As predicted in a former letter to THE TIMES, Johann Most, the high and mighty of Anarchism, was again convicted of violating the public peace and of uttering seditious language.

His conviction rested mainly upon the evidence of a reporter or two and the very fulminations which from time to time Most has sprung upon an already disgusted general public. The court, who in this instance was City Judge Cowing, dealt very leniently with him by imposing a sentence of but one year on Blackwell's Island.

For pure and unadulterated cheek and unlimited gall commend me to a man of Most's stripe. He urged that it would be eminently proper in his case because of its great peculiarity that the ends of justice would be best served by granting him a stay of sentence, so that a review of his trial could be had before he began to serve time. Judge Cowing very generously granted the same and one of Most's lady friends, a Miss Ida Hoffman, became his surety in a bond of $5,000.

There have been some funny developments during Most's trial. Some strange freaks of human nature. He has not been lacking in female sympathizers. I reckon it's a peculiarity of the female make up to express morbid sentimentality; but just why Most should be the object of this especial regard, the student of human nature will need to hunt a long time for a satisfactory solution. There certainly is nothing in Most's appearance or in his personal attire to warrant any such regard. He is a short round bodied, beery-built man. His head is bullet shaped with a brutal, brutish face, crowned by a mop of electrified blonde hair and fringed with a shoe brush beard. There is absolutely nothing about him which suggests the annuities of a civilized existence. Yet the apparently respectable youngerly women crowed about him and lavished upon him the attentions which, were their object a more refined person or the sentiments which he represented more in keeping with the acknowledged ends of society, would be entirely in keeping. Most acknowledges that New York soil is not conducive to the growth, the germination of Anarchistic seed. His Freiheit will probably be more circumspectly conducted and in as much as it is his only source of income and support, save, perhaps, the free lunches of Printing House Square, he will advocate a form of socialism, There is no doubt of his sentence being confirmed and a year's stay on the "Isle de Blackwell" may be of some benefit to him.

I think we have seen the last "Boodle trial." The new trial which the Court of Appeals has granted Jacob Sharp will in my judgment never take place. No man knows the exact physical condition of Sharp. No man knows the bargains, the deals, the understandings which surround the new District Attorney. Nor can any man tell just how much money Sharp may have spent to secure this new trial. But this opinion may be taken as a good one that a rich criminal has more hope of that heaven known as judicial clemency than a poor man. In fact we might slightly change the saying of Divine Writ to, how hardly for a poor man to gain a favorable decision.—Who doubts Sharp's guilt? Who doubts the guilt of the other twenty Aldermen? Who doubts that the scheme was a corrupt one from top to bottom? Few, indeed.

I presume that Sharp's favorable decision was due among other things to his counsel, Rourke Cochran. Cochran is certainly a wonder in his way. He came prominently into notice in 1884, at the Chicago National Democratic Convention when he with Grady became the mouthpiece of John Kelly in his fight against the county Democrats. Cochran is a stout, well built man, of Irish extraction. A product of our common schools. A graduate of a law firm here. He is a pleader, pure and simple. A talking machine would better express his ability. He is wordy, eloquent and graceful in his address. When in the fullest flights of eloquence, it is almost impossible for the stenographer to follow him and his words pour forth in a steady torrent at the rate of 250 per minute. He by reason of the action of the Court of Appeal, enjoys the distinction of being the only man who has obtained a reversal of Judge Barrett's decision. Cochran is a Congressman from this city, and no doubt the county at large will hear more of him. He, with "Sunset" Cox and "Shirt Collar" Spinola will make a triplet very hard indeed to beat.

A musical wonder has appeared upon the musical platform this winter who bids fair to rival all former artists in his ability. By many he is regarded as a second Mozart. This wonder is Josef Hoffman, a lad less than twelve years of age. To fill the big Metropolitan opera house at 4 p. m. with an audience, composed of as many men as women, is not an easy thing to do, yet this little musical wonder has accomplished this twice. I presume that the four performances he has given show a net proceeds of $20,000.

Critics differ as to this boy. By some he is regarded as a genius. By others he is simply an endowed automaton. Certainly his musical abilities are very marvelous, and the writer is inclined to think him a musical genius—a second Mozart. His playing is brilliant, poetic, full of feeling, a perfect rendition of the authors theme. There appears to be no mechanical effort, but a pure heart interest in the score being played. Musicians will understand something of his wonderful playing when told that this boy pianist plays Mozart and Chopin and Rubinstein and Beethoven's great masterpieces with accuracy, beauty and feeling. I presume it is in his extemporizations that Josef Hoffman exhibits his greatest power. Themes to him unknown have been played but once in his hearing and upon them he has improvised in variations of beauty that show true genius. The [illegible]

It is to be [illegible] no stone unturned [illegible] inwardness of the telephone business. The telephone business of this city is layed under the control of the Metropolitan company. It has in its service about 6,100 instruments which pay a rental from $60 to $360 per year. It has a capital of two millions or there about and owns a magnificent business building which in addition to accommodating the business of the company gives office accommodations to lawyers and other professional men. Hence a good rental is added to the very generous earnings of the company. A telephone with its transmitter costs about $1, perhaps $1.50. This company, of course, pays to the parent company in Boston a rental of $10 for the use of these instruments. There are about 230 miles of wire strung about the city for its use and it operates within a district covered by a radius of 33 miles from City Hall. Mr. Ainsworth found that the company's profits reached 300 per cent. per year. Of course this fact was denied by the company, giving the great losses by storms and floods, etc., as possible agents to deplete the earnings.

The city is now putting conduits through the streets for the wires. In the event of their completion, this element of loss will be iliminated. It becomes therefore, proper for legislative investigating committees to find out wherein these excessive tolls can be largely reduced.

I see, by the way, that Mr. Ainsworth may become Speaker. At least such is the talk where politicians are wont to congregate. It largely depends on the possibilities of Mr Husted's failure to become the caucus nominee. The Bald Eagle of Westchester has been Speaker five times and is anxious to break the record. In the event of his failure it will then be anything to beat Mr. Cole, and Mr. Ainsworth will become the compromise candidate. That's the talk in political circles here. THE TIMES readers are at liberty to judge it at its worth. WANDERER.

THE advantage of using an article that is pure and always uniform, is, you are certain of having the same satisfactory results. Eight prominent Professors of Chemistry, of national reputation, have analyzed the IVORY SOAP, and the variation in each is so trifling that the quality of the "IVORY" may be considered reliably uniform. Each pronounced it to be remarkably pure, and a superior laundry soap.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

Declared to be a Hoax.

The following, in substance an article which appeared in the the New York World last week, is pronounced to be the worst hoax of the kind ever perpetrated on that guileless town:

The disappearance of Miss Alice Wrightson of Parish, this county heiress of the late Philip Wrightson, together with that of Henry McAulay, a railroad brakeman, has caused a great sensation in this section. Miss Wrightson inherits about $30,000 from her father. She is supposed to have eloped with Henry McAulay, a railroad brakeman. It is known McAulay met her and hiring a carriage from a farmer, drove to Mexico, where cars were taken for the west. Miss Wrightson mailed a letter at Parish announcing her elopement. She said she could not live without McAulay, and no matter what his lot she would share it with him. Her brothers say they will shoot McAulay on sight.

A Fatal Accident.

David Thompson, a farmer two and one-half miles west of Central Square met with a horrible death last Wednesday afternoon. He was sawing wood with a buzz saw, and when running at full speed, the saw tore from the carriage, and striking Thompson on his left side, cut down through his left shoulder to his heart. By the help of those present he reached the house, where he died in a few minutes. Ransom Owen, of Palermo, father-in-law of deceased, and who was working with Thompson, narrowly escaped being killed by the saw at the same time. Thompson leaves a wife and child.

Dey Brothers & Co., of Syracuse, are rising into prominence more rapidly than any other Dry Goods House in these parts. Their methods of business are fundamentally sound, and the public confidence reposed in them is specially manifested in the continual growth of their mail department.

Ladies from a distance can rely on their orders from samples being filled as carefully and as satisfactorily as when they buy from the piece, and at the same price. The Mail Department is thus a public benefit, and correspondence is invited. It will be a pleasure to Dey Brothers & Co. to attend carefully to orders sent from a distance as much as to wait on those who visit their stores and inspect personally their stocks.

It was a great mistake if you purchase holiday goods before seeing the immense line displayed at the Boston Bazaar.

"John"—Said a fond wife as her husband put on his overcoat preparatory to going down town, "I wish you would send up a sack of that Roller process Graham flour. I want True Bros. you know—they are the only Millers who make the Roller process Graham and Corn Meal,—and by the way, you might as well send up a sack of their Roller granulated meal; it is nice, and will keep. Now dont make a mistake John, go to True Bros. when you get that splendid Buckwheat flour, you know, and come to dinner early"—John complied, and so things are pleasant at home.

What Two Fulton Boys Have Accomplished.

W. A. and C. G. Warner spent their early days in this village with their father, a harness maker. When the war broke out the elder brother enlisted and served through the war. In 1869 they went to Syracuse, opened a small plating business and gained an increasing patronage. Three years ago they took out a patent for a simple device for inserting a small piece of solid silver in plated articles at the points where there is the most wear. During last year an additional patent, securing to them the manner of applying this silver, was taken out. The editors of the Scientific American noticed the invention and, of their own will, published a cut, with favorable mention. This attracted the attention of the Holmes & Edwards Silver company of Bridgport, Ct., and they at once commenced to negotiations with the Warner Brothers. They could not buy the patent, but secured the right to manufacture on a royalty, readily advancing $4,000 as a beginning. As soon as it was learned that this company wanted to get hold of the business a leading banking house in Syracuse offered to form a stock company with $100,000 capital, taking a good share, but the Warners considered themselves bound by their agreement with the Bridgeport company. The business will prove one of the large industries of Syracuse.

Fire at Williamstown.

On Sunday morning about six o'clock fire was discovered in O. H. Farresworth's furniture and box shop situated on Fish creek in the town of Williamstown. The alarm was sounded and the inhabitants turned out but the fire had made such progress that nothing could be saved and the shop and entire contents were destroyed. Considerable stock as well as machinery was burned. The loss is upwards of $5,000. The origin of the fire is unknown but supposed to be from a defective chimmey.

MEIGS-UNDERHILL CONCERT CO.

The Second Entertainment in the Course.

At the Opera House Tuesday evening of next week, Dec. 20th inst.

The Meigs Sisters were born in New York and were the grandchildren of the Rev. Benjamin C. Meigs, who sailed from Boston in 1818, as a missionary to India, where he remained 40 years. He is still remembered in Boston. In the opinion of eminent musicians in New York, the ladies are the finest quartet vocalists in the United States, and the fact that they are sisters makes the combination of voices the more marvelous.

Among their selections may be enumerated some of the quartet of Mendelssohn, Schubert, Schumann, etc, etc. They do not however, confine themselves to the work of the great masters, but include in their repertoire selections from some of the most popular, if less famous, composers of the day.

Mr. Chas. F. Underhill occupies a foremost place in the rank of public readers and humorists, He enjoys a constantly increasing popularity which is founded on genuine merit, and we believe no one possesses a larger repertoire for miscellaneous programs. In announcing its first "Readers' Course," the Young Men's Christian Association of New York, included Mr. Underhill's name among "the five greatest readers of the country."

The Meigs sisters and Mr. Underhill spent several days at Chatauqua last season, to the delight of our great audiences. The young ladies are highly cultivated singers, rendering the most classical music with ease and effectiveness. Their charming part songs can never be excelled at Chautauqua. Mr. Underhill is a remarkable reader, a master of pathos and humor, and has a repertoire apparently inexhaustable.

J. H. VINCENT.

The Meigs sisters are beyond dispute the finest lady quartets in the country. Their melodious voices, blended in exquisite harmonies, went straight to the hearts of their hearers, The singing, artistic in its perfection appealed as strongly to the judgment of the critic as to the senses of the layman and delighted everyone. The same praise is due Mr. Underhill, who renders a great variety of literary matter in a scholarly manner. He thoroughly understands all the mysteries of the art.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The uniform opinion of everyone who have heard this entertainment is the same.

To accommodate the greatest number of patrons, the assignment and sale of reserved seats, will take place at the Opera House ticket office, Friday evening of this week (the 16th inst.), at 7½ o'clock.

The Temple Quartet.

Not since their former appearance in February last have our citizens been treated to a more enjoyable evening than was given by the Temple Quartet Concert company on Friday evening. Their five singers rendered a pleasing program in a most delightful manner. Nearly every seat was taken and the splendid audience, at once appreciative and enthusiastic, encored nearly every member and much of their best music not on the program was given. No other male quartet in the country has so long been together and no other have sweeter voices or make more perfect harmony. But these were not all, Miss Chandler violinist, and Miss Hale in dramatic recitals greatly pleased the audience. The accuracy and expression in the playing of Miss Chandler fully equaling as many thought that of the late lamented Remenyi. Miss Hale's selections, although most difficult and demanding the finest shades of voice and expression, were rendered faultlessly and she was quickly recalled and delighted the audience with a humorous sketch "The Beginning of a Bad Boy." THE TIMES readers who were present will not deem this notice complete if a word of commendation is not given to the pianist, John Francis Gilder. In most troupes to fill the role of pianist is a thankless task and little credit or praise is bestowed upon this part of the program, but the exquisite, not to say wonderful playing of Mr. Gilder is a real delight and the cultivated audience gave unmistakable signs of its appreciation and were again delighted. Before the last number was given, they sang by request that beautiful piece of sacred harmony, "Lead Kindly Light." Mr. Stephens of the management is entitled to credit for furnishing this high grade of entertainment.

Education and Work.

Many persons believe that under the present system of education young people are acquiring a distaste for manual labor, and there is, consequently, danger that that the trade and agricultural occupations will be deserted by all but the most inefficient classes of workmen. Much of the experience of English and American society is in favor of this view, and the tendencies in France appear to be in the same direction. As an offset to what may be said in favor of it, The London Spectator directs attention to the fact that no dislike of work, even of the roughest character, has appeared among two of the best educated races. The Scotch, who have been taught for two hundred years, and are now more thoroughly trained than English national schoolboys, show no disposition to avoid labor, but are remarkable for persistent and fairly contented industry. The Prussian peasants, who are as educated as the English will be twenty years hence, work exceedingly hard, and in the country, where their holdings are their own, show none of the resentment at their fate which is manifested in the towns in the form of socialist aspirations. Gardeners who all over Great Britain are the best instructed of manual lalorers, work, more especially when working for themselves, with unusual diligence; and it is a matter of constant observation that a laborer who happens by accident to be a "bit of a scholar," can be depended upon when work presses and every man is required. The people of Rome, who can read and write, are far more diligen than the Neapolitans, who cannot; and the best workmen in Italy are those who have passed through the army, and so obtained what is practically an education. There seems to be no a priori reason why it should be otherwise.—Popular Science Monthly.

[illegible] Rural New-Yorker? It is the leading family weekly of the world. It is the first journal to have established experiment grounds which are conducted by its editors and owners. The best writers in the world. Over 600 contributors—800 illustrations from nature yearly. The Rural owns 68 acres of experiment grounds. All new seeds and plants are carefully tested and impartially reported. Progressive farmers, fruit-growers, stockmen, dairymen, florists—you cannot afford to do without this journal. Ask those who know if you do not. It admits no deceptive advertisements.

It is a Farm, Garden, Religious, News, Home and Literary Paper—all in one.

It will delight every member of the family. It costs more to publish than any other weekly journal. Fine paper, 16 pages, $2.00 a year. The best people of America will endorse the above claims. Send for free specimens that you may know. Compare them with other rural journals and subscribe for the best. Address the RURAL NEW YORKER, 34 Park Row, New-York.

WHY ?

Do you love fruit growing? Do you love flowers? Have you a little garden? Have you a large farm? Are you interested in cattle-raising, in the dairy? Do you keep bees, poultry? Do you love your family and desire to provide them with pure reading matter? Do you wish to keep your sons and daughters on the farm, and to make them happy and contented? Do you live in the East, West, North, or South? You should read the Rural New-Yorker. It is the leading farm weekly and costs more to publish than any other. Specimens free. Texas Cowboys.

The people of Texas are peculiarly liable to colds and coughs owing to certain qualities of the climate. Cough remedies are consequently in great demand. This is what Alexander Speer & Son, the foremost druggists of Blanco, Texas, say in regard to VanWert's Balsam: "We have sold all the Balsam and are forced to admit that it is the best selling article we ever had on our shelves and all because it gives satisfaction."

Professor C. L. Mees has ascerteined, by means of an air-gun that a velocity of 150 to 175 miles an hour is necessary in order to drive straws into pine boards and hickory bark, as has often been done by tornadoes.

A Sound Legal Opinion.

E. Bainbridge Munday Esq., County Att'y., Clay Co., Tex. says:" Have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My brother also was very low with Malarial Fever and Jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life."

Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters.

This great remedy will ward off, as well as Cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stands unequaled. Price 50c. and $1. at R. E. Phillips' Drug Store.

Don't Experiment.

You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always seems, at first, only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Because he can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good, or just the same. Don't be deceived, but insist upon getting Dr. King's New Discovery, which is guaranteed to give relief in all Throat, Lung and Chest affections. Trial bottle free at R. E. Phillips' Drug Store. People of Lowell It would require a volume to print all Lowell people have said in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Mr. Albert Estes, living at 29 East Pine Street, Lowell, for 16 years employed as boss carpenter by J. W. Bennett, president of the Erie Telephone Company, had a large running sore come on his leg, which troubled him a year, when he began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The sore soon grew less in size, and in a short time disappeared.

Jos. Dunphy, 214 Central Street, Lowell, had swellings and lumps on his face and neck, which Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured.

Praise Hood's Sarsaparilla

Mrs. C. W. Marriott, wife of the First Assistant Fire Engineer of Lowell, says that for 16 years she was troubled with stomach disorder and sick headache, which nothing relieved. The attacks came on every fortnight, when she was obliged to take her bed, and was unable to endure any noise. She took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after a time the attacks ceased entirely.

Many more might be given had we room. On the recommendation of people of Lowell, who know us, we ask you to try

SUCCESS. Are you mortgaged, paying heavy rents, or running behind? Can you move to new location? Excellent lands, cheap, which will increase in value several fold in five years. No other such opportunities existing. Full particulars, free, upon application to C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul Minn.

FAILURE OF CROPS is an unknown experience in Central and Northern Dakota and Minnesota. Maps and full particulars regarding lands, prices etc., sent free. Address C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul, Minn.

WHY WORK FOR ANOTHER, or on small salary? Why continue working on a worn-out farm? Why try to secure a living from such high-priced or heavily-mortgaged farms? Why work on rented land? WHY not start for yourself? Why not secure at once some of the high-priced but very fertile and well located lands adjacent to railroads now to be obtained by those going to Northern Dakota and Minnesota, where you can make a larger net profit per acre than on the high-priced or worn-out land you now occupy? Why not go and look the situation over, and see for yourself, or at least obtain further information, which will be sent free, if you will address C. H. WARREN, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

THE PROPER THING.

Tan color and gray remain the favorite colors for street gloves.

English pelerines or shoulder capes of fur are the caprice of the season.

Narrower rows of stitching are seen on the backs of the newest kid gloves.

The round skirt of wool costumes is quite plain, without even a foot pleating.

Mask veils are in all the fashionable colors, fawn gray, copper red, old rose and green.

Dresses of twilled wool, cashmere, and Henrietta cloth are prettily made up with watered silk.

The princesse gowns of cloth depend on fur for their trimming, as they have little drapery.

The bracelets in vogue are simply gold wires supporting one handsome stone, generally a diamond or opal.

Even handkerchiefs embroidered in gold are bought to match the gold trimmed gowns that are so fashionable this fall.

There is little change in the arrangement of basques. There is a tendency, however, to lengthen the sides of the basques.

Fur is not used merely as a trimming, but as vest, girdle, plastron, cuffs etc. Lower skirts as far as they are visible beneath the drapery, are made of fur.

Embroidery in metal braid is not confined to the vest fronts and cuffs for gowns, but trims some very stylish outer garments. Two sorts of metal braid are often used on one garment.

Velvet dresses are so simply made as to require a small quantity of material. They are cut with a princesse back, making a few loops for the tournure and with perfectly straight fronts, over which, if the figure requires it, a heavy cord is swung from the hips across the front.

THE CITY OF TOLEDO.

Interesting Discription of its Industries, Streets, Buildings, Schools, &c. as Furnished to "The Times" by a Fultonian.

To the Editor of THE TIMES:

I have already spent a short time in Toledo, and after visiting some of the public places I thought I would send a few lines picked up an my ramblings about the city.

The early settlers of Toledo were intelligent New Englanders and enterprising Yankees, with a few Germans, and they planned to provide for a great city. No city is better provided with drainage, and the fact that the death rate is lower than it any other city, shows the wisdom of this protection.

In the matter of manufactories, Toledo has a larger number, and a greater variety of industries than any other city of 100,000 inhabitants. There are, in all, over 800 different industries in Toledo.

There is near the city a large deposit of as fine glass sand as the world produces, and it is shipped to manufacturers in other cities.

There are two pipe lines furnishing the city with natural gas; and in many of the residences it is used for heating, cookery, etc., and makes a very pleasant and hot fire. There are also near the city the finest oil wells in the country.

Toledo has glass, sand, oil and natural gas at her very doors. Her faculties for distributing her products are unequaled. Her twenty-four railroads running into the five depots in the city, besides the lake and canal water facilities. These bring to the city the chief products of the great winter wheat belt from the west, the lumber from the north, and the coal from south-eastern Ohio.

There is practically nothing that capital or enterprise can desire, that Toledo cannot supply.

Toledo claims to have a larger number of beautiful residence streets, and a larger number of fine residences than any other city of like population in the country. It also has fine school buildings and the best class of schools. It has, perhaps, the best manuel training to be found in the world; also a noble business school, in the Toledo Business College, which has grown from a small school since I was here three years ago, to one of very large proportions, with its 302 students in daily attendance; also one of the finest Memorial buildings in the country. The general government is just completing a noble public building for a post office etc. There are a large number of fine churches. The fact that the city can show the lowest mortality rate, fine streets, the best of schools, and all that can be desired by those seeking investment for capital or enterprise, or homes for their families, must continue to give it pre-eminence.

Yours etc.,
Asa Phillips.

Board of Trustees Proceedings.

FULTON, Dec. 14, 1887.

Board met pursuant to adjournment.

Present, President Waugh and Trustees More, Rice, Kendrick and Pardee.

Minutes of last meeting read corrected and adopted.

The following bills were reported correct by by the finance committee and audited at the following amounts and the clerk directed to draw orders for the same on the proper funds:

M. C. Highriter Janitor,	$5.25
Alex. Bradford, highway labor,	11.50
Wm. Caffery, burying sheep for board of health,	1.00
Mary J. Hornibrook, rent of barn,	12.50
Hose Cart bell,	6.00
John White, gas for jail,	3.00
N. N. Stranahan, clerk,	25.00
Robert Stowe, work on coal bin engine house,	10.95

Trustee Rice reported that he had examined the assessment role with reference to Mr. Chesbro's assessment and found the matter all regular on its face.

Mr. Chesbro stated that he had been assessed personal property $2,500, and did not know of grievance day, and that he had not the property and wished the Board to refund the tax on the same. On motion matter laid over to next meeting.

Street Commissioner was instructed to erect signs at corners of Park warning persons not to drive on the same.

The Village Attorney reported that he had investigated the claim of Mr. Rogers against the Village for damages to his horse and had learned that there was some tin in the street in front of Baker's shop but did not know whether the horse was frightened at it or not—that if the horse was freightened by reason of an obstruction in the street of which the village had had notice, or should have had notice then the village would be liable. Also that he had talked with Mr. Howe representing Mr. Rogers who had said he would settle for $60.

Trustee Nichols came in.

On motion of Trustee Nichols the President was made a committee to settle the claim for a sum not to exceed $60.

On the above motion the ayes and neys were taken Trustees voting as follows: Trustees Nichols, Rice, Pardee and Kendrick voting aye. Trustee More asked to be excused from voting.

On motion the clerk was directed to draw an order for such sum as should be agreed upon by the President not to exceed $60.

Street committee reported nothing had been done by the committee on sewerage.

Mr. Wells complained of sidewalk on premises on Utica Street front of Peters lot. On motion the street commissioner was instructed to confer with Henry S. Gardner with reference to the same.

On motion Board adjourned to Wednesday evening, Jan. 4th at 7½ o'clock.

N. N. STRANAHAN, Clerk.

Holiday Gifts.

Christmas is close at hand, and the shops are gay with novelities for holiday gifts. The fashionable craze for Russian things is ministered to in many beautiful articles of Russian silver, gilded and made gorgeous with color by enameling, or else of chased silver without polish, as white and cold-looking as the snows of Siberia, while still other silver pieces have the artistic niello-work for decoration. The filigree enameled silver is made into spoons of all sizes, trays for the toilet table, card receivers, tea caddies, pocket bonbonnieres, salt cellars, napkin rings, blotters, match boxes, candlesticks, and tete-a-tete sets for tea or coffee. While dull finished silver is plated like wicker basket work for flasks and cake baskets on which is spread a snowy napkin like damask, or tea trays are covered with a towel imitating drawn work, the border of colored Russian embroidery done in enamels. Old pieces from the Kremlin are copied, as a silver coffee pot with an applique gold design imitating the embroidered cloths formerly wrapped around such pots to keep the coffee warm. The copper and brass work is in large samovars for tea, or in teabells, fac similes in minature of the great bell of the Kremlin, Russian sandals are inkstands or ash trays, bears rampant are candlesticks, and paper weights are a slender Russian hound laying at length on a slab of rodenite or of jasper, or on a brass ruler or paper knife. The spirited bronzes are groups of animals, herds of wild horses, reindeer, bears and dogs. There are also bear candlesticks of bronze, and small bronze figure pieces representing a hunter, or skaters, or men on sleds mounted on slabs of rock-crystal that look like blocks of ice. Carved crystaballs, blocks of jasper for paper weights, jewel boxes of jasper and malachite, and most natural looking bunches of fruit, berries, currants, and leaves, made of stones in their native colors, just as they are found in the Ural mountains, are among the novel importations. The Russian porcelains have enameled decorations and very lustrous painting on delicate creamy grounds, and are in shallow cups and saucers for afternoon teas, and in small trays for cards, or bon-bons, salted almonds, or olive dishes, with salvonic inscriptions and intricate designs for borders. The Russian papiermache in boxes, plaques, trays, etc., has a polished surface like lacquer, decorated with paintings of Russian scenes and figures in brilliant colors that glow as if illuminated.

Collectors of porcelain are advised that Dresden and Sevres waves are in great vogue for boudoirs and drawing rooms furnished in the prevailing French styles, and clocks and candlesticks are favorite pieces. A new gray blue shade is seen in Sevres porcelain entirely different from the dark blue, and the light shades so well known; and there are new plain colors in Sevres, especially the yellow and ivory tints that are effective for large vases and jars, and need only a little gilt for decoration. For chambers are pretty, low candlesticks of blue and white old Meissen, with candles decorated to match in color and design.

Pocketbooks have resumed the square shape used before they became too long and narrow for convenience. They are made of lizard skins mottled, and of many different shades, the durable seal skin in black and in tan colors, the skins of the kangaroo and elephant, pig skin and goat skin, with morocco in a great variety of colors. Silver mountings are on the handsomest books, merely as a clasp, or as bindings at the corners, or in elaborate designs of cherubs or flowers—pansies, wild roses, daises or forget-me-nots—that nearly cover the sides of the book. Card cases made to match the pocketbook make a pretty pair for gifts to any lady, old or young. Men's card cases of seal or lizard skin are very small, and their pocketbooks are made double, to open on both sides, one side for change and the other for memoranda. Letter cases of seal skin are large enough for use, yet slip in the inside coat pocket.

Square baskets of painted wood with satin lining are the new work-baskets, Laundry lists of celluloid in book shape are useful to all, and necessaries of linen admirably fitted up are a friend in need for bachelors. Fans of sweet grass make a room fragrant, and serve also for hand screens. Large wall pockets for newspapers are painted on card-board. Tiny cozies to cover a boiled egg and keep it warm are made of wadded silk, and larger tea cozies are of antique brocades of plush, and embroidered silks. Down pillows have India silk covers, and sofa cushions are oblong this seasea, and covered with old tapestry. Footstools have metal frames of silver or of white and gold, and are mounted with brocade, tapestry, or velvet. For holding gentlemen's dress neckties are narrow boxes covered with silk or canvas, with a cushion in the lid in which scarf pins are stuck."

Porcelain inkstands, low and square, with large knob tops, come in blue and white German wares and in creamy Kiota; the cut-glass inkstands have pillar cutting, with large top and tray of repousse silver. Callendars of all kind are in favor, from those of paper, celluloid and leather to the costly ones mounted on stands of old ivory or of silver, open in front to show cards marked with the days of the week and month. Stationary cases and writing pads have covers of seal-skin, of morocco, and of stamped leather, and writing sets for the library table are of bronze and gilt. WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent].

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10, 1887.

Mr. Cleveland's annual message to Congress is certainly unique in two respects at least;—for its unusual brevity, and owing to the fact that it is devoted almost exclusively to the discussion of a single subject—The Treasury surplus. Among Congressmen of the President's own party, the message is very favorably received, while the opposition regard it as a free trade production that sounds the death knell of the dominant party.

The nomination of Mr. Lamar to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Mr. Villas to be Secretary of the Interior, and Mr. Dickinson to be Postmaster General, excite no surprise whatever, as such action has long been forestalled by the press of the country, as well as foreshadowed in this correspondence. Some Southern Congressmen are very much disappointed that the South should lose a Cabinet place without any compensating advantage, as Mr. Lamar succeeds a Southerner on the bench, while he himself makes room for a western man. The promotion of Mr. Villas and the appointment of M. Dickinson, is supposed to be a scheme of the President to capture Wisconsin and Michigan for the Democracy, for he realizes that the South is safe anyhow, and nothing can be gained for his party there.

The opening of the fiftieth Congress was attended by the usual large crowds, and the stir and bustle incident to such an occasion of great public interest, though there was no friction or excitement either in the organization of the Senate or the House. Considerable mirth was evoked in the House over the drawing for seats—all the members, with the exception of Messrs Kelley, Cox and Randall, who, by reason of long service are privileged characters, being at the mercy of chance. It is more of an object to procure a choice seat in the House than in the Senate, as the former body is not noted for its orderly proceedings.

In both House and Senate there was a lavish display of lovely flowers in various beautiful designs of stars, anchors, and crosses, upon the desks of the more popular and prominent legislators. Before the seat of one member I noticed a floral ladder more than seven feet in length. Nor must I forget to mention in this connection the rosette that blooms perennial upon the breast of the sprightly Springer, who hails from Illinois. As one scanned the floors of Congress for the old familiar faces of the past, many of them, alas! were missing—gone down in the "battle of the ballots." Of these none were more conspicuous for absence than Morrison, Singleton, Camden and Mahone in the Senate. There is no better place in the world to form an impressive idea of the vicissitudes in the lives of American statesmen than in the capital of the United States, when a new Congress convenes, and the representatives of the people and of the States stand by scores in front of the presiding officer's desk to be sworn in.

Speaker Carlisle announces that he hopes to appoint the House committees before the holiday recess, and states that he is very likely to do so unless there is too great a scramble for the best places. The Speaker did well to make such a reservation, for he is aware from experience that it is quite probable he will have to contend with the very difficulty which he seeks to avoid.

Mr. Townsend proposes to introduce a bill in the House to consolidate into a "Department of Industries and Public Works" the following bureau: Agricultural Department, Labor Bureau, Weather Bureau, Bureau of Patents, Coast Survey, Geological Survey, Fish Commission, the Interstate Commission and several other minor bureaux. This is virtually the revival of an old bill that was designed to raise the head of the Agricultural Department to the dignity of a cabinet position, and in its present form stands a better chance of success as originally framed.

ROYAL

"It's Only a Dime."

This is one of the most beautiful sentiments that I have read in a long time.

The following letter, inclosing a silver dime, was received at the Mayor's office:

July 30.

MR. MAYOR:—I see a orphan sojer's boy sends five cents and calls it his mite, I send ten. My dad was a soger and they say he was a good one. He was with Grant and I guess he is now. I sell papers and black boots. If Vanderbilt and Gould and dem oder big fellows give as much as they could afford same as me and the oder boy General Grant's monument would be bigger than the staty of Liberty. JOHNNY C.

Postscript.—Mother says don't sine your name cos day mention it in the papers. Mother is a widder and I go to Sunday school. Call this Johnny's mite.

While reading this, vivid memories came up before me, and I felt as if this little tribute would not be out of place:

You may talk of the love of little Nell,
Of her wreath and her innocent bliss;
But oh! how each comrade's heart will swell
When he thinks of a love like this:—

"It is only a dime," said the little waif;
But, boys, it was rich and bright.
There never was locked in a banker's safe
Such riches as this boy's mite.

"For dad was a soldier, too," he said,
"An' a good un, the soldiers say;
An' dad was with Grant wherever he led,
An' dad is with Grant to-day."

And, boys, who knows, though his dad is dead,
This peer of your snob galoots
May be carving his way to the nation's head
Selling papers and blacking boots.

The Solution of It.

They had been engaged only 15 years, but it seemed a long time to her, and she was growing restless.

"Darling," she said in gentlest accents, "our betrothal has been very sweet, has it not?"

"It has, indeed, my own."

"But it has been very long, dont you think?"

"Yes, it has been pretty middlin' long," he rejoined.

"I was thinking, dearest," she continued, playing with his watchchain, and casting down her eyes, "that our betrothal is nearly old enough now to go out and work for its living. Couldn't we have it learn a trade, or get it a clerkship, or put it out at interest, or do something with it so that we might realize something on it? It has been hanging about home so long, burning gas and coal, and now it is nearly full-grown. It seems like a shame to have it doing nothing so long."

"But, my love"—

"And just think," she interrupted "in six years more it will have a vote. I don't care so much about myself (raising her eyes) but pa and ma are kicking like a steer. What would you suggest."

"We might get married,"

"That's so. I never thought of that."

Young Mr. Waldo (of Boston)—It is a great pleasure to me, Miss Breezy, when away from home to meet with one whose tastes and ideas regarding literature and art are similar to mine, who can offer intelligent sympathy, as it were, in all that tends to exalt and embellish the refining influences of life.

Rev. Thos. Richey, formerly presiding elder of the Northern N. Y. Conference, gives this opinion of a popular remedy: "I have found Van Wert's Balsam to be a wonderfully effective medicine for the lungs. I have recommended it to several of my friends who are suffering from consumption and almost miraculous benefits have followed its use. I am of the opinion that if taken in time it would affect a certain cure of this dread disease. I would urge all who are suffering with lung and throat troubles to try it."

becomes afflicted with a Kidney disease life is truly a burden. The female organization is so constituted as to be peculiarly susceptible to it; is easily controlled by it, and it rapidly develops and spreads until the whole fabric is affected and there is no time when she is free from pain. Refreshing sleep is unknown, the long weary hours of the night are followed by equally long hours of the day, and so the months and years pass, bringing as they roll away increased burdens.
Mrs. C. P. Bracket, wife of a town official of Hermon, Me., had severe case of kidney disease. In time she became so afflicted with continuous pains across the small of the back, weary, heavy, bearing down pains, heavy, dull feeling between the shoulders with occasional spells of "sick headache," as well as other troubles peculiar to this disease in women, so that she at times gave up in despair. She was confined to her house, deprived of all social intercourse with friends and neighbors, and was day and night a constant sufferer. One day she read an advertisement issued by us describing symptoms of kidney disease, and persuaded her husband to buy a bottle of Brown's Sarsaparilla which she used. She said it helped her and her husband, having no faith in patent medicines, laughed and told her she was no better, and that "faith" and "hope" had revived her temporarily. He bought the second and third however, and like the first, they helped her rapidly along the road to health. The remedy was continued until Mrs. Brackets was restored, and she has now been for over two years free from all symptoms of kidney disease. This case which was perhaps as serious a one as ever came to the notice of the medical fraternity of this section, attracted wide spread attention at the time, and stamped beyond all dispute the fact that Brown's Sarsaparilla was a deadly foe to Kidney disease.

NEWSPAPER LAWS.

Any person who takes the paper regularly from the post office, whether directed to his name or whether he is a subscriber or not—is responsible for the pay.

The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office for moving away and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether the paper is taken from the office or not.

I can't help telling the Truth as I view it and describing what I see. To describe it otherwise than it seems to me would be falsehood in that calling in which it has pleased Heaven to place me.

The comedians fully sustained their reputations among the leaders of colored performers. The "Bridal Veil," a song and dance for twelve people, was beautifully rendered and executed, and can be classed as a decided novelty. ALUM BAKING POWDERS.

Declared Adulterated Food and their Sale Illegal.

The result of a trial just concluded at Canton, N. Y., before Judge Kellogg, will have a salutary effect in checking the sale of one class of adulterated food Two men, named Moon and Akerill were arrested for selling adulterated baking powder in violation of the State food aculteration act. The indictment was for both selling baking powders that were inferior, adulterated and injurious to health by reason of being made from alum, and for selling them under pretense that they were a wholesome, cream of tartar baking powder. A stubborn defense was made, the claim being set up that baking powders were not articles of food and that the powder the defendents were selling, which was known as Gillett's, was a standard article of trade, and that alum baking powders inferior to it, like Davis' and others, were being sold by other dealers in the same town without complaint. The Court held that baking powders were articles of food within the meaning of the law, and the jury found the defendants guilty upon all the charges. The case has attracted much attention from being the first brought under the State Food Adulteration Act against dealers in alum baking powders. The result of the trial is to class such baking powders as adulterated articles of food and to make their sale illegal. There are many alum baking powders put up in cans, under some name or brand, in addition to those sold [illegible], the sale of all of which cautious [illegible] will probably be unwilling to [illegible]

"I have always thought of Christmas time, when it has come round, apart from the veneration due to its sacred name and design, if anything belonging to it can be apart from that,—as a good time; the only time I know of, in the long calander of the year, when men and women seem by one consent to open their shut-up hearts freely, and to think of people below them as if they really were fellow-passengers to the grave, and not another race of creatures bound on other journeys. And, therefore, uncle, though it has never put a scrap of gold in my pocket, I believe that it has done me good, and will do me good; and I say, God bless it!" (Fred to his Uncle Scrooge, Dickens).

Christmas.

O little town of Bethlehem!
How still we see thee lie,
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep,
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The Everlasting light;
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee to-night. Amen.

For Christ is born of Mary,
And gathered all above,
While mortals sleep the angels keep
Their watch of wondering love.
O morning stars together
Proclaim the holy birth!
And praises sing to God the King,
And peace to men on earth.

How silently, how silently,
The wondrous gift is given;
So God imparts to human hearts
The blessings of his heaven.
No ear may hear his coming,
But in this world of sin,
Where meek souls will receive him still,
The dear Christ enters in.

O holy Child of Bethlehem!
Descend to us, we pray,
Cast out our sin and enter in,
Be born in us to-day.
We hear the Christmas angels,
The great glad tidings tell,
O, come to us, abide with us,
Our Lord Emmanuel! Amen.

Xmas a Merry Time.

"The fire, with well dried logs supplied,
Went roaring up the chimney wide;
The huge hall-table's oaken face,
Scrubbed till it shone the day to grace,
Bore then upon its massive board
No mark to part the squire and lord.
Then was brought in the lusty brawn,
By old blue-coated serving-man;
Then the grim boar's head frowned on high,
Crusted with bays and rosemary.
Well can the green-garbed ranger tell,
How, when, and where the monster fell;
What dogs before his death he tore,
And all the baiting of the boar.
The wassail round, in good brown bowls,
Garnished with ribbons, blithely trowls,
There the huge sarloin reeked, hard by
Plum porridge stood, and Christmas pie;
Nor failed old Scotland to produce,
At such high-tide, her savory goose.
Then came the merry maskers in
And carols roared with blithesome din;
If unmelodious was the song,
It was a hearty note, and strong.
Who lists may in their mumming see
Traces of ancient mystery;
White shirts supplied the masquerade,
And smutted cheeks the visors made;
But O, what maskers, richly dight,
Can boast of bosoms half so light!
England was merry England, when
Old Christmas brought his sports again.
'Twas Christmas broached the mightiest ale;
'Twas Christmas told the merriest tale;
A Christmas gambol oft could cheer
The poor man's heart through half the year."

—Sir Walter Scott.

The Holy Night.

It was the calm and silent night!
Seven hundred years and fifty-three
Had Rome been growing up to might,
And now was queen of land and sea.
No sound was heard of clashing wars,
Peace brooded o'er the hushed domain:
Apollo, Pallas, Jove and Mars
Held undisturbed their ancient reign,
In the solemn midnight,
Centuries ago.

'Twas in the calm and silent night!
The Senator of haughty Rome,
Impatient, urged his chariot's flight,
From lordly revel rolling home,
Triumphant arches, gleaming, swell
His breast with thoughts of boundless sway;
What recked the Roman, what befell
A paltry province far away,
In the solmemn midnight,
Centuries ago?

Within that province far away,
Went plodding home a weary boor;
A streak of light before him lay,
Fallen through a half-shut stable door
Across his path. He paused for naught,
Told what was going on within;
How keen the stars, his only thought;
The air, how calm and cold, and thin,
In the solemn midnight,
Centuries ago.

O, strange indifference! low and high
Drowsed over common joys and cares;
The earth was still—but knew not why;
The world was listening, unawares.
How calm a moment may precede
One that shall thrill the world forever;
To that still moment, none would heed,
Man's doom was linked no more to sever,
In the solemn midnight,
Centuries ago!

It is the calm and solemn night!
A thousand bells ring out, and throw
Their joyous peals abroad, and smite
The darkness—chained and holy now!
The night that erst, no name had borne,
To it a happy name is given;
For in that stable lay, new born,
The peaceful prince of earth and heaven,
In the solemn midnight,
Centuries ago.

(Special to The Times.)

We have had an inundation of Republicans this week. The big guns and little ones have hob-nobbed together at the big caravansaries, and at the convention have fought right valiantly for or against the claims of the "Plumed Knight." Now the occasion of this great influx was the convention of the Republican clubs all over the nation for the planning of a campaign against their common enemy in 1888. It was a convention brim full and running over with enthusiasm for everything distinctively Republican. I am not right sure of its results. They adopted a long line of strongly worded resolutions. Every convention does that. It's a feature of American gatherings. An American meeting invariably resolves to do something. Then again it pitched into the Democratic national policy with all the ardor of a red hot campaign, and finally wound up by organizing a National League of Republicans.

The main idea of this convention seems to be to arouse the Republicans to the importance of next fall's campaign, and to do this most effectually, it is proposed to establish branch leagues subject to the direction of the National League in all the cities, villages and hamlets of this nation.

Eloquence didn't go begging this time. Nor did political generalship find itself left out in the cold.

The convention had "our own Evarts" for its chairman. That always means eloquence of the first quality. While Manley of Maine, and King of Ohio were looking after the "Plumed Knight's" success for 1888, the Sherman wing were not idle, pushing their especial interests.

As a Republican meeting the three days convention was a success. I rather think that there will be a strengthening of the breastworks, a gathering in of recruits and a most effective party organization as the outcome. I reckon, too, from occasional observation of its proceedings that the man from Maine had rather the inside track during the greater part of the pow-wow. I don't mean that there were pledges exacted or anything of that sort but the sentiment was more strongly Blainward than otherwise.

Society received a sad loss in the death of that most charitable and christian lady, Mrs. John Jacob Astor. Visitors to this city in their strolls about town have, no doubt, noticed, the two brick mansions, occupying the corners of the block on the west side of Fifth avenue, between 33d and 34th streets. These are the residences of the two surviving sons of Wm. B. Astor, the son and sole male heir of the noted John Jacob Astor, the fur merchant of New York's early days, and the munificent donor of Astor Library. The upper one of these two mansions is the home of Wm. Astor; the lower that of John Jacob, the husband of the deceased lady.

For years Mrs. Astor has been the acknowledged leader of New York Society. The charity ball, that worthy society event for sweet charity's sake was invariably lead by her. Her attendance was also considered necessary to the Patriarch's Ball and she was invariably present at the opening of the grand opera season.

She entertained after the manner of the formal and courtly days of a few decades ago. Her dinners were elaborate and an invitation was considered an honor. I am told that the mere matter of wealth was never a consideration with her, but that she looked more to character, family and breeding, than the mere matter of financial standing.

It would be difficult indeed to give any idea of the extent of the Astor's landed possessions. The mansions of the two Astor brothers are surrounded by two or three squares of their own houses Huge tracts of land in the annexed district, besides isolated buildings on the main business thoroughfares, and blocks of good rentable property on side streets belong to this family. Two brick buildings in West Twenty-Sixth street, two stories high and faced with granite, contain the offices of these two brothers, William and John Jacob. It is easier to get to the presence of the Autocrat of all Russians than into the presence of these real estate magnates. Leases, mortgages, losses and settlements are effected through the agency of attorneys and clerks, long in the service of the family. They are both shrewd, long-headed, careful business men with great sagacity and insight into the future development of real estate here. I am told that their taxes amount to about a half million. John Jacob Astor, the one whose wife has recently died, has one son who has had some experience in our State Legislature; was a minister to Rome during Arthur's administration and while there wrote a novel portraying the events of Lucretia Borgia's life. He is a bright, sharp, shrewd man, who inherits much of the Astor ability. William Astor, whose wife will now, by her sister-in-law's death, becomes the society queen, has also a son. He has recently been graduated from Harvard, by courtesy some do say. He has a mint of money at his command but his abilities are not flattering to the Astor pride. In fact, it is largely to his cousin the one referred to above that the family have maintained the credit of the ancient stock so well. Yet the original John Jacob had a son who needed the care of an attendant constantly.

The Astor's are united by marriage to the old Knickerbocker families like the Roosevelts, the Schermerhorns, the Brevoorts. It's a charmed circle. It's the traditional blue blood which becomes the "Open Sesame" for its entrance.

Gordon D. Ball, than whom no one in this vicinity was better known, died of pneumonia at the Lewis House this morning shortly before four o'clock. For the past two days his life has been despaired of, and his wife and children sent for. All were present when he died. Mr. Ball was born in this town in June, [illegible], and was consequently in sixty-fourth year. He had lived in Volney all his life, and has been a resident of this village for over thirty years. He was a member of the Oswego County bar, filled the office of Police Justice for four years, served as School Commissioner one term, and was at three different times principal of No. 2 school in this village. Many of the leading citizens and merchants here have been his scholars.

On retiring from teaching many years ago, he followed his profession of Civil Engineering, and was authority on all subjects in this line that was in the town or village limits.

He leaves a wife, two daughters, and a son, Mrs. S. E. Lincoln, of Rochester, Miss Addie Ball, and G. D. Ball, of Norwich.

The remains were taken to their farm about three miles east of the village this afternoon. Funeral services conducted by the Rev. W. Dempster Chase, will be held at the house on Friday at 2 p. m., and interment made at Mt. Adnah.

OBITUARY.

Died in this village on Saturday, Dec. 17, Lydia J., wife of Calvin S. Hammond, at the age of 51 years. The funeral was largely attended from the house on Seneca Street, Monday, Dec. 19th. The Rev. W. Dempster Chase officiated.

Little Freddie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Croak, age 6 years and 9 months, fell a victim to the dread disease, diphtheria, on Friday, December 16th. He was buried on Saturday. The grief stricken parents have the sympathy of all in their sad bereavement.

We are now prepared to do all kinds of custom grinding and to sell all kinds of feed at our new mill corner of Fourth and Pine streets, Oswego Falls.

Parish.

(Special Correspondence to The Times.)

The Hotel Kirch is now opened. It is an elegant building, the rooms are spacious, and the arrangements admirable. It is heated by a furnace.

Arrangements are in progress to erect a Presbyterian church in Hastings.

A large amount of holiday goods are displayed in our town.

There is considerable wondering what our School Commissioner elect will do with Parish, his special friends got up the issue, "anything to beat Parish", an unusual issue and it is an elephant on their hands, now. To make a specialty against us would naturally invoke the attention of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and to favor us would invoke much dissatisfaction among his friends. The better way is for him to do his duty as the law requires irrespective of friend or foe.

We notice that the equalizing committee of the Board of Supervisors have discovered through some peculiar glasses of their own that all the towns with Oswego city, in this county have either been standing still or retrograding, with the exception of Granby, Volney, Schrœppel and Parish. They are the only towns in the county that are booming, they are the only towns that are progressing. They give character, honor and glory to Oswego county. We should think the other towns would be ashamed to admit this to be the case, Parish is the only town in the eastern jury district that progresses. The other towns must bow to her and acknowledge their inferiality. We are glad to have such good society as Granby, Volney and Schrœppel to accompany us in the grand march of improvement.

Automatic Air Brakes.

The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company has adopted Westinghouse's new Automatic Air Brake for passenger and freight trains. Thirty trains have already been equipped. The new brake justifies faster time, and is another safeguard against accidents. The officials of the New York Central Railroad speak in the highest terms of the new brake. With the new air brakes, steam-heat and generally improved tracks and equipment, the four-track New York Central is looking after its own interest in the wisest possible way by looking closely after the public's interest.

ST. NICHOLAS
For Young Folks.

Since its first issue, in 1873, this magazine has maintained, with undisputed recognition, the position it took at the beginning,—that of being the most excellent juvenile periodical ever printed. The best known names in literature were on its list of contributors from the start,—Bryant, Longfellow, Thomas Hughes, George MacDonald, Bret Harte, Bayard Taylor, Frances Hodgson Burnett, James T. Fields, John G. Whittier; indeed the list is so long that it would be easier to tell the few authors of note who have not contributed to "the world's child magazine."

The Editor, Mary Mapes Dodge,

author of "Hans Brinker; or, the Silver Skates," and other popular books for young folks,—and for grown-up folks,—too, has a remarkable faculty for knowing and entertaining children. Under her skillful leadership, St. Nicholas brings to thousands of homes on both sides of the water knowledge and delight.

St. Nicholas in England.

It is not alone in America that St. Nicholas has made its great success. The London Times says: "It is above anything we produce in the same line." The Scotsman says: "There is no magazine that can successfully compete with it."

The Coming Year of St. Nicholas.

The fifteenth year begins with the number for November, 1887, and the publishers can announce: Serial and Short Stories by Mrs. Francis Hodgson Burnett, Frank R. Stockton, H. H. Boyesen, Joel Chandler Harris, J. T. Trowbridge, Col. Richard M. Johnston, Louisa M. Alcott, Professor Alfred Church, William H. Rideing, Washington Gladden, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Amelia E. Barr, Francis Courtenay Baylor, Harriet Upton, and many others. Edmund Alton will write a series of papers on the "Routine of the Republic,"—how the President works at the White House, and how the affairs of the Treasury, the State and War Departments, etc., are conducted; Joseph O'Brien a well known Australian journalist, will describe "The Great Island Continent;" Elizabeth Robbins Pennell will tell of "London Christmas Pantomimes" (Alice in Wonderland, etc.); John Burroughs will write "Meadow and Woodland Talks with Young Folk," etc., etc. Mrs Burnett's short serial will be, the editor says, a worthy successor to her famous "Little Lord Fauntleroy," which appeared in St. Nicholas.

Why not try St. Nicholas this year for the young people in the house? Begin with the November number. Send us $3.00, or subscribe through booksellers and newsdealers. The Century Co. 33 East 17th St. New York.

A Great National Journal.

THE NEW YORK
Mail and Express

The Advocate of the Best Interests of the Home—The Enemy of the Saloon. The Friend of American Labor. The Favorite Newspaper of People of Refined Tastes Everywhere.

For many years the daily edition of the New York MAIL AND EXPRESS has been recognized as the leading afternoon paper of the metropolis, while its weekly edition has been THE FAVORITE HOME PAPER in thousands of families in every State in the Union. It has attained its great popularity and influence by its enterprise in the collection of news, the purity of its tone, and the ability and courage of its advocacy of the Right on all questions of public interest.

FOR 1888 the Mail and Express will be a better paper than ever, and, as a clean, interesting, instructive

Home Newspaper,

it solicits comparison with any other in the country. It is one of the LARGEST PAPERS PUBLISHED anywhere, and spares neither labor nor expense to secure for its readers the very best in all departments of newspaper literature.

OUR POLITICS.

We believe the Republican party to be the true instrument of the POLITICAL PROGRESS of the American people; and holding that the honest enforcement of its principles is the best guarantee of the national welfare, we shall support them with all our might; but we shall always treat opposing parties with consideration and fair play.

AGAINST THE SALOON.

The Mail and Express is the recognized leading journal of the country in the great Anti-Saloon Republican movement. It believes that the liquor traffic as it exists to-day in the United States is the enemy of society, a fruitful source of corruption in politics, the ally of anarchy, a school of crime, and, with its avowed purpose of seeking to corruptly control elections and legislation, is a menace to the public welfare and deserves the condemnation of all good men.

In brief, all who wish to have in their homes a FIRST-CLASS NEWSPAPER, of national scope, broad views, clean pages and courageous, yet kindly, utterances on all questions of general public interest, will not be disappointed in the Mail and Express, and we respectfully solicit their influence and support.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.—Weekly, per year, $1.00; six months, 60 cents; three months, 30 cents. Daily, per year, $6.00; six months, $3.00; three months, $1.50; one month, 50 cents.

PREMIUMS.

EVERY SUBSCRIBER to the Weekly who sends ten cents to pay for packing and postage receives as a present from the Mail and Express ANY TWO of our elegant Premium Portraits of Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, Logan and Beecher, exact copies of the finest crayon likenesses, 22x28 inches in size, sent to his address free and postpaid.

FOR $1.50 we send the Mail and Express one year and a copy of Munkacsy's great painting of Christ before Pilate, richly and artistically reproduced in nine colors. The original of this great painting was recently sold for over $100,000.

A LARGE LIST of other popular and valuable premiums are offered to subscribers and agents on the most liberal terms. They cannot be described here. Send for our circular.

AGENTS WANTED.

We want a good agent in every town and village where we have not one now at work. Send for our Special Circular to Agents and see our [illegible]

THOUGHTFUL SANTA CLAUS.

"I've traveled through the sleet and snow,
Across the country high and low,
To fill the stockings small and great
That here in line my coming wait.
In creeping baby's tiny hose
The india rubber rattle goes;
A handsome doll, with staring eyes,
Will much the little miss surprise;
And what will more delight the boys
Than musket, drum or bugle toys?
And now, before I climb the flue,
I'll bear in mind the mother true,
Who works so hard by day and night
To keep the clothing clean and white,
And in her stocking, long and wide,
Some cakes of Ivory Soap I'll hide."

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

Irish Hibernians.

This week ends all entertainments at the opera house, under managers, until after Jan. 5th. of next year.

Howorth's Double Show Company presented the "Two Dans" to a large audience last night at the Academy of Music. The entertainment offered by the company is largely of a spectacular character. The views exhibited are taken from the cities and country places of Ireland and are extremely beautiful and well worth seeing. The comedy of the "Two Dans" deals with an old subject, mistaken identity, and is what might be called an Irish "Comedy of Errors." The plot introduces much fun of the broad burlesque stamp. There is plenty of humorous dialogue and love and singing and dancing in the "Two Dans." Mr. Bryan O'Lynn takes the part of one Dan and Mr. J. Fenton plays the other. They are, of course, the leading characters in the comedy. The clog dancing of Mr. Fenton was much applauded. The "Two Dans" will be given at a matinee at the usual hour to-day and the final performance will be given to-night.—News & Courier, Charleston, S. C.

Granby Stone Quarry in the Hands of the Sheriff.

The affairs of the Granby Brown Stone Quarry are not in the condition they ought to be. The quarry is on the farm of O. J. Jennings and has been leased by a Cleaveland, Ohio, firm and has been managed by C. W. McCormick. The Cleveland members of the firm are Messrs. Stanley & Fischer and are said to be men of good financial standing. Schenck & Foster, coal dealers are creditors of the company to about $800, and took an attachment on the quarry to secure the debt, the papers being served last week by Deputy Sheriff Murphy.

The other principal creditors are the employes, the First National Bank and Mr. O. J. Jennings. The company's endebtedness will aggregate between $3-000 and $4,000. Word was sent that the firm would be here and settle up affairs on Saturday, then again that they would be here yesterday, but this morning they had not arrived and the affairs remain in statu quo.

Dey Brothers & Co., of Syracuse, are rising into prominence more rapidly than any other Dry Goods House in these parts. Their methods of business are fundamentally sound, and the public confidence reposed in them is specially manifested in the continual growth of their mail department.

Ladies from a distance can rely on their orders from samples being filled as carefully and as satisfactorily as when they buy from the piece, and at the same price. The Mail Department is thus a public benefit, and correspondence is invited. It will be a pleasure to Dey Brothers & Co. to attend carefully to orders sent from a distance as much as to wait on those who visit their stores and inspect personally their stocks.

The stock of L. D. Spooner, druggist, will be sold by the sheriff at auction on Friday the 23d inst at 10 a. m. There are many fancy articles suitable for holiday presents that will probably be sold cheap.

William Barrett of this village, who for the past year has been a compositor in the Democrat office at Rochester, was married Tuesday, December 13th, to Miss Lizzie DuMass of Granby by the Rev. Charles Olmstead.

There will be a Christmas tree, at the Universalist church on Saturday evening. A one act operetta for Christmas eve, entitled "Caught Napping," will be rendered by the children for the benefit of the Sabath School. Admission ten cents.

One afternoon of last week the ladies of the several churches met at the Baptist church and it was decided to ascertain the number of children that attended Sunday school. The work of doing this will not be entered upon until after New Years.

Much excitement was caused last week by the announcement that the property of the firm of Johnston & Harroun of Cincinnati, Ohio, was in the hands of the sheriff. Both members of the firm are Fultonians and were considered sound financially. Mr. Johnson returned from Cincinnati Monday and informed us last evening that the matter had been satisfactorily settled.

An Important Enterprise.

The main wall of the hydraulic raceway which has been in process of construction by Messrs. Weeks & Redhead was completed Saturday and work discontinued until spring.

The plans and specifications for this important improvement to the village were drawn by Gen. Clark of Auburn and Howard Soule esq. of Syracuse. Wm. Patrick of Phœnix was the contractor and Thomas Goodall of Boston the engineer in charge. The wall which is built is unsurpassed if equalled by any built by private parties in the state and cost over $25,000. The raceway is 666 feet long and 106 feet wide at the bulkhead.

Messrs. Weeks & Redhead are to build a large pulp mill on it in the spring and possibly a large paper mill. They are also negotiating with several parties concerning their locating here and utilizing the fine power that can be obtained. We expect that this great improvement for putting to use the fine water power will prove of great advantage to the prosperity of Fulton.

Xmas at the Presbyterian Church.

There will be Christmas services in in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath. A musical program has been prepared by the choir for the morning service. A sermon appropriate to the occasion will be preached and all the services will be in harmony with the day.

In the evening a concert will be given by the Sabbath School consisting of responsive readings from the Holy Spriptures, recitations and song. As the day celebrates the birth of Him who has told us "It is more blessed to give than to receive" and who gave himself for us, the children are requested in the spirit of the Master to each bring a package to be placed in the manger which will be prepared for this purpose. These packages will be distributed the next day among the worthy poor in the community.

We are reminded at this time of God's great gift to our world, let us endeavor to catch the true spirit of the day by engaging in acts of charity and kindness to those in need.

Presents Still Coming for the Catholic Fair.

As the day approaches for the opening of the fair, generous friends vie with each other in forwarding handsome donations. Just count the presents! Did you ever see the like? The opera house will be too small to accomodate us. The contests are lively, and Oswego begins to fear and tremble. Just read this new list of presents, and then tell us whether or not the fair will be the great event of the season. Rich drapings, Mrs. M. O'Brien; mirror and hat rack, Anna and Maggie Harty; drape and brush broom case, Mrs. Sylvester; painting, Mrs. John McCarthy; dress goods, Miss Mary Gordon; dress goods, Mrs. Patrick O'Hare; box of candies, Mrs. Thomas Gillard; linen napkins, Mrs. Jas. The Supervisors Present.

On invitation of W. C. Stephens, the Board of Supervisors, now in session in at Oswego, came up to Fulton last evening by special car and attended the entertainment at the opera house, given by the Meigs-Underhill combination. The quartet singing of the Meigs sisters was probably fine and the readings by Mr. Underhill perhaps good, but not the same enthusiasm prevailed that did at the concert given by the Temple Quartet or the recitals of Miss Hale.

A Grand Year for Business.

We want to make a Splendid Finish.

To do so we have filled our stores full with just the goods our experience has taught us the people of Fulton will want this month of December. We have put prices on the entire stock so that they will move out quickly. Notions and Fancy Goods [illegible]

[illegible] crop is a poor one.

[illegible] boasts of a big potato crop.

Professor Beal advises skillful green manuring for sifting sandy soils.

F. D. Curtis, New York, says blue grass ought to be mixed in all pastures.

Joe Harris regards clover as the great renovating crop of American agriculture.

All experienced poultrymen aver that provisions for dust baths are a necessity to fowls.

F. H. Springer asserts that nothing on the farm can be raised with greater profit than swin.

W. D. Philbrick, of Massachusetts, says that potatoes and roots of all kinds keep best in pits out of doors.

To dispute the excellence of milk made from good ensilage is to fly in the face of facts, says John Gould.

It takes nearly 100,000,000 foreign eggs a month to keep the English in cakes and puddings. Experts have estimated that the consumption of eggs in England is 100 a year for every person. Nearly $15,000,000 is paid every year for the eggs imported into that country.

A recent investigation into the price of wheat shows that the American farmer has superior advantages for competition in the wheat markets of the world. Charges from Chicago to Liverpool have been reduced within seventeen years thirty cents per sixty pounds, while the freight rates from India to Liverpool have not decreased in that proportion, if at all.

Before putting up new pork it is very important to see that the barrel is perfectly sweet. The germs of decay, if not entirely destroyed, rapidly propagate when fresh material is given them to work on. Even salt in unlimited quantities will not save pork if the barrel is in any way out of order. Barrels that have been used for packing beef are especially liable to get out of order, and had better be put to some other use than for keeping pork.

PLENTY OF APPLES FOR ALL.

The Crop is Big This Year, but the Demand is Equal to the Supply.

The apple crop of the southern counties of the state of New York this season is something enormous, and has completely overleaped the estimates made early in the season. What is called the apple belt of the state, comprising about a hundred square miles of territory from Syracuse to Niagara Falls, has an extraordinary full crop, about three-fourths of which has already been marketed.

The crop along the Hudson River has also been good, while that of the southern tier of counties where the yield was last year heavy has been comparatively light.

It is estimated that 250,000 barrels of apples are now held by dealers throughout the state, in frost proof fruit houses, where the temperature is constantly kept at from 28 to 40 degrees, according to the class of fruit in store. Probably as many more have been put away by farmers and private citizens for home consumption, not to mention the immense quantity that have been lost through neglect or converted into cider or vinegar.

At Lockport there is a cider mill that has throughout the season averaged 100 barrels per day, and there are many others of nearly as great a capacity scattered throughout the state.

The drying and evaporating establishments use up an immense quantity, even to the cores and peelings, the latter being either converted into apple butter, jellies or preserves, or exported to France to be returned to America in the shape of a first-class article of champagne.

Outside of the state of New York and portions of Connecticut, Vermont and Michigan, the crop this year has been a complete failure. St. Louis, Cincinnati, Canada and the entire northwest have had to draw almost their entire supply from this state. Northern Iowa and Minnesota, which heretofore have received their shipments from Missouri and Kansas, find no source of supply in those markets this year, scarcely enough having been raised by growers to supply their local demands.

"A person not in the apple trade," said a Washington street dealer yesterday, "can have but a small idea of the magnitude of this industry. The entire northern portion of the state is now one immense orchard, millions of trees having been planted during the past fifteen years, many of which are just coming into bearing. All of them are of recognized standard varieties."

The old time Spitzenburg, however, is passing away, except in the Hudson River district.

The European demand is very heavy, the chief shipments being made to Liverpool, London and Glasgow. Large quantities are also sent to Cuba and Bermuda. The foreign demand is mostly for the standard red varieties.—N. Y. Press.

Shipping Apples to England.

The experience of T. S. Gould, secretary of the Connecticut Board of Agriculture, in shipping apples to England is not very encouraging to small shippers. The first cost of barrels, freight to New York and trucking expenses across the city, and the injury to the condition of the fruit in consequence of rough handling, are liable to consume the amount of sales in a market so fluctuating. The export trade may prove profitable to large shippers with good judgment in the selection of fruit and of the time to market it. Small shippers, however, Mr. Gould says, had better not engage in this rather venturesome business.

Druggists report good sales and wonderful results from Skin-Success Soap and Ointment.

Gen. Alfred Pleasonton lives in Philadelphia.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are free from all crude and irritating matter. Concentrated medicine only; very small; very easy to take; no pain; no griping; no purging.

Gen. D. M. Gregg, the cavalryman, is [illegible] regular service.

Who Are Interested in Knowing What Kind of a Journal

THE RURAL NEW-YORKER

CLAIMS TO BE.

IT was established in 1850. It is published for all parts of the country alike and for all who own a home. During the past 12 years it is conceded on all hands that it has worked a new era in journalism. It is original throughout. It is filled with contributions from the best writers in the world. It is the only farm weekly that employs its own artists and over 500 original illustrations are presented every year. It is the first journal to have established an experiment farm, and the only one now working such a farm in the interests of its readers. The object of this farm is to test all kinds of new seeds and plants whether ornamental or economical; to produce new kinds of grain by cross-breeding; to test new farm implements, fertilizers, methods of culture, with a view to producing the greatest yields at the smallest cost.

The RURAL NEW-YORKER has no other than the true interests of agriculture to subserve. It has neither seeds nor plants nor books nor anything whatever to sell. It is conducted purely in the interests of agriculture and horticulture and stock-keeping. Its tests of plants, seeds, manures and implements are made regardless of individual interests of those of advertising patrons. It holds the interests of LAND CULTURE as above all others, and its aim is to benefit all who occupy themselves in the culture of land and its attendant industries, either for pleasure, profit, of support.

It has no axes to grind and claims to be a complete journal of rural affairs. The aim of the R. N.-Y. is to present a pure, sound, dignified yet aggressive journal that shall be thoroughly independent and work only for the highest ideal of country life. The RURAL goes to every section of North America, and its readers are usually the leading men of the community. Its striking and original features render it, as we believe, beyond question, the best exponent of agricultural thought in the country. It does not depend upon second hand articles or engravings to fill its pages. It costs far more to publish than any other journal of its class. Its market reports are reliable. Its Woman's, Domestic Economy, Literary, and News Departments are conducted by specialists. Its Eye-Opener, with its scathing exposure of all frauds and humbugs have saved its subscribers thousands of dollars every year. Its illustrations are a strong feature. New fruits, grains, implements, flowers, farm and garden devices, fine stock, portraits of eminent ruralists are faithfully shown, while its hard-hitting full-page cartoons, which appear from time to time, help the farmers' cause by adding dignity to his occupation. Small fruits of all kinds are a specialty. Hundreds of different kinds of grapes, strawberries, raspberries, &c. &c., may be seen under test at the RURAL GROUNDS. All ornamental trees, shrubs and vines, herbaceous plants, hardy enough to endure the climate, may also be seen there. Not less than 200 different kinds of hybrids between wheat and rye and of cross bred wheats; hybrids between blackberries and raspberries, between roses, &c., may also be seen. The R. N.-Y. may be read by any member of the family without fear that its influence will be other than for good. Its advertising columns are also guarded with unusual care.

Such are among the claims made for this journal, and we know that the best people of the country will fully endorse them.

It is published weekly on fine, heavy paper. The price is, for single copies, $2.00 a year in advance; or, $1.50 in clubs of five or over. We have no other terms. Specimen copies, posters, &c., for those who wish to act as agents, will be promptly mailed without charge.

HOW THEY STAND.

Reported Interviews with Members of Congress, on Different Topics.

The World detailed 20 men on Tuesday of last week to go to Washington and interview members of congress. A parlor car was chartered and the men returned the following night with the results of their labors. The following were the questions put to the senators and representatives:

FOR REPUBLICANS.

1. Are you in favor of the renomination of Mr. Blaine for president?
2. If not, will you state your preference as to the candidate?
3. Do you favor the president's tariff ideas?
4. How far would you be willing to go in any reduction of taxation.

FOR DEMOCRATS.

1. Do you favor the president's tariff ideas?
2. How far would you be willing to go on a reduction of taxation?

The answers were tabulated as follows:

Republicans—On choice for president: Non-committal, 40; for Blaine, 25; the nominee of the convention, 17; John Sherman, 8; Harrison, 2. Against Blaine, 4; Greshar', 1; Governor Robinson of Massachusetts, 1; total, 98.

In favor of Cleveland's tariff ideas: Democrats, 93; in favor of Cleveland's tariff ideas, Republicans, 7; non committal, Democrats, 14; non committal, Republicans, 18; opposed to Cleveland's tariff ideas, Democrats, 6; opposed to Cleveland's tariff ideas, Republicans, 69. Total, 207.

For tariff reform only, Democrats, 59; for tariff reform only, Republicans, 9; for revenue reform only, Democrats, 10; for revenue reform only, Republicans, 38; for tariff and revenue reform, Democrats, 31; for tariff and revenue reform, Republicans, 1; non committal, Democrats, 8; non committal, Republicans, 34; against any change, Democrats, 0; against any change, Republicans, 23. Total, 213.

The simplest and best regulator of the Disordered Liver in the world, are Carter's Little Liver Pills. They give prompt relief in Sick Headache, Dizziness, Nausea, &c.; prevent and cure Constipation and Piles; remove Sallowness and Pimples from the Complexion, and are mild and gentle in their operation on the bowels. Carter's Little Liver Pills are small and as easy to take as sugar. One pill a dose. Price 25 cents.

Cheap Postage—A Proposition to Reduce Postage to One Cent on Letters.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12, 1887.

A number of Senators held a consultation last week to consider a bill to reduce the postage. It is proposed to reduce letter postage from two cents to one cent, providing it does not too seriously interfere with the revenue accruing to the postoffice department. It is estimated that it will perhaps lessen the earnings of the department eight millions per annum. If however this is thought to be too severe a reduction of the revenue of the department, the attempt will be made, and with every indication of success, to revise the law on postage on local letters for delivery.

ONE FACT

is worth a column of rhetoric, said an American statesman. It is a fact, established by the testimony of thousands of people, that Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure scrofula, salt rheum, and other diseases or affections arising from impure state or low condition of the blood. It also overcomes that tired feeling, creates a good appetite, and gives strength to [illegible]

What Am I To Do.

The symptoms of Biliousness are unhappily but too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrhea or Constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulence, tenderness in the pit of stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower, it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy.

Gen. Charles H. Devens is judge of the Supreme court in Boston.

PERSONAL.

Mr. N. H. Frohlichstein, of Mobile, Ala., writes: I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, having used it for a severe attack of Bronchitis and Catarrh. It gave me instant relief and entirely cured me and I have not been afflicted since. I also beg to state that I had tried other remedies with no good result. Have also used Electric Bitters and Dr. King's New Life Pills, both of which I can recommend.

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, is sold on a positive guarantee. Trial bottles free at R. E. Phillips' Drug Store.

Melting up the Old Trade Dollars.

The New York Commercial Advertiser tells of the melting down of silver dollars, thus: "The United States essay office is engaged in melting up the last $300,000 of the silver trade dollars recently redeemed by the government. The amount received by the sub-treasury and turned over to the essay office for melting into bullion aggregated $3,500,000. As the dollars are melted up they are cast into bars or bricks and deposited in one of the grated vaults in the essay office, where they are piled around the four sides of the vault to the height of a man's head. Opening out from the silver vault is the gold vault. The amount of precious metal and the manner in which it is stored reminds one of the treasure vaults in the halls of the Montezumas through which Cortez walked. Though no more trade dollars can be redeemed by the government, they frequently find their way to the essay office among the deposits that are left daily to be melted and refined for customers. But silver is only worth about 86 cents an ounce, and a trade dollar weighs but seven-eighths of an ounce, the actual bullion value of such a coin now is about 75 cents. If the government received $1 in value for them when issued, it is a handsome profit by reason of its reproduction."

They'll robe me in my bridal gown,
Ah me, ah me!
They'll robe me in my bridal gown.
The orange buds will be my crown,
The white veil will go floating down,
And I shall hear the splendor meet,
And wish it were my winding sheet,
Ah me, ah me!

They'll twine white gems about my neck,
Ah me, ah me!
They'll twine white gems about my neck,
And I shall give no sign, no check,
But well enough, I, too, shall reck,
That dewy pearls are for my tears,
The deadly opals for my fears,
Ah me, ah me!

They'll lay my prayer book in my hand,
Ah me, ah me!
They'll lay my prayer book in my hand,
While I shall calm and stately stand,
And hear the organ pealing grand,
And I shall neither faint or fall,
But smile on through it all,
Ah me, ah me!

They'll lead me to the altar rail,
Ah me, ah me!
They'll lead me to the altar rail,
And my false lips will never fail,
Nor my false heart will never quail,
As I breathe o'er those words of old,
And sell myself for love of gold,

The Editor and the Jokelet.

The sanctum softly entering thus he spoke:
"I've written out a funny little joke;
When you have read it o'er and caught the pun,
Pray tell me if you think it fit to run."

The editor the little jokelet read,
Yet smiled he not, but seriously said:
"Go put it on the slope of yonder hill;
It is so thin, 'twill run, I'm sure it will."

Laxador is the remedy now mostly relied upon when a good purgative family medicine is needed. All druggists sell it for 25 cents a package.

THE PROPER THING.

Fancy and fur muffs alike are made with bags and purses attached.

The newest newmarkets have hoods and capes and are single breasted.

The latest notion in gloves is the reindeer; they look like thick washleather of almond color, and fit well.

Pocket-book have resumed the square shape used before they became too long and narrow for convenience.

Deep collars of plush in V-shape are worn on jackets; cuffs and sometimes the sleeves of such wraps are also of plush.

Girdles of all kinds, which are looped at the side rather than worn about the waist, are meeting with considerable favor.

Garibaldi waists with a pointed yoke and belt are coming into vogue. They are made of cashmere, Jersey cloth and flannel.

Feather shawls are a novelty; they are soft, but look like much improved woolen shawls, and do not resemble feathers in the least.

Black cloth, of the quality called ladies' cloth, is again in favor for a basque and long overskirt above a colored lower skirt of cloth or plush.

Dog collars are going out of fashion. They are replaced by the high collar of the dress, a fraise, or where there is a low falling collar, by a narrow ribbon with a small bow on each side.

Brocaded stugs are still in vogue for both long and short wraps, and appear in these garments, almost as frequently as the newer striped, barred, plain, checked and plaide dmaterials.

The newest sleeve is made wide at the top, with small folds on the outer part down to the elbow, from which point to the waist is gradually narrows and is finished by a band and a bow of ribbon.

Black lace dresses are still liked for semi-dress occasions, and last summer's costumes can be brightened for present use by draping the lace over a new skirt and bodice of dark colored satin or faille.

"Give us a rest," cried a bootblack, from the gallery of the Opera House, to a party who had been constantly coughing during the performance. "Use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup," chimed in another.

At this season of fast driving and accidents to man and beast keep Salvation Oil on hand.

"Most of the Nevada tramps have now crossed the Sierras," reports the Virginia City 'Enterprise,' "and gone into winter quarters into California. They love a genial clime and always keep below the snow line."

Beware of a silent dog and still waters. The impure blood flowing silently through the system is a dangerous enemy to health. Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla is the great blood purifier. Cheapest in the market. 120 doses $1.00. All druggists have it.

John Owen Snyder, the famous "walking man" of Mill Grove, Ind., is dead. He had walked almost constantly, night and day for three years, and his path around his house was worn to a deep furrow.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, biliousness or constipation you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable; small and easy to take; all druggists sell them.

WHEN A WOMAN

becomes afflicted with a Kidney disease life is truly a burden. The female organization is so constituted as to be peculiarly susceptible to it; is easily controlled by it, and it rapidly develops and spreads until the whole fabric is affected and there is no time when she is free from pain. Refreshing sleep is unknown, the long weary hours of the night are followed by equally long hours of the day, and so the months and years pass, bringing as they roll away increased burdens.

Mrs. C. P. Bracket, wife of a town official of Hermon, Me., had severe case of kidney disease. In time she became so afflicted with continuous pains across the small of the back, weary, heavy, bearing down pains, heavy, dull feeling between the shoulders with occasional spells of "sick headache," as well as other troubles peculiar to this disease in women, so that she at times gave up in despair. She was confined to her house, deprived of all social intercourse with friends and neighbors, and was day and night a constant sufferer. One day she read an advertisement issued by us describing symptoms of kidney disease, and persuaded her husband to buy a bottle of Brown's Sarsaparilla which she used. She said it helped her and her husband, having no faith in patent medicines, laughed and told her she was no better, and that "faith" and "hope" had revived her temporarily. He bought the second and third however, and like the first, they helped her rapidly along the road to health. The remedy was continued until Mrs. Brackett was restored, and she has now been for over two years free from all symptoms of kidney disease. This case which was perhaps as serious a one as ever came to the notice of the medical fraternity of this section, attracted wide-spread attention at the time, and stamped beyond all dispute the fact that Brown's Sarsaparilla was a deadly foe to Kidney disease.

MASON & HAMLIN

ORGANS. The cabinet organ was introduced in its present form by Mason & Hamlin in 1861. Other makers followed in the manufacture of these instruments, but the Mason & Hamlin Organs have always maintained their supremacy as the best in the world.

Mason & Hamlin offer, as demonstration of the unequalled excellence of their organs, the fact that at all of the great World's Exhibitions, since that of Paris, 1867, in competition with best makers of all countries, they have invariably taken the highest honors. Illustrated catalogue free.

PIANOS. Mason & Hamlin's Piano Stringer was introduced by them in 1882, and has been pronounced by experts the "greatest improvement in pianos in half a century."

A circular containing testimonials from three hundred purchasers, musicians, and tuners, sent, together with descriptive catalogue, to any applicant.

Pianos and Organs sold for cash or easy payments; also rented.

JAS. R. FAIRGRIEVE - EDITOR

OUR ANNUAL.

THE TIMES' Annual for 1888 will be ready for distrubution the latter part of this week. It contains the official directory of county, town and village and a business directory of Fulton. When you receive it retain it as it contains a calender for 1888 and is a splendid reference book.

DANIEL MANNING, Ex-Secretary of the Treasury, one of the strongest men that the Democratic party had, and the man whom Cleveland may thank for holding the presidency, died at Albany on Saturday, Dec. 24, at the age of 56 years. He was buried yesterday. Among mourners that followed this illustrious man to his grave, were President Cleveland and members of his Cabinet.

THE new Princeton Review is the foremost publication this side of the Atlantic. The January number, just out is full of valuable articles. The one by Mark Twain is alone worth the price of the magazine. Here is one of the characteristic sentences. "How could you look it in the face, and go on throwing state mud over its head at its predecessor, an old kiln dried, moss backed, bug eaten, avtediluvian mummy that wasn't doing anything to you, and couldn't if he wanted to?" The articles by Dr. John Hall, Bradner Matthews and Prof. H. C. Adams of Michigan University will attract widespread attention. The Review has become a necessity to the thinking public. It is published by A. C. Armstrong & Son, New York.

A Model Newspaper.

In another column we print the advertisement of that sterling and reliable paper, the New York Mail and Express, and we wish to commend it to our readers as in the broadest sense a national newspaper, most carefully edited, and adapted to the wants and tastes of intelligent readers throughout the country—North, South, East and West. It is a thoroughly clean paper, free from the corrupting, sensational and demoralizing trash, miscalled news, which defiles the pages of too many city papers.

The Mail and Express discusses with ability and fairness all questions of public interest as they arise, and is always found on the moral and progressive side. It gives the latest news from all parts of the world, and presents in its special departments an immense amount of the choicest and best reading matter for the instruction and entertainment of every member of the family, old and young. Sample copies are sent free, and we advise all our readers to send for them.

THE TIMES wishes everyone a Happy New Year, old and young, rich and poor friend and enemy. Life is altogether too short not to have the best of good will toward all our fellow beings at this season of the year. Another year has glided by, and wrought its changes in Fulton, as it has the world over. The many changes that occur during the year are scarcely realized. A death occurs, and a familiar form is no longer seen on our streets. A birth occurs, and one more comes into this world to run its chances with struggling humanity. A fire occurs and a beautiful building goes up in smoke. A lot is purchased, and a fine structure is soon built. A telegraph or telephone wire is stretched, another and then another, until above our heads is a perfect net-work.

Winter comes, the trees are stripped of their verdure and appear as leafless things; summer returns, and they are again clothed with fresh vegetation. Thus time flies by and events transpire. A few of these events that have occurred in Fulton and vicinity during the year 1887, we have collected, and they can be found on the first page of this issue.

As THE TIMES goes out to its subscribers for the last time in the year 1887, we desire to extend out sincere thanks to our subscribers and friends for their patronage, and as we are soon to move into our new building, where with more room and with new machinery we hope to give even more for the money than our subscribers are now receiving.

[illegible] The Opera House the Centre of Attraction and Crowded Nightly.

THE BOOTHS FILLED WITH ELEGANT GIFTS THAT ARE TO BE DRAWN OR SOLD.

Stage Performances and Music Each Evening.

MONDAY EVENING.

The Catholic Fair for which such extensive preparations have been made and to which such elegant presents have been donated was opened on Monday evening with an address by Hon. P. W. Cullinan of Oswego, who in his able manner did the honor of the occasion. The Fulton Band was also present and added much to the pleasure of the opening evening. The lower part of the opera house has been cleared of the seats and has seven booths. In large letters on the curtain of the stage are the words "Fair: Church of the Immaculate Conception" and above this in large letters the word "Welcome". The whole opera house probably never presented as fine an appearance as it does this week and no one in this vicinity should allow the occasion to pass without attending. On entering the hall the first thing that attracts ones attention is the

TEMPERANCE BOOTH.

This is situated in the centre and is most artisticly arranged and decorated and is under the management of Mrs. Edward Laporte, Mrs. Frank Sweet, the Misses Mary O'Hare, Ida McGann, Anna Mullen, Mary Fitzgerald and Sarah Kernan. The badges of the Father Mathew temperance societies are seen on the corners, emblematic of the organizations under whose auspices this booth is conducted.

THE PARISH BOOTH.

This booth is situated directly to the right on entering the main hall and appears the largest of all, it is presided over by Mrs. Paul Roderick, Mrs. Joseph Lalonde, Mrs. James Flynn and the Misses Maggie Cullen, Kate and Mary Flannery and Maggie Hart. It contains a large number of excellent articles that are to be drawn.

THE SODALITY BOOTH.

This booth is on the right on entering and next to the Parish Booth and presents a very fine appearance. The large candy ship named Fortuna, which was donated by Mr. John Barker of the Vienna Bakery is seen here and attracts much attention. Here also is seen the "bride and groom" two beautiful figures appropriately attired, the former the gift of Miss Addie Lapin and the latter the gift of Miss Sarah White. This is presided over by the Misses Nellie Flannery, Sarah White, Maggie Sullivan, Jennie and Anna Lynch, Macella O'Keefe, Maggie Frawley, Nora Hartnett, Mary and Jennie Reynolds, Mary Gillard and Kittie Casey.

REBECCA'S WELL.

This is uniquely arranged in the right hand box beautifully decked with flowers and evergreens and from the well can be had at all times—if you are fortunate enought in the crowd to get near it—lemonade which is served by Mrs. C. S. Murphy and the Misses Alice Burke, Nellie Johnston, Minnie Allen and Jennie Murphy.

THE PRESIDENT'S BOOTH.

The private box on the left side of the hall is arranged for the president of the fair, Rev. Father Earley.

THE CHILDREN'S BOOTH.

This booth is situated on the extreme left on entering and is presided over by Mrs. Wm. White, Mrs. D. O'Grady, Mrs. M. A. Martin, Mrs. Edward Pear and the Misses Mary Martin, Agnes Cavanaugh, Anna Flinn, Kittie Lamasney and Delia Lynch. Toy houses, animals, quilts, chairs, dolls &c., without number are arranged on all sides of this booth and show skill and taste in their arrangement.

THE MARRIED LADIES' BOOTH.

This booth is situated in the left central part and is under the charge of Mrs. P. McDonald, Mrs. Geo. Johnston, Mrs. Chas. Sweet, Mrs. P. Conley, Mrs. James Otis, Mrs. P. Cullen, Mrs. James Doyle, Mrs. John O'Grady, Mrs. Patrick O'Grady and Mrs. Thomas Mosso. Here in addition to hundreds of other articles can be seen the elegant china set of dishes presented by Mr. and Mrs. John Hall of New York city and a beautiful sofa presented by Mr. James Cole.

A very attractive feature is "The Old Lady in the Shoe" a large shoe is literally covered with small dolls, and in this shoe in costume can be found either Miss Hattie O'Hara or Miss Agnes Cullen. This is very nicely gotten up. Supper is served in the main hall. A soda fountain under the charge of T. R. Cavanaugh is also near the refreshment tables. The prize given at the door Monday evening, a ton of coal, donated by Mr. F. M. Wilson, was drawn by Master Albert LaPorte who held the lucky ticket, No. 408.

TUESDAY EVENING.

The second evening was by no means eclipsed by the first. The Fulton band was again in attendance and before the doors were opened played selections in front of the opera house and discoursed fine music at intervals during the evening. By nine o'clock a large crowd was present. The attractions on the stage during the evening were club swinging by Masters Frank Cullen and Morris Conley. They swing the clubs very nicely. Song by George Perkins and music by Bogue's orchestra were other attractions, while the farce "Barney the Baron" was given under the supervision of Dr. DeMarsan Spencer with the following cast of characters:

Barney O'Toole, - - - Daniel Dwyer
Augustus - - - Fred McGann
Bluffenbury - - - James Galliger
Karl - - - Thomas Mosso
Lady Margaret - - - Miss Anna Bogue
Edith - - - Mary Burke
Emma - - - Alice Burke

The contest for the plush sacque between Miss Addie Lappin of Fulton and Miss Anna Branagan of Oswego Falls was begun as was also the contest for the gold watch between J. R. Sullivan of Oswego Falls and J. H. White of Oswego.

NOTES.

The prize at the door Tuesday evening was won by Celia Martin, who held the lucky ticket, No. 779.

A pleasing feature at the fair are canaries at nearly every booth. They sing constantly.

The watch to be contested for was presented by the Father Mathew societies. It has been on exhibition in W. P. Osborne's window but can now be seen at the Temperance booth.

The plush sacque donated by Messrs. Bennett & Stewart is on exhibition at the Sodality booth.

The 20 yards of silk (dress pattern) can be seen at the Sodality booth.

The lady's diamond ring and gents' diamond pin donated by Mr. Michael Flannery of New York, can be seen at the Parish booth.

The suit of clothes donated by H. & A. Rosenbloom stands on a form in the Parish booth.

The parlor stove given by George Johnston can be seen between the Parish and Sodality booths.

The pictures donated by Father Kearney and Father Earley are on exhibition at the Parish booth.

The C. M. B. A. of Oswego Falls have contributed a handsome sum of money which will serve to enhance the value of the gold watch and furnish articles for the different booths.

A magnificant gold cross will be presented to the lady who has collected the most money on her list.

New attractions every night.

On Thursday evening a young ladies' club of Oswego under the direction of Miss Celia Kelley will produce the operatta, "Lilly Bell."

Friday evening the operatta "Cinderella" will be produced by local talent.

There will be six prizes drawn this evening.

Many donations have been received since the opening of the Fair:

M. M. Gage, Sheridan Co. sent in a rich jewelery set; True Bros. several ten pound sacks of flour; beautiful plush dress by Misses Anna and Nora Anderson of Phoenix; $5 by Frank Mangeot and Jas. McAllister; vases, Mary Clara O'Hare; spread, Mrs. Mathews and others which will be mentioned in full report of Fair.

ALUM BAKING POWDERS.

Declared Adulterated Food and their Sale Il egal.

The result of a trial just concluded at Canton, N. Y., before Judge Kellogg, will have a salutary effect in checking the sale of one class of adulterated food. Two men, named Moon and Akerill, were arrested for selling adulterated baking powder in violation of the State food aculteration act. The indictment was for both selling baking powders that were inferior, adulterated and injurious to health by reason of being made from alum, and for selling them under pretense that they were a wholesome, cream of tartar baking powder. A stubborn defense was made, the claim being set up that baking powders were not articles of food and that the powders the defendents were selling, which was known as Gillett's, was a standard article of trade, and that alum baking powers inferior to it, like Davis' and others, were being sold by other dealers in the same town without complaint. The Court held that baking powders were articles of food within the meaning of the law, and the jury found the defendants guilty upon all the charges. The case has attracted much attention from being the first brought under the State Food Adulteration Act against dealers in alum baking powers. The result of the trial is to class such baking powders as adulterated articles of food and to make their sale illegal. There are many alum baking powders put up in cans, under some name or brand, in addition to those sold in bulk, the sale of all of which cautious dealers will probably be unwilling to continue.

A beautiful line of Ladies' [illegible] from [illegible] at F. K. Jones'.

[illegible] would naturally make all days and seasons alike to him. purple of ecclesiastic dignity [illegible] prepare an apparently moody head, and his weight of care and responsibility for the welfare of sixty millions of people would naturally make all days and seasons alike to him.

The city is rapidly donning its holiday attire. Evergreen wreathes and garlands festoon butchers' stalls and the homes of the rich, and Christmas trees of all sizes and prices are here in abundance from the Maryland and Virginia hills, and from the forests of Pennsylvania and far off Maine. The shop windows are dazzling with every description of tempting merchandise, and Oh! the shoppers that throng the sidewalks, especially the tired, worried, nervous women of all ages and sizes and complexions and conditions, of every degree of prettiness and ugliness. How they push and jostle and squeeze and exclaim! They would drop down and expire before they would give it up and go home.

At no time is there any lack of talk in Congress about the surplus, nor any lack of surplus talk for that matter, but regularly once a year, in either one or the other end of the Capitol, a deal of surplus eloquence is expended on one particular subject; namely, the holiday recess. It is surplus talk always, because after every argument that has ever been made against the Christmas vacation, Congress has invariably enjoyed that luxury and will continue to do so.

This time the discussion was in the Senate, and the Junior Senator from Kansas, Mr. Plumb, took the floor in opposition to any holiday making. He said this was the time of year for Congress to work. He didn't want any holidays. The recess was taken ostensibly to allow Senators and Representatives to go to their homes, when not one in ten of them would go. Mr. Plumb then launched into a political speech in which he criticized the financial policy of the President, charging that the surplus trouble was due to the fact that the President disregarded the law which required him practically to spend the surplus in the purchase of the national debt. He made a long speech, and was followed by Senator Beck, of Kentucky, who undertook to demolish all that had been said by showing tnat it was the policy of the Republican party which made it impossible to-day for the Secretary of the Treasury to redeem any of the four and four-and-a-half bonds without paying the holders whatever premium they might charge.

The next Senator to endorse the course of the administration was Vest, of Missouri. He said that he was prepared to go into the canvass upon the President's message. If Mr. Cleveland had done nothing more than write that message, it proved him to be an honest, brave, patriot man, worthy of the leadership of any party that ever existed in the history of this country.

Senators Teller and Stewart then made long speeches echoing the political sentiments of Mr. Plumb, whereupon Senator Butler of South Carolina, who had already expressed impatience at listening to what he termed stump speeches, arose and declared disgust at what he called the idle flimsy, shallow, hypocritical humbuggery against the holiday recess.

Here the Senator from Kansas lost his temper and wanted to know by what authority the Senator from South Carolina posed as a public censor. The latter repudiated the title and Mr. Plumb suggesed another—common scold.

The atmosphere of the Senate Chamber was getting hot and Senator Sherman on the Republican side arose with his rigid smile, in the character of peacemaker. He satisfied Senator Plumb by saying the debate was not a humbug at all, but very interesting, and he pleased Senator Butler by agreeing with him that the holliday ought to be taken, and also in the use of the word humbug (with this difference, he said the President's message was the humbug). After the pouring of this oil upon the troubled waters serenity again reigned and the Senate voted to adjourn until after New Year.

The Great Tortilita.

The Tortilita Gold and Silver Mining Co. own twelve mines in Pinal Co., Arizona, and two of these, the "Benton" and the "Desert" have proved the best mines in the territory. With a small mill and the rude appliances for mining and converting the ore, over $175,000 in bullion has been shipped from these mines during the past three years. In order to obtain a larger mill with improved machinery to mine the large quantity of ore in sight, the Company are offering a limited amount of its stock at the par value of $2 per share. This preferred stock is entitled to a dividend of 25 per cent. per annum. The great value of these mines has been thoroughly proven, and as a safe investment, the preferred stock must commend itself to every investor. For stock or further information, address Joseph H. Reall, 57 Broadway, New York, or 48 Congress street, Boston, Mass. 33w2

What Am I To Do.

The symptoms of Biliousness are unhappily but too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrhea or Constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatuation, tenderness in the pit of stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower, it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy. eow

ADVERTISERS can learn the exact cost of any proposed line of advertising in American papers by addressing Geo. P. Rowell & Co.,

[illegible] in a recent letter to [illegible] says:

"Appreciating your grand publication as an educator of draft horse breeders, I have taken the trouble to secure the following list of farmers and others who are experimenting in breeding to the excellent imported Percheron horse. Decide (3,765) 3,881, owned by Messrs. D. & W. Fairchild, of Dexterville, Oswego Co., N. Y., imported in 1884 by Messrs. Howell & Brigdon, Scipio, N. Y.; he is a black with slight gray, 17 hands high, with fine action; he won first prize at Central New York and other fairs."

We are glad to see the enterprising farmers of New York practically investigating this subject and we can assure them that it is no longer an experiment to cross the imported draft horse upon our small native mares, but a grand success. The half bloods, the first cross, have good size and make grand farm teams, but their price is so high and the demand is so great that few farmers feel able to keep them, and the higher they grade up the better the price. It is easier for Oswego county farmers to raise and sell a hundred thousand dollars' worth of grade draft horses than any other product or stock that can be raised, and besides its great money making element, raising these grand draft horses will not lower the moral character of the community with the gambling element, but will elevate and ennoble the agricultural interest. Let Oswego county become known as the draft horse county, and it will be the pride of the state.—Western Agriculturist.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.

WITH the November, 1887, issue THE CENTURY commences its thirty-fifth volume with a regular circulation of almost 250,000. The War Papers and the Life of Lincoln increased its monthly edition by 100,000. The latter history having recounted the events of Lincoln's early years, and gives the necessary survey of the political condition of the country, reaches a new period, with which his Secretaries were most intimately acquainted. Under the caption

Lincoln in the War,

the writers now enter on the more important part of their narrative, viz.; the early years of the War and President Lincoln's part therein.

Supplementary War Papers,

following the "battle series" by distinguished generals, will describe interesting features of army life, tunneling from Libby Prison, narratives of personal adventure, etc. General Sherman will write on "The Grand Strategy of the War."

Kennan on Siberia.

Except the Life of Lincoln and the War Articles, no more important series has ever been undertaken by the Century than this of Mr. Kennan's. With the previous preparation of four years' travel and study in Russia and Siberia, the author undertook a journey of 15,000 miles for the special investigation here required. An introduction from the Russian Minister of the Interior admitted him to the principal mines and prisons, where he became acquainted with some three hundred State exiles,—Liberals, Nihilists, and others,—and the series will be a startling as well as accurate revelation of the exile system. The many illustrations by the artist and photographer, Mr. George A. Frost, who accompanied the author, will add greatly to the value of the articles.

A Novel by Eggleston

with illustrations will run through the year. Shorter novels will follow by Cable and Stockton. Shorter fictions will appear every month.

Miscellaneous Features

will comprise several illustrated articles on Ireland, by Charles De Kay; papers touching the field of the Sunday School Lessons, illustrated by E. L. Wilson; Wild Western Life, by Theodore Roosevelt; the English Cathedrals, by Mrs. Van Rensselaer, with illustrations by Pennell; Dr. Buckley's valuable papers on Dreams, Spiritualism, and Clairvoyance; essays in criticism, art, travel, and biography; poems; cartoons; etc.

By a special offer the numbers for the past year (containing the Lincoln history) may be secured with the year's subscription from November, 1887, twenty-four issues in all, for $6.00, or, with the last year's numbers handsomely bound, $7.50.

"While thus engaged on work so fine,
Where skill and patience must combine,
How oft the thought must pain the heart,
That after all your care and art,
The handsome work that charms the eye
Ere long must soiled and ruined lie."

"Oh, no! you make a great mistake,
As no such thought our rest can break;
For should there come a soil or stain,
No ruin follows in their train;
However deep or dark they show,
The IVORY SOAP can make them go,
And all the brilliancy restore
And perfect beauty as before."

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

ST. NICHOLAS
For Young Folks.

SINCE its first issue, in 1873, this magazine has maintained, with undisputed recognition, the position it took at the beginning,—that of being the most excellent juvenile periodical ever printed. The best known names in literature were on its list of contributors from the start,—Bryant, Longfellow, Thomas Hughes, George MacDonald, Bret Harte, Bayard Taylor, Frances Hodgson Burnett, James T. Fields, John G. Whittier; indeed the list is so long that it would be easier to tell the few authors of note who have not contributed to "the world's child magazine."

The Editor, Mary Mapes Dodge,

author of "Hans Brinker; or, the Silver Skates," and other popular books for young folks,—and for grown-up folks,—too, has a remarkable faculty for knowing and entertaining children. Under her skillful leadership, ST. NICHOLAS brings to thousands of homes on both sides of the water knowledge and delight.

St. Nicholas in England.

It is not alone in America that ST. NICHOLAS has made its great success. The London Times says: "It is above anything we produce in the same line." The Scotsman says: "There is no magazine that can successfully compete with it."

The Coming Year of St. Nicholas.

The fifteenth year begins with the number for November, 1887, and the publishers can announce: Serial and Short Stories by Mrs. Francis Hodgson Burnett, Frank R. Stockton, H. H. Boyesen, Joel Chandler Harris, J. T. Trowbridge, Col. Richard M. Johnston, Louisa M. Alcott, Professor Alfred Church, William H. Rideing, Washington Gladden, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Amelia E. Barr, Francis Courtenay Baylor, Harriet Upton, and many others. Edmund Alton will write a series of papers on the "Routine of the Republic,"—how the President works at the White House, and how the affairs of the Treasury, the State and War Departments, etc., are conducted; Joseph O'Brien a well known Australian journalist, will describe "The Great Island Continent"; Elizabeth Robbins Pennell will tell of "London Christmas Pantomimes" (Alice in Wonderland, etc.); John Burroughs will write "Meadow and Woodland Talks with Young Folk," etc., etc. Mrs Burnett's short serial will be, the editor says, a worthy successor to her famous "Little Lord Fauntleroy," which appeared in ST. NICHOLAS.

Why not try St. Nicholas this year for the young people in the house? Begin with the November number. Send us $3.00, or subscribe through booksellers and newsdealers. The Century Co. 33 East 17th St. New-York.

[illegible] so many things [illegible] around Toledo about which to write, I am to-day in a quandary what to write; but have decided to give a short description of the churches and places of worship, in the present paper.

All over the city splendid structures rear their spires towards heaven, and every Sunday the churches are filled with devout christians, listening to the gospel faithfully expounded by Toledo pastors. Toledo has seventy churches. The largest Protestant denomination is the Methodist; of these there are thirteen church edifices. First on the list stands St. Pauls church, a large brick and stone edifice with a seating capacity of 800. I attended this church yesterday and heard a grand sermon on the Nativity, with some beautiful music suitable to the occasion. St. John's church is situated on Magnolia street. On Third street, in East Toledo, is situated another Methodist church. On Broadway, near the Union depot, is another church. At the wagon works, is the Monroe street M. E. church. The Detroit Ave. M. E. church is located on Detroit avenue. There are also Methodist societies, on Albany street, in north Toledo, and at Bethany, on Woodville street, east Toledo. At west Toledo is still another Methodist church. There are two German Methodist churches in the city, and the Zion's, and African (colored,) M. E. churches, situated on Erie and Beech streets.

Presbyterian—There are four Presbyterian churches in Toledo, the first on Huron street; the Westminster on Locust street; the third on Knover street; and the First German on Canton street. All these are capacious structures, with large seating capacities.

Baptists—The Baptists have a firm hold on Toledo, and have five churches.

The Congregational church is in Toledo to stay. The largest church of the city is the First Congregational, a cathedral-like stone structure on St. Clair street. I attended this church Sunday evening and heard a prayer, scripture, and song service. The scripture was prophecy, the advent, the crucifixion, and the resurrection. The song service was beautiful and appropriate; besides this are the Central, on Adams street; the Second, on Fourth street, and the Washington, on Dorr street.

Protestant Episcopal—Trinity church is on Adams street; Grace church on Stickney Ave., and St. John's on Eleventh street; Calvary is in the fifth ward, while St. Paul's is a mission in east Toledo.

The Lutherans have ten churches, and the Christian church has a society numbering 800. The building is a cozy little structure, and attended by large congregations. The Roman Catholic has 12,000 adherents in Toledo, and eleven churches. The Jews have two societies in Toledo, with two places of worship Other places of worship—The Salem Evangelical Association, The United Brethren in Christ have a membership of 75. Besides all these churches there are thirteen missions scattered all over the city, and representing all denominations. The Young Men's Christian Association has a large building on Summit street, and has a large membership.

Yours etc.,
Asa Phillips.

The Oft Told Story

Of the peculiar medicinal merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla is fully confirmed by the voluntary testimony of thousands who have tried it. Peculiar in the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, peculiar in the extreme care with which it is put up, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in the unequalled good name it has made at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained, is the most popular and successful medicine before the public today for purifying the blood, giving strength, creating an appetite.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I suffered from wakefulness and low spirits, and also had eczema on the back of my head and neck, which was very annoying. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I have received so much benefit that I am very grateful, and I am always glad to speak a good word for this medicine." Mrs. J. S. Snyder, Pottsville, Penn.

Purifies the Blood

Henry Biggs, Campbell Street, Kansas City, had scrofulous sores all over his body for fifteen years. Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured him.

Wallace Buck, of North Bloomfield, N. Y., suffered eleven years with a terrible varicose ulcer on his leg, so bad that he had to give up business. He was cured of the ulcer, and also of catarrh, by

Wm. White of Hannibal has been pardoned by Gov. Hill. He was convicted last May of seducing Maggie Jacobs and the long trial which proceeded his conviction was a most sensational one, and is well remembered by people in this vicinity.

Bacon has introduced into his store a mechanical device for sending money from the counter to the cashier. It is called the "Lamson cash system" and while common in large stores in cities, it is the first that has ever been used in this village.

Rev. Horace Goodyear who for the past two years has been rector of Zion church in this village will this evening officially offer his resignation as parstor of that church. He has accepted a call to Springfield, Illinois, and will probably preach his last sermon on Sunday next.

Wednesday, January 4th will be the 90th birthday of Mrs. Jane Cochran, an old and well-known resident of this village. She lives with her daughter, Mrs. Jane Rogers and her son, Theodore Cochran, who are the only surviving members of a large family. For one so old she enjoys excellent health.

An exchange says: "When you return from some other town with a bundle of goods that you could have bought just as well from your home merchants, don't you feel a little mean? Honor bright don't you? You are doing what little you can to ruin every business in your town, because we all depend on one another. When you have got the cash to pay for your goods, don't go off to some other town to make your purchases and then expect your home merchant to carry you for months. Give those who accommodate you the benefit of your cash trancsactions."

You can find no such No. 4, coal as that just received by Schenck & Foster.

Dey Brothers & Co., of Syracuse, are rising into prominence more rapidly than any other Dry Goods House in these parts. Their methods of business are fundamentally sound, and the public confidence reposed in them is specially manifested in the continual growth of their mail department.

Ladies from a distance can rely on their orders from samples being filled as carefully and as satisfactorily as when they buy from the piece, and at the same price. The Mail Department is thus a public benefit, and correspondence is invited. It will be a pleasure to Dey Brothers & Co. to attend carefully to orders sent from a distance as much as to wait on those who visit their stores and inspect personally their stocks.

Prices of Agricultural Products.

The December report of the department of agriculture relates mainly to farm prices of agricultural products. The average value of corn is 43.8 cents per bushel, against 36.6 last year, and 32.8 in 1885. In 1881 it was 63.8, when the estimated product was 1,194,916,000 bushels. The difference is largely due to a general depression of value. The prices respectively in 1881 and 1887 are 61 and 48 in Ohio, 60 and 45 in Indiana, 58 and 41 in Illinois, 44 and 34 in Iowa, 65 and 37 in Missouri, 58 and 37 in Kansas, and 39 and 30 in Nebraska. Prices in the Gulf states average lower than last year, resulting from a nearly full home supply. In the Atlantic states prices of home grown corn are only slightly advanced. The average value of wheat is 69 cents, only three mills higher than the average last year. It is 82 in New York; 81 in Pennsylvania; 74 in Michigan; 73 in Ohio; 72 in Indiana; 70 in Illinois; 64 in Wisconsin; 62 in Missouri; 61 in Iowa and Kansas; 59 in Minnesota; 53 in Nebraska and 52 in Dakota. The average for oats is 30.7 cents against 29.8 last year. Barley averages 53.3, instead of 63 last year. Buckwheat 56.1, or 1.7 cent higher than last year. The cereal averages for the entire country differ very slightly from those of last year. The value of potatoes is greatly enhanced, being 68.5 cents, against 45 last year. It is higher than for seven years, except in 1881. The value of hay is much increased. It averages $9.34 per ton against $7.36 last year. The advance has been in the drought area of the west. Cotton values are about half a cent higher than in December last.

Typical Christmas Story Boiled Down.

It was Christmas Eve.

Streets—brilliantly lit shop windows, toys, gay crowds, snow on the ground, everybody out, Christmas.

Jane Allalone wandered all alone, crowd, sweet, sad, face, wistful eyes.

Five years before James Goodygoody, Christmas Eve, betrothed to Jane, sailed away, India ship lost never heard of, foundered on coast of Africa.

Jane held on to hope, and her sewing machinine, never would marry pined away, etc.

William Badbody, rich, corrupt, dissipated, mortgage on Jane's mother's house also on woodshed, foreclosure.

Away villain! Rather poverty, crusts, etc.

Turned out of doors, homeless.

Down by the dark river, Peer No. 8, about to make the fatal plunge, in fact Jane did plunge. But just then the ship, with Captain James W. Goodygoody, which had not been lost at all, came sailing up to the dock, loaded to the water's edge with china, silk dresses and tea. Capt. Goodygoody saw Jane struggling in the water. He fished her out with a boat hook and hauled her on board his own good craft.

"My Jane!"

"My James!"

The cook dried her at the galley stove, and although soaked with salt water she looked as fresh as a daisy.

In fact Jane was a daisy and don't you forget it.

They were married on Christmas.

ST. NICHOLAS

For Young Folks.

SINCE its first issue, in 1873, this magazine has maintained, with undisputed recognition, the position it took at the beginning,—that of being the most excellent juvenile periodical ever printed. The best known names in literature were on its list of contributors from the start,—Bryant, Longfellow, Thomas Hughes, George MacDonald, Bret Harte, Bayard Taylor, Frances Hodgson Burnett, James T. Fields, John G. Whittier; indeed the list is so long that it would be easier to tell the few authors of note who have not contributed to "the world's child magazine."

The Editor, Mary Mapes Dodge,

author of "Hans Brinker; or, the Silver Skates," and other popular books for young folks,—and for grown-up folks,—too, has a remarkable faculty for knowing and entertaining children. Under her skillful leadership, ST. NICHOLAS brings to thousands of homes on both sides of the water knowledge and delight.

St. Nicholas in England.

It is not alone in America that ST. NICHOLAS has made its great success. The London Times says: "It is above anything we produce in the same line." The Scotsman says: "There is no magazine that can successfully compete with it."

The Coming Year of St. Nicholas.

The fifteenth year begins with the number for November, 1887, and the publishers can announce: Serial and Short Stories by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, Frank R. Stockton, H. H. Boyesen, Joel Chandler Harris, J. T. Trowbridge, Col. Richard M. Johnston, Louisa M. Alcott, Professor Alfred Church, William H. Rideing, Washington Gladden, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Amelia E. Barr, Francis Courtenay Baylor, Harriet Upton, and many others. Edmund Alton will write a series of papers on the "Routine of the Republic,"—how the President works at the White House, and how the affairs of the Treasury, the State and War Departments, etc., are conducted. The Advocate of the Best Interests of the Home—The Enemy of the Saloon. The Friend of American Labor. The Favorite Newspaper of People of Refined Tastes Everywhere.

For many years the daily edition of the New York MAIL AND EXPRESS has been recognized as the leading afternoon paper of the metropolis, while its weekly edition has been THE FAVORITE HOME PAPER in thousands of families in every State in the Union. It has attained its great popularity and influence by its enterprise in the collection of news, the purity of its tone, and the ability and courage of its advocacy of the Right on all questions of public interest. FOR 1888 the MAIL AND EXPRESS will be a better paper than ever, and, as a clean, interesting, instructive

Home Newspaper,

it solicits comparison with any other in the country. It is one of the LARGEST PAPERS PUBLISHED anywhere, and spares neither labor nor expense to secure for its readers the very best in all departments of newspaper literature.

OUR POLITICS.

We believe the Republican party to be the true instrument of the POLITICAL PROGRESS of the American people; and holding that the honest enforcement of its principles is the best guarantee of the national welfare, we shall support them with all our might; but we shall always treat opposing parties with consideration and fair play.

AGAINST THE SALOON.

The MAIL AND EXPRESS is the recognized leading journal of the country in the great Anti-Saloon Republican movement. It believes that the liquor traffic as it exists to-day in the United States is the enemy of society, a fruitful source of corruption in politics, the ally of anarchy, a school of crime, and, with its avowed purpose of seeking to corruptly control elections and legislation, it is a menace to the public welfare and deserves the condemnation of all good men.

In brief, all who wish to have in their homes a FIRST-CLASS NEWSPAPER of national scope, broad views, clean pages and courageous, yet kindly, utterances on all questions of general public interest will not be disappointed in the MAIL AND EXPRESS, and we respectfully solicit their influence and support.

SUPPLEMENT TO
THE FULTON TIMES.

THE TRADE OF SYRACUSE.

With this issue we present to our readers a review of the best manufacturing and business industries of Syracuse. The rapid commercial strides and splendid progress of the city are therein illustrated. The growth of Syracuse has, during the last five years, been indeed phenomenal, no other city in this State keeping pace with her onward march. The graphic pen pictures of her manufactures and most reliable business houses will be read with both pleasure and profit. The country dealer will find therein a fund of interesting news regarding his city cousin's method of transacting business, and the farmer will find much therein to interest him.

We have endeavored to write up the business interests of the Salt City with a strict adherence to truth and impartiality, every concern we have alluded to having attained its success by free exercise of every honorable business principle known in the commercial world.

THE PHOTOGRAPHIC ART.

The Ranger Gallery, W. H. Hazer, Proprietor, 43 and 45 S. Salina St.

There is possibly no other art in which more rapid progress has been made, or greater perfection attained during the last decade, than in the art of photography. Beautiful women glory in gazing upon counterfeit presentments of their own charms (unless some breathing ideal excites a jealous pang) and experiences trustful happiness in looking at some miniature of a handsome cavalier her favorite locket may contain.

In connection with these remarks we assure our readers that there is no better gallery in this city for old or young to obtain likenesses, perfect in every detail, than at the one owned and conducted by the gentleman whose name heads this article. Mr. Hazer is now sole owner of the photograph gallery formerly the property of Mr. W. V. Ranger at the above address, and we feel justified in asserting that there is not a finer artist in Central New York. He executes in brilliant style every kind of work known in the photographic art, and the numerous photographs, crayons and miniatures in oil, that stud the walls of his handsome reception rooms, evidences this fact. Mr. Hazer has now secured the services of Mr. Wood, of Elmira, a gentleman well-known in art circles, as among the best retoucher's in the profession. In order to facilitate the execution of his rapidly increasing orders, Mr. Hazer has gone to considerable expense in erecting a large printing room on the roof of the building he occupies, and has fitted it up with every accessory necessary to ensure perfection in his work. Mr. Hazer does every style of work, from life-size photographs to the crayon and miniature in oil. His scale of prices is very moderate, and our readers may be well assured that they can procure first-class work at this gallery for the very same price charged for inferior work elsewhere. As a result of careful and impartial inquiry, we are fully convinced the claims of this establishment are paramount to those of any similar concern in this section of the State, by reason of the well-attested excellence of the work that comes from his hands.

Mr. Hazer has always been noted for his skill and unsurpassed taste in the execution of every class of this work. The scenic appointments and drapery of his gallery are perfect in every detail, and to those who desire to be portrayed amid the surroundings of some special scene, the knowledge of a place where these accessories may be had is well worth having. Mr. Hazer can fully cater to the tastes of his patrons in this respect as well as in artistic workmanship, and the summer woodland, the mountain side or the snow storm of dreary winter are at the call of the patrons who wish for them.

A noted writer once said that "those persons who can truly appreciate the best works of art in statuary and paintings are endowed with lofty aspirations and purity of heart." If this be a truism then there are many in this section of country possessing these virtues, if the numerous visitors who enter Hazer's gallery to inspect the brilliant paintings and beautifully finished photographs it contains, is a criterion to judge by.

In conclusion, we will say that the name of Warren H. Hazer is the synonym of artistic excellence in photographic art, and we cordially commend him to our readers as one eminently worthy of their patronage and appreciation.

There is one period at which overwork is apt to be very disastrous—namely between the ages of twelve and sixteen. During this period rapid mental and physical development is taking place, and great strain is thrown upon every part of the organism. The boy is changing into the man, the girl into the woman. There is certainly no period in the life of an individual so fateful as this in its influence on his or her future career.

THREE-FOLD SUCCESS

The Mammoth Dry Goods Stores of Dey Brothers & Co.,

IN SYRACUSE AND ELMIRA.

Honesty, Energy and Enterprise the Index of Their Success.

It would take a long time and a large quantity of ink to tell half the attractions, for old and young, which are now drawing the crowds for miles around the Salt City to the extensive and elegant emporium of Dey Brothers & Co., at the above address. If one can imagine five triple floors, covering two acres of space, completely filled with everything pertaining to the dry goods trade, some estimate may be had of the view of wonderland here displayed. And yet this is but one of the three great establishments owned and conducted by this energetic and reliable firm. One of the pleasantest duties of a commercial reporter is in writing up the business of a firm whose splendid success is attributable to an honest system of advertising, and a strict adherence to every representation made; and it may be truly said that in this particular respect the firm named is a notable illustration. Ten years ago the Dey Brothers established a dry goods house in the city of Elmira and conducted the same with the assistance of one salesman. To-day that store gives employment to eighty-five persons and with the two large establishments in this city over three hundred people, including book-keepers, clerks, salesmen and saleswomen, dress and cloakmakers, are upon the weekly pay roll of the house. The history of this firm tells of the solid, though rapid, growth of the largest dry goods establishment in this State outside of the Metropolis, and its success emphasizes the high standard of the honest, honorable principles upon which every transaction of buying and selling is conducted. It is not too much to say that in character and standing as well as business enterprise no house of a similar character in the United States bears a higher reputation.

Drifting with the crowd a few days since a reporter of this paper found himself ensconced in one of the two handsome elevators, with which the South Salina street establishment is furnished, ascending to the fourth floor, where the dress and cloakmaking departments are located. Scores of tradeswomen are engaged making the elaborate and plain, the costly and the moderate priced dresses and cloaks, unexcelled for style, artistic workmanship and perfection in shape; facts too well-known to the trade to require any extended mention on our part.

Descending to the next floor the warm, pleasant rooms of the millinery department are entered where, spread before the customers in endless profusion, is every novelty that the caprice of fashion dictates. Hats and bonnets plainly trimmed with ribbons of any tint or plumed with feathers of every hue, are matched with simple gowns or mated with superb toilets of silk or velvet of exquisite pattern. From such a stock, replete with every style at any price, aided in selection by the courteous and accomplished ladies of this grand department, there is no proper reason why every woman nowadays should not be becomingly dressed. Passing through this maze of millinery goods to the adjoining upholstery rooms there is a rich display, embracing all new styles and novelties of beautiful pattern for use and decoration of handsome homes, in the line of lace curtains, velvet portiers, fringes, window shades, pole cornices; in short everything known to the upholsterers' art.

At the rear of this floor the immense room for receiving goods is situated. Here the big boxes of imported goods are taken as well as the bales of goods from home manufacturers. So systematic is the work of this department that any particular line of goods called for can be placed on the counters at a moment's notice. Here, too, is the mailing department; which is one of the greatest conveniences of this progressive house. Out of town customers can, by sending the firm a descriptive letter or pattern for anything pretaining to the dry goods trade, have their orders filled by mail on the same day the order therefor is received. The office of Dey Brothers & Company is at the rear of the second floor and fronting it are the sections devoted to the immense stocks of cottons, flannels and the cheaper grade of dress goods, (the main dress goods department being located on the first or main floor). Long counters and high shelves are piled with muslin, underwear, shirts, yarns and corsets of the improved manufacture and material.

It is needless to state that it would be impossible to enumerate all the different products which are comprised here. Suffice it to say that the stock of these departments is as large and comprehensive as any that can be found in New York city.

The Mecca of a pleasant pilgrimage is the beautiful division assigned on this floor to a grand display of mantles, cloaks and wraps composed of every variety, grade and shade of cloth and beautiful plush material to be worn. In this particular line the Dey Brothers & Company admit of no competition in this city or indeed outside New York. Elegant sealskin jackets, sacques and dolmans are here displayed; also boas and muffs of Alaska sable, fox and other fashionable long-haired furs. The plush cloaks and fur-trimmed garments are particularly elegant and the supply apparently inexhaustible. The greatest care is exercised by the firm in selecting the best quality of the various furs for trimmings and linings. It is probably not generally known by the fair sex that there is no branch of business that can be named in which greater caution and experience are required in judgment and valuation of materials and goods than in the fur trade, and none in which unscrupulous dealers would find it easier to take advantage of the inexperience of purchasers.

Good judges of fur are rare, and a thorough knowledge as well as aptitude for the business is necessary to success. In these respects this house possesses perfect qualifications. As manufacturers they make up the beautiful silk garments trimmed with the finest beaver, lynx, chinchilla and other furs. They receive designs from the leading centers direct and originate many of them. We would be remiss in our duty towards our lady friends and the fair sex generally, if we failed to apprise them of the unparalleled bargains offered in these beautiful plush and cloth cloaks and jackets and elegant fur-trimmed garments, unexcelled for artistic workmanship and perfection in shape and fit in those styles in which fashion dictates they shall now be worn. We may mention as an interesting point in these days of "shoddy" that the firm, or their skilled and experienced superintendents, strictly supervise the work of this department, consequently every garment is warranted perfect that leaves their salesrooms. And this may be said of style, as well as workmanship; for as the firm have intimate relations with European manufacturers and secure the latest foreign patterns their patrons are assured of being in the latest fashion in every garment that leaves the house. The tasty sales-parlors and show rooms in which the hundreds of styles are handsomely exhibited, more nearly resemble an elegant parlor ready for reception than a show room. There is nothing left undone to please the most refined taste in accessories, while the attendants are selected for their courtesy, as well as for experience in business. Spacious and artistically constructed storm doors admit the winter visitor to the main or ground floor of the dry goods palace, which contains a complete supply of everything which comes under the heading of dry goods (except the stock of the special departments above mentioned), covering a variety of articles sufficient to form the stock of a dozen trades. Leaving the great show windows, where a wealth of beautiful goods are displayed in most attractive style, the visitor is greeted, not alone by courteous ushers, but also by the display of an immense assortment of both domestic and direct imported dress goods, silks, white goods, linens, hosiery, gloves, furnishing goods and notions, at once picturesque and astonishing. The scores of cash balls pursuing their sinuous way over the Lamson Patent Cash Railway, to and from the busy cashier's depot, tells that the shifting crowd is an eager purchaser, as well as being delighted sight-seers. The north counter of the left aisle, devoted to hosiery and gentlemen's furnishings, is especially crowded at this season of the year, but willing clerks are tireless in displaying goods to suit the varied wants of their customers. There are some very handsome and natty articles in this department. Neckties and scarfs in endless profusion, each one manufactured solely for Dey Brothers & Co., who supply the beautiful patterns from which the entire stock of neckwear is made up. Gloves of every description to meet the need of horny-fisted working men or please the perfumed exquisite. Suspenders so rich with silken embroidery and satin linings as to be suggestive of Oriental luxury, except that turbaned Turks don't wear suspenders. Shirts of every shade and texture, socks worked in filagree of every hue, besides all else so necessary and so popular with the masculine fashionable world. The large and unique stock of handsome canes, sticks and umbrellas deserve special mention, as do also the various ornamental articles in fancy pottery, delicate and shell-like, in the pale shades or blush rose, salmon, heliotrope and amber.

The lace counter is directly in front of the entrance to the right of the left aisle, and the stock of this beautiful and costly article is very large and comprehensive. Further down on the same side are the large displays of cotton and linen goods. The careful housewife can here select for family wear or household use anything that comes under the province of our home cottons or imported linens and supply herself with every sort of pattern at the counter flanking this aisle. The Butterick patterns, for which Dey Brothers & Co. are sole agents in this city, contains every current style of pattern, and can be procured by mail by sending to this firm. The grand stock of silks, velvets and plushes occupies the entire width of the rear, and that the great stock and fine quality of the goods carried are appreciated is evidenced by the fact that the numerous salesmen of this department find but few leisure moments during the day. The great display of the dress goods section, situated beyond the elevators in the right aisle, evidences a strict rule of this firm to allow no similar house to compete, much less to excel them, in either fine qualities of goods or reasonable prices, and the same remarks are applicable to the section devoted to black goods and linings; in short, their brilliant and varied lines of dress goods are worthy of the largest metropolitan establishments, where the material is furnished by which beauty can shine in various hues and styles and thereby lend grace and happiness to the wearer. The centre sections of the mammoth store are stocked with notions, buttons, flowers, ribbons and all the minor paraphernalia which lend grace and elegance to the material costume.

Cases of perfumes as delicious as the odors they contain, Parisian gloves of kid and lace, mittens of finest make, fans, hand-painted in various figures of birds and animals, or made in pearl-tufted silk gauze, embroidered in solid gold spangles, handsome toilet cases in shell, bronze and plush, containing ivory or pearl mounted toilet articles, are among the wealth of a beautiful array.

The extent of the great business of this firm may be best understood when informed that in order to supply an imperative demand for additional room with which to accommodate the rapid increase of their already immense business, Dey Brothers & Co. were compelled to purchase the entire china and crockery stock and adjoining business house of C. M. Hamlin, at a cost of nearly $40,000. This stock they are rapidly disposing of at far less than cost, for the five floors of this store are absolutely requisite for their dry goods stock.

We have left but little space to notice the splendid arrangements of the shipping department in the basement, or their Great Cash Bargain House at 29 North Salina street. This latter is not, as many might suppose, a depot for the sale of damaged or poor stock. The goods are of equal worth with those of the main store, but room being a great requisite with the firm at the close of a season, the unsold stock is sent to the Cash Bargain house to make way for the fresh importations, hence the design of the north-side establishment, where the best of goods are sold at cost for cash.

It is plain that a house doing business on such a scale are easily able to offer inducements to their patrons which the largest metropolitan competitors can at least no more than duplicate; and when the difference in the expense of doing business in smaller cities compared with that entailed upon the dry goods houses of New York is considered, it may safely be asserted that the house under notice has an advantage which they can share with their patrons, and which the latter very well take note of.

In conclusion it is perhaps superfluous to add that the remarkable success and the splendid standing of Dey Brothers & Co. in trade circles is a just tribute to their ability and push, and to the affable courtesy alike extended to the humblest customer and wealthiest patron in their universally honorable manner of doing business. Our readers can therefore rely that in transactions with this house they will meet with fair and honorable treatment and such advantages as they will only duplicate with difficulty elsewhere.

THE RUBBER TRADE

Represented By Frank C. Howlett, in Syracuse.

SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS CAREER

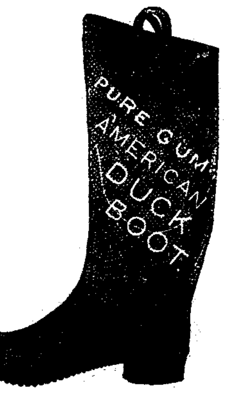
Two Large Stores in Syracuse and One in Rochester.

WHOLESALE HOUSE 59 S. CLINTON ST., RETAIL HOUSE 4 WEST FAYETTE ST.

A short history of the immense business transacted—Two large stores in this city and one in Rochester—Wholesale department at 59 South Clinton street; retail at 4 West Fayette.

Noted as Syracuse is, and has been for the last twenty years, as a great and rapidly growing business center, there are among her enterprises some particularly important industries, whose preeminence in their respective lines stand as conspicuous monuments to the skill, energy and business ability which controls and directs their affairs. Among these no more pleasing illustration can be mentioned than the rubber trade of this city, as conducted by Frank C. Howlett at the above address. A casual visit to his two large stores demonstrated the great dimensions this business has assumed since Mr. Howlett established himself here about six years ago. The retail department at No. 4 West Fayette street occupies three commodious floors, replete with every article of lighter manufacture, while the five large floors of the wholesale store at 59 South Clinton street are heavily stocked with everything known in the use of rubber.

As already mentioned, the retail department is filled with lighter stock, consisting of druggists' rubber goods, comprising every surgical appliance in which rubber is a component part. Immense supplies of rubber boots and shoes are here found; also oil clothing, blankets, hose, belting, packing, etc., etc., not forgetting the beautiful stock of indestructible rubber toys which delight the eyes of babyhood, while they weary their arms and tax their efforts to destroy. Nor should we fail to mention the Climax new four-wheeled sweeper, the most superior by far of any carpet-sweeper manufactured.



In the line of rubber boots, Mr. Howlett does a very large business, covering a broad territory. The latest big improvement in this line is the American New Duck Stub-Proof Boot, having a double thick ball tap, as illustrated by the above cut. This is by far the best rubber boot now manufactured, and is made entirely from selected pure Para gum, and by the most experienced workmen in the trade. For economy, durability and comfort this boot has no equal. In the ordinary rubber boot the coating is on sheeting, but in this boot the coating is on duck. Mr. Howlett is the sole agent for its sale in Western New York, and will, no doubt, answer inquiries regarding it, and furnish samples of the material at the store or by mail. One excellent quality this boot possesses is that it is not at all liable to tear or cut in the least degree when coming in contact with sharp edges or rough surfaces, and every wearer of rubber boots knows how liable are boots of other manufacture to fail in this great particular.

Another great improvement on former make is the "Boss Packed Cushion Weather Strip," for which this house is the sole agent. The improvement consists of a webb cord which runs through the cushion, thus preventing the latter from running down or becoming slack and flabby. Samples of this, too, can be procured by mail, and it is a great preventive of draughts, and almost indispensible in retaining the warmth of a room. The careful and economic housewife reckons this weather strip among her best aids for winter warmth and comfort.

It would be impossible in the limits of this article to enumerate, let alone describe, the almost innumerable articles of rubber manufacture which inventive genius has supplied, and which the stock of this house contains. That Mr. Howlett is the largest jobber in rubber goods in this State, outside of New York city, is sufficient evidence of the magnitude and variety of his stock. The novelties of very latest manufacture can be here obtained, and as he is the sole agent for the following named companies, the extent of his trade in a territory reaching from Albany to Buffalo, from and in Pennsylvania to and throughout Canada, may be possibly imagined. The names of the largest manufacturers for which Mr. Howlett is agent are the "American Rubber company," manufacturers of boots and shoes, heavy and gossamer rubber clothing; the "Boston Belting company," the oldest manufacturers in this country of belting, packing, hose and mechanical rubber goods; the "Norwich Belt Manufacturing company," who make the widely-known pure oak-tan belting and the very pliable and strong lace leathers. All these heavier rubbers for mill supplies, etc., are in the wholesale house at 59 South Clinton street, which is heavily stocked therewith.

Mr. Howlett is also a member of the firm of Howlett Bros., located at 39 East Main street, Rochester. Some idea of the extent of his business may be had from the fact that it necessitates the services of five commercial travelers to cover the territory over which his agencies extend. We may say in conclusion that Mr. Howlett, though in early manhood, has succeeded in building up a magnificent business, which he conducts upon a policy that has for its basis the fostering of the interests of his customers. The principles upon which he transacts his business is that of giving what is unmistakably first-class goods at the lowest prices, finding rather his gain in large sales than in large profits, and, knowing the operations of this establishment, we are not exceeding our province in commending it and its goods as being at the head of their line in the country.

A PROSPEROUS FIRM.

The Successful Business Conducted by A. D. Perry & Co. at 33 Warren Street.

Twenty years ago, A. D. Perry left the seed store of E. J. Foster, where he had been a clerk for nearly seven years, and started a seed store on the corner of Fayette and Warren streets, under the firm name of Howland, Perry & Co., two years later changed to Perry & Robinson, and after eleven years' copartnership he bought out Mr. Robinson and conducted the business alone until December 1, 1883, when he associated with him F. H. Ebeling, a young man from the Salt Springs bank, well-known in Syracuse. This firm has built up an immense trade, by prompt and square dealings, and last year were obliged to leave the corner store for one more capacious, No. 33 Warren street, only four doors from the corner, where farmers, gardeners, poultrymen and the public generally can find a very large stock of goods to select from. And now this enterprising firm, with an eye to business, and the interest of their customers always in view, have bought at sheriff's sale the entire bankrupt stock of E. B. Crofut & Co. at a low price, and have moved to their store, 33 Warren street, the goods, consisting of plows, castings, churns, hardware, barn-door rollers, fanning-mills, cultivators, creamers, paints, oils, tinware, corn-shellers, barb wire, etc. With this purchase comes also the agency of the Warren Mower parts and Munsville plows, with a full line of Stringer, Barr & Co's. goods, formerly sold by E. B. Crofut & Co., and extras for all kinds of farm machinery; in fact, everything a farmer uses on the farm, with a tin shop connected, where first-class tinner's work, such as milk-cans, cream pails, strainers and all kinds of tinware is made and repaired upon short notice in the best manner possible.

The manufacture of drain tile is an important branch of their business. Our better class of farmers are convinced it pays to tile their farms, and the demand for tile in this section became so great that three years ago A. D. Perry & Co. formed a stock company, taking half the stock themselves, to manufacture drain tile. The company bought one of the best clay beds in the country, located at Chittenango, N. Y., and are manufacturing thousands of pieces from one and a half to ten inches in diameter annually. These tile are of superior strength and are in great demand. The factory is run to the fullest capacity every season, and the tile find ready sale. Farmers will do well to call early, in order to take advantage of the low prices A. D. Perry & Co. are offering this stock for during the next thirty days, to make room for their summer stock of seeds now coming in. The seed trade is the larger part of their regular business, and the excellent quality of their seeds is well-known, as every gardener and farmer in this vicinity can testify. Their jobbing and mailing trade extends throughout the United States and Canada, and their stock for 1888 is the finest on the market. Should you fail to receive one of their catalogues by February 1st, send your name and address on a postal card, and you will be supplied free. We cheerfully recommend this reliable and enterprising firm.

LEITER BROTHERS.

Pianos and Organs, 52 South Salina Street.

The love of music is generally taken as an evidence of refined taste, and if we were to judge the culture of our citizens in this respect by the amount of patronage extended to the above named firm, we should feel no hesitation in saying that Syracusans rank as high as any other city in the United States. The house of Leiter Brothers is one of the oldest established firms in Central New York engaged in the sale of pianos and organs. The class of instruments they handle rank highest in merit in the musical world, and the recommendations they have received from pianists, prima-donnas, organists and professors of music, would fill a good-sized volume. Leiter Brothers' handsome store is heavily stocked with instruments of the best known manufacture. They are the agents for Central New York for Steinway & Sons, whose instruments are renowned throughout the civilized world, there being many instances on record of celebrated songstresses refusing to sing to any other accompaniment than that furnished by a Steinway piano. Not any less noted are the pianos of Kranich & Bach, for which Leiter Brothers are also general agents, and the sweetness and perfection of whose tone make them a universal favorite.

Among the numerous organs kept in stock we may mention the Estey & Co. and B. Shoninger & Co. manufacture, as ranking highest in public estimation. Many people at this season of the year find difficulty in choosing suitable presents for, perchance, a wife, sister or sweetheart. No more handsome or valuable gift, or one that would be better prized, could be procured for a bride than one of the splendid and popular instruments from the establishment of Leiter Brothers. The melodious sweetness of its tone would enhance the happiness of the new made home until the sound of a cherub's voice allowed the instrument to rest awhile. This firm also keeps a full stock of sheet music, and having intimate relations with the best known composers, can supply the latest published songs and instrumental music at the earliest possible moment. We cordially recommend the firm as being the most reliable dealers in the business, and assure our readers of a faithful representation of all their instruments.

LIGHT AND LUBRICATION.

The Syracuse Oil Co., W. S. Miller Manager, Office 114 West Fayette Street.

The discovery of the great oil wells of inexhaustible flow in this State and Pennsylvania, created a business enthusiasm unprecedented in the United States and stirred the commercial centres of Europe. Princely fortunes have resulted therefrom and still accumulate, despite the fact that inventive scientists have encircled our cities with lightning chains, and illuminated our streets and business places with electric brilliancy.

Among the absolute articles of necessity in all manufacturing establishments, as well as to every family, is a good oil. Manufacturers must have machinery oils and a safe burning oil is requisite for family use. The Syracuse Oil company has for a number of years been considered the headquarters in Central and Northern New York for all kinds of oils. Their works on Geddes street and the Erie canal are admirably located for a large business. They have four large buildings, including an immense storehouse, a filling room, cooper shop and pump house. Their twelve horses and wagons are kept busy delivering oils, in addition to the great quantities loaded on cars. They have their own side track that holds fourteen tank cars and all these, with a branch in the city of Oswego, enables them to meet every demand on them. Among the different grades of oils, the Crown Acme oil is without doubt the best burning oil in the world. It is made at their refinery at Olean, this State, probably the largest and best refinery in existence. Every attempt to make a better illuminating oil than Crown Acme has proved abortive. Every batch of it is thoroughly tested to make certain that it is perfectly safe and that it will not crust the wick, nor smell, nor smoke, when using in lamps—as much care being used in getting a fine burning oil as there is in getting a good fire test, the first thing always sought for in burning oils.

The Syracuse Oil Company are likewise manufacturers or agents for the best kinds of engine oils, cylinder oils, animal oils and gasoline and napthas. Their Eldorado engine oil is probably the best known and most popular engine oil in the country. Their Red-line engine, Peerless machinery, Golden machinery and black lubricating oils are acknowledged the best wherever known. Their Cotton King cylinder oil, like the Crown, Acme and Eldorado engine, is the best of its kind in the market without an exception. Capitol cylinder oil is also a very popular cylinder oil, and until quite recently was the best. It will do as much service as any other oil excapt the Cotton King and is highly recommended.

On all grades of gasoline and napthas the Syracuse Oil Company have gained a great and much envied reputation. Their trade in them alone amounts to several thousand barrels a month, and all this success is the result of sending out just what people purchase in good, tight packages. The facilities of the house cannot be surpassed and the business under the able supervision of Mr. W. S. Miller has aided in no small degree in extending the fame of Syracuse. We will state to our readers that any communications to the company will be promptly answered, and the courteous manager will be pleased to greet those who may call upon him at the office of the company at No. 114 West Fayette street.

PERFECT TEETH.

Dr. E. E. DeGraff, New York Dentist, 5 South Salina Street.

Beautiful teeth have formed a rapturous theme for the poet and a subject of joyous labor for the painter almost since the eventful day when Eve bit the forbidden fruit in Eden. The possession of perfect teeth is a matter of just pride in man or woman, besides being a source of admiration and envy to others less fortunate. The business of manufacturing artificial teeth has grown to enormous proportions, and in this State alone $2,000,000 are expended annually in the purchase of these useful and ornate requisites. In the profession of dentistry Dr. E. E. DeGraff, of New York city, who has recently established dental parlors and operating rooms in the Syracuse House block, this city, maintains a deservedly prominent and enviable position. This gentleman devotes his closest personal attention to every detail of the business, and though none but the best material is utilized, and every order executed with the greatest care, his extended experience and great facilities enable him to make good sets of teeth for $5.00, while the very best sets can be procured from him for $8.00. Many persons are greatly troubled by wearing teeth not properly fitted, and this inconvenience can be here perfectly remedied at a trifling cost. His new sets of continuous gum teeth with gold fillings are very popular, because of their perfect imitation of natural teeth, and only cost $8.00. Teeth are extracted for 25 cents, and with gas for 50 cents. Dr. DeGraff warrants all his work. His rapidly increasing business justifies his acknowledged reputation, and promises a prosperous future in this city. Do not fail to remember the address, Syracuse House block, No. 5 South Salina street, parlors at head of stairs first floor.

THE MUSIC HALL.

Successful Business of A. C. Chase & Son, 11 South Salina Street.

It has been written that "music hath power to soothe the savage breast," but we have known of attempts being made to extract music from some pianos and organs which have converted mild-mannered listeners into maniacs. These are the kind of instruments generally sold by peripatetic peddlers, and people must expect to be victimized so long as they will patronize them instead of going to honorable men and honest dealers for their needs. To this latter class belongs the firm whose name heads this article. The house of A. C. Chase & Son is the oldest in the music trade in Central New York, being established in 1855. The very spacious room, known as The Music Hall, the largest of its kind in this city, is fully stocked with instruments of the following fine manufactures: Decker Bros., Chickering & Son, Hardman, Haines Bros., Emerson and Knabe pianos, and Burdett and Kimball organs. These instruments possess the finest quality and quantity of tone and besides being of most beautiful finish they cost much less to keep in repair than others of much less worthy make. It is a difficult task to detect the real merits of a piano, except in testing them in years of usage, therefore people should appreciate the importance of dealing with the most reliable firms. To this class belongs the house of A. C. Chase & Son, who have done so much in fostering and directing the musical taste of Syracuse by placing the best make of instruments at the disposal of their patrons.

EYE AND EAR SPECIALTIES.

Doctors Leonard & Orton, No. 10 East Jefferson Street.

The organs of sight and hearing are two of the most sensitive in the human body and yet the former perhaps is the best abused of any we possess. The characteristic rush and hurry of the American people leave little time or inclination to nurse or humor the eye. Poets write sonnets to beautiful eyes and artists depict their loveliness on canvass, and yet we tire and strain them and anon wonder at the blurred lines, or calculate why we can so dimly discern some object that stands out in bold relief before anothers' vision. Then we awake to the startling fact that our vision is failing us and we begin to inquire for a skilled occulist. It is impossible that in the range of our many readers, there are not some who are thus afflicted. Our advice to them is given earnestly for we know whereof we write. When the least symptom of eye failure is discovered lose no time in consulting a first-class oculist, for in this case procrastination is far worse than the thief of time. The ablest oculists we know of, and we know many, are Doctors Leonard and Orton, whose offices are located at the above address. These gentlemen stand at the head of the profession. They will carefully examine the eyes, and prescribe treatment that will guide to absolute recovery. The poor are treated free of charge, and we in all faith recommend this able firm to our readers who may be afflicted with diseases of the eye and ear.

THE STUDIO.

F. X. Allgier, the Photographic Artist, No. 8 Syracuse House Block.

With the rapid growth of Syracuse in commerce, population and wealth, there has also been a corresponding growth in every branch of industry which may be considered among those classes of trade more particularly pertaining to the demonstration of taste and culture. Our citizens have evinced a degree of active endeavor to foster the ambition of professors of the various high arts to excel in their profession. Our schools, colleges and universities glory in the learning of their professors and teachers; our musical conservatories are the training schools of future prima donnas and our studios and photograph galleries are the homes of the chiefs in their profession. Among the most prominent photographic artists of this city, Mr. F. X. Allgier, whose studio is located at the above address, occupies a deservedly high and well won position. The height of the success to which this gentleman has attained has been reached solely by the merit of his artistic work, and he may well feel a pardonable pride in this fact. A system of "circus advertising" with band wagon and stereoptican auxillaries is disgusting to refined taste when applied to the higher arts, and is the usual mountebank resort of the Charlatans that creep into and disgrace every honorable profession and is one of the methods used to extort money from senseless dupes.

It is then a pleasure to chronicle the success of this gentleman, the excellence of whose work would alone advertise his business. Mr. Allgier takes a pride in turning out first-class work. He relies upon no quack system of advertising to attract business, for the recognized excellence of every class of work he does is justly appreciated by a most liberal and extensive patronage. All kinds of work known to the photographic art is admirably performed and every order receives prompt and personal attention. The photographs he turns out are unexcelled for style and finish, as well as for moderate cost. Photographs are enlarged and splendid crayon pictures can be had at a very low cost. The scenic and drapery accessions can not be surpassed and the entire gallery is fitted up with every necessary requisite to aid in supplying his patrons with first-class works of art. Mr. Allgier is a gentleman of large experience in all that relates to his art, and his strictly honorable and upright manner of doing business is evidenced by his success.

ZINSMEISTER BROTHERS.

Their Extensive Business Transacted at 35 North Salina Street.

There is no concern in the city that has built up a higher reputation for the excellence of its stock or enjoys a larger or more extensive trade than that of Zinsmeister Brothers (John and Karl), dealers in boots and shoes, whose elegant and extensive establishment is located at the above address.

At no time since establishing their business have this firm been willing to sacrifice their reputation for keeping the best line in the various grades, and a class of goods that will bear the most rigid tests of wear. They have valued more a permanent reputation for durability than the temporary triumphs of depreciated products which are now so extensively placed upon the market. This fact, in conjunction with the very low prices at which the goods are marked, explains why this establishment commands such a liberal patronage. The modern demands for "shoddy" has not broken down their faith in the sound maxim of business that a good article at a fair price, is better than a poor one at more than it is worth. They have close connections with the most prominent manufacturers in the country and are enabled to put before their numerous customers the very best quality of goods at the most resonable prices. Their line of ladies' shoes and the great stock of slippers of every quality are not excelled and scarcely equalled in the city. Their energetic business methods and square-dealing principles, combined with the quantity, quality and price of their goods, demonstrate that it is possible to hold a reputation for selling first-class goods that will secure the confidence of the buyers, and at the same time furnish them at prices that will compel their patronage.

FINE DENTAL WORK.

Dr. G. E. Hill, Albany Dentist, No. 62 South Salina Street.

Very many persons throughout this section, particularly those who have heretofore required evidence of his professional skill, felt deep regret, and expressed warm sympathy when the beautiful dental parlors of Dr. G. E. Hill, the Albany dentist, were destroyed in the disastrous fire that consumed three handsome buildings on South Salina street nearly three months ago. The doctor, however, did not lose any time in bewailing his misfortune, but in his usual energetic way proceeded to find a favorable location where he might pursue his profession and complete the great amount of work on hand when so summarily dispossessed. This favorable location he found at the above number where he now occupies the entire sixty feet front of the second floor. His reception rooms are spacious and handsomely furnished, operating rooms supplied with elegant and comfortable operating chairs and the labratory and workrooms fitted up with all the dental appliances that contribute to the success and artistic perfection of the dentists' work.

Doctor Hill occupies a deservedly prominent position among the most skillful dentists in this State and the large custom he receives, together with the little leisure time he has to spare, clearly demonstrate his success in this city. This establishment is one of a syndicate of dental institutions which are known as the Albany Dental Association, the largest dental establishment in the world, and of which Dr. Hill is the general manager. The branches of the Association are located as follows: No. 62 South Salina street, (over Yale's paper store); 272 Main street, Buffalo; 33 West Market street, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; 142 E. Main street, Rochester; over First National Bank, Scranton, Pa., and 148 Market street, Paterson, N. J. These establishments are in charge of the most experienced gentlemen in the dental profession.

The class of work done by Dr. Hill in this city has won the highest meed of praise, alike for perfect fit, artistic workmanship, and moderate price. He performs the filling of teeth without using pegs to separate the teeth or causing any pain by their use. This is consoling news to any who desire to have their teeth filled, or that know anything of the pain occasioned by the pegging process. Dr. Hill furnishes a full set of teeth, upper or lower set, for $8.00, and will warrant them in every particular to be of the best material, and that no better can be got anywhere, no matter how much may be paid for them. He pays also particular attention to the painless saving of natural teeth, and the reputation he has for the excellency of his gold fillings extends over a wide territory. He fills teeth with silver for 75 cents, and these, as well as gold fillings, he warrants. Dr. Hill mixes gold and platinum with the silver, which makes it harden much quicker than ordinary amalgam, and renders it so hard that sharp angles will not break away, besides giving it a finer grain and enabling it to completely resist corrosion.

For the painless extraction of teeth, Dr. Hill uses vitalized air, his own discovery, and, in an experience of twenty years there has not been one unfavorable result from its use. We should also mention that the teeth are put in without plates—Dr. Sheffald's process. The following is Dr. Hill's scale of prices, and in view of the splendid workmanship and the care and attention displayed in every branch of the busines and the superior quality of the material used, the figures are surprisingly low; but we presume the doctor reaps the benefit in the great amount of work he performs, being satisfied with very moderate individual profits. Here are the prices: Teeth extracted for 25 cents; gas administered for 50 cents; teeth cleaned for 75 cents; teeth filled with amalgam for 25 cents; with silver for 75 cents; with gold for $1 and upwards; a set of teeth for $5.50; best set of teeth for $8.00.

Our readers will from these remarks readily realize that no better dental work in any respect can be performed in this city, and that Dr. Hill is in a position to at all times guarantee his patrons perfect fits, reliable sets and workmanship that cannot be excelled.

An Important Point.

LEGG & HILTON,

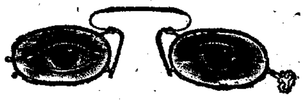
Watchmakers, Jewelers and Opticians, 17 Vanderbilt Square.

Although mankind, in the earlier ages, measured time by the sun dial and hour glass, it is evident from the recovery of great stores of jewelry and trinkets from the ruined cities of the East and also by the productions of India and China that the art of making jewelry was one of the first at which they arrived, and that the taste for personal decorations is a universal expression of existence.

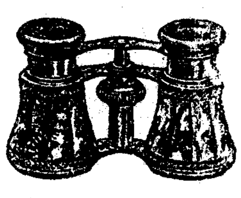
In these times the appliance of science to the methods and processes of the arts has placed in our possession the indispensible pocket chronometer and enlivened our homes with the familiar ticking of the household clock, while the introduction of machinery has so cheapened and increased the production of jewelry as to place within the reach of everyone the ability to gratify his taste for it.

Handsome stores are everywhere devoted to this business, but none are better calculated to supply our wants or satisfy our tastes than the one conducted by Messrs. Legg & Hilton, at the above address, these gentlemen perhaps having done more to educate and direct public taste to the value of a first-class timepiece, or any article in the line of optical goods, than any other house in the city has accomplished.

The stock carried is a very beautiful and well-selected one and includes American and imported watches of the best manufacture, a fine general line of jewelry, plain and ornamental clocks of all styles and varieties, besides a magnificent line of optical goods, including barometers, telescopes, opera glasses and microscopical supplies.



Their stock of spectacles and eyeglasses is most comprehensive, and being thoroughly schooled opticians, making free examinations of the eyes of their customers, they are enabled to fit the eye with glasses, the strength of which are precisely adapted to the sight. Very many people carelessly neglect caring for their eyesight, forgetting that it is one of the most sensitive organs, and that its failure can be prevented by timely precaution. To such as may discern a weakness of sight, no matter in how small a degree, we extend a kindly advice to consult these gentlemen, who charge nothing for a careful examination, and we recommend their glasses, the above cut illustrating one of the styles worn, as being the very best and most highly endorsed in the entire business.



Their large stock of opera glasses comprise many elegant styles in pearl, ivory and ebony, and are the best in their line. Every amusement-lover knows how the enjoyment of a spectacular play may be spoiled by the use of a poor opera glass. In a corresponding degree is the worth of a dramatic performance enjoyed by the use of the glasses sold by this firm, for as practical men they aim to procure the best and sell them at prices which places them within the power of every amusement-lover to procure.

The firm of Legg & Hilton is about the best known of its nature in this city, and enjoys to the fullest extent the confidence of the community. Whatever you may purchase, whether the costliest chronometer or the tiniest trinket, reliance may be placed upon the fact that the article sold is exactly as represented and the price in consonance with the well-known characteristics of liberality and square dealing that distinguishes this firm. In fact, the career of this house since its establishment to the present time has been a chapter of well-deserved success, which their fairness and square, liberal dealing has achieved.

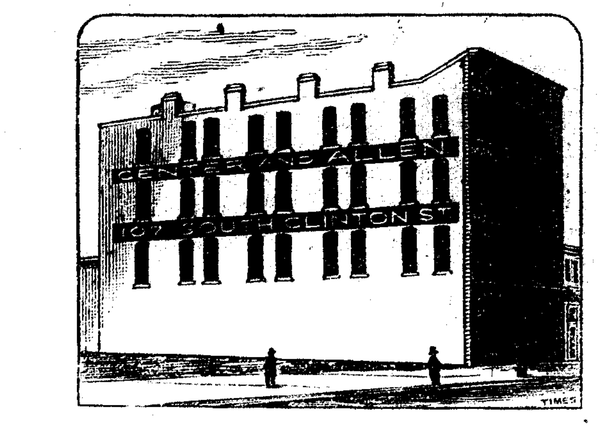
CIGAR.

53 South Clinton St., Syracuse, N. Y.



Center & Allen.

Syracuse has of late years been most emphatically known to the trade as a cigar manufacturing city, and any account of the mercantile and manufacturing establishments of the Salt City would be incomplete without mention of that class of houses which are the best representatives of the weed that affords so much solace to mankind.

As a leading representative of this trade in the city, we devote a brief space to the house of Messrs. Center & Allen. These gentlemen have recently formed a business alliance and the combined energy, ability and honorable qualities of individual experience form the groundwork of a solid, practical and reliable house. It is the aim of this house to supply the market with a class of goods of so fine a quality and perfect make that they will find a ready sale to supply popular demand throughout this State, as well as the west and southwest generally. A great many skilled cigarmakers are employed at their factory in the manufacture of every grade of cigars, which are turned out in large quantities and readily disposed of. The manufacturing plant and wholesale department are situated at No. 107 South Clinton street, while the handsome retail store is located at No. 19 West Railroad street. In the salesroom are stored a full and complete line of fine cut and plug smoking and chewing tobaccos, cigars, snuffs, as well as smokers' articles of every description. The stock of Key West and imported goods is very large and comprehensive, comprising the best-known and popular brands, and have the highest reputation in the trade for superior quality.

However, the energies of the concern are devoted to the manufacture of cigars, which, under their own well-known brand names, have found a ready sale throughout a very extensive district. Among the brands referred to are the "A. M. C." "Perfectos," "Annette" Perfectos, "J. G. A.," "Center's Pure Stock," "Allen's Pets," "Yours," "Ours" and "Just Right," the best five cent cigar in the market. These goods are manufactured from the best Vuelto Abajo tobacco, as good as is used by the best factories in Havana, and the trade will find it to their interest to handle them, owing to their uniform quality and fine flavor thus enabling them to hold their trade with the public. This firm is also distributing agents for the justly celebrated "Grand Chief" cigars. They also keep in stock the well-known "Merry War" plug chewing tobacco and also the American Eagle tobacco. Their entire brands are very popular wherever introduced and easily maintain their high place in public favor. The proprietors are gentlemen who are experts in the selection of raw material, and also possess a thorough knowledge of the details of the business, and are always solicitous of the wants of their patrons, and scrupulous to give honest goods at moderate prices in all instances. The output of cigars from their factory has assumed large proportions and is rapidly increasing, and by virtue of the facilities at their command they are enabled to offer special advantages in the way of high goods at low prices. This establishment is in every way entitled to the confidence of the trade as being a leading representative of the cigar manufacturing interests, not only of Syracuse, but of the entire State, whose reputation is being built by a system of uniformly fair and honorable dealing, as well as by the excellent quality and reliability of its goods.

A SUCCESSFUL INSTITUTION.

Meads' Business College, Grand Opera House Block.

Meads' Business College, situated at the above address, is one of the best, as it is one of the oldest of these institutions in the country, being specially designed for the practical benefit of scholars who decide to pursue a business career. The progressive and thoroughly practical methods pursued at this college have drawn to its class rooms pupils from all sections. It was established in 1863 and has during its period of existence accomplished a great work and is now considered one of the steadfast institutions of the city. The proprietor and principal, Prof. C. P. Meads, is an accomplished scholar and devotes his entire time to the interests of his pupils and is assisted in his work by accomplished and experienced instructors who combine with him to impart the completest commercial course that can be given. The rooms are spacious, well lighted and ventilated. The actual business department is one of the most completely equipped and practically conducted in the country, with every facility for representing retail and wholesale business, commission, transportation and banking. Students buy and sell, give, take and discount notes, make out bills, checks, drafts and account sales, write letters, deposit in bank, open and close books, act as entry, shipping and invoice clerks, bookkeepers, bank clerks; and in short acquire a fund of practical information worth ten times its cost in time and money. A guarantee of the popular appreciation of Meads' College appears in the fact that a majority of our wholesale and retail business houses employ young men and women in most responsible positions who have obtained their business education at this institution. Stenography, type-writing and telegraphy are also taught to perfection in an astonishingly brief period. Night school opens October 1st and continues until April, and the tuition fee being but $4.00 per month, the advantages it confers on those employed during the day cannot be overestimated.

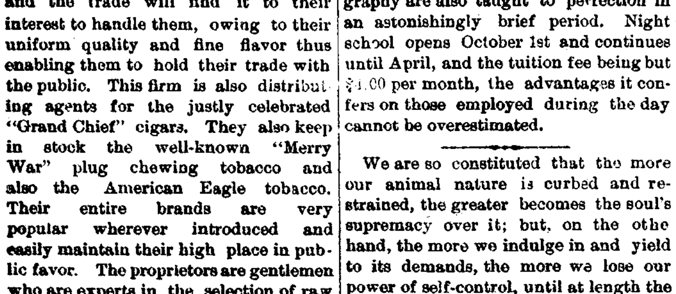
We are so constituted that the more our animal nature is curbed and restrained, the greater becomes the soul's supremacy over it; but, on the othe hand, the more we indulge in and yield to its demands, the more we lose our power of self-control, until at length the will is utterly dethroned, and we are carried headlong down the path to hopeless disaster.

The moral nature has its active and its passive side, and cannot be fully developed unless both are nourished. Glorious labor for truth, for right, for duty, for the good of others, should be united with that tranquil frame of mind which leans confidently on established principles and thus strengthens the whole nature for further action.



A PROMINENT INDUSTRY.

The Carriage Business Conducted by James Kerby at 41 and 43 Warren St.

In the building of wagons, buggies and other wheeled vehicles, American manufacturers beat the world. They have a greater variety of lumber at command than those of any other country, they have more skill as masters, more labor-saving appliances, more skillful workmen, and their productions as a consequence cannot be surpassed either for gracefulness of design, strength and durability of construction, or for reasonableness in price. Among the best manufacturers in this line the firm of James Kerby at the above address stands among the most prominent. Mr. Kerby manufactures the celebrated Duplex, which bears the reputation of being the best pleasure and business wagon yet produced. This wagon, by having one spring on each side of the axle, does away with the objection experienced by having the single spring either in front or rear of the axle, which, when going into a pitch hole, has the tendency to throw a strain on the spring and couplings, working them loose and causing the wagon to rattle and make a noise. This is but one of the many excellencies of this fine vehicle, of which the above cut is a faithful representation. Besides manufacturing, Mr. Kerby does a general repairing business and his customers can rest assured of the best material being used therein by first-class workmen and we confidently recommend our readers to this establishment, knowing that their orders will receive prompt, careful and personal attention.

"NONE SUCH" BAKING POWDER.

Manufactured by George C. Hanford, at No. 108 South Clinton Street.

One of the best methods to create and sustain happiness in the home circle rests in the inclination or ability of the wife or mother to see that none but well-cooked, clean and enticing victuals are neatly set upon the tidy, well-laid table. It matters not how luxurious the home or how humble the cottage, nor how attractive conjugal love or the prattle of innocent childhood might make them, the cup of home content will never fill so long as poorly cooked meals continue to be placed upon the table. The sodden pie-crust makes the rich man reflect on the club life of his bachelor days, while the doughy bread induces the hungry laborer to sigh for a bakery or a restaurant. The innocent cook stove has many a load of blame to carry for the careless housewife who has neglected to educate herself regarding the quality and quantity of the meats, vegetables, flour condiments and concomitants necessary to secure an enjoyable repast, and thereby perfect the happiness and content of home.

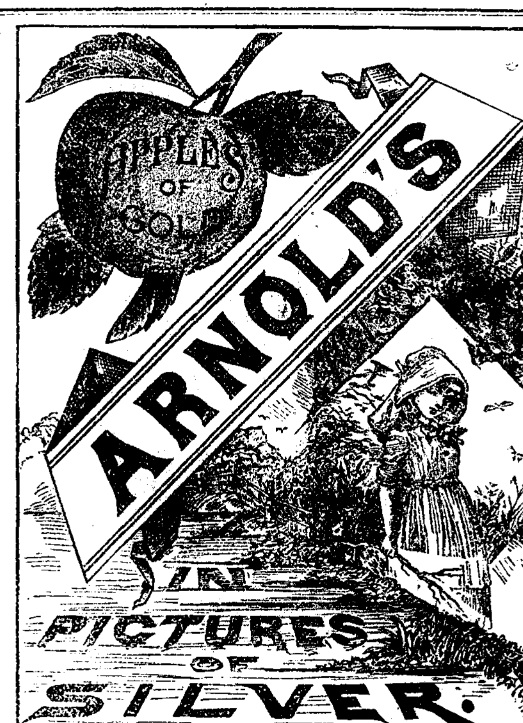
Everyone knows that good bakestuffs of every kind depend, to a great extent, on the quality of the baking powder or yeast used therein, and yet there is a great deal of ignorance or carelessness dislayed in the purchase of these very articles.

It is our privilege to place before our readers in this article the superior merits of the "None Such" Baking Powder, manufactured by Mr. George C. Hanford, at the above address. There are various brands of baking powder of different manufacture in the market, some good, some medium and more bad. Unless baking powder is absolutely pure it should not be used. Unscrupulous dealers adulterate their productions with various minerals in order to obtain as nearly as possible satisfactory results in use, regardless of the health of the families so unfortunate as to use it; but no other manufacturer of baking powder, no matter what they may claim, can compete in analytical test, or produce the grand results in baking, that belong to the splendid baking powder known by the name of "None Such."

It is now about fourteen years since Mr. Hanford commenced the manufacture of this justly celebrated baking powder, and the close personal attention he has given to every minute detail, and the help of the latest and most approved appliances, many of them of his own invention, for mixing and manipulating, sparing neither time, labor or money to attain the desired end, has enabled him to place before the public this "None Such" baking powder which stands to-day unparalelled in this country or any other for excellence and purity. The "None Such" baking powder is absolutely pure, being made of pure grape cream tartar, the finest bicarbonate soda and a little starch. It contains nothing else. Housewives should not fail to appreciate the superiority of this powder over all others. Dr. Edward G. Love, the Government Chemist, made an analysis of various baking powders, purchased by himself, and the result of the analysis proved beyond all shadow of doubt the absolute superiority of "None Such" over all other baking powders. Mr. Hanford has also received thousands of testimonials from the most prominent chemists and physicians in this country, all attesting the great superiority of "None Such." The proprietor will forfeit the amount of the purchase to any dealer finding short weight, or any impurity or adulteration whatever in the powder.

Mr. Hanford also manufactures a full line of pure flavoring extracts of finest quality, and which can be relied upon by the most particular. They are not made from poisonous oils, acids or ethers and are from four to six times as strong as many flavoring extracts. They are the direct production of, and represent true flavors of choice selected fruits, spices, etc., from which each derives its name. A huge iron mortar run by machinery, capable of performing the work of eight men, is used for extracting the oils from the vanilla beans, etc., from which the flavors are made.

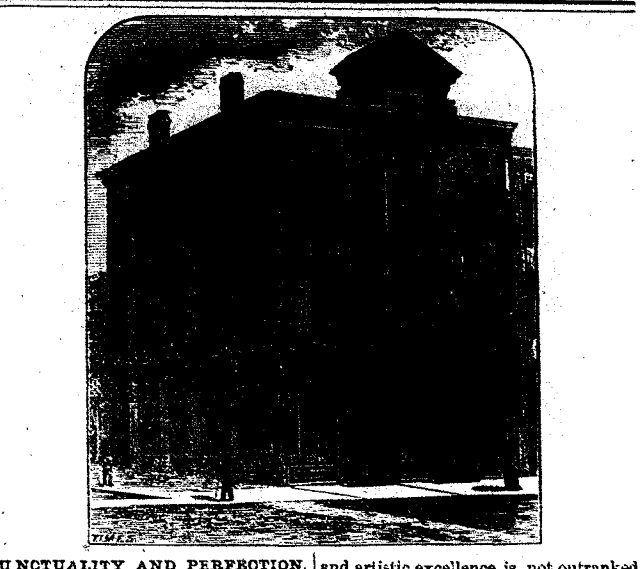
Mr. Hanford occupies the entire five floors at the above address in the manufacture of his "None Such" baking powders and flavoring extracts. The factory is furnished with every requisite appliance and gives employment to a large number of men and women. We are glad to chronicle that he is reaping the success the superior merits of his "None Such" baking powder and pure flavors deserve.



THE CLOTHING TRADE,

As Conducted by William A. Arnold at 16 and 18 North Salina Street.

If there is one desire that operates more powerfully than another the minds of the present generation, it is the desire to be well and tastefully dressed. This desire does not grow out of a wish to be simply in the fashion, but is the result of the exercise of taste created by its exhibition on the part of our associates and a knowledge of its good effects. A diamond is pleasing to look at, but its beauty is improved by an artistic setting; so men of talent, energy and ability will in time assert their claims to the positions they were created to adorn, but how much easier and smoother is the road, with how much greater facility is the height of their ambition reached, if they are well dressed. A person who is well dressed, or comfortably clad, according to his means, carries with him an air of respectability and shows his cleanliness and taste. At the present time, when the general supply of clothing can be procured at incredibly low prices, there is no excuse for slovenly or ill-clad men and boys. Among the houses engaged in the clothing business which contributes most largely to the satisfaction of the general public, the firm of W. A. Arnold, at the above address, stands deservedly prominent. For nearly nineteen years Mr. Arnold has been identified with the prosperity and development of Syracuse in relation to the clothing trade, maintaining through all that period the highest reputation for reliability and liberality. He is thoroughly conversant with every branch of the clothing business and manufactures a general line of men's, youths', boys', school and children's clothing. All sizes and styles are produced in large profusion. The facilities of the firm in all departments are complete, and fully equal to any in the country. Mr. Arnold keeps a very fine assortment of stylish patterns of very fine imported and domestic cloths, as well as a large stock of the coarser grades, and the smallest detail in the manufacture and make-up is examined by his practical eye before being sent to the customer or finding a place on the sales counters, so that it is next to impossible to find an ill-made garment in the entire stock. Knowing that Mr. Arnold had inaugurated a special holiday sale on the first inst. and continuing through the month, the reporter joined the throng of purchasers, and after careful inspection was thoroughly convinced that the promises of the proprietor to "run them off at cost" was being indeed fulfilled. One grade of overcoats were going off like hot cakes at $3.50, exactly two dollars less than the former price. Another grade that formerly sold for $8 were finding eager purchasers at the sum of $5. A particularly good grade of overcoats of fine material, which were well worth the original price of $14, were being slaughtered at the ridiculously small sum of $7. Special sales were also going on in the pants section, where all-wool cassimere pants which had sold at, and were easily worth $5.50, were being given away for $3. Nor were the children forgotten. This department was crowded with eager mothers who were rejoicing the hearts of their little ones and beautifying their bodies with excellent suits, which they obtained complete for $2, the former price being $4.50. These suits vary in size to fit children from three to eight years old. This special sale will continue during the holidays, and that the people appreciate the liberality of the proprietor is evidenced by the crowds that flock there. Arnold deserves the success he has attained as an honorable, reliable merchant, and his patrons are certain of obtaining the full value of their expenditure at his popular store.



PUNCTUALITY AND PERFECTION.

John Stoecker's Jewelry House 44 North Salina Street.

There is no more useful article, or one better appreciated by punctual business men, than a first-class, reliable time piece, and no business requires a more thorough knowledge of everything therewith connected than that which relates to the watchmaking and jewelry trade. In this age when the market is flooded with worthless chronometers it is gratifying to know that there is one firm that has achieved a well earned reputation for honest representation and reliable goods. We refer to the old established firm of John Stoecker at 44 North Salina street, which commenced business in 1866 and a cut of whose business house heads this article. Mr. Stoecker is a thoroughly practical watchmaker and deals in none but those of reliable manufacture, but relying more on rapid sales at small profits, he is able to give his patrons first-class watches at prices but little above manufacturing cost. The general jewelry stock of the store contains an assortment which for beauty and artistic excellence is not outranked in the city. It includes lines of ladies' gold watches, diamonds and other precious stones, plain and ornate rings, chains and general silver ware, etc. His stock of clocks, like his watches, are of the best manufacture, and no careful housewife need complain, or excuse late meals if supplied with a Stoecker clock. It has ever been the aim of the proprietor to retain the trade once obtained and in this he has always succeeded, for in a business in which there are many opportunities for fraud and misrepresentation, people will generally cling to the honest, straightforward dealer. In laying these brief facts before our readers we do so to guide them to an establishment where may be procured the very best goods obtainable in this business, with low prices, courteous treatment and honest charges.

It is worth while to remark that one reason why Mr. Stoecker is enabled to sell at the most reasonable prices lies in the fact that, being the owner of his entire building, he is able and willing to share with his customers the sum the rent, under other circumstances, would amount to.

BANKERS AND BROKERS.

Burnett & Westcott, 12 and 14 Syracuse House Block.

No city can have sound, successful or extensive banking or brokerage facilities without numbering among her business men a majority who are reliable, sound and successful. Neither can the industrial and commercial enterprise of a city be conducted without the aid of those institutions whose recognized integrity and financial standing are beyond every doubt. The growing commercial interests of Syracuse, and the important relations this city sustains as a distributing point for her own manufacturers and other trade products, render its brokerage and banking facilities a matter of particular interest, and few people whose attention has not been directed to the subject, have any idea of the extensive business transacted in this city in the sale and purchase of stocks, bonds, promissory notes, mortgages, local and general securities, through the brokers who represent this important business in Syracuse.

In this branch of trade we direct our readers' attention to the firm of Messrs. Burnett and Westcott, whose offices are located in rooms No. 12 and 14 Syracuse House block, corner of South Salina and Genesee streets.

These gentlemen are agents for "The Burnett Park Extension," besides being agents for the "Security Loan and Trust company," of Des Moines, Iowa, six per cent. debenture bonds, five and ten years to run, with interest payable semi-annually in New York.

Regarding these investments it is worthy of note that the State of Iowa shows the lowest percentage of illiteracy and the most uniform crop returns of any State, and the security behind these bonds is constantly appreciating. It is well known that they are largely held for trust funds by some of the best investors in New York city; and it is also true that they are held by the State of Iowa, and also by the strongest insurance companies (having been fully approved by the State Auditor) and other investors of trust funds, in the city of Des Moines, in very large amounts. Messrs. Burnett & Westcott are gentlemen of large experience and sound judgment and they very carefully investigated the standing and methods of the "Security Loan and Trust Company" before venturing to offer their securities, and as a result of their thorough investigation they do not entertain the slightest hesitancy in offering these securities to investors as being safer than most railway and real estate mortgages, and as being far more available and convenient than the latter. They are issued in multiples of $100, in sums to suit investors.

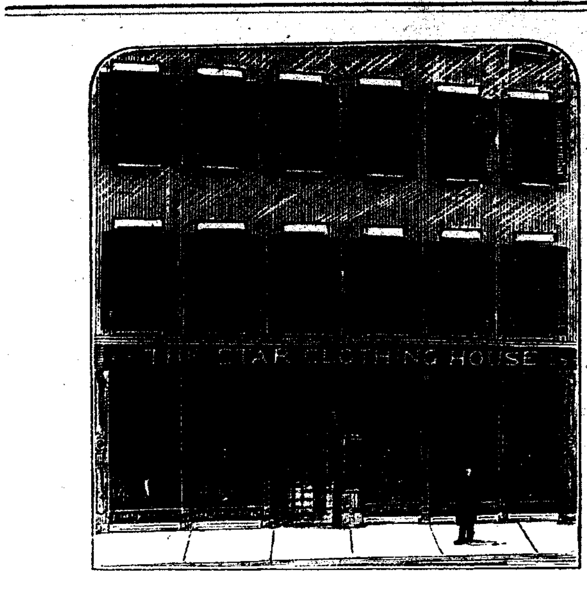
The firm also deals in real estate and are especially recommended to property owners and those seeking judicious investments. The business of the house consists in buying, selling and exchanging all kinds of real property. This includes business premises, residences, town lots and tracts of land. In this department the firm enjoy more than ordinary facilities, their connections being wide-spread. It is the earnest endeavor of Messrs. Burnett & Westcott to merit, by the strictest principles of mercantile honor and fair dealing, the appreciation and confidence of the public. Those forming relations with this house may rest assured that their interests will always be carefully considered and guarded, and all the advantages placed at their disposal which may be conferred by large and growing connections, honest dealing and the strictest adherence to all representations made.

For the benefit of our country readers that may desire to transact business with Messrs. Burnet & Westcott, that they may reach the firm without further inquiry, we state that they occupy the corner offices, Nos. 12 and 14, on the second floor of the Syracuse House block, southeast corner of South Salina and Genesee streets. These rooms front on both streets.

A WELL-KNOWN FIRM.

Kearney Brothers, Manufacturers and Retailers of Clothing.

There is not a firm in the State that is more favorably known than Kearney Brothers. They have thirty-two branch retail stores and manufacture every article they sell. They buy their cloth for cash direct from the looms, and possess superior facilities for manufacturing. They have two factories, one located in New York, where all their fine goods are made by men tailors; the other is located in Utica, N. Y., where the medium grade of goods are made up by experienced hands. In each of the branch stores they sell all goods at the lowest wholesale prices, thus saving you the middleman's profit of from twenty-five to forty per cent. They opened their branch store in Syracuse two years ago and have established a trade second to none in this city. Their store is located in the Larned block, Vanderbilt square, second door from Warren street, and you can go there any day and you will find their large force of salesmen as busy as bees, waiting on crowds of people who come from miles around to patronize this live, enterprising firm. Just now they are running an extraordinary special sale of men's and boys' suits and overcoats. They are selling a man's double-breasted overcoat for $2.50, worth $8.00; a man's beaver overcoat at $6.10, worth $11 00; a man's Chinchilla overcoat worth $18.00 at $9.85; a custom-made Elysian Beaver overcoat, satin-lined throughout, at $14.85, regular retail price $28.00; men's entire suits worth $10.00, at $4.65; all-wool business suits, in all the new patterns, worth $14.00, at $6.90; imported corkscrew worsted suits, made up four-button cutaway and Prince Albert style, at $11.50, $13.20, $14.60 and $16.35, equal to best custom work at $38 00 and $40.00; boys' overcoats from $1.50 up; boys suits from $1.60 up; thousands of men's pants from 49 cents up; boys' pants from 25 cents up. This firm never "carry over" goods from one season to another, and on account of the backwardness of the season they have inaugurated this great clearance sale, as they manufactured very heavily this season for their different retail stores; and the consequence is, on account of the unfavorable weather, they are heavily laden with winter goods. They are determined to close out all heavy goods regardless of loss, cost or value. The people are not slow in taking advantage of such a grand opportunity, and if you have not already visited this firm, we would advise you to do so without delay, knowing that it will be to your interest to do so.



AN ENTERPRISING HOUSE.

The Great Star Clothing Company, 24 and 26 N. Salina St.

At no period in the world's history has the progress of science and art been so rapid, or their triumphs and benefits more clearly defined, than during the last decade. The inventive genius of man has made use even of the lightning of the heavens to illuminate the factories he has filled with the labor-saving machinery of every industry.

In no branch of manufacture to which machinery can be applied has greater perfection been attained than in that which relates to the manufacture of the cloths in the garments which we wear. The gigantic looms in tireless oscillation produce the various fabrics in complete readiness for the tailor's shears, or the knife of the clothing factory, and in consequence the hand-looms and spinning wheels, the pride of our good old grandmothers, are heirlooms now, stored away with other relics of the past. But not to the manufacture of cloths alone by machinery is the present perfection of every line of clothing due. Every accessory necessary to form a complete garment, is at the command of the tailor, and as a consequence these, with the unequalled loom and superior work of Americans, compel even our British cousins to admit that we are the best-dressed people upon the earth. And why should we not be when manufacturers are so numerous, and great stores stocked with ready made clothes of every quality and every price abound in every city, town and village in our land. Everyone knows how much easier it is for a man, when dependent upon his own ability for a decent living, to get along in the world and rise among the people in it when well clad. A well-dressed man carries with him an air of respectability and displays a refined taste; and if we were called upon to select the branches of industry which contribute most to the satisfaction of men in general we should have no hesitation to decide in favor of that art which enables a man to be well dressed in garments of becoming styles and colors.

In connection with these remarks it is our privilege to chronicle the rapid but sturdy growth of an institution ranking among the largest, as it is the most progressive, retail clothing establishment in this State. We refer to the Star Clothing House, located at Nos. 24 and 26 North Salina street, Empire Block, for it is a recognized fact that any treatise regarding the commercial interests of Syracuse wherein a record of the best business houses of the city is desirable would be incomplete were mention of this honest, liberal and progressive firm omitted.

The Star Clothing House was estab by Owens brothers, the great clothing manufacturers of Utica, and the sole management of the house devolved upon Mr. L. A. Stevenson, who is perhaps the best known and most popular salesman in this city, his business relations with the people extending back for a period of twelve years, and was widely known as an energetic member of the firm of Ramsey & Stevenson.

The promise of success became so favorable that four gentlemen, widely and well-known as practical business men, full of the go-aheaditiveness and high principle requisite to achieve honorable success, combined together and formed a partnership with the Owen Brothers, under the name and style of "The Star Clothing House," and this is the house of which we now write. The owners of these names will be recognized as men who possess every attribute necessary towards the prosecution of a successful business career. They are the Owen Brothers, of Utica, and the other places hereinafter mentioned, J. Henry Olcott, for some years with Kent & Miller and severing a five years' connection with the "Famous" to join the fortunes of the "Star;" Harlow A. Pierce and J. Irving Freeman, for years with Kent & Miller, and L. A. Stevenson, of whose experience we have already spoken, thus forming a constellation which for brilliant business qualities might well excuse the plural number when speaking of the "Star."

The "Star," while in no manner connected in a monetary way with any other concern, belongs to a great syndicate of clothing establishments located in the cities below named and the stock of which is furnished from the Owens Brothers immense factory in Utica. The members of the syndicate are named and located as follows: "The When" Clothing House, Nos. 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 North Pennsylvania street, Indianapolis; "The When" Clothing House, 210 and 212 Broadway, St. Louis; Owen Bros., 68 and 70 Main street, Lockport, N. Y.; "The Star" Clothing House, 24 and 26 North Salina street, Syracuse; Owen Bros., 25 and 27 West Main street, Springfield, Ohio; P. J. Farley & Co., Genesee street, Utica; Owen Bros., 9 & 11 East Washington street, Greencastle, Ind.; Owen Bros., 27 Third street, Lafayette, Ind.; "The When" Clothing House, Columbus, Ohio, and Owen Bros., No. 2 Saginaw street, Flint, Mich.

The great factory that supplies these ten large establishments with goods, occupies the entire Ballou block in Utica, the whole five floors of the building being wholly utilized in the business. It can be readily seen that in a great combination of this kind there are unparalleled advantages in competition with every other individual house. The magnitude of the cloth purchases alone by the owners of the factory commands the procurement of goods at figures smaller concerns cannot obtain, and enables the manufacturer to sell the best goods of every kind to these firms of the syndicate at prices that enable them to give the public those extraordinary bargains, at once the delight of the purchaser and the wonder of rival houses. Our readers can therefore understand why it is the Star Clothing house can pile its counters with superior goods, mark their cost in plain figures and adhere strictly to the one-price rule. The main floor of the handsome premises indicated is forty feet wide by one hundred and twenty-eight feet deep, and is replete with a beautiful line of men's, boys', youth's and children's clothing in every grade of broadcloths, cassimeres, corkscrews, diagonals, tweeds, worsteds, etc., etc., in a sufficiency of stock and elegance of style to entitle this house to be designated as the home of fashion. "The Star" does not confine itself to its great stock of the finer quality of goods, for no house in this city has a more extensive line of low grade goods, equal in make-up to the higher priced garments. The laboring man can find no better mart at which to supply himself with durable clothes at a low figure. At no time since starting this business have the members of the firm been willing to sacrifice their former reputation for honest, reliable representation of goods to the buyer, and though in obedience to the popular demands for cheap goods they carry a vast line of the lower grade stock, the very liberal patronage they receive from the laboring class is sufficient testimony of the durability and honest representation of these low priced goods, which bear the most rigid tests of everyday wear and exposure to the weather. Their very large and magnificent stock of the finer grade of clothing is in every respect all that can be claimed for it. The very best material is used in its manufacture and the employment of skilled workmen only, the critical examination by experts of all garments made, the adoption of all modern mechanical appliances that tend to reduce the cost of manufacture and improve the garment, give the goods of the "Star" a just precedence over other manufactures.

A section of this establishment, which is undoubtedly the largest, most cheerful and best appointed salesroom of the kind in the city, is appropriately named the "Children's Department." This bright spot is devoted exclusively to the use of ladies and children, giving them as much privacy as if they were in a separate establishment. The line of goods carried in this department would do credit to the largest concern in New York city.

Prices range from $2.00 to $15.00 in every imaginable style for children, from two to fourteen years of age. Of the specialties, kilt suits, blouse waists, fall and winter overcoats, suits with capes to match, are the most prominent, while in fact everything can be secured in this department within the range of the above prices to dress a child in the most approved style. At this season of the year special mention should be made of the splendid stock of overcoats, and the members of the firm speak the truth in saying "We have more overcoats of every price and style than any other house in the city." The man, no matter how fastidious his taste, who could not select an overcoat to suit him from the assortment offered would be difficult indeed to please. In style, workmanship and material they are equal to custom-made coats, and the prices are surprisingly low.

We would be remiss in duty to our readers did we fail to metion the "Star's" splendid and complete stock of gents' furnishing goods. The enterprise, good faith and facilities for supplying the most satisfactory goods in this line at the lowest rates have made this house a favorite one among all classes. The articles handled include everything in the line of men's and boys' hats, caps, gloves and mittens, socks, shirts, underwear, suspenders, collars and cuffs—everything except shoes; with hundreds of umbrellas and canes of every style and price, made from every material in use. The bargain counters are piled with odd lots of every grade of goods, and the rubber coats of every grade and thickness known in the trade are sold at prices that distance any hope of competition therein. Every kind of clothing is especially cheap just now, and the bargains offered by the "Star" on all classes of goods are the best that can be found in the city. The basement of the store is filled with boxes of goods ready for the counters, and the entire second floor of the establishment is devoted to the Custom Department. The making of gentlemen's wearing apparel to order by measure is one of those arts which requires for its successful operation the highest degree of artistic knowledge in every department of the business, and in this particular branch, this house since its inception has established a principle to give full value for the money, the best of materials, fit and workmanship, and thus a fine trade has been gradually acquired among the most exacting of our citizens. This department is under the supervision of Mr. Charles McAdams, one of the best cutters in the profession.

In conclusion we will say that the characteristics which regulate the business policy of the Star Clothing House are such as cannot fail to entitle it to universal consideration and popular appreciation, while the variety, style and quality of the stock is unrivalled in worth and price.

SEEDS OF SUCCESS.

The Popular Establishment of Charles F. Saul.

In disclosing the advantages that pertain to the city of Syracuse as a great commercial centre, it is our intention to so faithfully represent the most prominent houses in the industries of the community, as to leave no doubt in the minds of our readers as to the advantages they may secure by transacting their business or supplying their needs at the establishments thus represented.

It is a matter of no small moment to the farmer, the great producer of this great country, to be assured of the reliability of the storekeeper from whom he procures the seeds for his next year's crop, or the implements wherewith to aid in husbanding the same. More than a few toiling agriculturists might place the blame of a scanty crop at the door of an unscrupulous seed merchant or compute the amount of his blacksmith's repair bill by guaging the principles of the dealer from whom he purchased his farm implements.

Judging by the great extent of the business transacted by the firm whose name heads this article a great majority of the farming fraternity and dealers throughout not only this state, but also Pennsylvania, are well assured of the reliability of the house and honorable, honest dealings of the proprietor.

The business of the house was established in the year 1841 by Ed. S. Foster, and after the changes of name incident to time, Mr. Charles F. Saul bought out his partner's interest in 1885 and became sole proprietor. Among the great seed houses of this State this establishment occupies a most prominent position both in the splendid commercial standing it has attained in trade circles, and in the wide territory over which its operations extend. The premises occupied for the business consists of a four-story brick, comprising two stores, at the address above given, and are stocked to repletion wsth a most extensive and comprehensive supply of seeds of every description of the very best reproductive qualities, grown on the land best adapted to each particularly variety, and carefully and thoroughly separated from inferior seed and foreign substances. The handsome catalogue and price list issued by Mr. Saul this season contains a full description of the innumerable seeds of flowers, vegetables, fruits and grain with which his store rooms are stocked and it may be mentioned as one pleasing instance of a general fact that vegetables grown from seed purchased at this establishment, exhibited by the gardeners of Onondaga county, at the county fair, have taken first premium for the past five years. We would recommend dealers and agriculturists to procure a catalogue from this firm.

In unison with the perfect seed stock is the large supply of farm machinery of various make and manufacture and of the very best quality. Any farm implement in use can be obtained that in quality and price cannot be excelled, and scarcely duplicated in any other city. Mr. Saul also carries a magnificent line of harness, robes, sleigh bells, and general horse furnishings, and gives special energy to placing the very best line of goods before his customers, at prices more than reasonable. In this trade the house has attained a wide-spread reputation for excellence, and the trade can rely on being supplied upon the most advantageous terms. The house also carries a full stock of general hardware, comprising every article connected with the trade. The great facilities enjoyed by the firm enables it to offer the best inducements and the extended knowledge of the management ensures the handling of a class of goods of such quality as meets with ready sale and gives ultimate satisfaction. The large stock carried in the various departments allows the widest field from which to select, and popular appreciation of quality and price is evidenced by the great extent and annually increasing volume of the operations of the firm.

THE TEA TRADE.

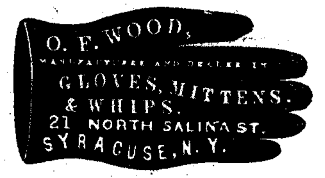
Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., 78 S. Salina St. and 4 Grangar Block.

Among the oldest established and most reliable houses engaged solely in the tea and coffee trade the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company stands pre-eminent. The handsome and commodious stores located at the above address form this city's link in the chain of two hundred depots which this colossal firm has established throughout the United States. Direct importers of teas and coffees from the original sources of supply, the newest product of the season is always to be procured at these establishments in superior quality and at prices beyond all alleged competition. Every known brand of teas can be here procured and the immense patronage extended is alone a sufficient criterion of the purity of the goods so faithfully represented, and the confidence of the community in the honorable and faithful characteristics of the management.

The coffee roasting and grinding departments are supplied with roasters and mills of modern construction, ever turning out immense quantities of the fragrant mocha, so delightful alike to the palate and the olfactories. Under the able management of E. Rowlands these Syracuse branches of this mammoth concern are bound to maintain the well established reputation of which they are the happy possessor, and by enterprise and live methods to augment and extend its scope of honest and benificial usefulness. The sales of their greatly celebrated eight-o'clock breakfast coffee has increased far beyond their highest expectations and this coffee can now be had in five pound air-tight packages. The A. & P. baking powder is their own manufacture and cannot be excelled. One trial will suffice to prove its superiority.

GLOVES, MITTENS AND WHIPS.

O. F. Wood, Manufacturer and Dealer, 21 North Salina Street.



O. F. WOOD,
MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN GLOVES, MITTENS.
& WHIPS.
21 NORTH SALINA ST.
SYRACUSE, N. Y.

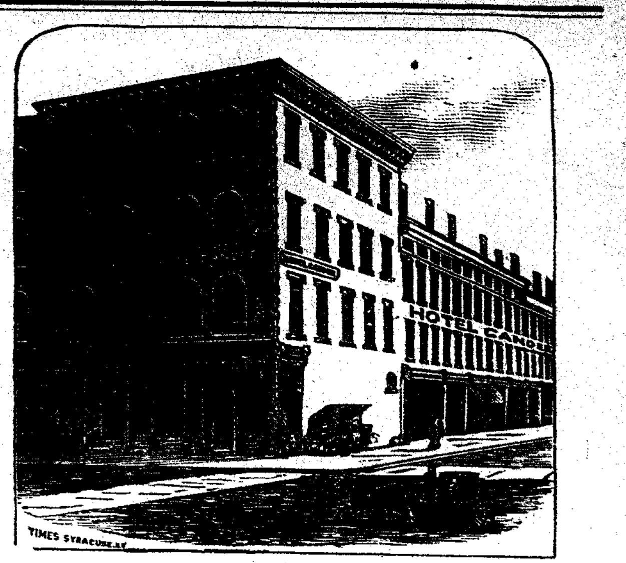
There is hardly an "old timer" among the farming fraternity and business men who, during the last forty years, has not at some time or other during that space wielded the whips and worn the gloves manufactured or dealt in by the old established firm of O. F. Wood at the above address. It would be correct to say that Mr. Wood has supplied most of the inhabitants of this county with his wares during the time referred to and he may justly feel proud of his business career. Coming to Syracuse on a canal boat when a boy, he opened up business in a town where he was a total stranger with a capital of less than five dollars, but with plenty of grit and honest principles to back it. His venture was successful and by enterprise and honorable dealing he has amassed a good competency and still continues to give his patrons the benefit of his experience. There is hardly any necessity to recommend our readers to this old established house, for the strict integrity and moderate prices of the proprietor are well-known throughout the county.

GREYHOUND DINING PARLORS.

Conducted by William Cake, at No 14 North Warren Street.

Syracuse can boast of its fair quoto of fine restaurants and dining rooms, where comfort of body and satisfaction of heart are assured by well-cooked meals, but none are deserving of higher encomiums than the Greyhound Dining Parlors at the above address. Our country readers will be pleased to learn that Mr. William J. Cake, formerly of Liverpool, N. Y., has become proprietor of this popular place, where they may obtain a first-class, square meal for the very moderate sum of twenty cents, and our citizens may congratulate themselves upon gaining a valuable addition to the catering fraternity. Everything connected with the establishment is neat and clean, and its patrons can rest assured of partaking of a plenteous supply and good variety of well-cooked food of a fine quality.

Tickets of twenty-one meals are sold at a reduction of the regular moderate price, and oysters and cold luncheons are served at all hours of the day. The proprietor of the Greyhound deserves success.



HOTEL CANDEE.

One of the Most Popular and Successful Hotels in Central New York.

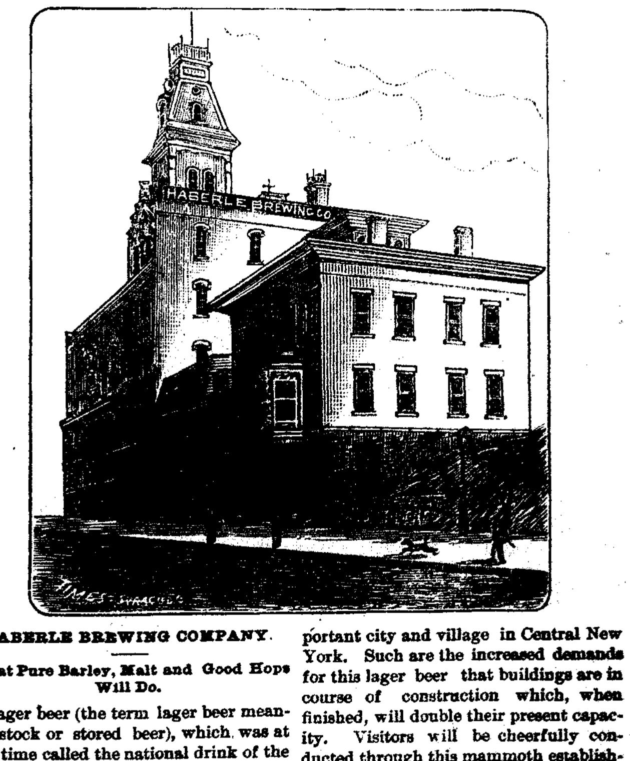
The fact that the hotels of the United States are superior to all others in the world is acknowledged not only by the people of our own country, but also by all others who have visited here from abroad. The excellence of our American system for perfect discipline, thorough comfort and complete satisfaction in every particular, surpasses anything of the kind elsewhere; although, of course, there are exceptions to be noted among the numerous instances where the defects of some public houses of small size and minor importance are somewhat glaring, but the large establishments can seldom be complained of.

In taking account of the first-class hotels of New York State, it is no invidious comparison to place the Hotel Candee of Syracuse, of which Charles E. Candee is proprietor, among the best of them. This house unquestionably ranks among the best appointed, most commodious and comfortable hotels in the State, and there are few houses in the country that surpass, and fewer yet that equal it, in the satisfaction of its appointments, the capacity of all its departments, the sumptuousness of its fare and the moderation of its charges.

The rapidly growing volume of business compelled the proprietor to find more room with which to accommodate his guests and by exercising his usual energetic liberality he secured the entire building on the northeast corner of Warren and Fayette streets, once known as the Talbot House, and by no stinted outlay transformed these premises, and the original Candee House, into the present first-class, commodious hostelry, complete and perfect in every modern appointment which can in any manner conduce to the comfort and convenience of his numerous guests. Mr. Candee does nothing by halves, and when he enlarged this house he determined to renovate and refurnish it in the most thorough manner. The furniture, decorations and accessories of the 133 bedrooms the building contains are of a solid and substantial character, as well as rich and elegant. The chambers are all well lighted, most of them being front rooms commanding a view of the street. It is almost needless to say that the cuisine and table are equal to any hotel in the city, as Mr. Candee's experience is enough to assure that this prominent feature is adequately attended to. The spacious marble-tiled office, billiard-room and saloon on the ground floor are furnished with a view toward the thorough comfort and convenience of the guests, and only the best brands of every kind of liquor are dispensed. The fine parlors, bar, billiard and reading-rooms, as well as the chambers, are, to use an old saying, "as clean as a new pin," and guests are heartily welcomed by the genial proprietor and his affable office aid, Mr. James Davenport, as well as by the most courteous attendance by the numerous trained employes.

Mr. Candee has also built large, airy, well-ventilated stables for the accommodation of two hundred horses, and our farmer friends may be well assured that their equine stock will be as carefully attended to by the experienced hostlers as they are themselves when enjoying the comforts of the house.

On the whole we can congratulate the travelling public on this notable addition to our hotel facilities and we are sure that the Hotel Candee will receive that liberal share of public patronage to which its first class character and the enterprise of Alderman Candee entitles it.



HABERLE BREWING COMPANY.

What Pure Barley, Malt and Good Hops Will Do.

Lager beer (the term lager beer meaning stock or stored beer), which was at one time called the national drink of the Germans, is now the universal beverage of all civilized nations. There is now no country on the globe where newspapers are printed or read that lager beer is not on the table of temperate people; we don't mean teetotalers, a class of beings unable to check their appetites. Lager beer has, by becoming the national drink, done more for true temperance than all the Neal Dows, Goughs, Murphys and prohibition laws put together. In truth, it may be said that when the thrones of potentates everywhere are shaking to their very foundation, King Gambrinus alone is more secure and powerful than ever, for he rules in accordance with natural laws.

The Haberle Brewing Co. of Syracuse, N. Y., is the oldest establishment of its kind in Central New York, the brewery having been started in 1856. The lager beer produced by this firm is strictly pure in all respects. But five years since a few thousand barrels comprised its yearly sales, and now its output is over 50,000 barrels per annum. To-day its product is found in every first-class saloon or hotel, and on the table of every family requiring a beverage combining nourishment with mild stimulation. Haberle's lager is shipped to every important city and village in Central New York. Such are the increased demands for this lager beer that buildings are in course of construction which, when finished, will double their present capacity. Visitors will be cheerfully conducted through this mammoth establishment, at all times. The officers of this company are Frank B. Haberle, president and manager; William H. Haberle, treasurer; Charles Haberle, secretary; and H. F. Bartels, (formerly of Cincinnati, O.), brewer and superintendent. In addition to these officers the firm require sixty-eight men and twenty-eight horses in the making and delivering of their celebrated beer.

A Dangerous Lonely Family.

He was looking for furnished rooms, and the landlady, a moderately young woman, of prepossessing exterior, was showing him the elegant alcove, sunny suite, with a view of bay, and bath, and gas and all the rest of it. He stood in the middle of the floor looking all around him, thinking what next question to ask.

"Have you any family?"

"Nobody but myself."

Then he took another look at the bay faintly shining between two chimneys.

"Are there any other roomers?"

"None, except my husband, and he's never at home."

He was afraid it was a dangerously lonely family to get into.—San Francisco Chronicle.

THE FULTON TIMES.

SUPPLEMENT.

THE FULTON TIMES

Wednesday, November 16, 1887.

The People vs Robert Pollock.

Mr. Editor; will you kindly publish the folling facts in the Pollock case and oblige:

Sunday October 30, 1887, Robert Pollock was arrested on Oneida street for intoxication. The case was tried before a jury Nov. 15th. The witnesses for the people were officer VanValkenburg, J. Ford Morris and Mr. Styles.

Mr. VanValkenburg said: "Sunday afternoon Pollock went down Second street with his boy; he was staggering and taking up the whole walk. He went to the Gardner Block on Oneida street and leaned against a part of the window. I went to him and told him to go home. He said he would when he got ready. I told him again to go; he did not and I arrested him and took him to jail. He fought me. In about a half hour I took him some food; he had been vomiting. I know when a man is drunk. Pollock was drunk".

J. Ford Morris said: "I went to the jail about fifteen minutes after Pollock had been put in. He was then in bed and asleep. I tried to wake him, but could not. I went and had food taken to him. Saw him the next morning. He could not eat. Said he was sick, and said he had not eaten any breakfast the day he was arrested: that he had been drinking and that was why the liquor affected him. I know when a man is drunk. From what I saw I think Pollock was drunk. He had vomited some after he was put in jail."

Darwin Styles said: "I saw Pollock the Sunday afternoon of his arrest. Met him opposite the opera house. He was very good natured and spoke to me and I answered him. He acted drunk and was staggering. Pollock said he was drunk; said he had been on a hurrah since Saturday night."

The people rested their case. For the defendant Polleck, there were sworn, the defendant, Frank Hughes. Charles Hastings, Fred Stoddard and John Doyle.

Pollock said: "On the Sunday of my arrest I was down town. In the afternoon my boy came down and wanted to know if I was going to get him a new coat, and wanted me to go home to dinner. I said, wait a few minutes. VanValkenburg came up and asked me to go off the streets; I was by Nichol's jewelry store; I said I would pretty soon. He than arrested me. I did not resist. I had two drinks of liquor that morning. I had been drinking the Saturday night before. I did not eat any breakfast that Sunday morning. I do not recollect of speaking to Mr. Styles."

Charles Hastings said: "I saw the arrest made. Mr. VanValkenburg came to Pollock and seemed to say something and then he arrested him. I don't know whether Polleck was drunk or not. I saw Pollock in the forenoon, then he had been drinking."

Frank Hughes said: "I saw Van Valkenburg go to Pollock and say something and then he arrested him. I can't say whether Pollock was drunk or not."

Fred Stoddard said; "I was standing in frout of James Barnes' saloon and saw the officer take Pollock around the corner of the Patterson Block. I did not see anything out of the way with Pollock."

John Doyle said: "I saw Pollock in morning. I did not think he was drunk."

That closed the case fort he defence. The jury were: Fred Spafford, Del. Tucker, D. C. More, Lafayette Warner, Oscar Dines and F. K. Jones. The jury were charged that duty was to find the defendant guilty or not guilty of intoxication at the time of his arrest from the evidence and that only. After deliberation the jury rendered a verdict of not guilty.

FULTON, NOV. 15, 1887.

I have examined the above statements and they correspond with the minutes taken at the trial. In justice to the officer who made the arrest it may be said that the evidence all tends to show that the defendant Pollock was intoxicated on the Sunday at the time of his arrest and that the counsel for the defendant Pollock has also stated to me, that he thought there was no question but what Pollock was drunk.

F. D. VANWAGENEN,
Police Justice.

The Pioneer Lady School Commissioner.

Miss Ida L. Griffin enjoys the distinction of being the first lady in New York to be elected to the important office of District School Commissioners. She has been chosen to this office by the citizens of the 3rd commissioners' district of Oswego county by a majority of 306 over Mr. Cole, her Republican competitor, last week Tuesday

Miss Griffin is thirty-one years of age. She was born in St. Lawrence county, but moved with her parents to Oswego county when young. Her father was a soldier in the war of the rebellion and made a good record and died a few years after the close of the war from injuries and disease contracted while in the army, thus leaving his family dependent upon the daughter for support. She was obliged to give up the school she was attending preparing herself to teach, and begin working to support the family. In a short time she paid off the expenses attending her father's sickness and burial, and put the family in a fair condition financially. Then she went to Oswego and entered the Normal school, graduating in 1880 with honors, having maintained herself during the period of preparation to become a teacher. She has been very successful in her chosen profession, and holds an important position in the public schools of Marcellus.

The salary of School Commissoners is $100 a month, and the term is three years. Miss Griffin will doubtless give such good satisfaction that she will hold the position more than one term. The Republicans who voted against her say that they do not regret her election, and are satisfied that she will give the district good work.

WORTH KNOWING.

Mr. W. H. Morgan, merchant, Lake City, Fla., was taken with a severe Cold attended with a distressing Cough and running into Consumption in its first stages. He tried many so-called popular cough remedies and steadily grew worse. Was reduced in flesh, had difficulty in breathing and was unable to sleep. Finally tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and found immediate relief, and after using about a half dozen bottles found himself well and has had no return of the disease. No other remedy can show so grand a record of cures, as Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Guaranteed to do just what is claimed of it.—Trial bottle free at R. E. Phillip's Drug Store.

Our Local Talent.

To the Editor of THE TIMES:

I wish to say a word of commendation, not because it has fallen to my pleasant lot to be the instructor of the young people who are to present Bulwer's great play, Richelieu, on Tuesday evening next, but because all, without exception, Misses Carrie Nichols, Boomer, Maude and Helen Barnes, and Messrs. Fred J. Bennett, Wm. Hoff. Frank Coates, Edwin McCully, Harry Butler, William and Bert Bennett, Arthur Emerick and Henry Whitman All have shown such faithfulness and earnestness in their endeavors, and have improved so greatly that I can honestly commend their efforts to the kind approval and appreciation of our citizens. The entertainment will give more than usual satisfaction and the efforts put forth warrant "Standing-room, only"

Very truly,
DE MARSAN SPENCER.

Palermo.

(Special Correspondence to THE TIMES).

Wm. H. Hannan has sold the patent of his thill coupling for the State of New York to parties in New York city.

The hotel property at Palermo Centre which was to have been sold the first of this month was put off until next month.

The cheese and butter factory at Palermo Centre closed last Friday.

Miss Maud Gilman is on a visit at Schroeppel.

Miss Mary Jenning and Miss Minnie Trimble are visiting at Fulton.

Mr. John VanBuran received the largest number of votes on Tuesday Nov. 8th, on the Republican ticket of any candidate, which were from a number of his Democratic friends who wanted him to have the office as John is qualified for it, and will made a good sheriff.

W. H. Hannan of Syracuse was in town on Tuesday last.

Mrs. Gilbert Jennings is on the sick list. Dr. Green is attending her.

Mrs. James Sears is just in receipt of the news of the death of an only brother, Martin P. Griffin, who died of consumption, Oct. 29, at Mineral Wells, Texas, at the age of 58 years. Very many readers of THE TIMES, will remember the tall, manly form, and pleasant face of Martin Griffin, who spent his early life at the family home near the old church at Bristol hill. He was a scholar and teacher of marked ability, probably the ripest mathematician that ever graduated from Falley Seminery, while his ever genial ways, drew about him hosts of friends. Rapidly declining health warned him that a change of climate must be tried, and for twenty-two years the dry, pure air of Arizona, had saved his life. The last year has been spent at Mineral Wells, Texas.

Give Them A Chance.

That is to say your lungs also your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages but the thousands of little tubes and air passages leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain. eow.
